But a Will of moveable estate must be executed and generally will be construed according to the law of the country in which the testator is domiciled, subject, however, to the provisions of the Wills Act, 1861.(p)

A Will made abroad by a British subject to be admitted to probate here, if executed according to law of place where made.

By this Act it is provided that every Will or testamentary instrument made out of the United Kingdom by a British subject (whatever may be the domicile of such person at the time of making the same, or at the time of his death) shall, as regards personal estate, be held to be well executed for the purpose of being admitted in England and Northern Ireland to probate, and in Scotland to confirmation, if the same be made according to the forms required either by the law of the place where the same was made, or by the law of the place where such person was domiciled when the same was made, or by the laws then in force in that part of His Majesty's dominions where he had his domicile of origin.(q)

Further, every Will, &c., made within the United Kingdom by any British subject (whatever may be the domicile of such person at the time of making the same or at his death) will, as regards personal estate, be held to be well executed, and will be admitted to probate, &c., if the same be executed according to the laws for the time being in force in that part of the United Kingdom where the same is made: Act of 1861, s. 2.

Change of domicile.

No Will, &c., will be held to be revoked, or to have become invalid, nor will the construction thereof be altered, by reason of any subsequent change of domicile of the person making the same.(r)

Wills in contemplation of marriage.

Where a Will (which includes a codicil) is, after 1925, expressed to be made in contemplation of a marriage, it will not be revoked by the solemnisation of the marriage contemplated : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 177. Where advantage is taken of this section an express provision should be inserted invalidating the disposition if the marriage is not solemnised within a fixed time. A Will so invalidated would not revoke a former Will.

Will may be revoked by another Will or burning, &c.

A Will or codicil may also be revoked by another Will or codicil duly executed, or by the burning, tearing, or otherwise destroying the same by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his direction, with the intention of revoking the same.(t)

A partially torn Will, found in the possession of a testator, is presumed to have been torn by the testator, but an intention to revoke the Will must be proved by the person alleging revocation : Jinkin v. Cowling [1924], P. 113 ; 93 L. J. P. 43.

Interlineation, &c., must be executed.

No obliteration, interlineation, or other alteration will have any effect, except so far as the words or effect of the Will before such alteration shall not be apparent, unless such alteration is executed in like manner as is required for the execution of the Will ; but the Will, with such alteration as part thereof, is deemed to be duly executed if the signature of the testator and the subscription of the witnesses be made in the margin, or in some other part of the Will opposite or near to such alteration, or at the foot or end of or opposite to a memorandum referring to such alteration, and written at the end or some other part of the Will : s. 21.

If a person makes a second Will, revoking the first, and then destroys or otherwise revokes the second, the first is not thereby revived.

Dependent relative revocation.

Where a Will is destroyed, the presumption is that the act was done animo revocandi, but this presumption may be rebutted by evidence that such animus did not exist: In b. Mackenzie [1909], P. 305; 79 L. J. P. 4. If a Will is destroyed or torn with the intention of setting up some other testamentary instrument, the act of destruction operates as a revocation only if the testamentary instrument intended to be thereby set up proves efficacious. The revocation in such case is called a dependent relative revocation.(u)

Presumption that Will not forthcoming has been destroyed by maker.

Where a Will known to have been duly executed and in the testator's possession is not forthcoming at his death, the presumption is that it has been destroyed by the testator himself animo revocandi, and the onus probandi rests on those who wish to defeat this presumption: Allan v. Morrison [1900], A. C. 604; 69 L. J. P. C. 141.

SECT. II.—As to the time from which a Will speaks, what property passes under a general devise and bequest, and what words are sufficient to carry the fee simple.

Every devise of real estate was formerly specific.

Formerly, every devise of freehold and copyhold lands included only such property as the testator was seised of or entitled to at the date of the Will.

Devise not to be rendered inoperative by any subsequent conveyance or act.

Under the Wills Act, 1837, s. 23, no conveyance or other act made or done subsequently to the execution of a Will is to prevent the operation of the Will with respect to such real or personal estate as the testator has power to dispose of at his death.

Will to speak from death.

Under s. 24 a Will is to be construed with reference to the real and personal estate comprised in it and takes effect as if it had been executed immediately before the testator's death, unless a contrary intention appears.

What is a contrary intention within s. 24.

The "contrary intention" referred to in s. 24 must be found in the Will itself: Boyes v. Cook (1880), 14 Ch. D. at p. 57; 49 L. J. Ch. 350; it need not be expressed in so many words or in some way quite free from doubt: Cole v. Scott (1849), 1 Mac. & G. 518; 19 L. J. Ch. 63. The date of the Will: Re Wells (1889), 42 Ch. D. 646; 58 L. J. Ch. 835, or a particular and precise description of the subject of the gift (y) may show a contrary intention.

Generic bequests.

A bequest of "My New 3¼ per Cent. Annuities" was held to comprise all the new 3¼ per Cents. which the testatrix had at her death. In that case Wood, V.-C., said: "When I refer to a particular thing, such as a ring or a horse, and I bequeath it as 'my ring' or 'my horse,' it seems to me there might be considerable difficulty in saying that the contrary intention to which the 24th section refers does not appear on the face of the Will; but when a bequest is of that which is generic, of that which may be increased or diminished, then, I apprehend, the Act requires something more on the face of the Will for the purpose of indicating such contrary intention than the mere circumstance that the subject of the bequest is designated by the pronoun 'my.'"(z)

Under old law general devise did not primâ facie include leaseholds or property over which testator had a power of appointment.

Before the Wills Act, 1837, a general devise of land included neither leasehold land nor land of any tenure over which the testator had a mere power of appointment, except in those cases in which he had no other land at the date of the Will upon which the Will could operate,(b) or unless an intention was to be clearly gathered from the Will to dispose of the leaseholds, or to exercise the power under the general devise. In the absence of an intention to exercise the power, a general bequest did not operate as an execution of general powers over personalty.

Rule altered by Wills Act, 1837.

"Real estate," meaning of.

Under s. 26 of the Wills Act a general devise of land will now pass leaseholds as well as freeholds and enfranchised lands.(c) Leaseholds may pass under a devise of the testator's real estate in a particular place: cf. Moase v. White (1876), 3 Ch. D. 763; 24 W. R. 1038; but a general devise of real estate without any reference to locality does not pass leaseholds.(d) For most purposes "real estate" in the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, includes leaseholds.

Effect under Wills Act of general devise as to property which testator has power to appoint.

The effect of s. 27 of the Wills Act is to put property over which the testator has a general testamentary power of appointment in the same position as his own property; (e) but only as respects such general powers as he actually possesses at the time of his death, hence a general bequest will not pass property under a general power granted by the Will of a person whom he predeceases: Re Young [1920], 2 Ch. 427; 89 L. J. Ch. 614.

A general power given to the survivor of several persons may be exercised by a general devise in a Will executed by the ultimate survivor during their joint lives.(f) A power to appoint by will during coverture does not import a condition that the donee must die during coverture.(g)

Power given to survivor may be exercised by Will of person who afterwards becomes survivor.

A gift by Will of the residue of a testator's estate passes property over which the testator has, at the date of the Will, a general power of appointment, and also property over which he acquires such a power after the date of his Will.(h) This rule does not generally apply to the case of a special power: Re Hayes [1901], 2 Ch. 259; 70 L. J. Ch. 770.

Effect of residuary gift with regard to property subject to power.

Under s. 27 a general residuary bequest operates as an exercise of a general power: Re Spooner's Trust (1851), 2 Sim. N. S. 129; 21 L. J. Ch. 151, and general pecuniary legacies are bequests of personal property "described in a general manner" within the meaning of s. 27.(i)

Residuary bequest and pecuniary legacies.

A direction to the executors to pay the debts out of the testator's personal estate makes property over which he has a general power of appointment part of his assets.(j)

Direction to pay debts.

In some cases an appointment by Will under a general power makes the appointed property (whether real or personal) part of the testator's general estate, though some of the objects fail by lapse, so that the lapsed property or share formerly went to the testator's heir or next-of-kin, and not to the persons entitled in default of appointment. This is the case where the gift is to A. in trust for B., who dies before the testator.(k)

Appointment by Will makes fund part of testator's estate where power is general.

Failure by revocation.

The failure of an appointment made under a general testamentary power occasioned by a subsequent revocation does not amount to a contrary intention within the meaning of the Wills Act, 1837, s. 27, so as to exclude the operation of that section.(o)

Where real estate, including chattels real, is appointed under a general power it will vest in the personal representatives : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 3 (2).

Property passing to executor as such.

Personal property appointed in exercise of a general power is not property passing to the executor " as such " within the meaning of s. 9 of the Finance Act, 1894 : O'Grady v. Wilmot [1916], 2 A. C. 231 ; 85 L. J. Ch. 386, consequently estate duty payable thereon is a first charge on the property. Though real estate passes to personal representatives under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, Pt. Act does not apply to special powers.

Section 27 of the Wills Act does not apply to special powers; hence a general devise of all the testator's property is not an execution of such a power,(r) even though he has no real estate of his own at the date of his Will.(s) For the valid exercise of a special power there must be either a reference to the power, or a reference to the property subject to the power, or an intention otherwise expressed in the Will to exercise the power.(t) The power conferred by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 176, to dispose of entailed interests in possession is nearly on the same footing.

Trust and mortgage estates, general devise before 1882.

A general devise in the Will of a person who died before 1882 included estates vested in the testator as a trustee or mortgagee, unless a contrary intention could be inferred from expressions in the Will or the purposes and objects of the testator: Lord Braybroke v. Inskip (1803), 8 Ves. 417.

Effect of devise without words of limitation.

Before the Wills Act, 1837, a devise of land without words of limitation conferred an estate for life only on the devisee, but an indefinite devise was frequently enlarged into a fee simple whenever an intention to dispose of such larger estate could be collected from the language of the Will: see Coward v. Larkman (1889), 60 L. T. 1. Since the Act a devise of real estate without words of limitation operates to pass the fee simple or other the whole estate or interest which the testator had power to dispose of, unless a contrary intention appears from the Will: s. 28. The rule is now the same in regard to conveyances made after 1925: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 60; though a conveyance by way of mortgage can only pass a term or a sub-term: ib., ss. 85-86.

SECT. III.—In what cases (not within the L. T. Act, 1897) trustees took the legal estate under a devise, and as to the extent of their estate.

Old law.

New law: personal representatives take the legal estate.

The old law on this subject is discussed in the 21st edition of this work, Vol. II, pp. 770–73. It will be sufficient to note that under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, lands of every tenure, including trust and mortgage estates, pass to the personal representatives. It follows that no legal estate passes by a devise; the devisee may or may not have a right to require an assent to be made in his favour which will clothe him with a legal estate; but no infant is entitled to have a legal estate vested in him, he cannot hold it when it is expressed to be conveyed to him.

Application of L. T. Act, 1897, Part I, to equitable interests in copyholds.

Enfranchised land.

L. T. Act, 1897, Pt. I, did not apply to copyholds in respect of which the deceased was tenant on the court rolls, but an equitable estate or interest descended on the personal representatives: Re Somerville and Turner [1903], 2 Ch. 583; 72 L. J. Ch. 727. As there can be no copyholds after 1925, and the vesting provisions first in the 12th Sch. to the L. P. Act, 1922 (see also s. 135 of that Act as to the rights of personal representatives in regard to copyholds formerly renewable), and secondly, in the 1st Sch. to the L. P. Act, 1925, operate to vest the legal estate in the enfranchised land in the absolute owner, trustees for sale, tenant for life, statutory owner or personal representatives entitled to call for it under the new law, questions arising on the old law can seldom, if ever, arise.

Application of L. T. Act, 1897, to freeholds.

Powers of personal representatives to assent or make title, whenever the legal estate was acquired.

Under Pt. I of the L. T. Act, 1897, s. 2, all real estate (except as above) vested in the personal representatives as trustees for the persons by law beneficially entitled thereto, and those persons had the same right of requiring a transfer of real estate as persons beneficially entitled to personal estate had of requiring a transfer of such personal estate. Whether or not the personal representatives acquired the legal estate before 1926 or after 1925, they will now deal with any legal estate vested in them under the provisions of Ad. of E. Act, 1925, ss. 36 and 39, that is to say, they will either assent to the legal estate vesting in a person absolutely entitled, or in trustees on trust for sale, or in other personal representatives as such, or, if the land is settled, they will make a vesting assent in accordance with S. L. Act, 1925, s. 8. They can also make a title for the purposes of a sale, mortgage, lease, &c., under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39, whether their title was acquired before 1926 or after 1925.

Position of executors who do not prove.

It was decided under the L. T. Act, 1897, in Re Pawley [1900], 1 Ch. 58; 69 L. J. Ch. 6, that all the executors who did not renounce probate or disclaim had to join to convey the legal estate to a purchaser. The Conv. Act, 1911, s. 12, first enabled the executors who proved the Will alone to make title, whether probate was granted before or after the commencement of that Act, but it was not retrospective as regards dispositions made before that Act. Disclaimer is irrevocable while renunciation is not, for a renouncing executor may be allowed to prove.(v) Under the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 8, proving executors may exercise all the powers of personal representatives, and this applies whether the testator dies before 1926 or after 1925; see also ib., s. 2 (2).

Proving executors.

Devolution of real estate and chattels real.

After 1925 all real estate and chattels real, including trust and mortgage estates, devolve on the personal representatives of the deceased testator or intestate under Pt. I of the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, see in particular s. 3 for the interpretation of this part of the Act.

SECT. IV.—Legacies, general and specific, vested and contingent, gifts of real or personal estate to children, next-of-kin, &c.

Definition of a general legacy.

Legacies are either general or specific. A general legacy is a gift of money or something else to be paid, raised, or procured out of the testator's estate generally, and it is not necessarily a part of such estate. Thus, a gift of £100 money or £100 stock is a good legacy, though the testator may have no cash or no stock at his death, and in such a case his executors must raise or buy it out of whatever property he may leave. A bequest of stock in pounds, shillings and pence, being the exact amount thereof owned by the testator at the date of the will, is nevertheless a general legacy, unless a contrary intention appears: Re Willcocks [1921], 2 Ch. 327. A specific legacy is a gift of some specified part of the testator's property, as a gift of "all my furniture," or "all the furniture that I may leave at my death," or "all my shares and stock in a railway company," and such a gift will include whatever property of the kind described the testator may leave at his death. A specific bequest of "stocks, shares and securities now standing in my name" does not include bearer bonds.(w) But the thing given must be severed from the rest of the testator's property and form the subject of a distinct gift. Thus, if a testator gives "all my leasehold property, furniture, stock-in-trade, and all other my estate and effects," then the whole gift is residuary: Fielding v. Preston (1857), 1 D. & J. 438. A debt forgiven by Will is a specific legacy.(x)

Abatement in case of deficiency of assets.

If there is a deficiency of assets to pay the testator's debts, the general legacies abate rateably: Re Whitehead [1913], 2 Ch. 56; 82 L. J. Ch. 302, but the specific legacies are not liable to abatement until the fund applicable for general legacies is exhausted, and see Ad. of E. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II. A specific legatee was formerly entitled to have his legacy exonerated out of the general estate from charges created by the testator as distinguished from charges incidental to the property, such as the rent on leaseholds, or the calls on railway shares,(y) but this is now altered by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 35.

Specific legatee rights of.

Ademption

It follows from the nature of a specific legacy, that if the testator has not at his death any article answering the description of the thing bequeathed, the legacy fails. If the gift is of something which was his property when he made his Will, and he parts with it before his death, it is said to be adeemed.(z)

Income of legacies.

The legatee is entitled to the income of a specific legacy from the testator's death.(a) A contingent bequest of leaseholds, neither vested in trustees nor preceded by a vested limited interest, with a gift over, formerly did not (Re Eyre [1917], 1 Ch. 351; 86 L. J. Ch. 257) carry intermediate rents and profits; but under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175, it will do so unless the rents are otherwise expressly disposed of: 1 Wolst. and Cherry, 11th ed., 435.

But the Act does not extend to any case in which it is expressly stipulated that no apportionment shall take place.(c) Such stipulation can only be contained in the Will or other instrument of gift.(d) This Act is not excluded by a power to postpone sale, with a direction that, pending sale, the whole of the income of property actually producing income, shall be applied as income from the date of the testator's death: Re Edwards [1918], 1 Ch. 142; 87 L. J. Ch. 248. The Act applies to a "private company" under the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908: Re White [1913], 1 Ch. 231; 82 L. J. Ch. 149. Apportionment will not take place upon payment of arrears of interest on cumulative preference shares, after the testator's death: Re Wakley [1920], 2 Ch. 205; 89 L. J. Ch. 321.

Arrears.

Interest on general legacies.

A general legacy, if no time is appointed for its payment, carries interest at the rate of £4 per cent. per annum from the expiration of one year from the testator's death; this rule extends to legacies under the Will of a married woman made in exercise of a power (e) and to legacies payable out of a reversionary fund: Re Walford [1912], A. C. 658; 81 L. J. Ch. 828; but if a time for payment is mentioned, then the legacy will not carry interest before the appointed period—as if a legacy is directed to be paid to the legatee if and when he attains twenty-one: Heath v. Perry (1744), 3 Atk. 101; or after a life interest: see Re White (1909), 101 L. T. 780. Secus as to contingent or future specific gifts after 1925, where the intermediate income is not disposed of: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175. If, however, the testator stood in loco parentis to an infant legatee, or had shown an intention that the legatee should be maintained, interest on the legacy was allowed for maintenance from the date of the death;(f) but a

J. Ch. 83.

Annuity commences from death.

An annuity for life, given by Will, commences from the death of the testator and the first payment (where the Will is silent as to the time of payment) is due at the expiration of one year from that time.(g)

Appropriation of investment to meet legacy.

Where a vested legacy could not be paid at once by reason of the infancy of the legatee or for some other reason, the executor could not, before 1926, apart from an express power in the Will, appropriate and invest the amount, for such appropriation was not binding on the legatee. A power of appropriation is now conferred by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 41, subject to the consents (if any) thereby required; the section applies whenever the testator or intestate died. In the case of a contingent legacy not bearing interest, no appropriation could formerly be made so as to prevent the legatee from claiming the full amount in cash when the contingency happened, but in the above section the expression "settled legacy or interest" includes a legacy or interest to which a person was not absolutely entitled in possession at the date of the appropriation.

Infants' trustees; appointment of.

Where an infant is absolutely entitled under a Will or an intestacy, trustees can be appointed of the share or interest under ib., s. 42, instead of paying or transferring the property into court. Even under the old law, an executor who set aside and properly invested a reasonable sum of money to secure the legacy, might have distributed the residue of the estate, and was not held responsible if, when the legacy became payable, the investment turned out insufficient, but the residuary legatee might have had to refund any loss. The safest course under the old law was to pay into court,(h) but, subject to any order of court made before 1926, where a personal representative has Legacy payable at a future day, whether vested or contingent.

Points decided on this subject.

When a legacy is given, payable at a future day, as on the legatee attaining a particular age, a question often arises whether the time for payment is annexed to the form or the substance of the gift; in other words, whether the arrival of the time is a condition precedent to the vesting of the legacy. Upon this subject the following points have been settled by the authorities: see also, Theobald, 7th ed., 580 et seq.

Where there is a complete gift independent of direction as to time of payment.

1. Where there is a gift complete in itself, with a direction super-added as to the time of payment, as a legacy given to A., to be paid to him at twenty-one, or to the children of A., to be paid to them respectively as and when they shall respectively attain twenty-one, the legacy vests immediately, and the payment only is postponed.(i) And it makes no difference that the direction as to the time of payment precedes the words of gift; thus, a direction to pay or assign a legacy and its investments to the children of A., as and when (not if and when) they shall respectively attain twenty-one, "to whom I give and bequeath the same accordingly," has been held to confer a vested interest on all the children living at the testator's death.(j)

Where time of payment is of the essence of the gift.

2. Where the time of payment is annexed to the gift itself, or where there is no gift except in the direction to pay or divide, as, for example, where a legacy is given to A. when he shall attain a certain age, or to the children of A. when they shall respectively attain a certain age, or where trustees are directed to pay a legacy to A., or to divide a trust fund among the children of A. "when" he or they shall attain a certain age, and there is nothing more; in each of these cases the legacy is contingent.(k)

Where interest is given to legatee, or for his maintenance.

3. But very slight circumstances in the context will alter the construction, particularly where the bequest is of a residue, and not of a legacy merely: Pearman v. P. (1864), 33 Beav. 394, 397. Thus, if a legacy is given to a person "at," or "when he attains," a certain age, and is accompanied by a gift of the interest in the meantime, or by a direction to apply such interest or any part thereof for his maintenance, or if the legacy is directed to be immediately separated from the estate, the legacy vests at once; and the same principle applies to a gift to a class of persons where there is a gift of the interest or a direction to apply the interest for their respective maintenance.(l)

Where income passes by statute.

It is conceived that, where the donee obtains the intermediate income by virtue of L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175, this would not operate to vest the capital, at any rate if the capital vests it will remain liable to be divested, so as to give effect to the intention of the testator.

Case in which principle does not apply to a gift to a class.

Where an entire fund is given to a class of persons at a given age with a direction to the trustees to apply the income of the fund, or any part of it, for the maintenance of the members of the class generally, not confining such direction to the share of each particular member, this does not create a vested interest in a member of the class who dies under the age.(m)

Where payment of legacy is postponed for convenience of estate.

4. Where the payment of the legacy is postponed for the convenience of the estate,—as if a legacy is directed to be paid to A., after the death of B., to whom a life interest is bequeathed,—A. takes a vested interest on the testator's death, the payment to A. being postponed only for the purpose of enabling B. to enjoy a prior life interest in the legacy: Adams v. Robarts (1858), 25 Beav. 658.

respective marriages, and from and after their respective marriages to assign to them their respective moieties, and one of the grandnieces afterwards died without having married, it was held that she took a vested interest in her moiety, one of the grounds of the decision being that there was a difference between a legacy and a residue with respect to the application of the rules as to vesting.(o)

Marriage with consent.

A condition of marriage with consent, attached to a gift of personal estate, is as a general rule void so far as the consent is concerned. This rule, however, does not apply where there is a gift over or an alternative gift.(p)

A condition in partial restraint of marriage is not void: Jenner v. Turner (1880), 16 Ch. D. 188; Re Bathe [1925], Ch. 377.

A gift of income not for life but merely until marriage followed by a gift over on marriage does not vest the capital: Re Mason [1910], 1 Ch. 695; 79 L. J. Ch. 605.

Legacies charged on land.

Statutory powers to secure capital and annual sums.

A legacy charged on real estate and given to a person on his attaining a certain age, or on some other event personal to the legatee, is contingent, unless there is a direction to the contrary,(q) though the legatee may be entitled to the intermediate income under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175; but if real estate is given to A. for life, with remainder to B. in fee, charged with a legacy to C. payable on the death of A., the legacy vests at once, as it is evident that the payment is postponed merely because it is imcompatible with A.'s life interest that it should be raised in his lifetime: 1 Fearne's Cont. Rem., 10th ed., p. 556, n. Where a capital sum is to be charged on land, the land is generally devised to a trustee for term of years on trust to raise it. Where this is not done the personal representatives may limit the land to trustees for a term (generally an equitable term only should be limited, and see S. L. Act, 1925, s. 1 (1) (v)) on trust to raise the capital. They can also limit a rentcharge for giving effect to an annual or periodical sum: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 40; these powers are in addition to the powers to assent or convey for the purpose of giving effect to the rights of the persons interested given by s. 36. Both trustees and personal representatives, when directed to pay or apply capital for any purpose, are given power to raise it by sale or mortgage: T. Act, 1925, s. 16.

Legacy charged on land devised is not affected by lapse of devise.

If a legacy charged on land is given on a contingency, and the contingency does not happen, the charge sinks for the benefit of the devisee.(r) On the other hand, if land is devised, charged with a sum of money, the lapse of the devise does not affect the charge: Wigg v. W. (1739), 1 Atk. 382. If a gift is made to A. with a gift over on a contingency (which happens) to B., and B. dies in the testator's lifetime, the subject of the gift falls into residue.(s) A contingent specific devise or bequest carries the income: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175, so does a specific or residuary devise to trustees for persons whose interests are contingent or executory: ib.

Absolute devises and legacies modified by trusts which are not exhaustive.

Where an absolute gift of realty or personalty is modified by a trust, the absolute gift prevails to the extent to which the trust is not exhaustive: Moryoseph v. M. [1920], 2 Ch. 33; 89 L. J. Ch. 376. This rule applies equally to a devise or bequest to trustees in trust for the devisee or legatee as to a gift direct to the devisee or legatee in the first instance: Re Harrison [1918], 2 Ch. 59; 87 L. J. Ch. 433.

Gifts of Real or Personal Estate to Children.

The following rules of construction apply to gifts or limitations of real or personal estate to children as a class:—

Immediate gift to children.

1. That an immediate gift to the children of A. includes those only who are in existence at the testator's death (including a child en ventre sa mere: Re Salaman [1908], 1 Ch. 4; 77 L. J. Ch. 60, if there are any).(t) But if no child is then in existence, the gift takes effect as an executory devise or bequest, and all the children take as they are born: Shepherd v. Ingram (1764), Amb. 448; Theobald, 7th ed., 310.

Gift to children "born and to be born."

2. That an immediate gift to the children of A., "born and to be born," or "begotten and to be begotten," includes children born after the testator's death.(u)

Gift to A. for life, and then to his children.

3. That a gift to A. for life, with remainder to his children, includes all children living at the testator's death, or born afterwards.

Gift to A. for life, and then to children of B.

4. That a gift to A. for life, with remainder to the children of B., includes all B.'s children living at the testator's death, or born in A.'s lifetime, but excludes those born afterwards.

Gift to children of a person who takes no life interest who attain twenty-one.

5. That a gift to the children of A. (who is alive at the testator's death but takes no prior life interest under the Will) who attain twenty-one includes those children only who are living at the death of the testator, if any child is then living who has attained twenty-one; and, if there is no such child then living, includes those children only who are living when the first child attains that age, i.e., when the property or fund becomes vested in possession in respect of any one member of the class.(v)

Former devise to A. for life, with remainder to children who attain twenty-one.

Effect where one or more children attained twenty-one in A.'s life.

6. That where real estate was given before 1926 by way of legal limitation to A. for life, with remainder to his children who attained twenty-one, the children (if any) who attained twenty-one in A.'s lifetime took the whole, to the exclusion of any who were infants at his death.(w) This was because, according to the former rule applicable to legal remainders, the whole remainder vested in the first child who came of age in A.'s lifetime and only opened to let in others who also came of age in his lifetime. The case was not within the Contingent Remainders Act, 1877, now repealed,(x) because the particular estate did not determine before the remainder vested. This was one of the reasons why real estate was not, under the old law, limited to a person if and when he attained twenty-one, but was generally given to him for an estate tail.

New law.

After 1925 it is impossible to create legal estates by way of remainder or executory limitation. All such limitations must take effect as equitable limitations, for the only legal estates authorised are estates in fee simple in possession and terms of years absolute: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 1. It follows that the Former contingent remainder could not operate as executory devise, except in cases within C. R. Act, 1877.

(x) This Act provided that every contingent remainder created after its passing which would have been valid as an executory devise had it not had a sufficient estate to support it as a contingent remainder should, in the event of the particular estate determining before the contingent remainder vested, be capable of taking effect as if the contingent remainder had originally been created as an executory devise.

The rule before the passing of the above Act was that where a devise was capable at the time of its creation of taking effect as a remainder, it could not be construed as an executory devise.

Contingent Remainders Act, 1877, is no longer required and has been repealed by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1924, 10th Sch.

Saving from failure of estates converted into equitable interests.

But though remainders are converted into equitable interests, a contingent remainder which under the old law was valid, because it could only take effect, if it took effect at all, eo instanti, on the determination of the legal life estate which supported it, will nevertheless not fail by reason of being converted into an equitable interest: L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. I. See also ib., s. 161, abolishing the rule in Whitby v. Mitchell (1890), 44 Ch. D. 85, and the notes on that section in 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 412–413.

Forfeiture, merger or surrender of particular estate.

For the same reason the R. P. Act, 1845, s. 8 (as to forfeiture, surrender or merger of the particular estate), has been repealed by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1924, 10th Sch., for, after 1925, remainders will always be supported by a legal estate vested in a trustee, generally the tenant for life or statutory owner, or his special personal representatives, and it will be quite immaterial whether or not the beneficial life interest is forfeited, merged or surrendered.

Effect under old law where no child attained twenty-one in A.'s life.

7. That where real estate was, before 1926, by a legal limitation, limited as in (6), then, if no child of A. had attained twenty-one at his death, the limitation to the children failed as a contingent remainder, but operated as if it had been an executory devise by virtue of the Contingent Remainders Act, 1877: See note (x) supra; and all the children were let in as they came of age.

Rule as to contingent remainders did not apply to equitable interests.

8. That the old rule as to legal remainders referred to in (6) never did apply to equitable interests, whether in real or personal estate, and it was not necessary as regards such interests that the trust for children should take effect immediately on the determination of the previous life estate. Consequently, if real or personal estate is given, whether before 1926 or after 1925, to trustees (so as, with respect to real estate, to vest in them the legal estate, this must be the case after 1925, for the tenant for life or statutory owner or personal representatives must be the trustees) in trust for A. for life and then for his children who attain twenty-one, the trust for children takes effect as an executory gift in favour of all the children as they come of age. (y)

Rule applicable under new law.

Nevertheless, such a gift was objectionable because s. 42 of the Conv. Act, 1881, did not apply during a minority. This section is repealed as to sub-ss. (1), (2), (3) and (7) by S. L. Act, 1925, 5th Sch., and as to sub-ss. (4) and (5) by T. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch.; sub-s. (6) is obsolete, for there can be no undivided shares in land in possession and was, as to instruments coming into operation after 1925, repealed by L. P. Act, 1925, 7th Sch. Under the S. L. Act, 1925, s. 102, powers of management which can be exercised during a minority or pending a contingency are given to trustees appointed for that purpose, or, if there are none, to the S. L. Act trustees. During a minority either the personal representatives or the S. L. Act trustees in whom the land is vested will be the statutory owners: ib., s. 26. Where the instrument creating the trust comes into operation after 1925, full powers of maintenance and accumulation of surplus income during a minority are given by T. Act, 1925, s. 31. In regard to instruments coming into operation before 1926, the powers of Conv. Act, 1881, s. 43, are kept on foot: L. P. Act, 1925, 7th Sch.

Management, &c., during a minority.

Gift in remainder to children who attain twenty-one either before or after death of A.

9. That where real estate was legally limited before 1926 to A. for life with remainder to his children who attain twenty-one "either before or after A.'s death," the limitation to the children was an executory devise, and all the children were let in as they came of age.(z) The same rule must apply to equitable limitations after 1925.

Destination of rent of land while some shares remained contingent.

10. That where children took vested interests in real estate at twenty-one, the first child coming of age took the whole rent, and when a second came of age, the rent was divided between the two, and so on. Until one child came of age, the rent went as undisposed of, or if the gift was not residuary, fell into residue.(a) This afforded a further reason against limiting land to vest in a person at twenty-one instead of creating an estate tail; but where the gift to the children referred to the income as well as the capital an intention was shown that the income should be distributed amongst the children as from the death of the tenant for life. In this case, if the intermediate income accruing before the first child had attained a vested interest had fallen into residue it would have been payable to the tenant for life of the residue as income: Re Stevens [1915], 1 Ch. 429; 84 L. J. Ch. 432.

New law as to intermediate income.

A gift by Will coming into operation after 1925, though contingent, will generally carry the intermediate income from the testator's death except so far as the income is otherwise expressly disposed of: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175; 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 435.

Destination of income of real or personal estate, or of mixed fund.

11. That where children take vested interests in personal estate at twenty-one, the intermediate income goes with the capital of each share; if a testator includes real and personal estate in the same gift, he shows an intention that the rule applicable to personalty shall apply also to the real estate, and the intermediate rents will go as the income of the personalty.(b) In Wills coming into operation after 1925 this rule will generally apply to real estate given separately from personal estate.

How Will should be framed where it is wished to give real and personal estate among children contingently.

If it is desired that the residue of a testator's property (real and personal) should be divided among a class of children contingently on any event, so that, whatever happens, both kinds of property should devolve on the same persons, the proper mode of carrying out this object is still to direct the conversion of the real estate into personalty, and to declare the trusts of the proceeds of both as a common fund. Where successive interests are to be taken, the property may be settled as realty. The former course is the best in the case of a class gift: see precedents of both kinds, infra.

Trust for sale when implied.

In any case, if there is a gift of real estate or chattels real in undivided shares or to joint tenants, a trust for sale will be implied: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 34-36; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 36. But tenants for life can hold settled land as joint tenants: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 19. See also L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch., amending L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. IV, by inserting para. 4, relating to temporary tenants in common.

Distinction between land held on trust for sale and settled land.

It is still important to decide whether land should be devised on trust for sale or should be settled as land. In the former case the trustees for sale are the persons to make title, subject to any powers of leasing and accepting surrenders which they may have delegated; in the latter, the tenant for life, statutory owner or personal representatives in whom the land is vested are the persons to make title, but in the case of tenants for life and statutory owners, after a vesting instrument has been executed. Directly a trust for sale becomes exercisable the land ceases to be "settled land."

Interest to be taken where power of appointment amounts to a trust.

Sometimes a power of appointment amongst children, or some other class of objects, is so expressed as to amount to a trust in favour of such objects in default of appointment, but there must be a clear indication in the Will that the testator so intended.(c)

Gift to individual and a class.

A gift to A. and the children of B. equally is primâ facie not a gift to a class, so that if A. dies before the testator, A.'s share will lapse; but it may be a class gift if there is a common tie between the beneficiaries and there is to be found in the Will a context which will show that the testator so intended: Kingsbury v. Walter [1901], A. C. 187; 70 L. J. Ch. 546.

A gift to "all my nephews hereinafter named" is not a gift to a class: Re Bentley [1914], 110 L. T. 623.

Legacies to illegitimate children.

Independently of the Legitimacy Bill now in Parliament, a gift to children primâ facie means legitimate children only; but reputed children born in the testator's lifetime, or en ventre sa mère at the date of his death and of the Will, take if an intention to that effect is sufficiently shown by expressions in the Will, coupled with the surrounding circumstances, but not of course a child begotten and born after the testator's death.(d) In the case of gifts to illegitimate children their names should be given in the Will. Where a testatrix gave a legacy to the "children of A." who were illegitimate, but whom she wrongly supposed to have become legitimated by the law of their domicile, the gift was allowed.(e) A gift to the future children of the testator, or of any other person, by a particular woman not being his wife, is void, because the fact of paternity cannot, consistently with public policy, be inquired into; but a gift to the future children of a particular woman, of whom the testator or any other specified person shall be the reputed father, is good as regards children born in the testator's lifetime, or en ventre sa mère at the date of the Will, because there is no objection to an inquiry as to reputation of paternity.(f) Whether a child is legitimate, so as to be capable of taking under a gift to children, depends on the law of the father's domicile; this is so whether the subject-matter of the gift is real or personal estate: Re Grey's Trusts [1892], 3 Ch. 88; 61 L. J. Ch. 622. But a child illegitimate according to the law of England could not, before 1926, inherit land in England: Doe v. Vardill (1840), 7 Cl. & Fin. 895.

Legitimacy Bill.

If the Legitimacy Bill, as introduced, is passed this year by Parliament, it will come into force on 1st January, 1927. It will not affect any disposition coming into operation before that date or affect rights under an intestacy of a person dying before that date.

Legitimation by subsequent marriage.

The main object is to legitimate a child by the subsequent marriage of the parents. The date of legitimation is either the commencement of the Act or the date of the marriage, whichever last happens.

The mere legitimation is not to confer any rights in regard to property; these are dealt with separately for the benefit of the spouse and issue of the legitimated person. Provision is to be made for the spouse and issue of a person who would have been legitimated had he survived the marriage of his parents; also in regard to successions from a legitimated person or his issue on an intestacy.

Extraneous legitimation.

The position of persons who are legitimated by a subsequent marriage under Scottish, Colonial or foreign law is to be dealt with.

Rights of mother and illegitimate child.

It is also proposed to give to the mother of an illegitimate child a right to take on the intestacy of the child, and to give to an illegitimate child or his issue a right to take on the intestacy of the mother, provided she does not leave legitimate issue.

Gift to issue.

A gift to issue primâ facie includes all issue, but the context may show that the testator meant children only.(g)

Gifts to nephews and nieces.

Gifts to nephews and nieces do not generally include relatives by marriage: Re Green [1914], 1 Ch. 134; 83 L. J. Ch. 248; but the context or the circumstances may extend the meaning

Adoption of Children Act, 1926.

Under the Adoption of Children Act, 1926, s. 5 (2), the order does not deprive the child of any interest in property to which the child would have been entitled under any intestacy or disposition, or confer on the child any right in property as a child of the adoptor. "Child" and "issue" in a disposition do not include an adopted child or the issue of an adopted child unless the contrary intention appears.

Duties.

Sub-s. (3) provides for the rate of duty payable under a disposition by the adoptor or where the adoptor takes under a disposition.

Next-of-Kin, Personal Representatives, &c.

Gifts before 1926 to next-of-kin simpliciter, or to next-of-kin according to the Statutes of Distribution.

A gift, before 1926, to the next-of-kin of A., without more, created a joint tenancy in the persons who were nearest of kin to A. in equal degree without reference to the Statutes of Distribution.(h) If the gift, before 1926, was to the next-of-kin according to the Statutes of Distribution, or to the next-of-kin as if the propositus had died intestate (which was considered to import a reference to the statutes), all kindred entitled under the statutes took as tenants in common;(i) but a wife or husband (not being of the kin of A.) could not take under such a gift.(j)

At what time next-of-kin were ascertained.

Under a gift, before 1926, to the next-of-kin of the testator, whether the gift were immediate or preceded by a life interest, the persons to take were those who answered the description at the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention was clearly shown.(k) Such a gift excluded any person who would on intestacy have taken under the Intestates Estates Act, 1890, as that Act (now repealed) only applied to actual and complete intestacy: Re Morgan [1920], 1 Ch. 196; 89 L. A gift, before 1926, to the persons entitled under the Statutes of Distribution excluded the husband, whose right did not take effect under those statutes.(l)

Old law preserved.

Trusts declared in an instrument inter vivos made, or in a Will coming into operation before 1926, by reference to the Statutes of Distribution, will, unless the contrary appears, be construed as referring to the enactments (other than the Intestates' Estate Act, 1890) which were in force before 1926: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 50 (2).

Gifts after 1925.

References to any Statute of Distribution in an instrument inter vivos made, or in a Will coming into operation after 1925, will be construed as references to Pt. IV of the Ad. of E. Act, 1925 (see particularly ss. 46, 47): ib., s. 50 (1). A limitation, no doubt, could be framed in favour of the pre-1926 statutory next-of-kin, but is obviously inexpedient. Again references in such an instrument or Will to "statutory" next-of-kin, will be construed, unless the context otherwise requires, as referring to the persons who would take beneficially under the foregoing provisions of that Act: ib., s. 50 (1). Thus a gift to next-of-kin simpliciter still retains its old meaning, though a trust for sale will be implied in the case of joint tenants holding land.

Who takes under a gift to executors or administrators.

A bequest to A. for life, and after his death to his executors or administrators, vests the subject of the gift absolutely in A.; it makes no difference that, between the life interest and the ultimate gift, intermediate interests are given to other persons or a power of appointment is given to A. himself.(m) A gift to the executors or administrators of A., a deceased person, is a gift to his personal representatives as a part of his estate, and not to them beneficially.(n)

Gift to "representatives" or "legal representatives."

The term "representatives" or "legal representatives" means primâ facie "executors or administrators";(o) but the context frequently shows that it was the intention of the testator to use the term in a different sense,(p) e.g., as meaning the persons entitled on an intestacy under the general law or the descendants of the legatees. Again, if personal estate is given immediately and without the intervention of any previous interests to A., or in case of his death to his "representatives" or "legal representatives," A. takes absolutely if he survives the testator, but if he dies in the testator's lifetime the property goes to the persons entitled to his personal estate on an intestacy under the general law, and not to his executors or administrators, on the ground of the improbability that the testator should mean the legacy to be thrown into the general assets of the legatee dying before him.(q)

Other Matters relating to Legacies.

Construction of gifts over on death of legatee, to what period death is to be referred.

When a gift of a legacy is followed by a gift over on the death of the legatee, the question arises whether the death referred to is a death at any time, or a death within a particular period.

In Edwards v. E. (1852), 15 Beav. 357; 21 L. J. Ch. 324, the cases on this subject were divided into four classes:—

(1) Where the gift is to A., and if he shall die to B.;

(2) A gift to A., and if he shall die without children to B.;

(3) To X. for life, with remainder to A., and if A. shall die to B.;

(4) To X. for life, with remainder to A., and if he shall die without children to B.

The court stated that, in the first class, the contingency is the death of A. in the testator's life; in the second, death at any time; and in the third and fourth, death before X.

But it has been decided by the House of Lords that the above rule is incorrect as regards the fourth class of cases, the death there being death at any time, as in the second.(r)

Lim. Act as to legacies.

An action to recover a legacy must be brought within twelve years after the right to receive it has accrued, unless the legacy is vested in the executor on an express trust.(s)

The right of a beneficiary to recover money paid by mistake to another beneficiary can be barred by the Lim. Act, 1623, where the claim is in the nature of a claim for money and not for a specific fund impressed with the trust.(t)

SECT. V.—Lapse.

If a devisee or legatee dies in the lifetime of the testator, the devise or bequest fails, or, as it is usually expressed, lapses, except in the cases provided for by the Wills Act.

Destination of the subject of lapsed gifts.

Before the Wills Act there was an important difference between real and personal estate. In the case of personal estate, the lapsed legacy fell into the residuary estate unless a contrary intention appeared by the Will; but where land was the subject of the lapsed gift, it went to the heir of the testator.

Under Wills Act lapsed interests in real estate go to residuary devisee.

Under s. 25 of the Wills Act real estate included in devises, which fail or are void, passes under the residuary devise in the Will, unless a contrary intention appears.

What devises are residuary so as to include the subject of lapsed gifts.

Whether a devise or bequest of real or personal estate is residuary, so as to include lapsed interests, depends upon the particular language used in each case. Words of exception will not of themselves prevent the gift from being residuary.(u)

The question is whether the property is excepted in order to take it away under all circumstances and for all purposes from the person to whom the residue is given, or whether (as is usual) it is excepted merely for the purpose of giving it to another person. If the latter, and the gift to the other person fails, the donees of all except this property are entitled to take the whole.(v)

A devise of "the rest of my freehold lands" in a particular parish is not a residuary devise within the meaning of the Wills Act.(w) But a devise of "all the rest of my freeholds" to A. and "all the rest of my copyholds" to B., or of "all the rest of my freeholds" to A., omitting all reference to copyholds, is a good residuary devise: Mason v. Ogden [1903], A. C. 1; 72 L. J. Ch. 152.

Entailed interests. Children leaving issue.

Under s. 32 of the Wills Act, as extended to entailed personalty by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 130 (1), a devise or bequest of an "entailed interest" (ib., sub-s. (7)), does not lapse if there are issue of the devisee or legatee inheritable under the entail living at the testator's death; and under s. 33 of the Wills Act there is no lapse of a devise or bequest to children or issue who leave issue living, including a child en ventre sa mère: Re Griffiths [1911], 1 Ch. 246; 80 L. J. Ch. 176, at the testator's death.

Effect of s. 33 of Wills Act.

Section 33 applies to appointments by Will under a general power: Eccles v. Cheyne (1856), 2 K. & J. 676, but not to appointments under a special power.(x) It also applies where the devisee or legatee is dead at the date of the Will: Wisden v. W. (1854), 2 S. & G. 396. It is not necessary, in order to prevent lapse, that the issue living at the death of the testator should have been living when the legatee died. Thus, where a legacy was given to a daughter who died before the testatrix, leaving one child who also died before the testatrix, leaving a child who survived the testatrix, the legacy did not lapse: In b. Parker (1862), 1 Sw. & Tr. 523; 31 L. J. P. 9.

The section does not apply to gifts to a class,(y) even though in the events which happened the class consisted of one child only: Re Harvey [1893], 1 Ch. 567; 62 L. J. Ch. 328; nor does Death duties.

it apply where the testator shows an intention that a gift should lapse: Re Meredith [1924], 2 Ch. 552. Nor does the section substitute for the deceased child the issue whose existence is the event or condition which prevents the lapse, but renders the subject of the gift the property of that child, and disposable by him. Thus, it will be bound by a contract for valuable consideration made by him while living, e.g., on a sale or mortgage or by settlement on marriage, or will pass by his Will, or, if he dies intestate, to the person entitled under the general law, or to his trustee in bankruptcy if he dies while an undischarged bankrupt. It will be subject to death duties in like manner as if the child had in fact survived the testator and died immediately afterwards.(z)

No lapse on death of one of several joint tenants or of one of several members of a class.

A gift to several persons as joint tenants, or to a class of persons, does not come within the operation of the doctrine of lapse unless all such joint tenants, or all the members constituting the class, die before the testator, as the gift takes effect in favour of those who survive.(a) Where an estate is devised, subject to the payment of a sum thereout, the sum charged does not lapse by the death of the devisee of the estate in the testator's life: Oke v. Heath (1748), 1 Ves. Sen. 135. A gift to a class operates in favour of those capable of taking, to the exclusion of those who are incapable.(b)

If a bequest of a sum is made to A. for life, with remainder to B., to be paid to him at twenty-one, with a gift over in case of his death before the same becomes payable, and B. attains twenty-one, and dies before A., the legacy passes to the representatives of B.: Walker v. Main, supra; Jones v. J. (1843), 13 Sim. 561; 13 L. legally enforceable or not, does not lapse by the legatee's death before the testator: Stevens v. King [1904], 2 Ch. 30; 73 L. J. Ch. 535.

A contingent gift may carry intermediate income.

A gift of personal estate on a contingency always carried with it the intermediate income unless a contrary intention was shown;(d) but a devise before 1926 of real estate did not; the intermediate rents went to the residuary devisee, and if there was no residuary devise, or if the devise in question was itself a residuary devise, to the heir.(e) Thus conditional devises were avoided and estates tail were limited in place thereof. There was no such objection to alternative limitations of the fee simple. If, however, there was a devise and bequest of real and personal estate as a mixed fund, and the testator showed an intention that the rule applicable to personal estate should apply also to the real estate, the intermediate rents followed the other income.(f)

Where the real and personal estate is made a mixed fund the rule as to personalty applies to the real estate also.

Devises, &c., after 1925, carry intermediate income.

Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175, contingent and future specific devises or bequests, contingent residuary devises and specific or residuary devises to trustees on trust for persons whose interests are contingent or executory will, subject to the statutory provisions as to accumulations (as to which see T. Act, 1925, s. 31, relating to minorities and contingent interests) carry the intermediate income so far as undisposed of: 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 435.

SECT. VI.—For what period the vesting of property given by Will may be postponed or income may be accumulated, having regard to the rule against perpetuities and the statutory provisions as to accumulations.

The rule was independent of the rule against perpetuities: Whitby v. Mitchell (1890), 44 Ch. D. 85; 59 L. J. Ch. 485; and applied to equitable interests as well as legal remainders: Re Nash [1910], 1 Ch. 1; 79 L. J. Ch. 1; but was subject to the cy-près doctrine:

into operation after 1925, has been abolished: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 161. It was also a rule of law that any limitation of land, whether by way of contingent remainder (h) or executory or springing use, except one following an estate tail, was void, unless the estate created by it would become absolutely vested within a life or lives in being and twenty-one years and, if existing, the period of gestation. This rule still remains good as respects equitable limitations. Thus, if lands were devised to A. in fee simple, with an executory devise over in case A. or any of his heirs should do a particular act, the devise over was void. But if lands are devised to A. in tail, with an executory devise over in case A., or the heirs of his body, shall do a particular act or make a default (e.g., the breach of a name and arms clause), the executory devise is valid in equity, because A. being tenant in tail can at any time bar the entail and the executory devise, so that the property is not in fact tied up, hence the rule is not transgressed.(i)

Instances of application of rule to real estate.

Restrictions on executory limitations.

Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 134, an executory limitation over of property (excluding a limitation over affecting an entailed interest) to take effect on default or failure of the donee's issue will become void if any of the issue attain twenty-one in the lifetime of the donee. This applies after 1881, but the operation of the section is extended where the instrument comes into force after 1925: 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 356–57.

Restrictions on perpetuity rule.

Again the perpetuity rule is restricted by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 162 (distress, indemnities, reservations, &c.), see also s. 121 (recovery of rentcharges) and s. 190 (8) (remedies on non-payment of rent or breach of covenants).

Validation of certain gifts.

Under s. 163 a gift or gift over void for remoteness, because the age of the donee or members of the class is fixed above twenty-one years, is validated by substituting the age of twenty-one for the age stated. This applies to deeds made after 1925, and to Wills coming into operation after 1925: 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 415–16.

(h) The rule against perpetuities applied to a legal contingent remainder: Re Frost (1890), 43 Ch. D. 246; 59 L. J. Ch. 118; Re Ashforth [1905], 1 Ch. 535; 74 L. J. Ch. 361; and to discretionary trusts, Kennedy v. K. [1914], A. C. 215; 83 L. J. P. C. 63.

(i) See Butler's note to Co. Litt. 271; see also Heasman v. Pearse (1872), L. R. 7 Ch. 275; 41 L. J. Ch. 705; Re Haygarth [1912], 1 Ch. 510; 81 L. J. Ch. 255.

Rule extends to personalty.

The rule against perpetuities is equally applicable to gifts of personal estate. It is therefore necessary, in framing all such gifts, to take care that the absolute vesting of them is not postponed beyond the period allowed, viz., a life or lives in being and twenty-one years afterwards, with a period of gestation, if existing.

Instances of application of rule.

Thus, if a legacy was given before 1926 in trust for A. for life, and after his death for all his children who attained twenty-two, the gift was void, because it was possible that A. might die leaving a child just born, and in such case nearly twenty-two years beyond the life of A. must or might elapse before the legacy became absolutely vested.(j) Such a gift made after 1925 is validated under s. 163 by reading " twenty-one " for " twenty-two." Again, under a devise to A., an unmarried woman, for life, then to her husband for life, then to the children living at the death of the survivor, the limitation to the children is void, because A. may leave a husband born after the testator's death.(k)

The rule does not extend to—

(1) provisions for payment of debts: Marshall v. Holloway (1818), 2 Swan. 432;

(2) immediate charitable gifts, though for objects not immediately effective; Re Swain [1905], 1 Ch. 669; 74 L. J. Ch. 354;

(3) gifts over from one charity to another: Re Tyler [1891], 3 Ch. 252; 60 L. J. Ch. 686.

Extent to which rule extends to referential trusts.

Also the rule does not extend to trusts declared by reference to an existing settlement, if at the date when the trusts are executed, the limitations of the referential settlement do not involve an infringement of the rule in respect of the execution of those trusts.(l)

Limitations expectant on void limitation or in default of appointment under void power.

All limitations ulterior to or expectant on one which is void for remoteness, are void also (m) unless validated under s. 163. But limitations in default of appointment under a power which is void are not void, unless they are themselves obnoxious to the rule against perpetuities: Re Abbott [1893], 1 Ch. 54; 62 L. J. Ch. 46. Limitations void under the old law for remoteness may be followed by alternative and independent limitations, which are valid,(n) but in such cases the prior limitations, if made after 1925, will generally be validated by s. 163.

How rule to be applied, where Will exercises a special power, or a general power.

In exercising by Will special powers of appointment the rule in question must be applied as if the appointment were contained in the instrument creating the power: Farwell, Pow., 3rd ed., 325: Re Davies and Kent (see note). Nevertheless, under s. 163, an appointment made in exercise of a special power may be validated. A general power is equivalent to ownership, and time will be reckoned, in the case of the exercise of a general power, from the death of the donee of the power; this is so though the donee is a married woman, and the power is testamentary only: Rous v. Jackson (1885), 29 Ch. D. 521; 54 L. J. Ch. 732.

When trust for sale void, trusts of proceeds sometimes good.

A trust to sell at a time beyond the perpetuity limit is void, but if the proceeds are given to persons ascertainable within the perpetuity limit (if necessary, having regard to any variation in the trusts effected by s. 163), and the same persons take (either by express direction or by implication) the rents and profits until sale, they were, under the old law, entitled to the property as real estate.(o) The beneficiaries of the proceeds have been held to be so entitled, though the rents and profits until sale were given to different persons: Re Daveron [1893], 3 Ch. 421; 63 L. J. Ch. 54.

Effect of implied trusts for sale.

Though under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 23, a trust for sale, once validly created, is, in favour of a purchaser, deemed to be subsisting till the land is conveyed to the persons interested, this can make no difference to the beneficial interests. Again if, under the old law, the beneficiaries would have been entitled to the land "as real estate," it makes no difference that by reason of s. 3 (1) (ii), proviso, and s. 36 (joint tenancies), it has to be conveyed to them or to not more than four of them on trust for sale.

Accumulation of Income.(p)

For what period income might have been accumulated before Act of 1800.

Previously to the passing of the Act of 1800, now repealed (L. P. Act, 1925, 7th Sch.) and reproduced, with amendments, by ss. 164–6 of the L. P. Act, 1925, the income of property might be directed to be accumulated for the whole period permitted by the rule against perpetuities, as was decided in Thellusson v. Woodford (1798), 4 Ves. 227; unless the purpose was to discharge debts, when the period is unlimited.

Accumulations beyond certain periods prohibited.

The accumulation of income is prohibited for any longer period (s. 164) than one of the following alternative periods, namely: (i) the life of the grantor or settlor; or (ii) a term of twenty-one years from the death of the grantor, settlor or testator; or (iii) during the minority of any person living or en ventre sa mere at the death of the grantor, settlor or testator; or (iv) during the minority only of any person who would, if of full age, be entitled, under the limitations of the instrument directing the accumulations, to the rents and profits directed to be accumulated.(q) But the section does not extend (sub-s. 2) to any provision for the payment of debts of any settlor, &c., or other person, or to any provision for raising portions for children or issue of the grantor, &c., or of a person taking any interest under the settlement, &c., or to whom any interest is thereby limited,(r) or to any directions respecting the produce of timber or wood.

Where accumulations are made during a minority under the statutory power (T. Act, 1925, s. 31), or under the general law, this is not to be treated as one of the authorised periods, hence an express trust for accumulation for one of the other four periods will be valid: ib., s. 165.

No accumulation beyond minority for purchase of land.

Section 166 forbids accumulation for the purchase of land only for any longer period than during the minority or respective minorities of any person or persons, who, under the instrument directing the accumulation, would, for the time being, if of full age, be entitled to receive the income directed to be accumulated. This section does not prevent money being accumulated to be held as capital money for the purposes of the S. L. Act, 1925.

(q) This fourth period is not confined to persons born in the testator's lifetime: Re Cattell [1914], 1 Ch. 177; 83 L. J. Ch. 322.

(r) Re Stephens [1904], 1 Ch. 322; 73 L. J. Ch. 3; Colquhoun's Trustees v. C. [1907], S. C. 346; Mackay's Trustees v. M. [1909], S. C. 139.

The effect of these three sections is fully discussed in 1 Wolst. and Cherry, 11th ed., 416–23, but the following points should be noted.

Direction to accumulate beyond the period allowed is good pro tanto.

If a testator directs income to be accumulated for a period exceeding the authorised period, the accumulation will be allowed pro tanto, and will be void only for the excess.(s)

Periods mentioned are alternative.

The periods mentioned in s. 164 are alternative, and not cumulative, save in the case covered by s. 165. Consequently a direction to accumulate during the life of the grantor and for some time afterwards ceases at his death, though twenty-one years have not then expired.(t)

Destination of income directed to be accumulated beyond period allowed.

The section merely makes void the direction to accumulate, it leaves the income to go to such person, &c., as would have been entitled thereto, if such accumulation had not been directed. Hence, where residue is given upon trust to accumulate the income for the life of A., or any other unauthorised period, such income will, after the expiration of the authorised period, and during the rest of the period of accumulation directed by the Will, go (unless otherwise disposed of) as undisposed of and be held for the new statutory next-of-kin under Ad. of E. Act, 1925.(u) Where a testator directed the rents of an estate to be accumulated until a certain sum was raised, and subject to such direction the estate was devised to several persons in succession, the direction to accumulate operated as a charge on the successive estates, and accumulations made after twenty-one years from the testator's death did not go as undisposed of, but went to the persons entitled to the rents and profits under the devise.(v)

An implied trust to accumulate surplus income of specifically devised freeholds.

Where an implied trust to accumulate the surplus income of freeholds specifically devised on trust for sale exceeded twenty-one years from the testator's death, it was held that the valid accumulations fell into residue as capital, but the invalid accumulations went to the tenant for life as income: Re Garside [1919], 1 Ch. 132; 88 L. J. Ch. 116.

What is a provision for raising portions within the exception in sub-s. (2).

Under s. 164 (2) the portions to be provided for may be portions given by the same instrument which contains the provision by way of accumulation, or by a former instrument.(w) Where the provision is for children or issue of any person other than the grantor, &c., the parent or ancestor formerly had to take some interest under the same instrument, but not necessarily an interest in the property directed to be accumulated.(x) Now it is not necessary that the parent or ancestor should actually take some interest, it is sufficient if some interest was limited to him.

Gift of accumulations to children, &c.

A direction to accumulate the income of a testator's residue or of a legacy, followed by a gift of that residue or legacy with the accumulations to the children or issue of a person taking an interest under the Will, is not a provision for raising portions for such children or issue within the meaning of the exception: Re Elliott [1918], 2 Ch. 150; 87 L. J. Ch. 449, unless it could be held, on the facts, that there was a beneficial limitation (not a mere pretence) in favour of the parent.

As to the validity of accumulations to pay debts.

A direction to accumulate rents and profits for an indefinite period for the purpose of paying debts, with a devise of the land (subject to such trust) in strict settlement, does not contravene the rule against perpetuities, because, so soon as the fee simple vests in possession under the limitations, the owner can put an end to the accumulations.(y) A trust of this nature is excepted by s. 164 (2) (i) from the restrictions on accumulations.

Rights of remainderman to enforce trust to accumulate.

If a creditor insists on and obtains payment at once out of the capital of the estate, under an order in an administration action or otherwise, the remainderman cannot require the accumulation to go on so as to recoup the capital out of the income of the remaining property. It is conceived that a provision expressly directing such recoupment would be void, not being an authorised object for accumulation,(z) if the trust exceeded the authorised period.

Ch. 594, where the court held that under a trust to accumulate an annual sum out of the rents, in order to pay off mortgages, the mortgagees were beneficiaries, and that the trust could not be put an end to by the owner of the estate, who had barred the entail and acquired the fee simple in possession, unless he paid off the debts.

Recoupment of capital.

The same principle would apply if a term were limited to trustees on trust, out of income, to discharge incumbrances. As and when parts of the mortgaged properties were sold and the proceeds applied towards discharging incumbrances the effect would be to accelerate the cesser of the term.(a)

What is a provision for payment of debts within the section.

A contingent liability under a covenant entered into by the testator is a debt within sub-s. (2). It may be provided for by a direction to create a sinking fund without any reference to any authorised period of accumulation.(b)

Accumulation for improving land, &c.

A direction to apply income for the purpose of improving land, or for the repair of buildings, is not an authorised purpose,(c) nor is a direction to pay out of income the premiums on a policy of assurance effected by the testator on the life of another, nor a direction out of the rents of leaseholds to keep up a policy to replace at the end of the term the capital that would be lost by not selling the property,(d) nor to provide a fund for payment of dilapidations at the end of a lease: Re Hurlbatt [1910], 2 Ch. 553; 80 L. J. Ch. 29.

Simple interest.

Semble, a direction to invest the income without investing the resulting income from the fund so formed is a trust for accumulation.(e)

When legatee may put an end to accumulation.

If a vested interest is given to a person with a direction that the enjoyment shall be postponed until a future day, and that in the meantime the income shall be accumulated for the benefit of the legatee, the legatee may, if of full age, put an end to the accumulation, hence it is not void: Re Trevanion [1910], 2 Ch. 538; 80 L. J. Ch. 93. This principle applies equally where the legacy is to a charity.(f)

A trust to accumulate for the purchase of real estate is a direction to accumulate "for the purchase of land only" within s. 166: Re Clutterbuck [1901], 2 Ch. 285; 70 L. J. Ch. 614; but a direction to apply the accumulations as capital money under the S. L. Act is not within that section: confirming Re Danson [1895], W. N. 102. As under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 81, money which, otherwise than under that Act, ought, as between the persons interested in the settled land, to be treated as capital, is, without prejudice to any other statutory provisions affecting it, to be deemed capital money, to be paid to the trustees of the settlement and to be invested or applied accordingly, very few cases can come within the restrictions of s. 166. That section applies to a Will made before, and coming into operation after, 27th June, 1892: Re Llanover [1903], 2 Ch. 330; 72 L. J. Ch. 729. The restrictions against accumulations apply to charities: Martin v. Maugham (1844), 14 Sim. 230; 13 L. J. Ch. 392.

Capital money.

Accumulation provisions apply to charities.

Sect. VII.—Gifts to charities.(g)

Act of 1888, rendering void dispositions of land by Will for charitable purposes, repealed pro tanto by Act of 1891.

The Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1888 (which was in effect a re-enactment and consolidation of previous Acts, and in particular of 9 Geo. 2, c. 36), rendered void dispositions by Will of land, or of any interest in land, or of money to be laid out in the purchase of land, for charitable purposes, subject to certain exceptions.

But by the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1891, any property, whether real or personal, may be given by Will for any charitable use, subject, as regards gifts of land or of personal estate to be laid out in the purchase of land, to the following provisions:—

Real or personal property may now be left by Will for charitable purposes.

Under s. 5, land assured by Will to or for the benefit of any charitable use must be sold within one year from the death of the testator, or such extended period (see Re Sidebottom [1901], 2 Ch. 1; 70 L. J. Ch. 448), as may be allowed by the court or the Charity Commissioners. As soon as the time limited for the sale of any lands expires, the land unsold vests in the Official Trustee of Charitable Lands, and the Charity Commissioners must take all necessary steps for the sale or completion of the sale of such land. Personal estate by Will directed to be laid out in the purchase of land to or for the benefit of any charitable uses (h) is to be held to or for the benefit of the charitable uses as though there had been no such direction. But if the court or Charity Commissioners are satisfied that the land assured by Will or proposed to be purchased is required for actual occupation for the purposes of the charity and not as an investment, they may authorise the retention or acquisition of such land. This Act only applies to the Will of a testator dying after 5th August, 1891.(i)

(g) See generally, Tudor's Charitable Trusts, 4th ed.

(h) These words mean the same thing as "purposes of the charity": Re Sutton [1901], 2 Ch. 640; 70 L. J. Ch. 747.

"Charitable uses."

Effect of s. 10 of Act of 1891.

Section 10 enables land devised to a charity to be retained, without the necessity of obtaining an order for retention, whenever the devise is one which, independently of the Act of 1891, would be valid under the exemptions contained in ss. 6, 7, and 8 of the Act of 1888. Thus, land not exceeding five acres, or personal estate not exceeding £500 in value, may be given under 43 Geo. 3, c. 108, s. 1, for a church or chapel, or a house for the residence of the officiating minister, or a churchyard, or glebe, provided the Will be executed at least three months before the testator's death.(j) Under s. 6 of the Act of 1888, a limited quantity of land may be given by Will for a public park, public museum or elementary school, provided that the Will be executed at least twelve months before the death of the testator and enrolled in the books of the Charity Commissioners within six months after such death: Re Sutton [1901], 2 Ch. 640; 70 L. J. Ch. 747. Compare S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4), requiring assurances to be recorded with the Commissioners in place of enrolment at the Central Office.

Other statutory exemptions.

Under the Working Classes Dwellings Act, 1890, and the Technical and Industrial Institutions Act, 1892 (see Re Stanley (1910), 26 T. L. R. 365), a limited quantity of land may be given by Will for the purposes of those Acts. Land so given need not be sold under the Act of 1891, but the Will or probate must be enrolled in the books of the Charity Commissioners.

Under the Ed. Act, 1921, s. 117, any quantity of land may be given for educational purposes, but the disposition must be recorded with the Board of Education.

Trust for sale.

Land devised on trust for sale, the proceeds to go to a charity, may be retained unsold beyond the year but not indefinitely.(k) But, in favour of a purchaser, the trust for sale may be treated as valid whenever executed: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 23; an indefinite power to postpone sale is implied: ib., s. 25.

Gift to a charity not obnoxious to rule against perpetuities.

A gift for charitable purposes is not obnoxious to the rule against perpetuities though the trust may last for an indefinite period.(m)

What is a charitable gift.

Gifts for benevolent or philanthropic purposes are not necessarily charitable.(n) To be valid as a charitable gift, the gift must be for the public benefit, and the trust must be capable of being administered and controlled by the court. It is for the court to decide, in each case, whether a gift complies with these conditions. This decision will be made solely on the evidence before the court, it does not depend upon the opinion of the donor.(o)

Gift for "private charity," or for religious purposes not connected with edification of the public, not recognised.

A gift of money to be spent in "private charity" is not a charitable gift; (p) and as regards gifts for the maintenance of religious services, those services must be such as tend directly or indirectly to the instruction or edification of the public.(q)

Cy-près doctrine.

If a testator shows a general intention in favour of charity, but the objects are not specifically defined, or the defined objects fail,(y) the court will carry out the general intention cy-près by means of a scheme if trustees of the fund have been appointed. Where the money given exceeds the amount required to effect the desired purpose the court will apply the surplus cy-près.(z)

Crown's rights.

If no trust has been interposed, the disposition of the gift is in the King by sign manual.(a) Where a legacy was given "to the following religious institutions, viz.," and a blank was left for them, this was held to be a charitable gift for the purpose of this doctrine, notwithstanding that there may be a religious gift which is not charitable.(b) Where a blank was left for the amount of the charitable legacy, the gift was void: Hartshorne v. Nicholson (1858), 26 Beav. 58; 27 L. J. Ch. 810.

Parol evidence as to purposes of gift.

Where a legacy was given to C. "for the charitable purposes agreed on between us," evidence was admitted to show what the purposes were: Re Huxtable [1902], 2 Ch. 793; 71 L. J. Ch. 876.

Lapse by failure of object in testator's lifetime.

Cy-près doctrine applies, if object fails afterwards.

A legacy to a particular institution which ceases to exist in the testator's lifetime lapses.(c) If the institution comes to an end after the testator's death,(d) or if there is a gift to an institution which never existed,(e) a general charitable intention may be inferred, and the legacy will be applied cy-près. Charitable funds may be invested in real securities.

Trustees of charitable funds may invest on real securities, but where the right of redemption in the property comprised in any such security becomes liable to foreclosure, the property must be sold: The Charitable Funds Investment Act, 1870.

SECT. VIII.—The rights of tenant for life and remainderman and the duties of trustees as regards property given in trust for persons in succession.

Rule as to conversion with regard to perishable and reversionary property.

Where a testator gives his residuary personal estate to trustees in trust for A. for life, with remainders over, the trustees are bound to convert into money all property of a perishable or wasting nature and to invest the proceeds in authorised securities, unless the Will shows a contrary intention.(f) The rule in Howe v. E. of Dartmouth does not apply to leaseholds where there is a trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28 (2); Re Brooker (1926), 70 Sol. J. 526. As to intestacies: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33 (5).

Instances where it has been held that leaseholds, &c., shall be enjoyed in specie.

A trust to sell the property on the death of the tenant for life: Alcock v. Sloper (1833), 2 M. & K. 699, or only in a given event: Daniel v. Warren (1843), 2 Y. & C. C. C. 290; a direction not to sell without the consent of all parties; (g) and a power for trustees to retain any portion of the testator's property in the same state in which the same shall be at his death,(h) show a contrary intention. A discretionary power of sale given to trustees is inconsistent with an immediate sale. After 1925, there will, as respects land, generally be an implied trust for sale.

Reversions.

If the discretionary power is not in fact exercised, reversionary property must be apportioned between tenant for life and remainderman.(i)

Specific description.

Where specific items of property have been combined with the general words of a residuary gift, or have been pointed to specifically in the gift over, an intention to exclude the rule has been inferred as to the property so specified.(j)

Trust of rents for tenant for life, whether sufficient to entitle him to enjoy in specie.

A trust to pay the rents, profits, and income of the residuary property to a tenant for life was not of itself sufficient evidence of intention that leasehold property should be enjoyed in specie where the testator had freehold as well as leasehold property.(k) Whether it was so where the testator had no freeholds is not clear.(l)

Liability of representatives who neglect to convert.

Personal representatives are allowed a year from the testator's death for realising his property, and the conversion of such part as ought to be converted, compare Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 44, but they have a power to postpone conversion: ib., s. 33; L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 25, 33. If they neglected this duty they were liable for any loss which arose.(m)

Mode of adjusting accounts between tenant for life and remainderman.

As between tenant for life and remainderman, where there is no right to specific enjoyment, the tenant for life is entitled, as from the day of the testator's death, to the whole income derived from such part of the testator's estate as is properly invested.(n)

Unauthorised investments.

As to such part as consists of unauthorised investments, he is entitled to an annual sum equal to the interest of so much Consols as would have been purchased with the unconverted property if such conversion had been made at the end of the year, and the excess of income accruing from the unconverted property is to be deemed capital.(o)

Instalments of purchase-money.

Where the purchase-money is paid by instalments, each instalment must be apportioned between tenant for life and remainderman. The tenant for life is entitled to so much as is attributable to income and the interest on the portion attributable to capital: Re Hollebone [1919], 2 Ch. 93; 88 L. J. Ch. 386.

Power to retain unauthorised investments.

If the Will empowers the trustees to postpone the conversion of existing investments, but says nothing as to the application of the income thereof while retained, unauthorised investments should be valued at the end of the year, and the tenant for life will be entitled as from the death of the testator to interest at 4 per cent.

on the value thereof, and the excess of income will be capital: Re Beech [1920], 1 Ch. 40; 89 L. J. Ch. 9. After 1925 a power to retain or sell land is construed as a trust for sale with power to postpone: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 25 (4). After 1911, in the case of a personalty settlement or Will, the tenant for life of the proceeds of land is given a right to the income till sale: ib., s. 32; the power to postpone given by s. 25 applies. As to intestacies: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33.

Principle of apportionment as regards property falling in some time after death.

Where the residuary estate includes outstanding personal estate, e.g., a mortgage debt with arrears of interest, or reversionary property which cannot conveniently be sold, such outstanding personal estate will, on its falling into possession, be apportioned between tenant for life and remainderman by ascertaining what sum put out at interest on the day of the testator's death, and calculated with yearly rests and deducting income-tax, would, with the accumulations of interest, have produced at the day of receipt the amount actually received, and the sum so ascertained will be treated as capital, and the residue as income.(p)

Property retained at a loss.

If there is property which it is desirable to retain for a time at an annual loss, such loss should be apportioned between capital and income on the same principle: Re Hengler [1893], 1 Ch. 586; 62 L. J. Ch. 383.

Salvage costs.

Payments for the preservation of part of the testator's property, the benefit of which goes to capital, should be made out of capital: Re Sherry [1913], 2 Ch. 508; 83 L. J. Ch. 126.

Tenant for life not entitled to interim income of funds applied in payment of legacies.

The tenant for life of a residue is entitled to the income of such residue only, and not to the income which may accrue on such part of the testator's estate as is applied in payment of legacies during the period which may intervene between the death of the testator and the actual payment of such legacies: Holgate v. Jennings (1857), 24 Beav. 623.

Assets for payment of debts and legacies. Allhusen v. Whittell.

Where a testator bequeaths legacies, and gives his residue to a tenant for life, with remainders over, executors will be treated by the court, in adjusting accounts between the tenant for life and remainderman, as having paid the debts and legacies not out of capital only, but with such portion of the capital as together with the income of that portion for one year was sufficient for the purpose.(q)

This principle is not limited to payments made during the first year after the testator's death: Re Wills [1915], 1 Ch. 769; 84 L. J. Ch. 580. The rule in Allhusen v. Whittell is not excluded by a direction that no part of income shall be added to capital, but it must not be slavishly followed where it is inapplicable to the special circumstances of any particular case or where it would create unnecessary complication: Re McEuen [1913], 2 Ch. 704; 83 L. J. Ch. 66.

Carrying on business.

Under a power to postpone conversion executors may carry on a testator's business, and the profits arising therefrom will belong to the tenant for life as income.(r)

Destination of money arising from land directed to be sold, and vice versa.

If real estate is directed to be sold, and the proceeds of sale are absolutely bequeathed, the property from that time acquires the character of personalty. In the event of the death of the beneficiary before a sale the proceeds would belong to his personal representatives. Again, money directed to be laid out in the purchase of land from the creation of the trust assumes the character of real estate, and devolves as such on the representatives of the beneficiary, whether he dies before or after the conversion.(s) This doctrine of implied conversion is of less importance now that under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 46, the question whether property is real or personal can make little or no difference to its destination on an intestacy, save in the case of a lunatic living and of full age on 1st January, 1926: ib., s. 51 (2).

Election to take estate unconverted.

At any time before the conversion, a sole beneficiary, if sui juris and absolutely entitled, may elect to take the property directed to be converted in its actual state; and such election will be implied from his acts.(t) The beneficiaries, if more than one, must all be sui juris and absolutely entitled. Even then they may only require the land to be conveyed to not more than four of them on trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 3 (1) (ii), proviso, 36; T. Act, 1925, s. 34 (2). But a partition can be effected by trustees for sale when the shares have become absolutely vested: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28 (3) (4) (5). A trust for sale of land will, in favour of a purchaser, remain on foot till the land is conveyed to or by the direction of the persons interested: ib., s. 23. This does not prevent a surviving trustee for sale solely interested from dealing with the land as if there were no trust for sale: L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926 (amending L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36). Nor does it free trustees for sale from the obligation to give effect to the directions of the persons interested in the proceeds of sale: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 3, 26 (3), as amended.

Partition by trustees for sale.

Duration of of trusts for sale.

As to interests not disposed of in regard to proceeds of sale of land.

When real estate is directed to be converted, and the whole of the proceeds of sale are not absolutely disposed of, or the disposition thereof wholly or partially fails by lapse or otherwise, the person who would have been entitled thereto but for the direction to convert is not thereby deprived of his rights unless the whole beneficial interest in the proceeds of sale is in the event absolutely disposed of. So far, therefore, as the beneficial interest is either directly or indirectly undisposed of, or becomes so by subsequent events, the interest undisposed of under the old law belonged to the heir and not to the next-of-kin.(u) This distinction will in nearly all cases be immaterial where the death occurs after 1925: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 46. Under the old law, if, after the failure of the disposition, the heir died, his personal representatives and not his heir were entitled to the undisposed of proceeds: Wilson v. Coles (1860), 28 Beav. 215. The principle was clear: the trust for conversion was created for the benefit (u) Ackroyd v. Smithson (1780), 1 Bro. C. C. 503; 1 Wh. & T., 8th ed., 394, and cases there cited. If, however, real estate was settled by deed upon trust to sell for certain specified purposes, and any of those purposes failed then, whether the trust for sale was to arise in the lifetime of the settlor, or after his death, the property to that extent resulted to the settlor as personalty from the moment the deed was executed: Clarke v. Franklin (1858), 4 K. & J. 257; 27 L. of the legatees, and not for the next-of-kin, so that there was no ground for depriving the heir of the undisposed of interest simply because, under the trust for the particular purposes of the Will, a sale took place.

Order for sale.

An order for sale in an administration action converted real estate into personal estate from the date of the order.(v)

Permissive waste.

A tenant for life of freeholds or leaseholds is not liable to the remainderman for permissive waste.(w) If, however, the property is vested in trustees (after 1925 it will be vested in trustees), it is their duty (in the interest of all their beneficiaries) to see that it does not fall into decay for want of proper repairs, and the usual course is for them to apply to the court for directions. On such an application the court will direct the money to be raised in such a way as will apportion the burden fairly between the tenant for life and remainderman.(x) This doctrine does not apply where the trustees are bare trustees with no duties to perform: Re Willis [1902], 1 Ch. 15; 71 L. J. Ch. 73.

Repairs under direction of court.

Application out of capital repayable by instalments.

In view of the wide powers to effect improvements out of capital (S. L. Act, 1925, 3rd Sch.), and if necessary to raise the money by mortgage: ib., s. 71 (1) (ii); there will not be many cases where the expenditure should be borne partly out of capital and partly out of income which cannot properly be treated as improvements, payable in the first instance out of capital, to be replaced by instalments where so provided by ib., s. 84; 3rd Sch., Pts. Trustees of leaseholds should repair.

SECT. IX.—In what cases precatory words in a Will, or instructions by parol, or an unattested writing, create a trust.(z)

When precatory words create a trust.

A gift of property is sometimes accompanied by what are called precatory words, i.e., words of recommendation or desire or confidence, that the devisee or legatee will dispose of the property for the benefit of some other person; in such cases the question arises whether a trust is created. In considering whether a precatory trust is attached to any legacy, the court will be guided by the intention of the testator, and not by any particular words in which the wishes of the testator are expressed.(a) Reported cases are of little value; "the whole Will must be looked at; and unless it appears from the whole Will that an obligation was intended, no obligation will be held to exist; moreover, in some of the older cases obligations were inferred from language which in modern times would be thought insufficient to justify such an inference": Per Lindley, L.J., in Re Williams [1897], 2 Ch. at p. 18.

Verbal or written instructions create a trust, if assented to by legatee.

If a testator, either verbally or by an unattested writing, communicates to a devisee or legatee his wishes that the latter shall dispose of the property given to him in a particular manner, and the devisee or legatee promises to comply with those wishes, or by his silence leaves the testator to suppose that he intends to do so, the court will compel him to perform the promise or understanding on the faith of which he has acquired the property: Re Gardner [1920], 2 Ch. 523; 89 L. J. Ch. 649. But instructions contained in an unattested writing, which is not communicated to the devisee or legatee until after the testator's death, impose no obligation.(b)

Secret trusts.

Where a gift is made to joint tenants, A. and B., on a secret trust, which is communicated to A. but not to B., both will be bound by the trust if the promise of A. to carry out the trust was made before the Will; but if A.'s promise was entered into subsequently to the making of the Will, then B. is not bound by it, and takes beneficially: Re Stead [1900], 1 Ch. 237; 69 L. J. Ch. 49.

Protection of purchasers without notice of trust.

As to the protection of a purchaser of a legal estate without notice of a trust where the legal estate has been divested by L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II, see amendment of para. 3 in the Sch. to the L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926.

Rule applies whether Will refers to undisclosed trust or not.

The above rule applies where the gift to the devisee or legatee is on the face of the Will for his own benefit, and also where the Will refers to an undisclosed trust,(c) but in the latter case disclosure to one of the two legatees is sufficient: Re Gardom [1914], 1 Ch. 662; 83 L. J. Ch. 681.

Gift to a trustee on undisclosed trust lapses in equity.

If it appears on the face of a Will that A., a devisee or legatee, is to hold the property given to him as a trustee, but the trust is not disclosed except by an unattested memorandum not communicated to A. until after the testator's death, the beneficial interest in the property will be treated as undisposed of, and will fall into residue, or devolve as in the case of a lapsed gift.(d)

SECT. X.—The liability of the property of a deceased person to the payment of his debts, and the duties and liabilities of the personal representatives in respect thereof.

Devolution on death of real and personal estate.

All the personal estate (other than leaseholds after 1925) of a deceased person devolves on the personal representatives under the general law. All the real estate, including leaseholds, devolve on a death after 1925 on the personal representatives under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, ss. 1–3 (Pt. I). This Part of the Act does not affect any rule as to administration of assets.

Payment of mortgage debts.

Under s. 35 (replacing and extending the principle of the Real Estate Charges Acts) a legal or equitable mortgage debt (including a lien for unpaid purchase-money) will, unless a testator expressly directs to the contrary, be borne primarily by the property (not merely land) charged therewith.

Order of application of assets where estate is solvent.

Subject to this and to any directions contained in the Will the real and personal property of a person dying solvent is applicable for the discharge of the funeral, testamentary, and administration expenses and debts (s. 34 (3)) in the order named in Pt. II of the 1st Sch., namely :—

(1) Undisposed of property, subject to setting aside a legacy fund.

(2) Property not specifically devised or bequeathed (included in a residuary gift), subject to setting aside a legacy fund not provided for as above.

(3) Property specifically appropriated or disposed of as a fund for payment of debts.

(4) Property charged with or disposed of subject to a charge for debts.

(5) The legacy fund, if any.

(6) Property specifically disposed of, rateably.

(7) Property appointed by Will under a general power, including the power to dispose of entailed interests, rateably.

(8)—(a) The order may be varied by the Will.

(b) Pt. II of the Sch. does not affect the liability of land to answer death duty imposed thereon in exoneration of other assets.

Administration of insolvent estates.

On the other hand, if the estate of the deceased is insolvent, the real and personal estate is administered (1st Sch., Pt. I) in the following order :—

(1) The funeral, testamentary, and administration expenses have priority.

(2) Subject to that the bankruptcy rules apply : see Bkcy. Act, 1914, s. 130.(dd) The Crown is bound and does not obtain any special priority : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 57.

Right of retainer and to give preference.

The right of retainer and to prefer creditors applies to all the assets, but the right of retainer only applies to debts owing to the personal representative in his own right : ib., s. 34 (2) ; hence he cannot, for instance, retain a debt owing to him as a trustee of a settlement.

(dd) Revived by Expiring Laws Continuance Act, 1926.

Debts include future liabilities.

The debts of a deceased person include all liabilities which may result out of obligations entered into by him in his lifetime, e.g., the liability to pay the rents and perform the covenants in a lease,(e) or liability for subsidence from mining.

Assignment by legatee valid against debts.

An assignment for valuable consideration by a legatee of personal estate with the assent of the executor is valid against any debts of the testator remaining unpaid.(f)

Not liable in respect of rent and covenants in lease or fee farm grant in certain cases.

The T. Act, 1925, s. 26 (as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926), provides in effect that a personal representative or trustee who has assigned leaseholds or land affected by a rentcharge to a purchaser or other person entitled, and has distributed the residuary estate or trust estate among the persons entitled thereto, shall not be personally liable in respect of any subsequent claims under the lease or grant for rent or breach of covenants. Under the section it is necessary to set aside a sum to answer a future claim in respect of any fixed and ascertained sum agreed to be laid out on the property. The lessor or grantor may follow the residuary estate or trust estate into the hands of the persons among whom it may have been distributed. The section applies to any indemnity which may have been given in respect of any such rent or covenant. This section does not apply where money is paid to an assignee of onerous leaseholds to take an assignment: Re Lawley [1911], 2 Ch. 530; 81 L. J. Ch. 97.

Ascertained liability.

Power to distribute without liability to creditors who do not give notice after advertisement.

Under T. Act, 1925, s. 27 (as amended), a personal representative or trustee who has advertised for creditors to send in their claims in the manner required by that section may distribute the property to which the notice relates, among the persons entitled thereto, having regard to the claims of which he has had notice at the time of distribution, and will not be liable for the assets to any creditor of whose claim he had not notice. As the section now extends to trustees and to property generally, the notices prescribed by the section are rather more extensive than those required under the L. P. Act, 1859, s. 29, which is repealed. Not less than two months must be allowed for claims. The section does not prevent the claimants from following the property save as against a purchaser. The trustee or personal representative must see that the usual searches which a purchaser would have made are carried out, namely, against the testator, intestate or settlor, and the persons deriving title under him. They cannot shut their eyes to matters which would have affected a purchaser, but such searches will seldom be required, the facts will generally be known to the representatives, who must see that the assent or conveyance is made to the proper person.

Effect of Pt. I of the Ad. of E. Act, 1925.

Part I of the Ad. of E. Act, 1925 (taking the place of ss. 1 and 2 of the L. T. Act, 1897), vests the real estate and chattels real of a person dying after 1925 in his personal representatives, and confers and imposes on them the same powers and duties in regard to the real estate and chattels real as formerly applied to chattels real; for instance, the survivors or a sole representative can act. But where there are two or more representatives they must (save in the case of separate representation to trust estates) all act.

Proving executors.

Proving executors can act alone, meeting the decision in Re Pawley [1900], 1 Ch. 58; 69 L. J. Ch. 6, in accordance with Conv. Act, 1911, s. 12, now repealed.

Personal representatives are not trustees for all purposes.

It is a mistake to suppose that the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, converts the personal representatives into trustees for the persons interested so as to fetter their powers to act in place of the testator or intestate. The vesting in the representatives does not affect the beneficial interest under any testamentary disposition or the mode of dealing with beneficial interests or the right of persons claiming to be interested to take proceedings for the protection or recovery thereof: s. 2 (3). Again, though under s. 33 a trust for sale is imposed in regard to the real and personal estate of a person dying intestate, this is an administrative matter, it operates to vary the duties of personal representatives as such; for certain purposes no doubt they are and always have been trustees, but they retain their rights as representatives till an assent or conveyance is made or new or additional trustees are appointed. See also s. 49 (b).

Powers of personal representatives.

For the purposes of administration, or during a minority or the subsistence of any life interest or until the period of distribution arrives, they have all the powers which personal representatives had before 1926 with respect to personal estate; in addition, they have all the powers, including the over-reaching powers of trustees for sale. These include all the powers of a tenant for life: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28, as amended. A purchaser, for money's worth, is not concerned even if he has notice that all the debts, duties and legacies have been paid: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (8); the representatives may be managing the land during a minority, or the persons entitled to an assent may be satisfied that the personal representatives should retain control. As to settled land vested in personal representatives: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 110 (3).

Trustee for sale with over-reaching powers.

Without the appointment of a trust corporation or the approval by the court under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 2 (2) as amended, trustees for sale (formerly S. L. Act trustees) who take the land under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 36 (trust for sale arising by reason of undivided shares) can over-reach the family charges created by the settlement in priority to the trust for sale: ib.; similarly trustees for sale taking under L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. IV, can over-reach the interests, &c., under a settlement which had priority to the interests of the persons entitled to the undivided shares: L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, amending para. 1 (3). Any other trustees for sale can obtain over-reaching powers under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 2 (2). Personal representatives are expressly given the over-reaching powers by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39, without obtaining any order of the court.

When they become trustees.

If personal representatives assent in writing to land vesting in themselves as trustees for sale, or as statutory owners (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 8), they become trustees. In the meantime they can, before giving an assent, permit the beneficiaries to take possession: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 43. This does not affect the rights of the representatives to convey as if they were in possession: ib.

Letting beneficiaries into possession.

Rights against personal representatives.

The rights of persons claiming against the representatives to have possession, a receiver, an assent, conveyance, or to be registered as proprietor, are regulated by ib., s. 43 (2). That section applies whether the testator or intestate dies before 1926 or after 1925.

Raising money to pay debts, &c.

The personal representatives are the persons to raise money for payment of debts, &c.: ib., s. 39 (1). See also T. Act, 1925, ss. 16, 17, which apply as well to personal representatives as to trustees: ib., ss. 68 (17), 69 (1).

Effect of charge of debts.

Though the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, renders unnecessary (g) an express charge of debts on real estate (including enfranchised land and leaseholds), it does not affect the application of the doctrine of marshalling in favour of pecuniary legatees where land is devised subject to an express charge of debts, and the residuary estate is exhausted in paying debts: Re Kempster

(g) See Re Cavendish and Arnold (1912), 56 Sol. J. 468; cf. Re Wicksteed [1921], 2 Ch., at p. 188.

[1906], 1 Ch. 446; 75 L. J. Ch. 286. Marshalling is expressly preserved by s. 2 (3) (a), while a charge for debts alters the order for administration prescribed by 1st Sch., Pt. II: see paras. 3 and 4. The Act does not render nugatory a charge of debts on real estate which brings the debts within the R. P. Lim. Act, 1874: Re Balls [1909], 1 Ch. 791; 78 L. J. Ch. 341.

Assents by personal representatives.

Assents in writing after 1925 are the normal modes of assurance by personal representatives in regard to interests in land (not mortgage debts): Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36; S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 6, 8; save where the personal representatives are themselves selling, exchanging, mortgaging, or leasing the land. Assents are available for giving effect to the right of a purchaser who has acquired an equitable interest in land (not in a mortgage debt) from a beneficiary claiming under a Will or an intestacy. They are applicable though the testator or intestate may have died before 1926: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (12). Thus, if an heir has become entitled before 1926, the representatives may assent to the legal estate in the land vesting in him, a conveyance is no longer requisite. Again, if an appropriation is made under s. 41 or under an express power, legal effect can be given thereto by an assent in writing. An assent may be made in favour of a person deriving title under the original claimant.

Settled land.

If the land is or becomes settled land, the assent will take the form of a vesting assent: S. L. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Form No. 5; thus, if land has become vested in a tenant for life under L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II, para. 5, on his death the legal estate will (whether or not a vesting deed has been made in his favour under S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 1) vest in his special personal representatives, who will generally be the S. L. Act trustees: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, ss. 23–24; Jud. Act, 1925, s. 162.(gg) These representatives will, after satisfying themselves as to death duties and clearing any family charges which have become raisable, assent to the legal estate passing to the person next entitled. If that person is a tenant for life or statutory owner, the assent will name S. L. Act trustees and generally comply with the provisions affecting vesting assents. On the other hand, if he is absolutely entitled free from family charges, the assent will be absolute: see L. P. Act, 1925, 5th Sch., Form

(gg) If the trustees renounce (as they should do, e.g., where the land is appointed under a general power on trust for sale), the settled land will be included in the grant to the general executors: see Non-Contentious Probate Rules, 1925, r. 118.

No. 8. Or, if the persons entitled are trustees for sale (e.g., under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 36), then the assent will declare a trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, 5th Sch., Form No. 9. If there is an express power to appoint new trustees for sale, then this power should be set out in the assent on trust for sale: see T. Act, 1925, s. 35; for to comply with that section a separate deed should be used when new trustees of the assent are appointed. This deed should be distinct from the appointment of new trustees of the instrument declaring the trusts of the proceeds of sale. If, however, the trusts of the proceeds are declared by the same instrument as that under which the trust for sale takes effect, then, as under the old practice when this occurred, nothing is gained by having two appointments of new trustees.

Land held as trust for sale.

If a testator devises his land on trust for sale and the assent is made after 1925, it is not the Will under which the trust for sale takes effect, but the assent. The Will, as such, does not come on the title to the legal estate, it takes effect in equity: L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1924, 9th Sch., para. 3. The probate, plus the assent on trust for sale, are the documents to be produced to a purchaser.

Devise on trust for sale.

As to the endorsements to be made on probates and letters of administration of notices of assents: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (5) to (7). This section effectually keeps the trusts off the title to the land.

Endorsements.

An assent does not, except in favour of a purchaser for money's worth, affect the right to recover the estate to which the assent relates or to be indemnified by such estate against duties or other liabilities: ib., s. 36 (9); further, the personal representative may require security to be given for the discharge of duties or liabilities: ib., s. 36 (10). In these circumstances the special power conferred by S. L. Act, 1925, s. 8 (6), to convey subject to the reservation of a term of years on trusts for creating an indemnity against duties will seldom, if ever, be required by a personal representative.

Rights to indemnity for duties and liabilities.

An assent, if not under seal, does not require a stamp.(h)

Stamp.

A devise or trust for the payment of debts raises no trust for the payment of those debts which have been barred by the Limitation Acts before the death of the testator: Burke v. Jones (1813), 2 Ves. & B. 275; if the time allowed by the statute has not run out at the testator's death, such a devise or trust will Devise for the payment of debts as to a statute barred debt.

not prevent the statute from running in equity after the death of the testator either as to real (i) or personal estate.(j)

Retainer.

A creditor who is an undischarged bankrupt and to whom letters of administration are granted cannot retain his debt. His trustee in bankruptcy is entitled to it: Wilson v. W. [1911], 1 K. B. 327; 80 L. J. K. B. 296. See now as to retainer: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 34 (2).

SECT. XI.—Provisions as to number of Personal Representatives, &c.

Not more than four.

Under s. 160 of the Jud. Act, 1925 (replacing Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 12), probate or administration will not be granted to more than four persons in respect of the same property; as regards trustees compare T. Act, 1925, ss. 34 and 36.

Not less than two administrators; when.

If there is a minority or if a life interest arises under a Will or an intestacy, administration will be granted either to a trust corporation (with or without an individual) or to not less than two individuals: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 160 (1); but where the estate is insolvent the court will make the grant to a creditor: s. 162 (1); Re Herbert [1926], P. 109.

It is conceived that if the spouse of an intestate takes the personal chattels and the rest of the estate does not exceed £1,000 there is no life interest in "subsistence," hence the possibility that further property, not anticipated, may pass under the intestacy so as to bring the figure above £1,000 is not sufficient to justify the probate authorities in refusing to grant administration to a single individual: see the word "subsistence" in sub-s. (2).

Probate may be granted to a sole executor.

There is nothing to prevent probate being granted to a sole executor, nor to prevent a sole executor from giving valid receipts: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 27 (2); cf. T. Act, 1925, ss. 14 and 15.

Power to appoint an additional representative.

If there is only one personal representative (i.e., an executor or administrator) not being a trust corporation, then during the minority of a beneficiary or the subsistence of a life interest the court may appoint an additional personal representative: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 160 (2).

That section applies to grants made after 1925 whether the testator or intestate dies before or after 1st January, 1926.

(i) R. P. Lim. Act, 1874, s. 10; and see Williams v. W. [1900], 1 Ch. 152; 69 L. J. Ch. 77.

Discretion as to administration.

In granting administration to estates of persons dying after 1925 regard will be had to the rights of the persons interested in the estate of the deceased or in the proceeds of sale thereof (see Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33, imposing a trust for sale for administration purposes in regard to the whole or part undisposed of); administration with the Will annexed may be granted to a devisee or legatee, and in regard to land settled previously to the death of the deceased and not by his Will, may be granted to the S. L. Act trustees, and any such administration may be limited in any way the court thinks fit: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 162 (1).

Special executors as respects settled land.

If the testator makes a Will, though he may die wholly or partially intestate, he will be deemed to have appointed as his special executors in regard to land vested in him which was settled previously to his death, the persons (if any) who were at his death the S. L. Act trustees, and probate may be granted to them specially limited to the settled land: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 22 (1), but see Re Herbert, supra.

Administration bonds.

No administration bond is required in the case of executors; as to administration bonds generally: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 167.

Sureties.

Under Non-Contentious Probate Rules, 1925, r. 114, sureties are not required when the grant is made to a trust corporation; where made to two or more individuals (e.g., to S. L. Act trustees), the Registrar has a discretion: ib., r. 39.

Persons interested in residuary estate of intestate.

Under Jud. Act, 1925, s. 162 (1) proviso, where the deceased dies wholly intestate, administration will, save where the estate is insolvent or in special cases, be granted to one or more of the persons interested in the "residuary estate" (see Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33 (4); it does not appear to be defined in Jud. Act, 1925, s. 175), and as regards land settled previously to the death to the S. L. Act trustees, if willing to act.

Settled land.

Land ceasing to be settled land.

If the land ceases on the death to be "settled land" it may still be expedient that the S. L. Act trustees should be given the grant, though this may not be essential; they may renounce, in which case the land will not be excepted out of the general grant.

Grant given to persons who are not S. L. Act trustees.

Where the grant is made to persons who are not S. L. Act trustees, then if the land remains settled land (see the words "Upon trust to convey the land to . . . the tenant for life or statutory owner" which would not be applicable if the land had ceased to be settled land) this can be rectified under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 23, provided the trustees are willing to act, as no doubt would be the case, as the land ex hypothesi remains settled land.

Separate representation for settled land and other property.

Under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 22 (2), a testator may appoint other persons, with or without the S. L. Act trustees, to be his general executors in regard to his other property. The special personal representatives may dispose of the settled land without the concurrence of the general representatives, while the latter may dispose of the other property without the concurrence of the special representatives: ib., s. 24.

Separate representation for real and personal estate and for trust estate.

Under Jud. Act, 1925, s. 155 (reproducing Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 13), representation may be granted in respect of the real estate (which includes leaseholds) separately or together with the personal estate, and may be granted in respect of real estate only where there is no personal estate, or in respect of a trust estate (which would include land settled before the death) only, and a grant of administration to real estate may be limited in any way thought fit. If, however, the estate is insolvent, representation will not be severed except as regards a trust estate.

Insolvent estate.

Dispensing with probate or administration, as respects pure personalty.

Representation may still be dispensed with in the case of personal estate, not including chattels real: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 53 (2). It cannot be dispensed with in regard to land, whether freehold or leasehold, for the probate or administration is an essential link in the title to the legal estate.

One year for distribution.

Subject to the rights conferred by Pt. III of the Act (see in particular s. 43 (2)) a personal representative may postpone distribution for one year from the death: s. 44.

SECT. XII.—The administration and distribution of the real and personal estate of an intestate, and the rights of the Crown where the intestate leaves no statutory next-of-kin.

Old law as to distribution.

The old law as to distribution on an intestacy is discussed in the 21st ed., vol. II, pp. 813 to 817.

Trust for sale.

Where a person dies intestate after 1925, as to any real or personal estate it will be held on trust for sale: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33, and the powers of trustees for sale will be exercisable by the personal representatives without prejudice to their rights and powers for purposes of administration: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 33, see also Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39.

Under s. 33 (2) the net proceeds with any ready money undisposed of will be applied in discharging liabilities in accordance with the new rules (see 1st Sch.) of administration.

Power to invest.

Pending distribution the residue may be invested in investments authorised by statute (see T. Act, 1925, Pt. I) for the investment of trust money, with power to vary. So far as the money arises from the sale of land it may be re-invested in the purchase of land to be conveyed on trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28 (1); S. L. Act, 1925, s. 73 (1) (x).

" Residuary estate of the intestate."

The residue not required for administration purposes, and the investments representing it, is defined as " the residuary estate of the intestate": Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33 (4).

Application of income.

The income, however invested, may, from the death, be treated and applied as income, hence the rule in Howe v. E. of Dartmouth (1802), 7 Ves. 137, does not apply, but any necessary apportionment may be made between tenant for life and remainderman, so that, when necessary, the principles in Allhusen v. Whittell (1867), L. R. 4 Eq. 295; 36 L. J. Ch. 929, may be made use of.

The section does not affect the right of creditors nor the rights of the Crown in respect of death duties.

Abolition of rules of descent.

The old rules of descent, &c., are abolished by s. 45 as well as escheat for want of heirs, but the section does not affect the devolution of entailed interests, as to which see L. P. Act, 1925, s. 130.

New law of succession.

Subject only to the exceptions in Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 51 (Lunatics of full age on 1st January, 1926, and an infant dying unmarried after 1925, who in certain cases is deemed to have had an entailed interest), and to certain rights of the Crown reserved by s. 57, the new law as to succession on an intestacy is governed by ss. 46 and 47.

Rights of the spouse.

Under s. 46 (1) the surviving spouse takes the " personal chattels" (defined s. 55 (1) (x)) absolutely and a first charge of £1,000 free of duties and costs on the remainder of the residuary estate, with interest at £5 per cent. from the death till paid or appropriated.

If the intestate " leaves no issue" (see s. 47 (2) (b)) the spouse takes a life interest in the balance after deducting the chattels and the £1,000 charge. This life interest may be redeemed and the £1,000 charge may be raised under s. 48.

If the intestate leaves issue (see s. 47 (2) (c)) the spouse takes a life interest in a moiety of the balance. But if the trusts for issue fail in the lifetime of the spouse, then the spouse takes a life interest in the whole.

On failure of the trusts for the other statutory next-of-kin, the spouse will under the 6th trust in para. (v) take absolutely.

Rights of the issue.

If there is a surviving spouse, the issue take subject to the gift of chattels, the charge for £1,000 and the life interest in a moiety above mentioned.

"Statutory trusts" in relation to an intestate's estate.

The other moiety is held on the "statutory trusts" for the issue. These trusts are defined in s. 47 (1). Under them the children who attain twenty-one or marry take, and if more than one equally. The issue of a child who predeceases the intestate take the share their parent would have taken if surviving the intestate. The issue take per stirpes through all degrees at twenty-one or marriage. The statutory power of advancement (T. Act, 1925, s. 32) is applicable, so are the provisions (ib., s. 31) for maintenance and accumulation of surplus income. When an infant marries he can give valid receipts for income, including statutory accumulations of income during the minority: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 21. Where two or more take, a child must bring into account property advanced by the intestate or settled on the marriage of the child by the intestate, at a valuation. The personal representatives may permit an infant contingently interested to have the use of any "personal chattels," that is assuming that there is no surviving spouse to take them absolutely.

If no spouse survives, then the issue of the intestate take the whole of the "residuary estate" not otherwise disposed of on the "statutory trusts."

On the death of a surviving spouse the moiety in which that spouse had a life interest is released and the issue take it under the "statutory trusts."

Rights of father and mother.

If the issue fail, then, subject to the rights of a surviving spouse, if any, the father and mother of the intestate take, and if both survive the intestate, equally.

Brothers and sisters of the whole blood and their issue.

If the issue and parents fail, then subject to the rights of a surviving spouse, the brothers and sisters of the whole blood and their issue by substitution, take under the "statutory trusts," but, save in the case of issue of the intestate, no property advanced or settled has to be brought into account: s. 47 (3).

The like of the half blood.

The second trust in para. (v) of s. 46 (1) provides similarly for the brothers and sisters of the half blood and their issue.

Grand-parents.

Next come the grand-parents; if more than one survive the intestate, they take equally.

Uncles and aunts of the whole blood and their issue.

The fourth trust is for the uncles and aunts of the whole blood and their issue through all degrees.

The like for those of the half blood.

The fifth is for the uncles and aunts (brothers and sisters of the half blood of a parent of the intestate) and their issue similarly.

Spouse absolutely.

Failing the above trusts, the surviving spouse, if any, of the intestate, takes absolutely.

It will be noticed that (though provided for in the Bill for the Act) great grand-parents, great uncles and aunts, and second cousins, are ruled out. The reason is that the cost of furnishing evidence of such kinship is generally so heavy that it is better to allow the Crown a discretion.

The rights of the Crown.

Failing the above trusts, the residuary estate goes to the Crown as bona vacantia. But the Crown, or the Duchy of Lancaster, or Duke of Cornwall (as the case may require), without prejudice to their statutory or other powers, may, out of the whole or any part of the property, provide, in accordance with the existing practice, for dependants, whether kindred or not, of the intestate and other persons, for whom the intestate might reasonably have been expected to make provision. Thus it is open for the Crown to provide for a mistress of the deceased and her children by him, or for any employee.

Provision for dependants, &c.

Husband and wife treated as two persons.

For the purposes of the new law of succession, a husband and wife are treated as two persons: see also L. P. Act, 1925, s. 37, under which, for the purpose of acquiring any interest in property under a disposition coming into operation after 1925, they are also treated as two persons.

Partial intestacies.

Partial intestacies are dealt with by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 49; property given by the Will to the issue of the deceased will be brought into account, but not property given to other persons. Subject to their rights and powers for purposes of administration, personal representatives are trustees for the new statutory next-of-kin in regard to property undisposed of, unless it appears by the Will that they are to take beneficially.

Personal representatives, extent of trusteeship.

Old law as to advancements.

The old authorities as to what gifts were to be treated as advancements may be material in ascertaining what property should be brought into account by the issue of the intestate. Thus an advancement by portion within the 3rd section of the Statute of Distribution included a sum given by a parent to establish a child in life or to make a provision for such child, as, e.g., on marriage, or by buying an outfit for a son going into the army, or by buying a goodwill of a business, or by paying a son's admission fee to an Inn of Court, or the premium and stamp on his being articled to a solicitor. On the other hand, mere annual payments were not treated as advancements, e.g., the payment of a fee to counsel in the case of a son going to the Bar, or the price of outfit and passage-money of an officer in the army going out to India with his regiment.(k) A sum of money given by a father to a son, to enable him to pay debts, was not necessarily an advancement to the son by way of portion, but might be regarded as a temporary assistance.(l)

Distribution of moveable property is according to law of domicile.

Moveable property, wherever locally situated, is distributed according to the law of the place where the intestate was domiciled at his death, but for this purpose a chattel interest in land is not regarded as moveable.

Crown's right to representation.

Part I of the L. T. Act, 1897, did not bind the Crown: In b. Hartley [1899], P. 40; 68 L. J. P. 16; but the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, does so, see s. 57. Accordingly, s. 30 provides for administration being granted to the Treasury Solicitor (see also s. 55 (1) (xxv)) or other nominee in regard to real estate as well as personal estate; no statement on oath is required in such cases.

Legitimacy Bill.

If the Legitimacy Bill now before Parliament becomes law, it must be borne in mind that, as respects the distribution of an estate of a person dying intestate after 1926, new claimants may arise.

SECT. XIII.—Probate and administration.

Old law.

Under the Court of Probate Act, 1857, a Will of personal estate only had to be proved, or if the owner had died intestate administration to his effects had to be taken out in the Probate Division, either in the principal registry, or in the registry of the district in which the testator or intestate had a fixed place of abode at his death: s. 46. The Intestates Acts, 1873 and 1875, provided that where an intestate's estate does not exceed £100, the widow or children of the intestate, if residing more than three miles from the Probate District Registry, may apply to the Registrar of the County Court, and obtain letters of administration through him.

Probate, &c., also necessary as regards real estate after 1897.

By Pt. I of the L. T. Act, 1897, real estate was placed on the same footing as chattels real, as regards the necessity for probate or letters of administration, where the owner had died after 1897, but for this purpose "real estate" did not include land of copyhold tenure, or customary freeholds, in any case in which an admission or any act by the lord was necessary to perfect the title of a purchaser from the customary tenant, but equitable interests in copyholds devolved on the personal representatives: Re Somerville and Turner [1903], 2 Ch. 583; 72 L. J. Ch. 727. Probate was not granted to the devisee of the whole estate, but letters of administration with the Will annexed had to be taken out in the usual way: Re Pryse [1904], P. 301; 73 L. J. P. 84. Real estate was liable in the same way as personal estate for the costs of a probate action: Re Vickerstaff [1906], 1 Ch. 762; 75 L. J. Ch. 419; but costs exclusively occasioned by the administration of real estate had to be borne by the real estate.(m) In cases not coming within the L. T. Act, 1897, the probate of a Will might be produced in court to establish a devise of real estate upon certain conditions: Court of Probate Act, 1857, ss. 61–63.

Old law.

The Ad. of E. Act, 1925, in regard to deaths after 1925, is wider in scope than the L. T. Act, 1897, for as there are no copyholds, all land whether freehold or leasehold will vest in the personal representatives. The Act places leaseholds on the same footing as freeholds and extends to trust and mortgage estates, which were formerly dealt with by Conv. Act, 1881, s. 30, as amended.

Ad. of E. Act, 1925, wider in scope.

In some cases probate or administration may be dispensed with in regard to pure personalty, but after 1925 there is no dispensing power if the testator or intestate had land whether freehold or leasehold: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 53 (2).

Representation dispensed with, when.

If a sole or surviving executor, who has proved, dies, having himself by Will appointed an executor, the latter becomes an executor of the original testator; if the first executor dies intestate, or without having proved the Will, his representative does not represent the original testator, but letters of administration de bonis non with the Will annexed of the original testator must be taken out. In like manner, if A. dies intestate, and B. takes out letters of administration to his estate and afterwards dies, the executor or administrator of B. does not represent A., but new letters of administration de bonis non of A. must be taken out.

Transmission of representation.

If two or more persons are appointed executors and all prove the Will, the representation passes to the executor of the last survivor.

(m) Re Jones [1902], 1 Ch. 92; 71 L. J. Ch. 6; Re Betts [1907], 2 Ch. 149; 76 L. J. Ch. 463.

The statute law on this subject is now set out in Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 7.

Effect of renunciation by executor.

If an executor renounces probate of a Will, or dies without having taken probate, or does not appear on a citation to take probate, the right of such person in respect of the executorship ceases: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 5. The representation to the testator and the administration of his effects devolves and will be committed in like manner as if such person had not been appointed executor. But the court will in some cases allow a renunciation to be retracted: In b. Stiles [1898], P. 12; 67 L. J. P. 23; in this case a memorandum of the subsequent probate must be endorsed on the original probate or administration; the new grant will take effect without prejudice to previous dealings, notices, &c.: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 6.

Probate of Will in exercise of power.

Probate is necessary of a Will made in execution of a power, but a Will merely appointing a guardian need not be proved: In b. Morton (1864), 3 Sw. & Tr. 422; 33 L. J. P. 87.

Public Trustee.

The court can appoint the Public Trustee to be administrator notwithstanding the existence of relations of the intestate. Security is not required from the Public Trustee when appointed: Non-Contentious Probate Rules, 1925, r. 114.

Administration bonds

As to administration bonds and for the power to dispense with sureties in proper cases, see Jud. Act, 1925, s. 167, and rules thereunder.

SECT. XIV.—Death Duties.

The death duties are (1) estate duty: See Webster-Brown, 4th ed., 1; (2) legacy duty: Dymond, 4th ed., 198; (3) succession duty.

Settlement Estate Duty was abolished by the Fin. Act, 1914, s. 14, but see Att.-Gen. v. Smith [1923], 2 K. B. 531; 92 L. J. K. B. 922.

Estate and Succession Duties.

Estate duty payable on all property passing on death at graduated rates.

The Acts imposing and regulating estate duty are the Fin. Acts, 1894, 1896, 1898, 1900, 1907; Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910; Fin. Act, 1912, s. 9; Fin. Act, 1914, ss. 12 to 16, and 18 and the 1st and 2nd Schs.; Death Duties (Killed in War) Act, 1914; The American Loan Act, 1915; Finance (No. 2) Act, 1915; Fin. Acts, 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919; War Loan Act, 1919; Fin. Acts, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925. Estate duty is payable upon the principal value of all property, real or personal, settled or not settled, which passes on the death of a person, at the following graduated rates: Fin. Act, 1894, s. 1; Fin. Act, 1925, s. 22; these rates are set out in the 4th Sch. to the Fin. Act, 1925.

The increases in the scale set out in the 4th Sch. to the Fin. Act, 1925, over that contained in the Fin. Act, 1919, do not affect purchasers or mortgagees, for value, of interests in expectancy within the meaning of Pt. I of the Fin. Act, 1894, provided the sale or mortgage was made before the 28th April, 1925.

Purchasers and mortgagees protected from increased rates.

In the case of a mortgage made before that date any higher duty payable by the mortgagor ranks as a charge subsequent to that of the mortgage: Fin. Act, 1925, s. 22.

Agricultural values.

Under s. 23 of the Fin. Act, 1925, estate duty payable in respect of agricultural property is chargeable on the agricultural value at the rate given in the Fin. Act, 1919.

Authorities on estate, succession and legacy duty.

The statutes and authorities relating to estate duty, succession duty and legacy duty will be found in Webster-Brown, 4th ed.

The statutes and authorities relating to succession duty will be found in Dymond, 4th ed., pp. 270, et seq., and 366, et seq.; these Acts have been amended by the Fin. Act, 1925, s. 24; those relating to legacy duty will be found in Dymond, pp. 198, 352; statutes and authorities relating to both duties from 1894 are also contained in Webster-Brown, 4th ed.

New points.

The following are some points which have arisen since the publication of the 21st edition of this work, in addition to the points already noted:—

Estate duty on timber.

Under the Fin. Act, 1912, s. 9 (which repeals the first paragraph of s. 61 (5) and s. 19 of the Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910), the value of timber, &c., is not to be taken into account in estimating the principal value of the estate or the rate of estate duty, but estate duty at the rate payable on the rest of the estate is to be paid on the net proceeds of sale of the timber when felled.

Estate and succession duties on heirlooms.

Where heirlooms and other property are subject to the same settlement, estate and succession duty payable in respect of the heirlooms may be paid out of capital money arising from such other property: Re E. of Egmont's S. E. [1912], 1 Ch. 251; 81 L. J. Ch. 250.

National, &c., interest.

Where heirlooms have been certified to be of national, scientific, historic or artistic interest under the Fin. Act, 1896, s. 20, as extended by Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 63, no part of the testator's estate need be set aside to provide for the duties arising on a sale of the heirlooms: Re Swaythling (1912), 57 Sol. J. 173.

Estate duty on goodwill in a partnership.

Estate duty was held not to be payable on the devolution under partnership articles of a share in a partnership where the beneficiaries undertook the obligations and covenants of the partnership: Att.-Gen. v. Boden [1912], 1 K. B. 539; 81 L. J. K. B. 704.

Estate duty on advowsons.

Estate duty is not payable in respect of an advowson sold by a tenant for life after the death of a previous tenant for life: Att.-Gen. v. Peek [1913], 2 K. B. 487; 82 L. J. K. B. 767.

Fin. Act, 1914, s. 13. Reduction of duties; small margins.

The full amount of estate duty, where the margin above the limit of each step is small, is reduced, so that the additional duty attributable to the higher rate is never to exceed the sum by which the estate exceeds the value on which the highest amount of duty would be so payable at the lower rate.

Example.

Thus on an estate of £12,500 duty is chargeable at the rate of 5 per cent.(n) =£625.

On any greater estate up to £15,000 duty is chargeable at 6 per cent.; therefore on an estate of £12,600 estate duty would, under the existing scale, amount to £900, i.e., £275 more than if the estate were only £12,500 in value.

The effect of the Fin. Act, 1914, s. 13, is to reduce the amount of estate duty payable in the above instance to £625 + £100 = £725.

Reduction of legacy and succession duty when estate duty paid.

A reduction is also made in the amount of legacy and succession duty payable on estates the net value of which is over £1,000 and on which estate duty is payable.

Estate duty payable though settlement estate duty has been paid.

Husband and wife, exemption.

The Fin. Act, 1914, s. 14, abolished the exemption from estate duty given by the Fin. Act, 1894, ss. 5 (2), 21 (1), 23 (16), except where the two deceased persons had been parties to a marriage; settlement estate duty was also abolished.

Property not passing to executors "as such."

Estate duty is a charge on property in respect of which it is payable where such property did not under the old law pass to the executors as such.(o)

Though by the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, ss. 1 and 3, land (including settled land) passes to personal representatives, this does not free the land from the charge: ib., s. 53 (3).

Allowances for and repayment of settlement estate duty.

Settlement estate duty, if already paid, in respect of property upon which ordinary estate duty becomes payable by reason of the Fin. Act, 1914, is allowed against ordinary estate duty upon the first occasion on which it is payable.

If the settlement estate duty exceeds the estate duty payable the excess will be refunded: Re Booth [1916], 1 Ch. 349; 85 L. J. Ch. 249.

Quick succession.

The Fin. Act, 1914, s. 15, gives relief from estate duty in the case of quick successions.

Securities duty free.

The Fin. (No. 2) Act, 1915, gives the Treasury power to issue securities free of taxation: s. 47.

It also abolished the necessity for re-sealing grants in the case of Government Stock: s. 48.

The Fin. Act, 1916, gives exemption from taxation to certain municipal securities issued in America: s. 63.

The Fin. Act, 1917, gives power to transfer war stock and bonds in satisfaction of death duties: s. 34.

Interest on arrears.

The Fin. Act, 1919, increases the rate of estate duty: s. 29. Interest on unpaid duty is increased to 4 per cent.

Gifts to National Gallery, &c.

The Fin. Act, 1921, s. 44, exempts from liability for death duty under the Fin. Act, 1894, s. 20, as amended by the Fin. (1909–10) Act, 1910, s. 63, the proceeds of sale of objects of national, &c., interest given to the National Gallery, British Museum, and certain other institutions.

Death duties (killed in war).

The relief from death duties of the estates of persons killed in war, given by the Fin. Act, 1900, s. 14, is considerably extended by the Death Duties (Killed in War) Act, 1914, and the Fin. (No. 2) Act, 1915, s. 46.

The Fin. Act, 1917, s. 29, gives remission of death duties in cases of members of crews of vessels killed in war.

The Fin. Act, 1919, s. 31, extends the period during which relief from death duties may be given.

The Fin. Act, 1921, s. 43, extends this exemption to the cases of persons killed during the disorder in Ireland.

Provisions applicable to the Death Duties generally.

Accounts to be delivered to Commissioners.

Personal representatives, trustees, tenants for life, and other persons accountable for death duties, see L. P. Act, 1925, s. 16, extending the class of persons accountable for duties affecting land,(p) are bound to present accounts with full particulars to the Commissioners, and are liable to penalties for not doing so: S. D. Act, 1853, ss. 45–49; Fin. Act, 1894, s. 8, sub-ss. (5), (6).

Receipts and certificates to be given by Commissioners for succession duty.

The Commissioners are bound to deliver stamped receipts for succession duty, and also a certificate of payment, to any person interested in the property affected by the duty who applies for them. Every receipt and certificate, purporting to be in discharge of the whole duty payable in respect of any succession or any part thereof, exonerates a purchaser in good faith for valuable consideration and without notice from such duty, notwithstanding any suppression or concealment in the account; no purchaser in good faith for valuable consideration under a title not appearing to confer a succession is subject to any duty to which such property may be chargeable by reason of any intrinsic circumstances of which he had not notice at the time of the purchase.(q)

Certificates of discharge of death duty.

The Commissioners, on being satisfied that the death duty has been or will be paid in respect of any property, are bound, if required by the person accounting for the duty, to give a certificate to that effect, which will discharge such property from any further claim for estate duty and will operate as an authority to cancel any land charge registered in respect of the duty: Fin. Act, 1894, s. 11; extended by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 16 (7).

Commissioners may accept compositions for duty.

The Commissioners may receive succession duty in advance and allow discount thereon, and they may, as regards interests in expectancy, and also in cases where difficulties arise from the complicated nature of the interest of the different persons or other causes, accept composition for any of the death duties.(r)

Capital money and personal estate settled with land.

Capital money settled with land, and personal estate settled on the same trusts as the proceeds of sale of land held on trust for sale may be applied in discharging the duties attributable to any interest in the land: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 18 (1).

Recoupment by persons liable.

When, independently of that sub-section it could not be so applied, it must be repaid with interest by the person liable; his interest in the settled property is charged with the repayment of the instalments and interest, and the trustees may recover any excess repayable by the Commissioners: ib., s. 18 (2).

Interest.

Arrears of death duties bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum: Fin. Act, 1896, s. 18; as amended by the Fin. Act, 1919, s. 30.

Liability to death duty to cease after a specified period.

No person can be made liable for payment of any death duty after the expiration of six years from the date of the settlement of the account in respect of which the duty is payable where such account was in all respects a fair and true account, and contained all the facts material to be known by the Commissioners for the ascertainment of the rate and amount of duty, and no trustee, or personal representative is, after the expiration of such six years, liable for such duty, if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that the account rendered was correct to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief: Cust. Act, 1889, s. 14; Fin. Act, 1894, s. 8 (2).

Purchasers and mortgagees of land exonerated after a specified period.

The claim of the Crown to succession duty or estate duty cannot be enforced against a purchaser or mortgagee of land after the expiration of six years after notice to the Commissioners of the fact that the succession has accrued, or from the date of the payment of the first instalment of duty, or, in the absence of any such notice or payment, after the expiration of twelve years from the happening of the event which gave rise to an immediate claim to duty: Cust. Act, 1889, s. 12; Fin. Act, 1894, s. 8 (2).

General protection of purchasers, &c., for money's worth.(s)

If the charge for duties attaches after 1925, a purchaser, mortgagee or lessee for money's worth of a legal estate is not affected by the charge unless it is protected by the registration of a land charge: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 17. The person who makes title and the proceeds remain liable for the duty: s. 17 (2).

On a sale, &c., all the duties become payable.

On a conveyance of a legal estate by way of sale, exchange or legal mortgage (this includes a charge by way of legal mortgage but not a mortgage by deposit) all the duties payable in respect of the land dealt with become immediately payable and carry interest at 4 per cent. from the date of the conveyance. But if larger duties are thereby paid than would have been recoverable had the payments by instalments continued, then the excess will be refunded: s. 17 (3).

Foreign property.

Moveable property situated abroad is not subject to estate duty if the deceased is domiciled abroad, unless the Will effects a disposition which would have attracted succession or legacy duty before the Fin. Act, 1894, e.g., a Will in English form with English trustees will attract duty on the death of the tenant for life, irrespective of the situation of the property or domicil of the beneficiaries: Re Cigala (1878), 7 Ch. D. 351; 47 L. J. Ch. 166; cf. A.-G. v. Johnson [1907], 2 K. B. 894; 76 L. J. K. B. 1150. As to situation of insurance policies, see New York, &c., Co. v. Public Trustee [1924], 2 Ch. 101; 93 L. J. Ch. 449; cf. Haas v. Atlas Co. [1913], 2 K. B. 209; 82 L. J. K. B. 506.

SECT. XV.—The Preparation of Wills.

Hints on drafting Wills.

The points to be attended to in the preparation of a draft Will are sufficiently indicated in the notes to the Forms and

(s) As to registered land, see L. R. Act, 1925, s. 73; and as to registration of Inland Revenue Charges: L. C. Act, 1925, s. 10, Class D (i).

Precedents which follow, but it cannot be too often repeated that, as the law at present stands, the preparation of a draft Will is one of the most difficult tasks which the draftsman has to encounter. Wills can be shortened, in some cases, by references to the Statutory Will Forms, 1925, prescribed by the Lord Chancellor under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 179, and printed on pp. 659, et seq., infra. No doubt if these forms are adopted widely in practice, further additions can be prescribed with a view to shortening Wills. When these forms are referred to, some short description should, for the guidance of the intending testator, be given of the effect of the form; the testator cannot be expected to possess a print of the forms, and will desire to know the nature of the machinery which he is incorporating in his Will, and may wish to see a print.

Statutory Will Forms, 1925.

Until a more generous use is made of the power to prescribe forms to which a testator may refer, the draftsman has either (except in simple cases) to decide to work out at some length the wishes of his testator, guarding against the various pitfalls and thereby producing a document which few testators can hope to understand, or to give everything to the executors and direct them to work out the scheme after the testator's death.

Wills made after 1925 can be shorter.

Independently of the use made of the Statutory Will Forms, drafts can be shorter after 1925 than under the old law, for the additional powers given by the T. Act, 1925, and the Ad. of E. Act, 1925, to trustees and personal representatives, and those given by the S. L. Act, 1925, to tenants for life and statutory owners, which are also made exercisable by trustees for sale (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28) and by personal representatives (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39) render unnecessary a considerable amount of machinery.

Whether realty or personalty forms are to be used.

Before 1926 the first matter was to decide whether the Will was to be a realty or personalty Will; if the property was to be enjoyed in succession by single owners, then the realty forms were employed; if the property was to be divided among one or more classes of persons, whether subject or not to a life interest, then the personalty forms were employed. Sometimes it was desired to settle the land strictly and to give the personalty among a class of persons. Usually, however, it was considered best to make the residuary personalty devolve with the land, and to provide for the younger children by means of a portions term.

To a large extent these considerations remain applicable after 1925, but further points become material. In the case of small estates, a trust for sale is preferable. Thus, if the management of land is to be vested in trustees, this can be done by means of a trust for sale, even though the property is to be settled in succession on single owners, for the power to entail personal estate in the same way as land (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 130) now renders this possible. By effecting a strict settlement in this way a succession of vesting instruments is rendered unnecessary; on the other hand, it will seldom be possible to obtain trustees who would be willing to take over the active management of a large estate, even though they can delegate (ss) the powers to lease and accept surrenders (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 29; these powers can be extended) to the tenant for life of the proceeds of sale. Moreover, tenants for life generally prefer to keep the powers in their own hands. It follows that, as a rule, estates of any size will generally be settled as land without the interposition of a trust for sale.

Strict settlement by trust for sale.

Realty Wills.

In realty Wills the freeholds and leaseholds should be directed to be held by the tenant for life or statutory owners on the requisite trusts; heirlooms should be given to trustees on corresponding trusts; personal estate can be directed to be held as capital money arising from the settled land: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 78; it is no longer necessary that it should be made liable to be laid out in the purchase of land to be conveyed and settled on the same trusts as the freeholds. It will generally be expedient that land should be devised to the person entitled to have a vesting assent made in his favour on the requisite trusts. If preferred, it can be devised to the executors on trust to execute the requisite vesting instruments. Whatever course is adopted a devise can only pass an equitable interest. Legacies and portions and the payment of debts and duties will be provided for by means of a term of years limited in trust for the trustees. Though the term will take effect in equity, it gives a better protection than a mere charge: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16, and see Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 40. Moreover, it furnishes useful machinery for showing the rights and priorities of the portioners. Annuities will be provided by limiting rentcharges in trust for the annuitants. Trustees (generally being the same persons as the executors) will be appointed for the purposes of the S. L. Act, 1925. Trustees so appointed will automatically have the powers of management conferred by S. L. Act, 1925, s. 102, which, as regards management, takes the place of Conv. Act, 1881, s. 42.

To whom land should be devised.

Maintenance and accumulation of surplus income.

Provision is made by T. Act, 1925, s. 31, for the maintenance of an infant and the accumulation of surplus income.

If the infant attains twenty-one or marries and his interest in the income is a vested interest, or if he on attaining twenty-one or on marriage becomes entitled to the property from which the income arose, either in fee simple (absolute or determinable), or absolutely, or for an entailed interest, the accumulations will (subject to any settlement made under the Infant Settlements Act) go to him absolutely, and he can give a receipt therefor. After his marriage he can give a receipt for income though still an infant: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 21.

Destination of accumulations.

In all other cases, though the infant may have had a vested interest, the accumulations will go with the capital of the property from which it arose; if the property is settled land it will go as capital money arising therefrom. Thus, after 1925, it is unnecessary to give any express directions as to the destination of accumulations.

Contingent interests.

This section (T. Act, 1925, s. 31) applies to contingent interests if the limitation, either under the general law or under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175, carries the intermediate income.

Vested annuities.

It also applies to vested annuities, but in that case the accumulations belong to the infant or his estate. The section applies subject to any contrary intention expressed: ib., s. 69 (2); but it only applies to trusts coming into operation after 1925.

Statutory owners during a minority.

An equitable life interest, or entailed interest, can be given to an infant, but during the minority his co-tenant for life of full age (if any) will be the estate owner trustee of the land: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 19. If there is no tenant for life of full age, then the personal representatives in whom the settled land is vested, or the S. L. Act trustees, as the statutory owners, will have the powers of a tenant for life: s. 26. This section applies where two or more infants are beneficially entitled in possession to the fee simple or a term of years absolute, till one of them attains full age.

Implied trust for sale.

Where an infant is so entitled jointly with a person or persons of full age, then L. P. Act, 1925, s. 19 (2), applies, and the person or persons of full age hold the legal estate on the statutory trusts (s. 35, implied trust for sale); see also, as to the transitional provisions affecting infants, ib., 1st Sch., Pt. III, and S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 3.

Personalty Wills.

In personalty Wills, after giving the legacies, both immediate and reversionary (it is better not to encumber the trusts of the residue with the payment of future sums), and annuities, and providing, generally by reference to the Statutory Will Forms, for funds to be set aside to answer the annuities, the mixed residue will be given, again by reference to the Statutory Will Forms, on trust for sale with full power to postpone, and there must, unless the Statutory Will Form No. 8 is incorporated, be a direction that reversionary interests are not to be sold except for special reason, and that the income of the personal estate, however invested, must be treated as income from date of death. Also, unless Form No. 8 is incorporated, to avoid the costs of an apportionment, the legacies and the duty thereon should be made primarily payable out of the personal estate. There should be a trust of the rents and profits until sale and, if desired, additional powers to manage the land can be inserted when required.

Lists of forms.

Lists of Forms precede both Wills (Personal) and Wills (Real) and a glance through these lists before the draft is commenced will probably result in a saving of time. The list of the Statutory Will Forms should also be inspected to see which of them can be conveniently incorporated.

Construction.

It will be noted that in Wills coming into operation after 1925, " month " means calendar month ; " person " includes a corporation ; the singular includes the plural and vice versa, and the masculine includes the feminine and vice versa, unless the context otherwise requires : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 61.

PART I.

The Statutory Will Forms, 1925. Dated August 7, 1925.

I, George Viscount Cave, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, in exercise of the powers conferred upon me by section 179 of the Law of Property Act, 1925,(a) and every other power enabling me in that behalf, hereby prescribe and publish the forms hereinafter contained as forms to which a testator may refer in his will and give the following directions as to the manner of reference.

Dated the 7th day of August, 1925.

Cave, C.

STATUTORY WILL FORMS.

1. The forms hereinafter contained may be cited as the Statutory Will Forms, 1925, and are divided into two groups called Part I and Part II respectively. Short title.

2. The Forms in Part I may be incorporated in a Will by a general reference to that Part, and the Forms in Part I and Part II or any of them may be incorporated in a Will in manner indicated in the Schedule hereto or in any other manner indicating an intention to incorporate them, and in the case of Forms in Part II also indicating what property or disposition is to be affected thereby. Manner of application.

(a) 15 Geo. 5, c. 20.

Note.—These forms are intended to apply only in the case of Wills taking effect on or after the 1st day of January, 1926.

Interpretation.

3. (1) In any form when incorporated in a Will—

(i) The provisions thereof shall have effect subject to the express provisions of the will;

"Disposition."

(ii) "Disposition" means a devise, bequest, and a testamentary appointment, whether in exercise of a general or special power and includes a disposition under the statutory power to dispose of entailed interests by Will; "dispose of" has a corresponding meaning; and references to a testator's property include property which he disposes of in exercise of a power;

"The trustees."

(iii) "The trustees" mean the trustees appointed by the testator, either generally or for a specific purpose, as the case may require, and the persons who by appointment by the court or otherwise become the trustees, and include his personal representatives when acting as his trustees;

"Authorised investments."

(iv) "Authorised investments" mean investments authorised by the Will creating the trust, for the investment of any money subject to the trusts of the Will, or by law.

Construction by reference to L. P. Act, 1925.

(v) Other words and expressions have the same meanings as in the Law of Property Act, 1925.(aa)

FORMS.

PART 1.

FORMS WHICH MAY BE APPLIED EITHER GENERALLY OR BY SPECIFIC REFERENCE.

Form 1.

Confirmation of settlements.

I confirm every settlement of property made by me which is subsisting at my death, and subject to any express provision to the contrary in my Will, the provisions made by my Will for the benefit of persons beneficially interested under any such settlement, shall be in addition to, and not in satisfaction of, those made, or covenanted to be made by me in such settlement.

Form 2.

Meaning of "personal chattels."

(1) "Personal chattels" shall mean "carriages, horses, stable furniture and effects (not used for business purposes), motor cars and accessories (not used for business purposes), garden effects, domestic animals, plate, plated articles, linen, china, glass, books, pictures, prints, furniture, jewellery, articles of household or personal use or ornament (including wearing apparel), also musical and scientific instruments and apparatus, wines, liquors,

(2) But a general disposition of personal chattels shall take effect subject to any specific disposition.

Form 3.

Inventories and provisions respecting chattels.

(1) An inventory of chattels given by my Will, otherwise than by way of absolute gift, shall be made in duplicate; one part shall be retained by the trustees and the other part shall be delivered to the person of full age for the time being entitled to the use or possession of the chattels, in this clause called the "usufructuary."

Receipts.

(2) A receipt shall be signed by the usufructuary, at the foot of the inventory retained by the trustees.

(3) The inventory delivered to the usufructuary shall, if he so requires, be signed at the foot thereof by the trustees.

(4) On any change of the right to the use or possession of the chattels, a new receipt shall be signed by the usufructuary at the foot of the inventory retained by the trustees.

Alteration of inventories.

(6) The trustees may, at their discretion, exclude from an inventory, any chattels which, by reason of their trifling value or wearing out nature, they may consider ought to be so excluded.

Protection of trustees.

(7) Where the chattels have been delivered to the usufructuary and a receipt is given therefor, the trustees, so long as the usufructuary remains entitled to the use of the chattels, shall not be liable in any way—

(a) for any unauthorised disposition thereof or dealing therewith;

(b) to see to the insurance (so far as the same are capable of being insured) repair, or safe custody of the chattels, unless and until required, in writing, to insure the chattels or to take any proceedings in reference thereto, by some person beneficially interested in the chattels or by his guardian, committee or receiver, and unless also due provision be made, to the satisfaction of the trustees, for the payment of the costs of insurance or of any proceedings required to be taken.

Custody, insurance, repair.

(8) Where there is no person of full age and capacity entitled to the use of the chattels, the trustees may, during the period of disability, make such arrangements for the safe custody, repair, insurance and use of the chattels as, having regard to the circumstances of the case, they may in their absolute discretion, think expedient.

Form 4.

Legacies to charities.

The receipt of the treasurer or other proper officer of a charitable, benevolent or philanthropic institution, society or body of persons (corporate or incorporate), to which a legacy is given by my Will shall be a complete discharge of my personal representatives.

Form 5.

Directions respecting annuities.

The following provisions shall have effect in regard to any annuities or annuity given by my Will :—

(1) The trustees may, and (if so requested by or on behalf of any person beneficially interested in the property affected), shall, as soon as may be after any annuity commences to accrue, set apart in their names or under their control authorised investments to provide a fund the income whereof will be sufficient, in the opinion of the trustees, to produce an annual sum equal to the amount of the annuities for the time being payable under my Will.

(2) The income or, if necessary, the capital of the fund so appropriated, shall be applied in payment of every subsisting annuity.

(3) Until a fund shall be so appropriated, my residuary estate shall stand charged with the payment ot every subsisting annuity, but, after appropriation, the said estate shall be thereby discharged therefrom.

(4) The appropriated fund, or, where more than one annuity is bequeathed, such parts thereof as, in the opinion of the trustees, may not be required to answer any subsisting annuity, shall, on the cesser of an annuity, fall into my residuary personal estate.

(5) Accordingly, as each annuity ceases, the trustees may treat as part of my residuary personal estate, the whole or a corresponding part of the appropriated fund, as the case may require, retaining only such part thereof (if any) as may, from time to time, in their opinion, be sufficient to produce, by the income thereof, an annual sum equal to the amount of any subsisting annuities.

(6) Any surplus income of the appropriated fund shall be applied in the same manner as the income of my residuary personal estate.

(7) The trustees may, at their discretion, vary any of the investments for the time being representing the appropriated fund for other authorised investments.

(8) In this clause "annuity" includes any periodical payment (not being a rentcharge) for life or other terminable interest.

Form 6.

(2) So far as practicable, the trustees shall give one month's notice, at least, of an intended appropriation, to the persons whose consent would, but for this clause, be required under that Act; but a purchaser shall not be concerned to see or inquire whether any such notices have been given.

(3) In this clause "trustees" includes my personal representatives.

PART 2.

FORMS WHICH CAN ONLY BE APPLIED BY SPECIFIC REFERENCE.

Form 7.

Trusts of a settled legacy.

Any legacy of money or investments to which this clause is applied shall be subject to the following provisions:—

To invest.

(1) The trustees shall stand possessed of the legacy upon trust to invest the same in their names or under their control in any authorised investments, with power, at the like discretion, to vary the investments thereof for others of a like nature.

Legatee for life.

(2) The trustees shall stand possessed of the legacy, and of the investments representing the same and all statutory accumulations, if any, of income thereof, hereinafter included in the description of such legacy upon trust to pay the income thereof to the legatee during the life of the legatee.

(3) After the death of the legatee, the capital and income of the legacy shall be held—

Power to appoint to issue.

In trust for all or any one or more exclusively of the other or others, of the issue of the legatee, whether children or remoter descendants, at such time, and if more than one in such shares, with such provisions for maintenance, education, advancement, and otherwise, at the discretion of any person or persons, and with such gifts over, and generally in such manner, for the benefit of such issue, or some or one of them, as the legatee shall by deed, revocable or irrevocable, or by Will appoint; but so that, under any appointment, a child shall not, otherwise than by way of advancement, take a vested interest, except upon attaining the age of twenty-one years or upon marriage.

In default for children.

And in default of and until and subject to any such appointment—

In trust for all or any the children or child of the legatee, who attain the age of twenty-one years, or marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares.

Hotchpot.

(4) Any child of the legatee, who, or whose issue, takes any part of the legacy under any appointment by the legatee, shall not, in the absence of any direction by the legatee to the contrary, take any share in the unappointed part without bringing the share or shares appointed to him or his issue into hotchpot and accounting for the same accordingly.

Trusts on failure of issue.

(5) If the legatee shall not have any child who, under the trusts in default of appointment hereinbefore contained, attains a vested interest in the legacy, then, subject to the trusts and powers hereinbefore expressed in favour of the legatee and his issue, the legacy and the income thereof and all statutory accumulations, if any, of income shall fall into and form part of my residuary personal estate.

Power to appoint life interest to spouse.

(6) The legatee may, notwithstanding any of the trusts hereinbefore expressed concerning his legacy, from time to time or at any time by deed, revocable or irrevocable, or by Will, appoint to or for the benefit of any spouse who may survive the legatee, during the residue of the life of such spouse or for any less period (and subject or not to any conditions, and with such gifts over, and discretionary or other trusts for the benefit of the spouse and issue of the legatee, as the legatee may think fit), all or any part of the annual income of the legacy of the legatee, or of so much thereof as shall not, before the death of the legatee, have been paid or applied under any power affecting the same.

And, upon any such appointment, the trusts and powers limited to take effect after the death of the legatee, shall take effect subject to the interest limited by any such appointment:

Provided that the power last aforesaid, to appoint by deed, shall not be exercisable by a woman while under coverture.

Form 8.

Administration trusts.

Any property disposed of by my Will (otherwise than in exercise of a special power) to which this clause is applied shall be subject to the following provisions:—

(1) The property shall be held—

Trust for sale.

(a) as to the real property, if any, including chattels real, upon trust to sell the same, and

(b) as to the personal property, if any, upon trust to call in, sell, and convert into money such part thereof as may not consist of money.

Power to postpone.

(2) The trustees shall have power to postpone such sale and conversion for such a period as they, without being liable to account, may think proper.

Reversionary interests.

(3) A reversionary interest shall not be sold, until it falls into possession, unless the trustees see special reason for sale.

Trust to pay debts, legacies, &c.

(4) The trustees shall out of the net money to arise from the sale and conversion of the property (after payment of costs, and out of any ready money of mine, included in the disposition), pay or provide for

(a) my funeral and testamentary expenses;

(b) my debts, except charges on other property of mine so far as those charges are discharged out of the property primarily charged therewith under the Administration of Estates Act, 1925;

(c) the duties, payable out of capital on my death, and not charged on or primarily payable out of other property;

(d) any other liabilities properly payable out of the property, or the proceeds of sale thereof;

Legacies primarily payable out of personalty.

(e) the legacies (including money directed to be paid by my Will), and annuities bequeathed by me, but so that all legacies and annuities, and the duty on all legacies and annuities bequeathed free of duty, shall be paid primarily out of personal property, if any, included in the disposition.

Trust to invest.

(5) The trustees may invest, in their names or under their control, the residue of the said money, or so much thereof as may not have been distributed, in any authorised investments, with power, at their discretion, to vary such investments for others of a like nature.

Income to be applied as income.

(6) The income (including net rents and profits of real property and chattels real, after payment of rates, taxes, rent, costs of insurance and of repairs and other outgoings properly attributable to income) of so much of the property as is not required for the administration purposes aforesaid, shall, however the property is invested, as from my death, be treated and applied as income; and for that purpose any necessary apportionment may be made between capital and income.

(7) Provided that—

Accumulations.

(a) statutory accumulations of income made during a minority, or pending a contingency, or accumulations made under an express trust for accumulation, may be added to capital;

Sinking fund policies, &c.

(b) income may be applied in effecting and maintaining a leasehold sinking fund policy, or may be set aside and invested for providing a fund to answer any liabilities which in the opinion of the trustees ought to be borne by income;

Adjustment of capital and income.

(c) the trustees may in their discretion adjust, in such manner as they shall think fit, having regard to the circumstances of the case, the incidence as between capital and income, of the payments made in due course of administration.

Form 9.

Trusts for spouse for life with power to appoint to issue and gift over to them.

Any property disposed of by my Will (otherwise than in exercise of a special power) to which this clause is applied shall be subject to the following provisions:—

(1) The property (including the investments for the time being representing the same) shall be held upon trust to pay the income thereof to my spouse for life.

(2) After the death of my spouse, the capital and income of the property shall be held—

(i) In trust for all or any one or more, exclusively of the other or others, of my issue, whether children or remoter descendants, at such time, and if more than one in such shares, with such provisions for maintenance, education, advancement and otherwise, at the discretion of any person or persons and with such gifts over, and generally in such manner, for the benefit of such issue, or some or one of them, as my spouse shall, by deed, revocable or irrevocable, or by Will, appoint; but so that, under any appointment, a child shall not, otherwise than by way of advancement, take a vested interest, except upon attaining the age of twenty-one years or upon marriage.

(ii) And in default of and until and subject to any such appointment in trust, in equal shares if more than one, for all or any my children or child who survive me and attain the age of twenty-one years or marry under that age, and for all or any of the issue living at my death who attain the age of twenty-one years or marry under that age, of any child of mine who predeceases me, such issue to take through all degrees, according to their stocks, in equal shares if more than one, the share or shares which his or their parent would have taken if living at my death, and so that no issue shall take whose parent is living at my death and so capable of taking.

Hotchpot.

Form 10.

marry under that age, of any child of mine who predeceases me, such issue to take through all degrees, according to their stocks, in equal shares, if more than one, the share or shares which his or their parent would have taken if living at my death ; and so that no issue shall take whose parent is living at my death and so capable of taking.

PART II.

SECTION I.

COMMENCEMENT OF WILLS AND CODICILS.

No. 1.
Commencement of Will

I, ——, of ——, hereby revoke all testamentary dispositions heretofore made by me, and declare this to be my last Will, which I make this —— day of ——, 19— [in contemplation of my intended marriage with ——, and I declare that this Will shall not take effect unless the said marriage is solemnised within six months from the date hereof (b)].

(b) See L. P. Act, 1925, s. 177, which prevents a Will expressed to be made in contemplation of a marriage from being revoked by that marriage under Wills Act, 1837, s. 18.

No. 2.

Commencement of codicil.(c)

I, ——, of ——, declare this to be a first [or second, &c.] Codicil, which I make this —— day of ——, 19—, to my Will, which is dated the —— day of ——, 19—.

SECTION II.

APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTORS, TRUSTEES AND GUARDIANS AND CONFIRMATION OF MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.

No. 3.

Appointment of executors and trustees.

(1) I APPOINT ——, of, &c., ——, of, &c., and ——, of, &c. (hereinafter called my Trustees (d)), to be the executors and trustees of my Will.

Legacies to trustees and executors.

(2) I BEQUEATH to each of them the said —— who accepts the office of trustee and executor the sum of £—— (e) [free of duty].

Appointment of special executors.

(3) I APPOINT the respective persons who at my death shall be the trustees for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925, of any settlement under which I am tenant for life or statutory owner to be my special executors in regard to the settled land vested in me at my death pursuant to that settlement.(f)

(c) Form No. 84, p. 741, should be used at the end of all codicils.

Devolution of trusts and powers.

(d) Under T. Act, 1925, ss. 18, 36 (7), 43, the trusts and powers will be exercisable by the survivors or survivor or the executors or administrators of a last surviving or continuing trustee or other the trustees or trustee for the time being of the Will, but (save where a trust corporation is appointed) there must be at least two trustees to give a receipt under a trust for sale of land: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 27 (2), as re-enacted in L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch.; T. Act, 1925, s. 14 (2). There must not be more than four trustees: ib., s. 34; probate or administration will not be granted to more than four representatives in respect of the same property: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 160.

Number of executors and trustees.

There is nothing to prevent probate being granted to a sole executor (of full age), but during a minority or the subsistence of a life interest the court has power (save where the executor is a trust corporation) to appoint an additional personal representative: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 160. Hence in practice not less than two or more than four executors should be appointed in regard to the same property. In the case of an insolvent estate a creditor may be appointed sole administrator though there may be a minority: Re Herbert [1926], P. 109.

Legacy to executor.

(e) A legacy to an executor has no priority over other legacies, and if there are not sufficient assets his legacy abates rateably: Duncan v. Watts (1852), 16 Beav. 204. There is a presumption in law that a legacy given to an executor is annexed to his office. Hence if he disclaims or renounces he forfeits the legacy; so also if his appointment as executor is revoked: Re Russell (1912), 56 Sol. J. 651. The presumption is not rebutted by the fact that legacies to several executors differ in amounts: Re Appleton (1885), 29 Ch. D. 893; 54 L. J. Ch. 954. The presumption does not arise where the gift is of residue: Re Maxwell [1906], 1 Ir. R. 386.

(f) See Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 22 (1). This appointment will be implied if it is not expressly made.

[(4) I DEVISE AND BEQUEATH all my real estate and chattels real which I can dispose of by Will in any manner I think proper, either as beneficially entitled thereto or under any general power (including the statutory power to dispose of entailed property), unto my Trustees, UPON TRUST to give effect by the requisite vesting and other assents to the devises, bequests, trusts and provisions of my Will.(g)]

[General gift of land to executors.]

No. 4.

Appointment of guardians.

I APPOINT my Trustees hereinbefore named, [—— and ——,] and the survivors and survivor of them, to be the guardians of my infant children (h) and to act jointly with my wife during her life, and after her death with any persons appointed by her, or if none, then alone.

No. 5.

Forms in Pt. I of the Statutory Will Forms to apply.

ALL the forms contained in Part I of the Statutory Will Forms, 1925 (being forms which relate to (1) Confirmation of Settlements, (2) The meaning of "Personal Chattels," (3) Inventories and provisions respecting chattels, (4) Receipts for legacies given to charities, (5) Directions respecting annuities, and (6) Power of appropriation), are incorporated in my Will and shall have effect, so far as applicable.

[No. 5A.

Confirmation of testator's marriage settlement. (i)]

[I CONFIRM any settlement made in contemplation of my marriage with my wife, and declare that [subject as hereinafter expressly mentioned (j)] the provisions hereby made for her and my children [issue] shall be in addition to and not in satisfaction of those made or covenanted to be made for them by settlement.]

SECTION III.

APPOINTMENTS UNDER SPECIAL POWERS.

No. 6.

Appointment of trust funds under a

IN exercise of the power for this purpose conferred on me by the Will of my mother Jane ——, dated the —— day of ——,

---

(g) This is an alternative method to devising land to the person entitled to have an assent; the latter course will generally be better. In any case the land will vest in the executors: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, ss. 1–3. A devise can only pass an equitable interest and the executors are not intended to take beneficially.

Guardians.

(h) See Guardianship of Infants Act, 1886; Theobald, 7th ed., 97 et seq. A testamentary guardian could only be appointed in the manner provided by 12 Car. 2, c. 24, s. 8; hence could not be appointed by a soldier's Will made under the Wills Act, 1837, as neither that Act nor the Statute of Frauds gave power to appoint a guardian of a soldier's Will: Re Tollemache [1917], P. 246; 86 L. J. P. 154. A testamentary guardian may now be appointed by a soldier's Will under the Wills (Soldiers and Sailors) Act, 1918, s. 4.

"Satisfaction."

(i) This is not required if Form No. 5 is used. This clause prevents any questions arising under the doctrine of satisfaction, see Theobald, 7th ed., 759 et seq.; cf. Re Hall [1918], 1 Ch. 562; 87 L. J. Ch. 393; see also note to Form No. 64, p. 724.

(j) See Form No. 64, p. 724.

special power conferred by a Will (or Settlement) in favour of particular children.(k) and proved on the —— day of —— [by the Settlement made on my marriage dated the —— day of ——] I appoint that the trustees or trustee for the time being of the said Will [Settlement] shall stand possessed of the —— share in my mother's residuary estate or the investments for the time being representing the same and all other (if any) the money and investments bequeathed by the said Will on trust for the benefit of myself and my issue [the money and investments for the time being held upon the trusts of the said Settlement], IN TRUST [subject to the interest thereby limited in favour of my wife during her life] for such of my daughters as shall be living at my death and attain the age of twenty-one years or marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares.

No. 7.

Appointment of trust funds under a special power in favour of a husband for life and then to children equally. Variation where a child's share is settled for twenty-one years.

To husband for life.

(1) IN exercise of the powers for this purpose conferred on me by my marriage Settlement, dated the —— day of ——, I appoint that the trustees or trustee for the time being of the said Settlement (hereinafter called the Settlement Trustees) shall after my death stand possessed of all the money and investments for the time being, subject to the trusts thereof (hereinafter called the Settlement Fund), UPON TRUST to pay the income thereof to my husband, if he survives me, during his life, and after his death (as to both capital and income), IN TRUST for all or any my children or child living at my death who attain the age of twenty-one years or, being female, marry under that age, and if more than one, in equal shares [subject as to the share of my son, D. B., to the provisions hereinafter contained].

After his death for children of testatrix.

Proviso that share of son shall be retained upon special trusts against alienation, &c.(l)

[(2) (i) I FURTHER appoint that if my son, D. B., survives me, the Settlement Trustees shall retain his share in the Settlement Fund and pay the income thereof to the said D. B. until his death, or until the expiration of a term of twenty-one years from my death,(m) or until he shall become bankrupt, or assign or Election.

Protective trusts.

(k) Recitals should, where practicable, be avoided in Wills. It is assumed here that the testator is making provision for his daughters, his sons being otherwise provided for.

(l) This clause should only be used in exceptional cases. The object is to protect an improvident son, but the provision cannot be made to apply for more than twenty-one years. A gift to a son of the testator's own property on condition that the son settles his appointed share would more effectually protect him. This would put the son to election, as to which see Theobald, 7th ed., 114, and Article in (1917), 33 L. Q. R., p. 260.

charge the said income, or any part thereof, or do or suffer any act or thing whereby the said income if belonging absolutely to him, or some part thereof, would become vested in or payable to some other person, whichever first happens :

(ii) AFTER the determination of the foregoing trust (hereinafter referred to as the First Trust) the Settlement Trustees shall hold the said share IN TRUST as follows (that is to say) :—

(A) IF the First Trust determines by reason of the expiration of the said term of twenty-one years in the lifetime of the said D. B., then IN TRUST for the said D. B. absolutely ;

(B) IF the First Trust determines by reason of the death of the said D. B. before the expiration of the said term, then IN TRUST for the said D. B. absolutely, as part of his personal estate ;

(C) IF the First Trust determines in the lifetime of the said D. B., and before the expiration of the said term by reason of his bankruptcy or of any such purported alienation as aforesaid, then IN TRUST for my other children or child living at the date of the determination of the First Trust who attain the age of twenty-one years or, being female, marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares.]

Maintenance.

(3) THE provisions of section thirty-one of the Trustee Act, 1925, shall, during a minority, apply to the foregoing (n) appointments.

[Gift of residue of property to husband absolutely.]

[(4) I GIVE the proportionate part belonging to my estate of the income of the Settlement Fund for the current half-year preceding my death [and all other (if any) the property which I have power to dispose of by Will] unto my husband absolutely.]

No. 8.

Appointment under a Settlement to children by a first marriage and bequest of testator's residuary estate so as to effect equality between children of both marriages.

(1) IN exercise of the power for this purpose conferred on me by a Settlement dated, &c. (being a Settlement executed in consideration of my marriage with my first wife, Jane ——, deceased), I appoint that the trustees or trustee for the time being of the said Settlement shall stand possessed of the money and investments which shall be held upon the trusts thereof at my death (hereinafter called the Settlement Fund), IN TRUST for such of my children by my first wife, as shall be living at my death and attain the age of twenty-one years, or being

(n) The interests "arise" under the appointment though the power may have been created before 1926; in any case the power would generally authorise provision to be made for maintenance, hence T. Act, 1925, s. 31, can be made applicable.

Income of Trust Fund to second wife during widowhood.

(3) Trust to pay income of Trust Fund to my second wife, MARY ——, during her widowhood—Form No. 51A, p. 709 :

After death or re-marriage of second wife capital and income of Trust Fund to be divided between all children of testator, but so as to give them equal shares taking the Settlement Trust Fund into account.

(4) AFTER the death or second marriage of my second wife (which first happens) my Trustees shall stand possessed of the capital and income of the Trust Fund upon the trusts following (that is to say) :—

(i) UPON TRUST in the first place to raise and pay thereout to each child of mine by my second wife, who survives me and attains the age of twenty-one years, or being a daughter marries under that age, such a sum as shall, in the opinion of my Trustees, be equal to the value of the share in the Settlement Fund of each of my children by my first wife hereinbefore appointed ;

(ii) SUBJECT as aforesaid, the capital and income of the Trust Fund shall be held IN TRUST for all or any my children or child by both marriages who survive me and attain the age of twenty-one years, or being female marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares.

SECTION IV.

SPECIFIC LEGACIES, &c.(p)

No. 9.

Bequest of chattels by reference to a Schedule.(q)

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] to the persons whose names and addresses are mentioned in the first and second columns of the —— Schedule to my Will the respective chattels, a short description whereof is set opposite to their names in the third column of the same Schedule.

(o) This assumes that there are no issue of deceased children to be provided for, see Form No. 59A, p. 715.

Expenses of preservation of chattels.

(p) The expenses incurred in the upkeep and preservation of a specific legacy until the executor assents to the bequest are payable by the legatee and not out of residue : Re Pearce [1909], 1 Ch. 819 ; 78 L. J. Ch. 484. As to the distinction between specific and general legacies, see Bothamley v. Sherson (1875), L. R. 20 Eq. 304 ; 44 L. J. Ch. 589.

Position and use of Schedules.

(q) This method of dealing with several legacies (see also the Forms, infra. relating to pecuniary and charitable legacies and annuities) shortens a Will, and is convenient for the purpose of administration. The schedule must come after the testimonium and before the attestation clause and the testator's signature.

Release of a debt by Will.

(r) The forgiveness by Will of a debt owing to the testator is a specific legacy: Re Wedmore [1907], 2 Ch. 277, 76 L. J. Ch. 486; and as such is liable to legacy duty: A.-G. v. Holbrook (1829), 3 Y. & J. 114. This bequest would not include any money, which the testator's estate might be called on to pay under a guarantee given by the testator for money due by the debtor: Re Mitchell [1913], 1 Ch. 201; 82 L. J. Ch. 121.

(s) This assumes that the Statutory Will Forms, Pt. I (see Form 2 thereof), have been incorporated: Form No. 5, supra. Form No. 10 will then take the place of Form No. 10A. It is expedient to incorporate the Statutory Forms whenever available, with such additions as may be sufficient to explain the general effect to the testator.

articles,(u) linen, china, glass, books, pictures, prints, furniture,(v) jewellery, and articles of household or personal use or ornament, wines, liquors, and consumable stores,(w) and other articles and effects of every kind which at my death shall be in or about my dwelling-house [or any dwelling-houses occupied by me at my death] or any buildings or grounds occupied by me therewith, but except money or securities for money : And I also bequeath to her [free of duty] the sum of £——, to be paid to her immediately after my death and in priority to all other legacies and the annuities hereby or by any codicil hereto bequeathed.(x)

Money legacy.

No. 11.

Gift to wife of articles to be selected by her.

I BEQUEATH to my wife absolutely [free of duty] such of my "Personal chattels" [or such of my plate, plated articles, linen, china, glass, books, pictures, prints, furniture and other household effects] as she may within one year from my death select.

No. 12.

Plate, &c., to wife for life, then to son.

Inventory to be made.(y)

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] all my plate and plated articles, books, pictures and prints unto my Trustees, UPON TRUST that my Trustees shall permit my wife to use and enjoy the same during her life, and after her death, shall hold the same, IN TRUST for my son —— absolutely : And I direct my Trustees to make an inventory of the articles included in the foregoing bequest [in accordance with the Statutory Will Forms, 1925] [one copy whereof shall be signed by my Trustees and delivered to my Plate.

(u) "Plate" does not include plated articles : Holder v. Ramsbottom (1863), 4 Giff. 205 ; Re Lewis (1910), W. N. 6 ; see also Re Zouche [1919], 2 Ch. 178 ; 88 L. J. Ch. 274.

Furniture; books.

(v) "Furniture" does not include trade and tenants' fixtures in an hotel : Re Seton-Smith [1902], 1 Ch. 717 ; 71 L. J. Ch. 386. Stamp albums are not included in the word "books" ; Re Masson (1917), 86 L. J. Ch. 753 ; as to money see Re Taylor [1922], 1 Ch. 569 ; 91 L. J. Ch. 801.

Consumable stores.

(w) Consumable stores cannot be made the subject of a gift over unless they form part of stock-in-trade : Theobald, 7th ed., 647 ; and see Re Robson [1891], 2 Ch. 559 ; 60 L. J. Ch. 851 ; Re Craven (1909), 100 L. T. 284.

Duties.

(x) It is right that the widow's immediate legacy should be expressly given priority, as near relationship to the testator does not of itself give priority over other legacies : Re Schweder [1891], 3 Ch. 44 ; 60 L. J. Ch. 656. Legacy and succession duty is now payable as between husband and wife : Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 58 (2).

Insurance of chattels by Trustees.

(y) If Form No. 5 is used the second alternative within square brackets will not be required. In the absence of this direction to the trustees, the tenant for life will have to make the inventory, but is not bound to insure : Temple v. Thring (1887), 56 L. J. Ch. 767. Trustees may, however (Re McEacharn (1911), 103 L. T. 900), insure chattels out of income, see T. Act, 1925, s. 19 ; Re E. of Egmont [1908], 1 Ch. 821 ; 77 L. J. Ch. 479.

Application of insurance money.

As to the application of the insurance money : T. Act, 1925, s. 20 ; as to the old law, see Re Quicke [1908], 1 Ch. 887 ; 77 L. J. Ch. 523 ; article in (1910) 54 Sol. J. 356, and the dictum in Re Bladon [1911], 2 Ch. at p. 354 ; 81 L. J. Ch. at p. 118.

No. 13.

Jewels, &c., to daughters to be distributed among them by Trustees.

I GIVE [free of duty] all my jewellery, trinkets, plate, plated articles, linen, china, glass, books, pictures, prints, furniture and household effects unto such of my daughters (naming them) as shall survive me, to be fairly and equally distributed according to value among them in such manner as they shall agree, or in case of difference as shall be settled by my Trustees, whose decision shall be final. (Add if any daughters are infants, and see T. Act, 1925, s. 53, as to vesting orders: Any of my said daughters who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years at my death shall be entitled to give valid receipts for and otherwise deal with and divide the said chattels or any of them in like manner as if she had been of full age at my death.)

No. 14.

Bequest of chattels with request for the distribution thereof in accordance with a memorandum left by testator.(z)

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] all my "personal chattels" (or see previous Forms), to my wife, and request her to give effect to any wishes I may express in any memorandum signed by me and deposited with my Will or with my papers in regard to the disposal of the said chattels or any of them, but nothing herein or in any such memorandum contained shall operate to create any trust or impose any binding obligation on my wife with respect to the said chattels or otherwise fetter her absolute beneficial interest therein.

No. 15.

Devise of freeholds for infant son giving him absolute power of appointment if he attains full age.

(1) I DEVISE my dwelling-house in which I am now residing, known as ——, together with the pleasure grounds, lands, gardens, outbuildings and appurtenances thereunto belonging or usually held or enjoyed therewith (a) [and also the piece of land situated, &c., which I lately purchased from ——, and which is now in the occupation of ——], to my Trustees or other the person or persons who after my death shall become entitled to have an assent made to them or him UPON TRUST for my son

---

(z) This bequest does not create a binding trust, but is a convenient method of dealing with small articles. If the legatee is provided for by the Will there is every probability of the testator's wishes being carried out. To make a secret trust binding it must be disclosed to the legatee during the testator's lifetime, see Theobald, 7th ed., 73, et seq.; Re Boyes (1884), 26 Ch. D. 531; 53 L. J. Ch. 654; Re Falkiner [1924], 1 Ch. 88; 93 L. J. Ch. 76.

(a) See Taws v. Knowles [1891], 2 Q. B. 564; 60 L. J. Q. B. 641, which shows the advantage of adding these general words, and Re Willis [1911], 2 Ch. 563; 81 L. J. Ch. 8.

F. B. during his life without impeachment of waste, with remainder Upon such trusts and for such purposes generally as the said F. B. (when of full age) shall by any deed or by Will or codicil appoint, and in default of and until and subject to any such appointment UPON TRUST for my Trustees in fee simple Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions hereinafter declared concerning my residuary estate:

Appointment of S. L. Act trustees.(b)

(2) MY Trustees are hereby appointed to be the trustees hereof for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925:

Accumulations to fall into residue if the son dies an infant bachelor.

(3) IF the said F. B. dies an infant, and without having been married, then all statutory accumulations made during his minority in respect of the said property and remaining unapplied at his death shall fall into and form part of my residuary estate:

Incumbrances to be discharged.

(4) ALL incumbrances affecting the said property at my death shall be discharged and kept down out of my residuary personal estate and the income thereof in exoneration of the said property and the income thereof :(c)

Legacy to discharge death duties.

(5) I BEQUEATH to my Trustees, free of duty, such a sum as in their opinion will be sufficient to discharge all estate and succession duty and the costs of paying the same which may become payable on my death in respect of the property devised by this clause and I direct them to discharge the said duties and costs out of the said legacy in exoneration of the said property.

No. 15A.

Devise of freeholds to wife and direction as to duties.

(1) I DEVISE all my freehold lands, buildings and incorporeal property situated or arising in the county of —— To my wife in fee simple free from any incumbrances affecting the same

---

Powers of management of land during minority.

Assent to be postponed.

(b) The appointment of S. L. Act trustees gives them powers of management during a minority: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 102; they can call on the executors to assent to the land vesting in them during the minority: ib., s. 26, they then become "statutory owners." In a case of this description it is generally better to postpone the assent till the beneficiary attains full age; in the meantime the executors have all the statutory powers of a tenant for life and of the S. L. Act trustees, but, if after clearing the death duties, the executors are different persons from the S. L. Act trustees they will give effect to the directions of the latter: ib., s. 26 (2).

Accumulations.

Whether the son is given a vested life interest or a fee simple or an entailed interest the surplus accumulations made during the minority will vest in him if he attains twenty-one or marries. In other cases they will go with the capital of the property: T. Act, 1925, s. 31 (2); unless a contrary direction is given: ib., s. 69 (2).

This Form is strictly a realty form, but is for use in a Will dealing with the residue as personal estate.

(c) See Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 35, replacing the Real Estate Charges Acts, and extending the principle to property generally.

at my death which shall be discharged out of my residuary personal estate in exoneration thereof:

(2) MY Trustees shall out of my residuary personal estate discharge all the duties which on my death shall become payable in respect of the said property in exoneration thereof.

No. 15B.

Devise of enfranchised land.

(1) I DEVISE my enfranchised property (formerly copyhold of the manor of ——, in the county of ——, to which I was admitted on the —— day of ——) to my son ——, in fee simple free from any incumbrances affecting the same at my death which shall be discharged out of my residuary personal estate in exoneration thereof:

(2) I BEQUEATH (continue as in (5) of Form No. 15):

Direction to extinguish manorial incidents.

(3) I DIRECT my Trustees to arrange for the extinguishment of any manorial incidents affecting the said property at my death by the payment of a gross sum out of my residuary personal estate and I bequeath to them such a sum free of duty as may be sufficient to effectuate the said extinguishment and to discharge all costs in connexion therewith.(d)

No. 16.

Bequest of leasehold house and furniture to trustees for wife during widowhood, she paying rent, &c.

(1) I BEQUEATH [free of duty] my leasehold house and property known as No. ——, &c., held under a Lease dated, &c., and all my furniture and household effects (e) in or about or appropriated or belonging to the said dwelling-house at my death (f) (other than plate or plated articles, books, pictures or prints), unto my Trustees UPON TRUST for my wife during her widowhood, she paying the ground rent, and all rates, taxes and outgoings payable in respect of the said dwelling-house and observing and performing the covenants contained in the Lease under which the same is held at my death:(g) And after the death or second marriage of my wife (h) (whichever first happens) the Afterwards to fall into residue.

Assent to be produced to steward.

(d) If the manorial incidents have not been extinguished, the assent to the devisee must be produced to the steward within six months and the fines, &c., paid.

Disclaimer.

(e) A legatee may disclaim an onerous lease and yet take chattels bequeathed with it: Re Lysons (1912), 56 Sol. J. 705.

Ademption.

(f) A permanent removal of chattels from a house under such a bequest effects ademption, but a temporary removal does not, see Theobald, 7th ed., 168, and cases there cited; and Re Lea (1911), 104 L. T. 253; see also note to Form No. 12, supra, as to insurance.

(g) The acceptance of the legacy imposes in equity an obligation to fulfil the conditions of the lease: Re Loom [1910], 2 Ch. 230; 79 L. J. Ch. 704.

Rights of tenant for life.

(h) If the additional condition of "or if she ceases to reside at the said dwelling-house," is added, the widow is nevertheless a person having the powers of a tenant for life: Re Freme (1912), 56 Sol. J. 362. As a tenant for life she has an inalienable right to require the executors to make a vesting assent in her favour: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 106; but as the trustees are to hold said dwelling-house, furniture and household effects shall fall into and form part of my residuary estate and be held on trust for sale:

Trustees to make an inventory.

(2) MY Trustees shall as soon as conveniently may be after my death cause an inventory to be made of the furniture and other household effects hereinbefore bequeathed for the benefit of my wife during her widowhood, and the provision as to inventories and chattels contained in the Statutory Will Forms, 1925, shall apply thereto:

Trustees not to be bound to see that wife pays rent, &c.

(3) MY Trustees shall not be bound to see that my wife duly pays the rent and observes and performs the covenants and conditions reserved by and contained in the said Lease, nor shall they be liable for or in respect of any forfeiture or loss which may arise by reason of the non-payment by my wife of the said rent or the breach by her of any of the said covenants and conditions:

Power for Trustees with consent of wife to sell furniture, &c.(i)

(4) MY Trustees may at any time or times during the widowhood of my wife, with her consent in writing, sell the said furniture and other household effects bequeathed therewith or any of them or any part thereof respectively, and in such case the money to arise from such sale shall sink into and form part of my residuary personal estate And my Trustees shall be the trustees hereof for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925.

No. 16A.

Bequest of a lease formerly renewable.

(1) I BEQUEATH to my wife absolutely [free of duty] my house and land known as ——, held under a Lease dated, &c., formerly perpetually renewable but converted into a term of 2,000 years by the Law of Property Act, 1922:

(2) IF the additional rent in lieu of fines and other payments on renewal has not been fixed before my death I direct my trustees at the cost of my residuary personal estate to do all things necessary for ascertaining the amount of the additional rent and for obtaining proper endorsements on the lease of the the house on trust for sale on her death or re-marriage she would generally be well advised to allow the executors to postpone any assent till an assent could be made to the trustees for sale. The trustees holding on a future trust for sale would be S. L. Act trustees: ib., s. 30 (1) (iv). Pending an assent the executors have all the powers of a tenant for life and of S. L. Act trustees, and can let the widow into possession: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 43, and give effect to her wishes.

Future trust for sale.

(i) The widow has the powers of a tenant for life as regards the house under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 20 (1) (vi); Re Pollock [1906], 1 Ch. 146; 75 L. J. Ch. 120. As to the application of the proceeds of a sale of the lease when sold by the widow: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 79; Re Simpson [1913], 1 Ch. 277; 82 L. J. Ch. 169.

SECTION V.

PECUNIARY LEGACIES.

No. 17.

Bequest of immediate legacies by reference to schedule.

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] to the persons whose names and addresses are mentioned in the first and second columns of the —— Schedule to my Will the respective sums set opposite to their names in the third column of the same Schedule.

Form of Schedule.

THE —— SCHEDULE.

Particulars of pecuniary legacies.

Name of Legatee.	Address and Description.	Amount of Legacy.

No. 18.

Legacies to servants.

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] to each of my indoor and outdoor servants not in receipt of daily, weekly or monthly (j) wages who shall be in my service at my death,(k) and shall have been in such service for at least twelve months immediately preceding, and who shall not be under notice to leave, given or received, one year's wages in addition to wages then due.

Legacies to servants. Effect may depend on manner of payment of wages.

(j) A bequest of a year's wages to servants does not include servants employed at wages calculated by the week or month: Re Ravensworth [1905], 2 Ch. 1; 74 L. J. Ch. 353; but where outdoor servants are referred to they will take though only in receipt of weekly wages: Re E. of Sheffield [1911], 2 Ch. 267; 80 L. J. Ch. 521; Re Smith (1915), W. N. 12. If such servants are to be included, say:—

I BEQUEATH to each of my indoor and outdoor servants, whether in receipt of daily, weekly, monthly or yearly wages who shall be, &c., . . . a sum equal to the amount of their respective wages for the period of one year in addition to wages then due or paid during the year immediately preceding my death.

" Service at my death."

(k) These words are necessary, as under a direction " to pay each man who shall have been in my employ over ten years " it was held that a man who had left the testator's service was within the scope of the legacy: Re Sharland [1896], 1 Ch. 517; 65 L. J. Ch. 280; cf. Re Cole [1919], 1 Ch. 218; 88 L. J. Ch. 82; Re Drake [1921], 2 Ch. 99; 90 L. J. Ch. 381. As to the meaning of " servant," see Re Lawson [1914], 1 Ch. 682; Re Bell (1914), W. N. 89; Re King [1917], 2 Ch. 420; 87 L. J. Ch. 3; Re Drake, supra; Re Jackson [1923], 2 Ch. 365; 92 L. J. Ch. 622.

No. 19.

Bequest of legacy on attaining twenty-one with interest.

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] the sum of £—— to A. B. if and when he attains the age of twenty-one years, with interest thereon from my death until payment or investment of the principal money at the rate of £5 per cent. per annum, and if he shall be under that age at my death, I authorise my Trustees to invest the said sum in any investments in which my residuary estate is authorised to be invested with power to vary investments: And I direct that such investments and the annual income thereof and all statutory accumulations of income,(l) shall be held IN TRUST for the said A. B. if and when he attains the age of twenty-one years, but if the said A. B. dies under the age of twenty-one years I direct that the said legacy, investments and accumulations shall sink into and form part of my residuary estate.(m)

No. 20.

Legacy with substitution of children if legatee dies before testator.

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] the sum of £—— to C. D., and if he dies in my lifetime, leaving issue living at my death, I bequeath the same legacy to my Trustees IN TRUST for all or any the children or child of the said C. D. who attain the age of twenty-one years or being daughters marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares:(n) AND if no child of the said C. D.

Maintenance.

Intermediate income.

(m) As an intermediate gift of income in some cases has the effect of vesting a legacy before the legatee attains twenty-one (see Theobald, 7th ed., 586; Re Gossling [1903], 1 Ch. 448; 72 L. J. Ch. 433; Re Williams [1907], 1 Ch. 180; 76 L. J. Ch. 41; Re Ussher [1922], 2 Ch. 321; 91 L. J. Ch. 521; and cf. Re Ricketts (1910), 103 L. T. 278), it is necessary, as in the text, to provide expressly how the income is to go if the legatee dies under age; see also Re Kirkley, 87 L. J. Ch. 247; cf. Re Woolf [1920], 1 Ch. 184; 89 L. J. Ch. 11. A trusteeship should be constituted to avoid the cost of appointing trustees of the infant's legacy under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 42.

Maintenance clause when applicable to contingent legacy.

(n) If a legacy was given to a person before 1925 contingently on his attaining twenty-one, the legatee on attaining that age was not entitled to the intermediate income, and the executors had no power under the Conv. Act, 1881, s. 43, to apply any part of that income for his maintenance: Re George (1877), 5 Ch. D. 837; 47 L. J. Ch. 118; Re Judkin's Trusts (1884), 25 Ch. D. 743; 53 L. J. Ch. 496; Re Dickson (1885), 29 Ch. D. 331; 54 L. J. Ch. 510. But if a legacy was given to trustees as an immediate gift in trust for a class of persons who attain twenty-one, the contingent legatees on attaining twenty-one were entitled to the intermediate income, and the statutory maintenance clause applied: Re Medlock (1886), 55 L. J. Ch. 738; Long v. Ovenden (1881). 16 Ch. D. 691; 50 L. J. Ch. 314; Re Clements [1894], 1 Ch. 665; 63 L. J. Ch. 326. Where a legacy was held in trust for an infant for life contingently on attaining twenty-one, the trustees might, under the Conv. Act, 1881, s. 43 (1), apply intermediate income for maintenance, attains a vested interest in the said legacy, the same shall fall into and form part of my residuary estate.

No. 21.

Several legacies with similar substitution in each case.(o)

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] to —— (names, and see Form No. 17, supra) the sum of £—— each free of duty [with interest thereon from my death at the rate of £— per cent. per annum until payment or appropriation]: AND if any of the said legatees die in my lifetime leaving issue living at my death, then and in every such case I BEQUEATH the legacy which the person so dying would have taken if he or she had survived me unto my Trustees IN TRUST for his or her children or child who attain, &c. (as in last Form): AND if no child of the legatee so dying as aforesaid attains a vested interest in the said legacy, the same shall fall into and form part of my residuary estate.

No. 22.

Legacy with direction that same shall not lapse if legatee leaves issue.(p)

I BEQUEATH [free of duty] the sum of £—— to C. D. [with interest, &c., as above]: And I declare that if the said C. D. dies in my lifetime, leaving issue living at my death, the said legacy shall not lapse, but shall go and devolve in the same manner as if he had survived me and died immediately after notwithstanding that, not so applied, it would never belong to an infant: Re Boulter [1918], 2 Ch. 40; 87 L. J. Ch. 385; see also Re Mellor [1922], 1 Ch. 312; 91 L. J. Ch. 393. Where a parent gives a future legacy to a child, then income can be applied for maintenance under the construction put upon such gifts by courts of equity: Re Bowlby [1904], 2 Ch., at pp. 698, 704; 73 L. J. Ch. 810.

Future legacy to child of testator.

New law.

T. Act, 1925, s. 31 (3), applies to legacies where the testator dies after 1925. That section applies to a contingent interest only if the limitation carries the intermediate income, but it applies to a future or contingent legacy by the parent of, or by a person standing in loco parentis to the legatee, if and for the period which under the general law the legacy carries interest for the maintenance of the legatee. If the income is sufficient, interest will be at the rate of £5 per cent., see 2 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed.

Specific gifts and contingent devises.

Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 175, a contingent or future specific devise or bequest of property, real or personal, a contingent residuary devise of freeholds, and a specific or residuary devise of freeholds to trustees on trust for persons whose interests are contingent or executory, will (subject to s. 31, supra, as to accumulations) carry the intermediate income from the death of the testator, except so far as the income may be otherwise expressly disposed of.

(o) See note to last Form.

Lapse.

(p) Legacies to the testator's issue are saved from lapse by the Wills Act, 1837, s. 33, which does not, however, apply to a class gift, or where the testator by a subsequent Will or codicil shows an intention that the gift should lapse: Re Meredith [1924], 2 Ch. 552. The decision in Re Gresley [1911], 1 Ch. 358; 80 L. J. Ch. 255, that a testator cannot make a similar provision in his Will to that contained in the section in favour of collaterals or strangers unless the gift is expressly made in favour of the personal representatives of the legatee, is an unnecessary extension of the rule that a gift cannot be made to a deceased person (Re Coleman (1876), 4 Ch. D. 165, 168; 46 L. J. Ch. 33; Toplis v. Baker (1789), 2 Cox, 119), and must be taken to be overruled by Re Clunies-Ross (1912), 106 L. T. 96; Re Greenwood [1912], 1 Ch. 392; 81 L. J. Ch. 298.

my death, provided that this direction shall take effect by way of direct gift to the persons (if any) beneficially interested under the Will or on the intestacy of the said C. D. and shall not make the said legacy part of his personal estate so as to be liable for his debts or estate or other duty.(q)

No. 23.

Gifts of legacies with similar direction.

I BEQUEATH to (names and amounts of legacies, see Form No. 17, supra): AND if any of the said legatees die in my lifetime leaving issue living at my death,(r) then and in every such case the legacy given to the legatee so dying shall not lapse, but shall go and devolve in the same manner as if the legatee had survived me and died immediately after my death. (Continue as in last Form, substituting "the legatee" for "the said C. D.")

No. 24.

Bequest of legacies for daughters and settlement thereof by reference to the Statutory Will Forms.

(1) I BEQUEATH [free of duty] to my Trustees for each of my daughters and her issue a legacy of £—— with interest thereon at the rate of £4 per cent. per annum from my death until investment or appropriation:

No. 24A.

Bequest of legacies to daughters and settlement thereof (express trusts).

(1) I BEQUEATH [free of duty] to my Trustees for each of my daughters and her issue a legacy of £—— with interest thereon at the rate of £4 per cent. per annum from my death until investment or appropriation:

(2) MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the legacy so bequeathed for a daughter and her issue upon trust to invest

It was overlooked in Re Gresley that the provision operated as a gift over and was not a mere declaration against lapse. There is no magic in the words "executors and administrators" if the testator's intention is otherwise clear. An Act of Parliament is not required to validate the gift over, nor is there any distinction for this purpose between children and strangers: cf. Re Smith [1916], 2 Ch. 368; 85 L. J. Ch. 657. A power of appointment cannot be given to a deceased person so as to become exercisable by his Will: Re Young [1920], 2 Ch. 427; 89 L. J. Ch. 614.

Double duty.

(q) These words will avoid the double duty: Re Scott [1901], 1 Q. B. 228; 70 L. J. K. B. 66.

Bearer securities.

Receipts.

Validity of gifts for the upkeep of tombs.

(e) The validity of a gift for the upkeep of tombs depends on whether or not the general public will derive a benefit under it. Hence, a gift for the upkeep of a particular tomb outside a church is bad: Re Vaughan (1886), 33 Ch. D. 187; Re Rogerson [1901], 1 Ch. 715; 70 L. J. Ch. 444; but a gift for the general upkeep of a churchyard or a class of tombs in a churchyard is good: Re Manser [1905], 1 Ch. 68; 74 L. J. Ch. 95 (a gift for the upkeep of a churchyard restricted to a particular sect); Re Pardoe [1906], 2 Ch. 184; 75 L. J. Ch. 455 (a gift for the upkeep of the graves of pensioners in a certain almshouse, who should be buried in a particular churchyard). On the other hand, a gift for the upkeep of a particular tomb actually within a church is good on the ground that it is for the benefit of the inhabitants at large that not only the fabric, but also the ornaments of a church, should not be allowed to fall into decay: Hoare v. Osborne (1866), L. R. 1 Eq. 585; 35 L. J. Ch. 345; Re Barker (1909), 25 T. L. R. 753; so is a bequest for the erection of a stained glass window in a church: Re King [1923], 1 Ch. 243; 92 L. J. Ch. 292. The above Form is based on the decision in Re Tyler [1891], 3 Ch. 252; 60 L. J. Ch. 686. That case decided that the perpetuity rule does not apply to a gift over in a certain event from one charity to another. It is essential that the legatees of both the immediate gift and the gift over should be charities, see Worthing Corporation v. Heather [1906], 2 Ch. 532; 75 L. J. Ch. 761.

Bequest of annuity.

(1) I BEQUEATH [free of duty (hh)] to —— an annuity of £—— for his life [her life without power of anticipation during any coverture], to commence from my death (i) and to be considered as accruing from day to day, but to be paid by equal half-yearly payments, the first payment to be made at the end of six months after my death.

(f) Being a gift for charitable purposes, this period is not affected by the Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, see s. 59 (1), as regards duties.

(g) Under the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1891, this devise is valid, but the land must be sold, unless the court or the Charity Commissioners are satisfied that it is required for actual occupation for the purpose of the charity, in which case its retention may be sanctioned; see also note to Form No. 29, supra.

(hh) It is not expedient to give an annuity free of duty.

Arrears of annuity.

(i) As regards interest on arrears of the annuity the annuitant is in the same position as other creditors: Re Salvin [1912], 1 Ch. 332; 81 L. J. Ch. 248. An annuitant is not necessarily precluded from recovering arrears of an annuity because she has not actively enforced the duty of trustees to pay it: Re Rix (1912), 56 Sol. J. 573.

Bequest of annuities by reference to a Schedule.

(1) I BEQUEATH [free of duty] to the persons whose names and addresses are mentioned in the first and second columns of the —— Schedule hereto the respective annuities mentioned in the fourth column thereof for the periods (k) and subject to the provisions mentioned in the third column of the same Schedule, the said annuities to commence [unless otherwise stated in that Schedule] from my death and to be considered as accruing from day to day, but to be paid [unless otherwise stated in that Schedule] by equal half-yearly payments, the first payments to be made at the end of six months after my death:

Statutory power to appropriate.

(j) An express direction for appropriation clears the residuary estate. Under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 41, the personal representatives have power to appropriate a fund to answer annuities, thus meeting the decisions in Re Owthwaite [1891], 3 Ch. 494; 60 L. J. Ch. 854; Re Street (1922), W. N. 291. A direction for payment of the annuity out of income followed by a gift over of corpus, "subject thereto," charges the annuity on the corpus: Re Watkins [1911], 1 Ch. 1; 80 L. J. Ch. 102; Re Young [1912], 2 Ch. 479, and cf. Re Boulcott (1911), 55 Sol. J. 313. As to the abatement of annuities, see Re Metcalf [1903], 2 Ch. 424; 72 L. J. Ch. 786. As to the position where the estate is not sufficient for setting apart the whole capital sum, see Re Cottrell [1910], 1 Ch. 402; 79 L. J. Ch. 189; Re McMahon (1911), 55 Sol. J. 552; see also Re Croxon [1915], 2 Ch. 290; 84 L. J. Ch. 845.

Abatement.

(3) As each annuity ceases I authorise my Trustees to treat as part of my residuary estate a corresponding part of the appropriated fund, retaining only such part thereof as may from time to time, in their opinion, be sufficient to produce by the income thereof an annual sum equal to the then subsisting annuity or annuities.(l)]

(3) EVERY remuneration annuity shall commence either from my death or from the date of the appointment of the trustee to whom an annuity is appointed and shall be considered as accruing from day to day, but to be paid by equal half-yearly payments, the first payment to be made at the end of six months from the date of the commencement of the annuity :

No. 40.

Bequest of annuity on protective trusts.

(1) I BEQUEATH to my Trustees [free of duty] an annuity of £—— during the lifetime of C. D., of, &c., the said annuity to commence from my death (if the said C. D. be then living) and to accrue from day to day, but to be paid by equal half-yearly payments, the first payment to be made at the end of six months from my death if the said C. D. be then living :

(2) THE said annuity shall be held on protective trusts for the benefit of the said C. D. during the residue of his life in accordance with section thirty-three of the Trustee Act, 1925 :

Conditions in restraint of marriage.

(n) This limitation is not a "restraint against marriage," see Theobald, 7th ed., 625. Also, a gift to a married woman so long as she lives apart from her husband is not against public policy, if she was living apart at the date of the gift : Re Charleton (1911), 55 Sol. J. 330 ; Re Lovell [1920], 1 Ch. 122 ; 88 L. J. Ch. 540. A condition subsequent in restraint of marriage is only primâ facie, not per se, void : Re Hewitt [1918], 1 Ch. 458 ; 87 L. J. Restraint on anticipation.

Discretionary trust for bankrupt or his family.

(2) PROVIDED that if any person to whom an annuity is hereinbefore given shall become bankrupt, or assign or charge his or her annuity or any part thereof, or do or suffer anything whereby the said annuity or any part thereof would become vested in or payable to any other person, then and in any such case the annuity given to such person shall cease : And after the cesser of any such annuity in the lifetime of the annuitant my Trustees may, at their absolute discretion, without being liable to account for the exercise of such discretion, in every or any year during the rest of the life of the annuitant, apply any sums not exceeding in any one year the amount of the annuity hereinbefore given to him or her, for the maintenance, support or otherwise for the benefit of the annuitant and his or her wife or husband and issue (if any) or any one or more of them, exclusively of the other or others, in such manner as my Trustees shall, without being liable to account, think fit.

I bequeath [free of duty] the sum of £—— to my Trustees, Upon trust that my Trustees shall invest the same in any of the investments in which my residuary estate is authorised to be invested, with power to vary investments And shall, during the life of my brother O. P., now residing at —— House under the care of Dr. ——, apply at the absolute discretion of my Trustees the income of the said investments or a sufficient part thereof for the maintenance, support, or otherwise for the benefit of the said O. P., with power to continue him in the institution where he shall be at my death or to remove him from thence and place him under the care of some other persons, and generally to arrange and provide for the support and comfort of the said O. P. in such manner as they shall in their uncontrolled discretion think fit, And, subject to the foregoing trust, the said sum of £——, and the investments representing the same, and so much of the income thereof as in the opinion of my Trustees shall not be required for the purposes aforesaid, shall sink into and form part of my residuary estate or the income thereof.

No. 43.

Authority for Trustees to make an allowance not exceeding a certain annual amount to an improvident brother.

(1) My Trustees may, during the life of my brother R. S., if they shall in their absolute discretion think proper, make an allowance to the said R. S., or for the benefit of him and his wife and issue (if any) of such an amount, and either by quarterly, monthly, or other payments, and generally in such manner as my Trustees shall think fit, provided that the amount of such allowance in any one year shall not exceed £——, and my Trustees may either pay the said allowance to the said R. General directions as to legacies and annuities.(r)

I give the following directions with regard to the legacies and the annuity [annuities] hereby [or by any codicil hereto (q)] bequeathed but the directions shall not extend to any interest given in my residuary estate :—

Legacies and annuity to be free of duty.

(1) All legacies and the annuity [annuities] shall be paid [and enjoyed(s)] free of duties payable on my death :(t)

Power to deliver chattels to an infant.

(2) Any chattel bequeathed to an infant may be delivered to him or her, and the receipt of the infant shall be a sufficient discharge to my Trustees :(u)

(q) See Re Trinder (1911), 56 Sol. J. 74.

Legacies free of duty.

(s) The words in brackets are to be used where any specific legacies are intended to be free of legacy duty : Douglas v. Congreve (1836), 1 Keen, 410 ; 6 L. J. Ch. 51 ; Re Johnston (1884), 26 Ch. D. 538 ; 53 L. J. Ch. 645 ; Re Townend (1914), W. N. 145.

(t) The direction for payment of legacies free of duties constitutes a gift of the legacy and a sufficient amount of money to pay the duties : Re Turnbull [1905], 1 Ch. 726 ; 74 L. J. Ch. 438. As to the effect of duties imposed after the testator's death, see Re Snape [1915], 2 Ch. 179 ; 84 L. J. Ch. 803. As to the effect of a bequest "subject to death duties," see Re Morrison (1910), 102 L. T. 530 ; Re Brown (1916), 60 Sol. J. 353. A life interest in residue given by a will is a "bequest" within the meaning of a clause in that will giving legacies free of death duties : Re Kennedy [1917], 1 Ch. 9 ; 86 L. J. Ch. 40. A direction to pay legacy duty does not apply to foreign duties of the same nature : Re Scott [1915], 1 Ch. 592 ; 84 L. J. Ch. 366.

Abatement of annuities. (vv)

(5) Where by reason of a deficiency of assets any annuity becomes liable to abatement, either temporarily or permanently, provision shall be made by my Trustees at their absolute discretion for the payment of a rateably reduced annuity in lieu of the original annuity either by the purchase of an annuity from the Government or from an insurance office or by means of an appropriated fund, as my Trustees, according to the circumstances of each case, may consider expedient, to the intent that no annuitant shall be entitled to call for the payment of a capital sum in lieu of his annuity.

(w) See the notes to the next form, which in effect explain the "Administration Trusts" so incorporated.

(x) This includes property specifically devised if the gift fails, e.g., where the specific legatee attests the Will: Mason v. Ogden [1903] A. C. 1; 72 L. J. Ch. 152.

(y) See Wills Act, 1837, s. 25, and Theobald, 7th ed., 228, et seq., as to the general effect of a residuary gift.

General and special powers.

Express reference.

(z) S. 27 of the Wills Acts, 1837, makes property subject to a general power of appointment pass by a residuary devise and bequest except where the instrument creating the power requires express reference to it, see Re Davies [1892], 3 Ch. 63; 61 L. J. Ch. 595; and cf. Re Lane [1908], 2 Ch. 581; 77 L. J. Ch. 774; and generally, Theobald, 7th ed., 239, et seq., and Wrigley v. Lowndes [1908], P. 348; 77 L. J. P. 148. This rule does not apply where the power has not become exercisable at the testator's death: Re Young [1920], 2 Ch. 427; 89 L. J. Ch. 614; see Re Jarrett [1919], 1 Ch. 366; 88 L. J. Ch. 150; also, Re Barker [1920], 1 Ch. 527; 89 L. J. Ch. 209. The word "general" excludes any question as to whether a special power is exercised: Farwell, 3rd ed., 214. Romer, J., in Chambers, followed Ames v. Cadogan (1879), 12 Ch. D. 868; 48 L. J. Ch. 762, in preference to Von Brockdorff v. Malcolm (1885), 30 Ch. D. 172; 55 L. J. Ch. 121. A special power is not within the section nor within ss. 24 and 25: Theobald, 7th ed., 247, et seq. Special powers must be expressly exercised in favour of their objects, see Forms 6, 7 and 8, supra: Re Sanderson (1912), 56 Sol. J. 291; but a special power to appoint income to a husband for life has been held to have been duly exercised by a general appointment to him of all property which the testatrix had power to dispose of by Will: Re Ackerley [1913], 1 Ch. 510; 82 L. J. Ch. 260; see also Re Slack [1923], 2 Ch. 359.

Special powers.

Re Powell's Trusts (1870), 39 L. J. Ch. 188, deciding that a general power to appoint by Will only, following a life interest to the appointor, must, as regards the rule against perpetuities, be construed as if inserted in the instrument creating the power, is not correct: Theobald, 7th ed., 610, and has not been followed: Rous v. Jackson (1885), 29 Ch. D. 521; 54 L. J. Ch. 732; Re Flower (1885), 34 W. R. 149; 55 L. J. Ch. 200.

Perpetuities.

In order to exercise the power conferred by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 176, specific reference must be made either to the property or the instrument under which it was acquired or to entailed property generally.

Entailed interests.

In the case of a married woman (as well as of a man) such property becomes liable for her debts, except debts contracted during coverture, but before the commencement of M. W. P. Act, 1882: Re Roper (1888), 39 Ch. D. 482; 58 L. J. Ch. 215; see M. W. P. Act, 1882, s. 4; and M. W. P. Act, 1893, s. 1: Re Fieldwick [1909], 1 Ch. 1; 78 L. J. Ch. 153, as to contracts entered into Liability for debts.

Trustees shall sell (a) the said real estate (including chattels real) and call in, (b) sell and convert into money such part of my personal estate as does not consist of money, with power to postpone such sale and conversion for such a period as my Trustees without being liable to account may think proper, (c)

after the Act of 1893. Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 32, sets out the classes of property which become assets for payment of debts, &c., this includes property appointed under a general power and entailed property when the statutory power is exercised. The section only applies where the death occurs after 1925: ib., s. 54.

Management of land.

(a) Before 1926 the existence of the trust for payment of debts and legacies was a reason for refusing to make an order under S. L. Act, 1884, s. 7, giving the tenant for life of the proceeds of sale leave to exercise the S. L. Act powers: Re Harding's Estate [1891], 1 Ch. 60; 60 L. J. Ch. 277.

Delegation of powers.

On the same principle, the personal representatives (holding on trust for sale) might, it is conceived, object to delegating the powers to lease and accept surrenders under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 29, until they were satisfied that the debts, &c., could be discharged without the aid of the property to which the delegated powers would apply.

Composition of debts, &c.

(b) The T. Act, 1925, s. 15 (d), does not enable trustees to take up a mere passive attitude as regards debts owing to the testator: Re Greenwood (1911), 105 L. T. 509.

Power to postpone.

Wasting property.

Business.

Howe v. E. of Dartmouth.

(c) This power to postpone conversion enables (1) hazardous and wasting property to be retained in specie: Gray v. Siggers (1880), 15 Ch. D. 74: 49 L. J. Ch. 819; Re Bates [1907], 1 Ch. 22; 76 L. J. Ch. 29; Re Wilson [1907], 1 Ch. 394; 76 L. J. Ch. 210; Re Nicholson [1909], 2 Ch. 111; 78 L. J. Ch. 516; (2) testator's business to be carried on: Re Chancellor (1884), 26 Ch. D. 42; 53 L. J. Ch. 443; Re Crowther [1895], 2 Ch. 56; 64 L. J. Ch. 537; Re Smith [1896], 1 Ch. 171; 65 L. J. Ch. 269; and (3) (coupled with the direction as to income) excludes the rule in Howe v. E. of Dartmouth (1802), 7 Ves. 137; see Re Chancellor, supra; Re Rowlls [1900], 2 Ch. 107; 69 L. J. Ch. 562; cf. Re Aste, 87 L. J. Ch. 660; and see 22 L. Q. R. 285. The rule does not apply to real estate and leaseholds devised or bequeathed upon trust for sale: Re Searle [1900] 2 Ch. 829; 69 L. J. Ch. 712: Re E. of Darnley [1907], 1 Ch. 159; 76 L. J. Ch. 58; Re Oliver [1908], 2 Ch. 74; 77 L. J. Ch. 547; Re Brooker (1926), W. N. 93. For the statutory power to postpone: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 25.

Vesting of share in real estate held on trust for sale.

Where real estate is devised on trust for sale with a discretionary power of postponement the vesting in possession of a share in the proceeds of sale never did entitle the beneficiary to call for an immediate sale of the entirety or for a conveyance of his share in the land: Re Horsnaill [1909], 1 Ch. 631; 78 L. J. Ch. 331; Re Kipping [1914], 1 Ch. 62; 83 L. J. Ch. 218. As to the rights of persons who become absolutely entitled to all the shares: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 3 (1) (ii), 34–38, conveyances of land in undivided shares are prohibited: ib., s. 34. Where trustees of a fund, of which a settled legacy forms part, have power to postpone conversion, they may postpone conversion for more than a year if it is in the interest of the whole fund that they should do so: Re Charteris [1917], 2 Ch. 379; 86 L. J. Ch. 658; see also Re Marshall [1914], 1 Ch. 192; 83 L. J. Ch. 307.

Duration of trust for sale.

In favour of a purchaser the trust for sale continues till the land is conveyed to or by the direction of the beneficiaries: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 23.

Evidence of discretion.

Trustees are not bound to show by evidence that they have exercised their discretion: Re Oddy (1911), 104 L. T. 128.

and so that any reversionary interest be not sold until it falls into possession, unless my Trustees see special reason for sale :(d)

Application of income.

(2) THE income of my personal estate, however invested,(e) shall from my death be treated and applied as income, and no part thereof shall be added to capital [except accumulations of surplus income (if any) during a minority or pending a contingency (f)] :

Sinking fund policies.

(3) PROVIDED that income may be applied in effecting and maintaining a leasehold sinking fund policy or may be set aside and invested for providing a fund to answer any liabilities which in the opinion of my Trustees ought to be borne by income :

Adjustments between capital and income.

(4) MY Trustees may in their discretion adjust, in such manner as they think fit, having regard to the circumstances of the case, the incidence, as between capital and income, of the payments made in due course of administration.(g)

No. 48.

Trusts of proceeds of sale (express trusts).

(1) MY Trustees shall out of the money to arise from the sale and conversion of my said real and personal estate and out of my ready money, pay my funeral and testamentary expenses,(h) death duties payable out of capital on my death

---

Reversions.

(d) The clause as to the sale of reversionary interests prevents the tenant for life claiming income on the value of a reversion not converted, as in Re Earl of Chesterfield's Trusts (1883), 24 Ch. D. 643; 52 L. J. Ch. 958; Re Rowlls, supra.

Application of income.

(f) Omit the words in brackets where there is no trust of the residue for infants, see T. Act, 1925, s. 31. The provisions of the Apportionment Act, 1870, are not excluded by this direction: Re Edwards [1918], 1 Ch. 142; 87 L. J. Ch. 248.

Adjustments.

(g) This sub-clause leaves it open for the trustees, in a proper case, to apply the principles in Allhusen v. Whittell, L. R. 4 Eq. 295; 36 L. J. Ch. 929; but that case must not be treated as of universal application.

Testamentary expenses.

and not charged on or primarily payable out of other property, and my debts (i) except mortgage debts (if any), on property specifically devised or bequeathed, which under the Administration of Estates Act, 1925, are to be paid primarily out of the property charged therewith (j) and shall also pay or provide for the legacies and annuities hereby or by any codicil hereto bequeathed, but so that all legacies and annuities and the duty on all legacies and annuities bequeathed free of duty shall be paid primarily out of my personal estate :(k)

Investment.

(2) MY Trustees shall (l) invest the residue of the said money in their names or under their control in or upon any of the investments hereby authorised, with power for my Trustees at their discretion (m) to change such investments for others of a like nature.

No. 49.

Definition of Trust Fund.

MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the investments hereinbefore directed to be made or authorised to be retained(n) (including any part of my residuary estate remaining unconverted) and the investments for the time being representing the same (hereinafter called the Trust Fund), and of the annual income thereof Upon the trusts following, that is to say :—(see Forms Nos. 51, 51A, 52 and 53, also Statutory Will Forms, 1925, Forms 9 or 10).

(i) This creates a charge of the whole of the debts, not merely of a rateable part, on the real estate, hence the debts are not barred till twelve years from testator's death: Re Raggi [1913], 2 Ch. 206; 82 L. J. Ch. 396.

(j) See s. 35; Re Hawkes [1912], 2 Ch. 251.

Liability to pay legacies.

(k) Without this direction the duty is payable rateably out of real and personal estate: Re Spencer Cooper [1908], 1 Ch. 130; 77 L. J. Ch. 64; and see Re Palmer (1912), 106 L. T. 319. The basis of this rule is that, notwithstanding the trust for conversion, the residue is looked upon as "a mixed fund," and legacies are payable rateably out of real and personal estate: Allan v. Gott (1872), L. R. 7 Ch. 439; 41 L. J. Ch. 571; Re Smith [1913], 2 Ch. 216; 83 L. J. Ch. 13; see also Berry v. Gaukroger [1903], 2 Ch. 116; 72 L. J. Ch. 435; Re Charlesworth [1912], 1 Ch. 319; 81 L. J. Ch. 267. This also avoids apportionment for succession duty and legacy duty under the Customs, &c., Act, 1888, s. 21 (2). The additional succession duties imposed by the section and legacy or succession duty at the rate of 1 per cent. are no longer covered by estate duty: Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 58 (2).

Apportionment of succession and legacy duty.

Investment.

(m) Trustees need not preserve evidence that they have exercised such discretion: Re Oddy (1911), 104 L. T. 128.

Retainer of investments.

(n) See Re Thomas [1891], 3 Ch. 482; 60 L. J. Ch. 781; Re Chapman [1896], 2 Ch. 763; 65 L. J. Ch. 892; Jackson v. Dickinson [1903], 1 Ch. at p. 953; 72 L. J. Ch. 761; Re Godfree [1914], 2 Ch. 110; 83 L. J. Ch. 734; cf. Re Inman [1915], 1 Ch. 187; 84 L. J. Ch. 309; T. Act, 1925, s. 4.

TRUSTS OF INCOME AND PROVISIONS RELATING THERETO.

No. 51.

Trust for spouse for life with power to appoint to issue and gift over to them.

Form 9 of the Statutory Will Forms, 1925, is incorporated in my Will and shall apply to the Trust Fund and the income thereof [with the variation that my wife [my husband] shall take a life interest determinable on re-marriage] and the statutory power of advancement shall apply for the benefit of my issue.

No. 51A.

Income to wife during

UPON TRUST (p) to pay the said income to my wife during her life without power of anticipation during any coverture [or (q) during her widowhood]. And after her death [or second marriage,(r)

Reference to powers.

(o) See the reference to general powers in Form No. 46 or 46A, which would appear to be a sufficient reference: Re Waterhouse (1908), 98 L. T. 30; Re Lane [1908], 2 Ch. 581: 77 L. J. Ch. 774.

"Separate use."

(p) This Form should follow Form No. 46 or 49; there is no need to declare a separate use: M. W. P. Act, 1907, s. 2.

Gift during widowhood where marriage void.

(q) Where between the date of a testator's Will and death his marriage was declared void ab initio, a gift to his supposed wife "during her widowhood" failed, though a legacy to her as the testator's "wife" was good, being a mere misdescription: Re Boddington (1884), 22 Ch. D. 597; 25 ib. 685; 52 L. J. Ch. 239; 53 ib. 475; see also Lepine v. Bean (1870), L. R. 10 Eq. 160; 39 L. J. Ch. 847; Phillips v. Probyn [1899], 1 Ch. 811; 68 L. J. which first happens], I direct that the capital and income of the Trust Fund shall [subject to discharging thereout the reversionary legacies hereinbefore bequeathed] be held :—(see Forms Nos. 55 and 59, infra).

No. 52.

Power to appropriate annuity fund.

(3) After the second marriage of my wife my Trustees shall so soon as conveniently may be set apart, out of the investments for the time being representing the Widow's Moiety, investments the income whereof shall at the time of appropriation be sufficient to pay the said annuity, And my Trustees shall pay the same accordingly, with power to resort to the capital of the appropriated fund whenever the income shall be insufficient, and after such appropriation the residue of the Widow's Moiety and the income thereof shall be thereby discharged from the said annuity ; And subject to the payment of the said annuity the appropriated fund, or so much thereof as shall not be resorted to to make up deficiency of income and any surplus income, shall be held upon the trusts hereby declared of the other moiety of the Trust Fund or the income thereof :

(4) The statutory power of advancement applies for the benefit of my issue.

No. 53.

Protective trusts in the income of residue.

(1) If ——, of, &c., shall be living at my death, then I direct that the annual income of the Trust Fund shall be held on protective trusts for his benefit during the residue of his life :

No. 58, infra, must be used. The alternative is to give her a power of appointment during widowhood only.

(s) This Form follows Form No. 49, supra. Under this Form the capital of one moiety will be distributable among the testator's issue as soon as they attain vested interests, part of the other moiety on the re-marriage of the widow, and the residue of the same moiety on her death.

(2) Provided that if during my lifetime some act or thing shall have been done or suffered or some event shall have happened whereby the trust expressed in paragraph (i) of sub-section (1) of section thirty-three of the Trustee Act, 1925, if subsisting, would have been determined, then the trusts expressed in paragraph (ii) of the said sub-section shall take effect from my death.

Effect of gifts over on bankruptcy, &c.

Forfeiture before testator's death.

(t) Form 53 or 53A should follow Form No. 49, supra. It is frequently desired to make the gift fail if the legatee is bankrupt, &c., at the testator's death. But a clause forfeiting a life interest on bankruptcy, though referring in terms to a future bankruptcy, takes effect where the donee has become bankrupt before the testator's death or even before the date of the Will, if such bankruptcy remains in force up to the time when the income becomes payable: Manning v. Chambers (1847), 1 Dr. & Sm. 282; 16 L. J. Ch. 245; Seymour v. Lucas (1860), 1 Dr. & Sm. 177; 29 L. J. Ch. 841; Trappes v. Meredith (1871), L. R. 7 Ch. 248; 41 L. J. Ch. 237; Metcalfe v. M. [1891], 3 Ch. 1; 60 L. J. Ch. 647; Theobald, 7th ed., 637. Similarly a life interest limited to a woman until she should take the veil was forfeited though she did so in the testator's lifetime: Re Hewitt [1926], 1 Ch. 740.

Bankruptcy annulled.

If the bankruptcy is annulled, or, in the case of a charge, the charge is satisfied before the life interest falls into possession, or before any payment has become due in respect thereof, there is no forfeiture: White v. Chitty (1866), L. R. 1 Eq. 372; 35 L. J. Ch. 343; Lloyd v. L. (1866), L. R. 2 Eq. 722; Re Parnham's Trust (1872), L. R. 13 Eq. 413; 41 L. J. Ch. 292; Samuel v. S. (1878), 12 Ch. D. 152; 47 L. J. Ch. 716. But if income has accrued while the bankruptcy was in force or during the continuance of a receiving order, the fact that it is not actually paid to the trustee in bankruptcy, or claimed by him before the annulment, does not prevent a forfeiture: Re Loftus Otway [1895], 2 Ch. 235; 64 L. J. Ch. 529; Re Baker [1904], 1 Ch. 157; 73 L. J. Ch. 172; Re Laye [1913], 1 Ch. 299.

Date of forfeiture.

If a forfeiture takes place, it operates from the date of the act of bankruptcy, and not from the date of adjudication: Montefiore v. Guedalla [1901], 1 Ch. 435; 70 L. J. Ch. 180.

Construction.

A life interest subject to a gift over in case the donee shall assign, mortgage, or anticipate the income is not forfeited by an involuntary alienation, e.g., bankruptcy: Whitfield v. Prickett (1838), 2 Keen, 608; 7 L. J. Ch. 187; Graham v. Lee (1857), 23 Beav. 388; 26 L. J. Ch. 395. It is otherwise if the gift over is in case the donee shall "do or suffer" or shall "do or permit" anything whereby the property shall be assigned or charged, or whereby the income shall "cease to be payable to A.": Roffey v. Bent (1867), L. R. 3 Eq. 759; Ex p. Eyston (1877), 7 Ch. D. 145; 47 L. J. Bk. 62; Re Brewer's S. [1896], 2 Ch. 503; 65 L. J. Ch. 821; see also generally on the subject Theobald, 7th ed., 633, et seq.; and Re Beaumont (1910), 103 L. T. 124; Re Evans [1920], 2 Ch. 304; 89 L. J. Ch. 525.

Gift over on alienation

A gift over on alienation cannot be annexed to a fee simple in land, or to any act or thing, or until any event happens [(other than an advance under any power of advancement (u))], whereby, if the same income were payable to him absolutely for his life, he would be deprived of the right to receive the same or any part thereof,(v) in any of which cases, as well as on the death of the said —— (whichever first happens), the trust hereinbefore declared for payment to him of the said income shall determine :

Discretionary trust after failure or determination of life interest.(w)

(2) If the trust aforesaid shall fail or determine in the lifetime of the said —— then Upon trust during the residue of his life to pay or apply (x) the annual income of the Trust Fund for the maintenance and support or otherwise for the benefit of all or any one or more exclusively of the other or others of him and his wife and issue (if any) as my Trustees in their absolute discretion, without being liable to account for the exercise of such discretion, think fit, or if he shall be unmarried or a widower without issue, Then for the maintenance, support or otherwise for the benefit of all or any one or more exclusively of the other or others of him and the person or persons who would, if he were actually dead, be entitled to the Trust Fund or the income thereof as my Trustees in their absolute discretion, without being liable to account as aforesaid, think fit :(y) cannot be annexed to fee simple or absolute interest.

an absolute interest in personal estate : Re Dugdale (1888), 38 Ch. D. 176 ; 57 L. J. Ch. 634 ; Corbett v. C. (1889), 14 P. D. 7 ; 58 L. J. P. 17 ; and see Theobald, 7th ed., 630, et seq. But there is apparently no objection to a gift over in the case of an absolute gift in reversion in case the donee shall have become bankrupt or aliened before the reversion falls into possession : Samuel v. S., supra ; subsequent interests will not usually be accelerated by providing that on bankruptcy the trusts for payment of income to the bankrupt shall cease as if he were actually dead : Re Cooper, 86 L. J. Ch. 507.

(u) The words in square brackets will be required if the trust fund goes ultimately to the issue of the person given a protected life interest and a power of advancement with his consent is inserted or the statutory power applies.

Garnishee order.

(v) A garnishee order does not so deprive him : Re Greenwood [1901], 1 Ch. 887 ; 70 L. J. Ch. 326 ; see also Re Mair [1909], 2 Ch. 280 ; 78 L. J. Ch. 711.

An order made in divorce proceedings temporarily extinguishing the life interest operates as a forfeiture : Re Carew (1910), 103 L. T. 658.

Remoteness.

(w) Cf. Re De Sommery [1912], 2 Ch. 622 ; 82 L. J. Ch. 17, where the power to apply the capital and income was capable of being exercised beyond the period allowed by law and was accordingly void.

Discretionary trusts under different instruments.

(x) Where there are separate discretionary trusts under two instruments there is no right of equitable contribution between them : Smith v. Cock [1911], A. C. 317 ; 80 L. J. P. C. 98.

(y) Where a son's share is settled and this Form is used, a particular class, e.g., the testator's other children, can be taken for the purpose of the discretionary trust if the son is unmarried or a widower without issue.

(3) AFTER the death of the said —— the capital and income of the Trust Fund shall be held (see Form No. 55, infra, to be adapted, or Form No. 59A, infra).

No. 54.

Provision against assignment of life interest.(z)

IF any person (other than a woman under coverture) hereby made tenant for life of any legacy or of any share in the Trust Fund shall do or attempt to do or suffer any act or thing, or in case any event (other than an advance under any power of advancement) shall happen, either in my lifetime or after my death, whereby such person would, in the absence of this present provision, be prevented from receiving all or any part of the annual income payable to him or her under my Will, then the trust hereinbefore contained for payment to him or her of such annual income shall not take effect or shall cease, as the case may be, and such annual income shall from time to time during the residue of his or her life be paid or applied to the persons and in the manner to whom and in which such annual income would for the time being be payable or applicable if the person who, but for this present provision, would be entitled to receive the same were actually dead.

SECTION X.

TRUSTS OF CAPITAL OF TRUST FUND AND PROVISIONS RELATING THERETO.

No. 55.

Trusts for issue as wife shall appoint; in default for children.

(1) IN TRUST for all or any one or more, exclusively of the others or other, of my issue, whether children or remoter descendants, at such time, and if more than one in such shares, with such provisions for maintenance, education, advancement and otherwise at the discretion of any persons, and with such gifts over and generally in such manner, for the benefit of such issue or some or one of them, as my wife shall [during her widowhood,(a)] by deed, revocable or irrevocable, or by Will or codicil, appoint, And in default of and until and subject to any such appointment, IN TRUST for all or any my children or child (b) who (z) See first note to last Form. This Form (No. 54) can be placed immediately after the trusts affecting the residuary estate.

Power to appoint after cesser.

(a) If the wife is given a life interest determinable on re-marriage and a power of appointment during her life, Form No. 58, infra, which disposes of the income between the dates of the second marriage and the death of the wife, should be used.

Statutory forms not applicable when a child's share is settled.

Form No. 55 will not be used if Statutory Will Forms, 1925, Forms 9 and 10, are incorporated; but these statutory forms are not applicable when a child's share is settled. They could be varied, but it will generally be safer in such cases to use the express trusts.

(b) Only children who survive the testator take under this trust.

Provision against failure by death of one of a class (applicable when a share is not settled).

(3) PROVIDED that if any child [son (d)] of mine dies in my lifetime leaving issue living at my death, the [original and accruing] share [or shares] to which such child [son] would have been entitled if living at my death and having then attained the age of twenty-one years shall nevertheless go and devolve in like manner and be held on the like trusts as if the child [son] so dying had attained the age of twenty-one years and survived me and died immediately after my death.(e) [But so, nevertheless, that this proviso shall operate by way of direct gift to the persons (if any) beneficially interested under the Will or on the intestacy of such child [son], and shall not make any such share part of the estate of such child [son] so as to be liable for debts or estate or other duty.(f)]

No. 56.

Hotchpot clause.

ANY child who or whose issue takes any part of the Trust Fund under any appointment by my wife shall not, in the absence of any direction by her to the contrary, take any share in the unappointed part without bringing the share or shares appointed to him or her or his or her issue into hotchpot and accounting for the same accordingly.(g)

Provisions against failure of trusts.

Hotchpot.

(c) This provision preserves the interests of the persons entitled in reversion to the settled shares in the event of daughters dying in the lifetime of the testator: Re Roberts (1885), 30 Ch. D. 234; Re Pinhorne [1894], 2 Ch. 276; 63 L. J. Ch. 607; Re Powell [1900], 2 Ch. 525; 69 L. J. Ch. 788; Re Whitmore [1902], 2 Ch. 66; 71 L. J. Ch. 673; and see Re Walter [1912], 56 Sol. J. 632; Re Laing [1912], 2 Ch. 386; 81 L. J. Ch. 686; Theobald, 7th ed., 783.

(d) Where daughters' shares are settled as above, this proviso must be confined to the case of sons. If sons' shares are also settled, the proviso should be omitted. The words "original and accruing" apply where there is a gift over, see sub-clause (6) of Form No. 60, infra.

(e) This Form without the words at the end makes the share part of the deceased child's personal estate. A gift to children is a gift to a class living at the testator's death, and a child dying in his lifetime does not come within the description, so that s. 33 of the Wills Act, 1837, does not apply; see Theobald, 7th ed., 785.

(g) See Theobald, 7th ed., 772–79. If the Statutory Will Form, No. 9, is applied no express hotchpot clause will be required. As to the date on which the value of stocks brought into hotchpot should be ascertained, see Re Crocker [1916], 1 Ch. 25; 85 L. J. Ch. 179; also article in 140 L. T. 388.

Trust of income after second marriage of wife who takes during widowhood and has a power of appointment.

AFTER the second marriage of my wife the annual income of the Trust Fund shall, during the residue of her life, be paid or applied in like manner as the same would for the time being be payable or applicable if my wife were dead, having regard to any appointments which for the time being have actually been made by her under the power aforesaid, but so that such payment or application shall not be suspended on account of the possibility that she may make any future appointment or revoke an appointment.

Trusts for spouse and issue without a power of appointment by reference to Statutory Will Forms.

FORM 10 of the Statutory Will Forms, 1925 is incorporated in my Will and applies to the Trust Fund, subject to the following modifications, namely—

(1) The life interest of my wife shall be without power of anticipation during coverture [or the life interest of my wife shall determine on her re-marriage and the gift over shall take effect as if she had died at the time of her re-marriage]:

Statutory power, when applicable.

(h) T. Act, 1925, s. 32 (giving the power of advancement), applies to trusts created after 1925, but only where the property consists of money or securities (ib., s. 68 (13)) or of property held on trust for sale and the money securities or proceeds are not considered as land or applicable as capital money for the purposes of the S. L. Act, 1925. Thus the power will generally apply in the case of personalty settlements and wills, but to remove doubts and to call attention to the power it will generally be expedient to refer to it.

(i) These words are only required where the wife takes a prior interest.

Interest on advancements.

(j) See Theobald, 7th ed., 463. The rate of interest on advances which are brought into hotchpot is £4 per cent.: Re Davy [1908], 1 Ch. 61; 77 L. J. Ch. 67. An advancement clause may affect the construction of a gift to a class: Re Dunn [1916], 1 Ch. 97; 85 L. J. Ch. 168; Re Ward [1920], 1 Ch. 334; 89 L. J. Ch. 181.

(k) A gift to children living at the wife's death and to the issue of children who die in the wife's lifetime does not, where the wife predeceases the testator, confer any interest on the issue of a son of the testator who is living at the wife's death but not at the death of the testator: Re Kinnear (1904), 90 L. Variation where vesting postponed till death of survivor of the testator and his wife.

In Form No. 59A sons' as well as daughters' shares must vest on marriage under age; cf. Stat. Will Forms, No. 10.

(m) This Form is not applicable where children's shares are settled. In this case (if the wife is to have no power to appoint) the last trust in sub-clause (1) of Form No. 55, supra, should be used, followed by sub-clause (2) of that Form.

Settlement of children's shares.

(n) This Form (No. 60) will follow after Forms Nos. 55, 56 and 57, supra. The shares of sons as well as daughters may be settled in the same way; then the reference will be to a "child's" share. Protected life interests may be given to sons, Form No. 53, supra, and the necessary alterations, e.g., power to appoint life interests to wives as well as husbands, made in the above Form. The brackets in Form No. 60 show the variations requisite when the wife takes a life interest or power of appointment, and when sons' shares are settled as well as daughters' shares.

(w) Where sons' shares as well as those of daughters are settled the Form will be as follows:—

Power for children to appoint life interests to surviving wives or husbands.

EACH child of mine may, notwithstanding any of the trusts hereinbefore contained concerning such child's share [or legacy], from time to time or at any time by deed, revocable or irrevocable, or by Will or codicil appoint to or for the benefit of any husband or wife who may survive the Appointor during the residue of the life of such husband or wife or any less period (and subject to such conditions (if any), and with such gifts over and discretionary or other trusts for the benefit of the husband or wife and issue, or otherwise of the Appointor, as the Appointor may think fit), all or any part of the annual income of the share of the Appointor, as well original as accrued and to accrue, under the trusts aforesaid [or of the legacy hereinbefore bequeathed to the Appointor], or of so much thereof as shall not before the death of the Appointor have been paid or applied under any power affecting the same; And upon any such appointment the trusts and powers hereby limited to take effect after the death of the Appointor shall take effect subject to the interest limited by any such appointment : Provided that the power last aforesaid to appoint by deed shall not be exercisable by a daughter of mine while under coverture.

If sons' shares are settled, but they are intended to take absolutely at twenty-five (see the notes to Form No. 61, infra), the following clause should be added :—

No. 60A.

Power to determine trusts of each son's share on his attaining twenty-five.

NOTWITHSTANDING any of the trusts hereby declared concerning the share, as well original as accruing or to accrue, of any son of mine who attains the age of twenty-five years, my Trustees may at their absolute discretion, without being liable to account for the exercise of such discretion, by writing declare that the trusts and powers affecting the whole or any part of such share shall thenceforth cease, and my Trustees shall as soon thereafter as practicable transfer the premises to which such declaration relates, or any property appropriated to answer the same, to such son absolutely.

(x) This sub-clause may be omitted if brevity is desired, see T. Act, 1925, s. 37.

(y) This sub-clause may also be omitted where brevity is desired.

[of such child], revoke from and after the intended marriage all or any of the trusts, powers and provisions hereinbefore declared concerning the share, as well original as accrued and to accrue, in the Trust Fund [or the legacy] of the same daughter [child], and may either direct the whole or any part or parts thereof to be held immediately after the marriage IN TRUST for such daughter [child] absolutely, or may declare and limit such other trusts, powers and provisions to take effect after the intended marriage and concerning the same share [or legacy], or any part or parts thereof, as to my Trustees with such consent as aforesaid shall seem proper, and if thought expedient may constitute any other persons trustees of the same share [or legacy], and may [after the death [or second marriage, which happens] of my wife] transfer the same or the investments representing the same to such persons accordingly, whose receipt in writing shall be a sufficient discharge for the same;

No. 61.

Trust for children and issue of deceased children of testator all living at his death. Shares vesting at twenty-five or marriage.(a)

(1) Trusts for children and issue of deceased children of testator all living at his death—Form No. 59A, substituting "twenty-five" for "twenty-one."

Postponement of vesting until twenty-five, practice condemned.

(z) This sub-clause may be omitted if brevity is desired.

(a) Testators are sometimes desirous of postponing the vesting of legacies and shares of residue until the legatee attains the age of twenty-five years. This cannot be done in the case of an ante-nuptial settlement, as such a trust would be void for remoteness: Vaizey, 1228; though if created after 1925 the trust would be construed as if twenty-one were substituted for twenty-five:

Alternative method recommended

L. P. Act, 1925, s. 163. It is feasible in the case of Wills, where the legatees must be in existence at the testator's death (see Re Ricketts [1910], 103 L. T. 278); most of the difficulties have been removed by T. Act, 1925, s. 31, but by reason of the fact that the legatee can raise money on his share with the aid of a policy after he attains twenty-one, the practice must be condemned. It is clearly better for protecting improvident children to settle the shares in the ordinary way (see last Form), and to give the trustees a discretionary power (No. 60A, supra) to transfer the share to the beneficiary on attaining twenty-five absolutely: this prevents the child from raising money, with the aid of a policy, on his expectant share between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-five; but as testators, notwithstanding the futility of the arrangement, sometimes insist on the vesting being postponed, the above Form (No. 61) is given, but is not recommended.

Old law.

For the old forms applicable see 21st ed., Vol. II, 879–84, and notes thereto.

Maintenance and accumulation where vesting postponed till twenty-five or marriage.

T. Act, 1925, s. 31, applies though the vesting is postponed till twenty-five, provided that the intermediate income goes with the child's share. No accumulations will be made between the age of twenty-one and twenty-five. After the child attains twenty-one the income of the share and of the accumulations will be paid to the child. Where the child attains an absolute interest in the share on marriage, the accumulations will be paid to the child whether or not of full age. The child does not have a vested interest in the income during infancy or till marriage within sub-s. (2) (i) (a), nor does the child become entitled to the capital on attaining twenty-one, hence the accumulations will go with the capital.

An express trust for maintenance or accumulation will now seldom be required, but when employed the following points must be borne in mind:—

Perpetuity rule applies as to maintenance.

(1) The provisions as to maintenance must comply with the perpetuity rule: Re Blew [1906], 1 Ch. 624; 75 L. J. Ch. 373. This will be the case under s. 31, supra.

Accumulations.

Periods authorised.

(2) The testator's power of directing accumulations of surplus income is restricted by L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 164–66; 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 416–23. He has three periods to choose from, see s. 164 (1)—

(i) Twenty-one years from his death. This is reckoned exclusively of the day of his death: Gorst v. Lowndes (1841), 11 Sim. 434; 10 L. J. Ch. 161; Theobald, 7th ed., 615, and cases there cited;

(ii) During the minority or respective minorities of any person or persons living or en ventre sa mere at his death;

(iii) During the minority or respective minorities of any person or persons who under the trusts of the Will would, for the time being, if of full age, be entitled to the income. This is not confined to persons born in the testator's lifetime: Re Cattell [1914], 1 Ch. 177; 83 L. J. Ch. 322.

Only one period may be selected.

(3) The testator may select only one of the three periods: Wilson v. W. (1851), 1 Sim. N. S. 288; 20 L. J. Ch. 365; Jagger v. J. (1884), 25 Ch. D. 729; 53 L. J. Ch. 201; Re Cattell, supra, at p. 186. But accumulations during a minority under the statutory power or under the general law are not reckoned as one of the periods: s. 165.

Trust for accumulation implied by general law.

Intermediate income to be disposed of.

(4) Though no express direction as to accumulation is inserted beyond the prescribed period, a trust to accumulate, where accumulation is necessary in the ordinary course, may (e.g., in the case of a minority) be implied, see Tench v. Cheese (1855), 6 D. M. & G. 453; 24 L. J. Ch. 716, and other cases collected in Theobald, 7th ed., at p. 614. Hence, the intermediate income and the income of the accumulated fund must be dealt with between the expiration of the valid accumulation period and the date of vesting if an express trust for accumulation is employed. Having regard however to T. Act, 1925, s. 31, an express trust should seldom be required.

Maintenance.

(2) THE statutory provisions as to maintenance and accumulation of surplus income shall apply [without regard to whether or not any other income is applicable for a like purpose and without any obligation to apply a proportionate part only of the income].

Advancement.

(3) THE statutory power of advancement shall also apply.

No. 62.

Trust to accumulate for twenty-one years.(b)

(1) MY Trustees shall, for a period of twenty-one years from my death, stand possessed of the Trust Fund UPON TRUST to accumulate the income thereof in the way of compound interest by investing the same and the resulting income thereof from time to time in any investments in which my residuary estate is authorised to be invested (other than for the purchase of land only) and shall add the accumulations to the capital of that fund.

(2) AFTER the expiration of the said period the Trust Fund

Implied vesting of capital by gift of intermediate income.

(5) In every direction for payment of income during the period before a gift vests care must be taken that the income is not given, whether by way of maintenance or otherwise, in a manner which will operate to vest the gift: Re Gossling [1903], 1 Ch. 448; 72 L. J. Ch. 433; Re Williams [1907], 1 Ch. 180; 76 L. J. Ch. 41; see also Re Ricketts [1910], 103 L. T. 278; Re L. Nunburnholme [1912], 1 Ch. 489; 81 L. J. Ch. 347; cf. Re Woolfe [1920], 1 Ch. 184; 89 L. J. Ch. 11; Re Ussher [1922], 2 Ch. 321; 91 L. J. Ch. 521. Hence the use of an express direction that the gift of income shall not vest capital where s. 31 is not to apply.

Meaning of "minority."

(6) There should be no ambiguity in the draft as to the meaning of the word "minority," see Milroy v. M. (1844), 14 Sim. 48; 13 L. J. Ch. 266; Maddison v. Chapman (1859), 3 De G. & J. 536; 28 L. J. Ch. 450; Fraser v. F. (1863), 1 N. R. 430; Theobald, 7th ed., 587. There must be no confusion as to whether the testator means minority in the ordinary sense of infancy or the period during which vesting is postponed.

Best period to adopt for accumulation.

(7) If an express trust for accumulation is employed the best period to be taken is that of the minorities of persons who, if of full age, would be entitled to the income, for it is less likely to result in more than one period being adopted throughout the Will.

Meaning of accumulation.

(8) A direction to invest income must now be treated as a direction to accumulate though the resulting income may not be accumulated: 1 Wolst. and Cherry, 11th ed., 418; Re Clutterbuck [1901], 2 Ch. 285, 287; Re Garside [1919], 1 Ch. 132, 137; 88 L. J. Ch. 116.

Exclusion of maintenance.

(9) A provision excluding maintenance while an infant is in the custody or control of his father is good: Re Borwick [1916], 2 Ch. 304; 85 L. J. Ch. 732.

Purchase of land only.

(b) There is no power to accumulate for "the purchase of land only" for a longer period than the duration of minorities of persons who under the limitations would, if of full age, be entitled to the income: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 166, but this restriction does not apply if the accumulations are to be held as capital money for the purposes of the S. L. Act: ib.

Accumulations during minorities after the end of the twenty-one years.

Subject to this, an express trust to accumulate for the twenty-one years does not prevent the statutory power of accumulation during a minority (T. Act, 1925, s. 31) from operating after the expiration of the twenty-one years: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 165.

(including the said accumulations) and the income thereof shall be held on the trusts following, namely :—

Power to raise money for sons out of their shares.(c)

My Trustees may from time to time at their discretion, but during the lifetime [widowhood] of my wife only with her consent in writing, raise by mortgage, sale or otherwise, out of the share, whether vested or contingent, of any son of mine in the Trust Fund any sums not exceeding in the whole the sum of £—— for each son, and may pay any sums so raised to the son out of whose share it was raised for the purpose of placing him in business or otherwise for his benefit, and may make any payment absolutely or by way of loan, with or without taking any security for repayment, as my Trustees may, without being liable to account, think proper.

No. 64.

Declaration that sum paid or settled be taken as part payment of residuary share.(d)

Any and all capital sums or property which on the marriage of any child of mine or by way of advancement [have been or] shall be paid to him or her or settled by me on such marriage (including any capital sum or property covenanted to be paid or transferred by me) shall, in accordance with the directions of my Trustees, be taken as being so paid or settled in or towards satisfaction of his or her share in the Trust Fund [or the legacy hereinbefore bequeathed to him or her] [but this provision shall not extend to any property to which any issue of mine may under or in default of appointment become entitled under the trusts of my marriage settlement dated, &c., and such property shall not be brought into account].

When interest begins to run on advances.

Where advances made in the testator's lifetime are to be brought into account interest is reckoned at £4 per cent. : Re Davy [1908], 1 Ch. 61 ; 77 L. J. No. 65.

Ultimate gift of residue.

SUBJECT to the trusts and powers hereinbefore contained, the Trust Fund and the income thereof and all statutory accumulations (if any) of income, or so much thereof respectively as shall not have become vested or been paid or applied under any trust or power affecting the same, shall be held IN TRUST for —— absolutely, [and such gift shall not lapse by reason of his death in my lifetime, but the premises shall devolve as if he had survived me and died immediately after my death,(e) and this provision shall operate by way of direct gift to the persons who under his will or on his intestacy would have become beneficially entitled thereto if he had died possessed thereof, and shall not if he dies in my lifetime make the premises part of his estate so as to be liable for his debts and estate or other duty].

SECTION XI.

OPTIONS TO PURCHASE.

No. 66.

Power for son to purchase part of the property at a fixed sum.(f)

---

(e) This Form avoids an intestacy.

Residue of a residue.

Care should be taken not to give "the residue" of any residuary estate or of the trust fund in the ultimate gift, but the fund itself should be given as in the text subject to the foregoing trusts, see Theobald, 7th ed., 234, et seq.

Option to purchase incumbered land, &c.

(f) Where the property in respect to which the option is given is subject to a mortgage, the person exercising the option is entitled to have the property conveyed to him free from the mortgage, as Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 35, does not apply: Re Wilson [1908], 1 Ch. 839; 77 L. J. Ch. 564.

Option overrides general trust for sale in equity.

So long as the option to purchase remains exercisable a general trust for sale remains in abeyance: Re Barnes (1883), W. N. 131. An option to purchase created after 1925 is an "estate contract"; unless a land charge is registered to protect it, a purchaser for money's worth will not be concerned therewith: L. C. Act, 1925, ss. 10, Class C (iv), 13 (2). A purchaser under a trust for sale is not concerned with any directions respecting the postponement of the sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 25 (2). A trust "either to retain or sell land" created after 1925 will be construed as a trust to sell with power to postpone: ib., sub-s. (4); 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 178–79.

Direction to postpone sale.

Trust to retain or sell.

Postponement of assent.

Where an option to purchase is subsisting, it will generally be expedient for the executors to postpone the assent to the trustees for sale, till the option expires.

by a notice in writing given to my Trustees or to one of them, signify his desire to purchase the messuage known as —— and the garden and grounds held therewith at the sum of £——, then and in such case my Trustees shall sell the same to him at that price :

Statement of Trustees to be conclusive.

(2) UPON any sale or other dealing by my Trustees after the expiration of the said twelve months the statement in writing of my Trustees that no notice of intention to purchase has been given by my said son shall in favour of a purchaser or other person dealing with my Trustees for money or money's worth be conclusive evidence of the fact so stated.

No. 67.

Similar power where son is a trustee at a valuation.

(1) IF my son —— shall within twelve months after my death, by a notice in writing given to the other trustees of my Will, or to one of them, offer to purchase any land forming part of my residuary estate, then and in such case the land so offered to be purchased shall be sold to my said son, notwithstanding that he is a trustee, at a price to be agreed on between him and the other trustees of my Will, or if they are unable to agree, then at a price to be determined by the valuation of two independent persons, one to be nominated by each party, or by an umpire to be chosen by the two valuers before they proceed to act in the valuation :

(2) UPON any sale, &c. (continue as in last Form to end).

No. 68.

Power for sons to purchase real estate at a valuation.

(1) IF any of my sons, having attained the age of twenty-one years, shall within twelve months after my death, by a notice in writing to be given to my Trustees or any one of them, offer to purchase any land forming part of my residuary estate, then and in such case the land shall be sold to the son making such offer at a price to be agreed on between my Trustees and my said son, or if they are unable to agree, then at a price to be determined by the valuation of two independent persons, one to be chosen by each party, or by an umpire to be chosen by the two valuers before they proceed to act in the valuation :

(2) IF two or more of my said sons shall offer to purchase the same land under the said option, the preference shall be given to the eldest or elder of the sons making such offer, and, in order to give effect to such preference, any offer made by a younger son shall be deemed to be conditional on no offer being made by an elder son within the time aforesaid :

(3) ANY son of mine may exercise any such option notwithstanding that he may be a trustee of my Will, and in that case the notice shall be given to the other trustees of my Will who may act in the matter as if the son giving the notice had not been a trustee :

Protection to purchasers.

(4) PROVIDED that no purchaser or other person dealing with my Trustees for money or money's worth shall after the expiration of twelve months from my death be concerned to see or inquire whether any of my sons shall have made such offer to purchase as aforesaid, nor be affected by notice that such offer has been made.

No. 69.

General power for a Trustee to purchase.

THE said —— may, notwithstanding his being a trustee of my Will, become the purchaser of any part of my real or personal estate at any public sale thereof or by private contract, provided in the latter case that the sale shall be conducted on behalf of my estate by my Trustees other than the said —— or shall be at a price fixed by a competent person named by such other trustees or trustee.

SECTION XII.

PROVISIONS AS TO INTERESTS IN BUSINESSES.

No. 70.

Power to arrange with executor who is a partner.(g)

IN all matters affecting my partnership affairs or accounts and in all other matters (if any) affecting my estate in which the said —— may be personally interested, including a sale of all or any part of my share or interest in the said partnership to the said —— or any other partner therein, the other executor or trustee or the other executors or trustees for the time being of my Will, exclusive of the said ——, may alone act in the settlement of all accounts and questions or in contracting for and effecting such sale, and in other matters affecting the said —— personally, with all the same powers and effect and with the like result as regards binding my estate and all persons claiming under my Will as if the said —— had not been an executor or trustee of my Will.

No. 71.

Power for Trustees to wind up share of testator in partnership business.

(1) WITH respect to my share and interest in the business of —— now carried on by me at —— in partnership with —— (names), under the style of —— & Co., my Trustees may adjust and settle all accounts and transactions relating to the said partnership business, and may wind up the affairs and concerns thereof, and ascertain the amount of my share and interest therein either according to the provisions of the Articles of partnership under which the said business shall be carried on at my death or upon such other terms and in such other manner as may be agreed between my Trustees and my surviving partners with power for my Trustees to refer to arbitration or otherwise to compromise or settle any question that may arise in or about the winding up of the said business in such manner as they may think fit, and generally to do and execute all such acts and things in relation to the premises as may appear to them necessary or expedient, without being liable for any loss which may arise thereby [and in particular my Trustees may, without being liable as aforesaid take as correct such balance-sheet as may be furnished by the said firm, and it shall not be obligatory on my Trustees to verify the same or to call for the production of the books of the said firm (h)]:

Power for Trustees to permit testator's share of capital to remain in business for seven years. (i)

(2) My Trustees may, if they in their absolute discretion think fit, permit the whole or any part of the amount which on taking the accounts of the said partnership shall appear to be due to my estate as my share and interest in the said business (except undrawn profits) to remain in the said business as a loan for any period not exceeding seven years from my death, notwithstanding any change among the partners, but so that the repayment thereof, with interest at the rate of £5 per cent. per annum, shall be secured by the joint and several covenant or bond of the persons for the time being continuing to carry on the said business, either with or without any other security for the same, as my Trustees shall think fit:

Power to continue loan on security of debentures if firm taken over by company.

(3) If the business of the said firm shall be purchased or taken over by a limited company, my Trustees may permit such loan to continue and remain during the aforesaid period or any further period upon the security of debentures or debenture stock of such company, and the same shall be deemed to be authorised investments for the purposes of my Will.

No. 72.

(i) Sometimes the loan is authorised to remain so long as, e.g., the testator's brother is a partner.

Effect of change of partners.

Under a power to lend money to a particular firm it is a breach of trust to continue the loan after a change in the members of the firm: Re Tucker [1894], 1 Ch. 724; 3 Ch. 429; 63 L. J. Ch. 223, 737; Smith v. Patrick [1901], A. C. 282; 70 L. J. P. C. 19.

so long as they may think fit, or discontinue the same at any time and wind up the affairs thereof, with power for my Trustees if and so long as they shall continue the business to employ therein the whole or any part of the capital which shall be employed therein at my death, and also such further part (if any) of my estate as they shall think expedient, and with power also to employ managers, agents and clerks, and also to admit any persons as partners with them in the business, and generally to act in the conduct of the said business as they shall in their absolute discretion think fit, without being answerable for any loss arising thereby :

Profits of business if carried on.

The same. A wider form.

WITH respect to the business of a —— carried on by me in partnership with —— under Articles of partnership dated the —— day of ——, 19—, I declare as follows :—

Power for Trustees to make arrangements for carrying into effect Articles of Partnership. (l)

(1) MY Trustees may make such arrangements as may seem to them desirable for carrying into effect the provisions of the said Articles or any extended or substituted Articles under which I may be carrying on the said business at my death, with power to determine in such manner as may be advised by counsel or otherwise any question which may arise as to the construction of such Articles or otherwise in relation thereto :

Power to vary Articles.

(2) MY Trustees may, if they shall think fit, vary the provisions of such Articles in such manner as may be agreed between them and my surviving partners :

Carrying on testator's business.

(j) Authorities on the following points will be found in Theobald, 7th ed., at p. 457 ; see also Chap. IV, supra :—

(1) That a testator's business cannot be carried on without authority, but under a power to postpone sale the business may be carried on during the postponement ; cf. Re Marshall [1914], 1 Ch. 192 ;

(2) That a simple authority to carry on the business does not authorise the executors to apply capital for the purpose which is not in the business at the death of the testator ;

(3) That authority to carry on business authorises the use of the business premises and permits them to be mortgaged for business purposes ;

(4) That an authority to trustees to carry on business means to all of them, and part of their number cannot alone carry it on.

Depreciation.

(k) The trustees can charge, against profits, costs of repairs and an annual sum for depreciation of plant : Re Crabtree (1912), 106 L. T. 49.

Bankruptcy.

(l) Trustees carrying on business in the testator's trade name are not partners under the Partnership Act, 1890, s. 1 ; they cannot be made bankrupt as partners under Bkcy. Act, 1914, s. 119 ; Re Fisher & Sons [1912], 2 K. B. 491 ; 81 L. J. K. B. 1246.

Power for Trustees to continue business.

(3) SUBJECT to the provisions of such Articles, if and so long as the same shall remain in force, my Trustees may continue the said business for such period after my death as they may think fit, with power to carry on the same either alone or in partnership with the persons (if any) who shall be my partners at my death or with any other persons, and upon such terms as to division of profits and otherwise as may be agreed on, and with power also to employ in the said business the whole or any part of my capital which shall be employed therein at my death and also such further part (if any) of my estate and effects as to my Trustees shall seem proper, and with power also to employ such managers, agents and clerks in or about the said business and to allow to them such salaries and wages as my Trustees shall think fit: And my Trustees shall have the same powers as to the mode of conducting the said business and otherwise in relation thereto as if they were the absolute owners thereof with any such partners:

Power to make arrangements for introduction of son into business.

(4) MY Trustees (subject as aforesaid) may make such arrangements as may seem to them desirable for the introduction at any time into the said business of any one or more of my sons whom my Trustees shall think fit to introduce into the said business, and for the employment of any such sons in the same business in the meantime as a manager or clerk or in any other capacity at such salary or wages and upon such terms as my Trustees shall think fit:

Power to advance capital to son so introduced.

(5) MY Trustees may at their absolute discretion advance to any sons of mine who shall be introduced into the said business as aforesaid either alone or jointly with any partners, or may continue in the possession or under the control of such sons either alone or jointly as aforesaid, the whole or any part of my estate and effects for the time being employed in such business, and also, if my Trustees shall think fit, any further part of my estate and effects, for such time and upon such terms and conditions, and either with or without security, as my Trustees shall think fit: And the capital so advanced to or left in the possession or under the control of any such sons either alone or jointly as aforesaid shall be considered as a debt to my estate, and shall carry interest at the rate of £5 per cent. per annum, but no son of mine introduced into the said business as aforesaid shall pay anything to my estate for the goodwill of the said business:

Power to leave

(6) MY Trustees may, if they think fit, leave the entire management of the said business while so continued as aforesaid to the other partners (if any), or if there shall be no such partner, then to any managers to be appointed for that purpose by my Trustees, and my Trustees shall be under no obligation to attend personally to the said business or be in any wise responsible for any loss which may arise by their omission to attend personally to the said business or to interfere therein: And if one or more of the Trustees for the time being of my Will shall be unwilling to engage in and continue such business as aforesaid, he or they may allow his or their co-trustee or co-trustees to engage in and continue the same and to act alone in relation to the trusts of my Will so far as regards such business [notwithstanding that any trustee continuing the same shall be a partner in the said firm]:

management of business to partners or to co-trustee.

(7) MY Trustees for the time being carrying on the said business shall be entitled to retain and divide between themselves for their own use the annual sum of £—— out of the net profits of the said business belonging to my estate as a remuneration for their trouble:(m)

Trustees to be entitled to allowance for carrying on business.

(8) SUBJECT to the said Articles of partnership, my Trustees may discontinue and wind up the said business as far as regards my estate, either immediately after my death or at such other times as they shall think fit, and may make such arrangements in relation thereto as they may deem proper, and in particular my Trustees may—

Power to wind up business and to sell to a company.

(i) arrange or concur in arranging for the incorporation of a limited company to purchase the said business with or without other assets (with a view to carrying on the same) for such consideration, whether wholly or partially in cash, shares or securities or otherwise as my Trustees may think fit and so that such shares and securities shall be treated as authorised investments for the purposes of my Will;

(ii) arrange or concur in arranging for the sale of the said business with or without other assets to any subsisting company for such consideration as aforesaid and so that shares and securities taken in or towards satisfaction of the purchase-money shall be treated as authorised investments as aforesaid:

(iii) leave to any partner, agent or other person the collection of any outstanding debts;

(m) Where trustees are authorised to appoint one of their number to act as manager at a salary, the salary is a legacy and does not take priority over creditors: Re Salmen (1912), 56 Sol. J. 632.

Salaries.

(iv) give such time as my Trustees shall think fit for payment by any partners of the sum which under any such arrangement as aforesaid shall become payable by them to my estate, either with or without security ;

(v) appoint or concur in appointing such accountants, valuers and other persons as may be deemed proper for taking the accounts of the said partnership and for valuing any matters which may be capable of valuation ;

(vi) settle and adjust accounts, refer to arbitration or otherwise compromise and settle any questions and differences ;

(vii) generally have the same powers in relation to the winding up or disposal of the said business as if they were the absolute owners thereof :

Profits of business if carried on.

(9) DURING the continuance of such business as part of my estate the net profits (n) arising therefrom shall (subject to providing for the remuneration of my Trustees hereinbefore mentioned) be applied in like manner as income arising from investments representing the proceeds of sale of such business would, if sold, be applicable.

Act, 1925, s. 25; the powers of a tenant for life, with power to partition will be exercisable by the trustees for sale: ib., s. 28; any money arising from the sale of land under the trusts for conversion would be available for the purchase of land to be held on trust for sale: ib.; independently of the direction to convey on trust for sale this would be implied: ib., s. 32; which applies to settlements and Wills of personalty made after 1911. MONEY liable to be invested under my Will may be invested in any investments from time to time authorised by law for the estate or chattels real in or arising in England or Wales [or Northern Ireland] being either freehold (whether or not subject to manorial incidents or to a compensation rentcharge) or leasehold for any term of years, whereof not less than sixty years is unexpired at the time of purchase (with power to effect and maintain sinking fund policies), or Trustee investments only.

MONEY liable to be invested under my Will may be invested in any investments from time to time authorised by law for the investment of trust money.

Nature of bonus.

As to the cases in which, as between tenant for life and remainderman, a bonus is income or capital, see Bouch v. Sproule (1887), 12 A. C. 385; 56 L. J. Ch. 1037; Re Alsbury (1890), 45 Ch. D. 237; 60 L. J. Ch. 29; Re Armitage [1893], 3 Ch. 337; 63 L. J. Ch. 110; Re Taylor [1905], 1 Ch. 734; 74 L. J. Ch. 419; Re Palmer (1912), 56 Sol. J. 363; Re Evans [1913], 1 Ch. 23; 82 L. J. Ch. 12; Re Wakley [1920], 2 Ch. 205; 89 L. J. Ch. 321; Re Speir [1924], 1 Ch. 359; 93 L. J. Ch. 225.

Supplementary powers.

Loans for term certain.

Mortgage valuations.

Company powers.

Under T. Act, 1925, s. 10, trustees have power to lend money for a term of seven years certain, meeting Vickery v. Evans (1863), 33 Beav. 376; to contract that not more than two-thirds of the purchase-money arising on a sale of a fee simple or a term having at least 500 years to run may be left on mortgage without a valuation; to concur in schemes for reconstruction, sale and amalgamation of companies; to subscribe for new securities under conditional or preferential rights, to renounce such rights, to sell them and Power to make contributory loans.

(3) My Trustees may [with such consent or at such discretion as aforesaid] lend money on any security hereinbefore authorised in conjunction with money lent by any other persons by way of contributory loan, and may accept the security in the names of my Trustees or in the name of one of them together with other names or another name [or may permit the same to be taken exclusively in the names of other persons, as may be deemed expedient(w)].

treat the proceeds as capital. Under s. 11 they may pay money into a bank to a deposit or other account, the interest being treated as income, and may pay calls out of capital. There is, however, no statutory power to make contributory loans.

Release of part of security. Varying rate of interest, &c.

Apart from express power trustees may release part of a security on being satisfied that the remaining security will be sufficient, on the ground that they would otherwise be paid off: Lewin, 12th ed., 742; a tenant for life may with the consent of an incumbrancer vary the rate of interest and the provisions of the mortgage, hence trustees for sale, when in the position of mortgagors, have similar powers: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 70; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28.

Marketable title.

A trustee whether purchasing or lending money on land may accept a shorter title than that provided by law (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 44) provided it is one which a person acting with prudence would have accepted: T. Act, 1925, s. 8 (3).

Contributory loans by trustees.

(w) A contributory loan is a breach of trust unless authorised expressly: Webb v. Jonas (1888), 39 Ch. D. 660; 57 L. J. Ch. 671; Re Dive [1909], 1 Ch. 328; 78 L. J. Ch. 248; and see Stokes v. Prance [1898], 1 Ch. 212; 67 L. J. Ch. 69.

Duty of trustees as to custody of bonds to bearer.

Where trustees were, independently of T. Act, 1925, s. 7, authorised to retain bonds to bearer, they might deposit them with bankers for the purpose of collecting dividends: Re De Pothonier [1900], 2 Ch. 529; 69 L. J. Ch. 773; but not with solicitors; Field v. F. [1894], 1 Ch. 425; 63 L. J. Ch. 233; nor can they do so under s. 7.

"Under their control."

Before 1926, the words "under their control" were used to show that bearer securities were not to be prohibited by a direction to invest in the names of trustees: Re Roth (1896), W. N. 16; 74 L. T. 50; these words are no longer necessary: ib., s. 7 (1).

Title deeds.

Title deeds, where frequently required for reference, e.g., in the development of a building estate, may be left in the custody of solicitors acting in the trust: Field v. F., supra. In the absence of special circumstances, a trustee is not entitled to have title deeds and non-negotiable securities removed from the custody of a co-trustee and placed at a bank in a box accessible only to the trustees jointly: Re Sisson [1903], 1 Ch. 262; 72 L. J. Ch. 212. But under T. Act, 1925, s. 21, trustees may, at the cost of income, deposit documents with a banking or other proper company for safe custody.

As to handing over deeds relating to the legal estate in settled land to the tenant for life or statutory owners: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 98 (3), and as to endorsements to be made thereon: ib.

Trusts of land purchased.

(2) MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the net money to arise from any such sale and any other capital money arising under their statutory powers (after payment of the costs incidental thereto), Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions (including this present power of purchasing land) upon and subject to which the money laid out under this present power would then have been held if the same had not been so laid out:(y)

Trust fund applicable as capital money.

(x) This Form makes the trust fund liable to be laid out in the purchase of land within the meaning of S. L. Act, 1925, s. 77; Re Soltau [1898], 2 Ch. 629; 68 L. J. Ch. 39; Re Thomas [1900], 1 Ch. 319, 323; 69 L. J. Ch. 198; in any case capital arising from land held on trust for sale may be invested or applied as "capital money": L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28. In view of the words "applicable as capital money for the purposes of the S. L. Act, 1925," in T. Act, 1925, s. 32 (2), semble, it is safer to provide expressly that the statutory power of advancement shall, when required, apply in personalty settlements and wills, though it is conceived that where there is a trust for sale it would apply without a reference. Trustees investing money in the purchase or on the security of leaseholds for a term of years are under no obligation to investigate the lessor's title: T. Act, 1925, s. 8 (2); L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 44, 182 (3) (4).

Statutory power of advancement.

Investigation of lessor's title.

Sinking fund policy and short leaseholds.

(y) If desired add: "(3) PROVIDED that if a sinking fund policy is taken out in the names and to the satisfaction of my Trustees in all respects, leasehold property having less than sixty years to run may be purchased under the foregoing power, and all premiums and other money required for taking out and keeping up such sinking fund policy shall be paid out of the income of the trust premises, and on a sale of such property the policy shall be included in the sale, and all money received in respect of any such policy shall be treated as capital."

Power to effect and maintain leasehold sinking fund policies is conferred by the "Administration Trusts": Statutory Will Forms, 1925, Form 8.

No. 76.

Power to manage land not in England.

(1) WITH reference to any real estate (including chattels real) for the time being subject to the trusts of my Will, my Trustees may raise (z) and pay out of the capital or income of the Trust Fund any money required to be paid on the exercise of the powers hereby or by statute conferred, and in the opinion of my Trustees properly payable out of capital or income, as the case may be:

(2) AS regards any land or immoveable property situated outside England the powers and indemnities given to my Trustees in regard to land in England by the English statute law shall apply as if such powers and indemnities were contained in my Will and the net rents and profits thereof shall be applicable in like manner as if they arose from land in England:

Foreign trustees.

(3) IN addition to the powers conferred by section twenty-three of the Trustee Act, 1925, my Trustees may appoint any persons or corporations outside the jurisdiction of the English courts to act as trustees hereof, in relation to any land or immoveable property situated outside England, and may pay to such trustees (out of capital or income as the case may require) any fees or other remuneration which may be customary in the country affected, and make such arrangements generally with any such colonial or foreign trustees as my Trustees may deem expedient without being responsible for any loss arising thereby.

No. 77.

Power to mortgage for payment of debts, &c.

Statutory trust for sale and trust of rents and profits.

As regards Wills and settlements of personal estate coming into operation after 1911, if there is a power to invest in land it will be held on trust for sale with power to postpone the sale, and the net rents and profits after payment of outgoings will be applicable as income of investments representing the net proceeds of sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 32.

Continuance of a trust for sale.

In favour of a purchaser a trust for sale, whether express or implied (e.g., on a purchase in breach of trust), will remain on foot till the land has been conveyed to the beneficiaries: ib., s. 23.

Beneficial owners holding on trust for sale.

Where the trustees for sale are also absolutely and beneficially entitled to the proceeds of sale and the rents and profits until sale (e.g., partners) they can deal with the property in their capacity of beneficial owners.

Sole surviving trustee.

Similarly a sole surviving trustee for sale if absolutely entitled can make a title notwithstanding L. P. Act, 1925, s. 42 (1); he cannot "concur" with himself, though he may convey to himself (ib., s. 72), discharged from the trust for sale; such a conveyance is obviously unnecessary: L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch., amending L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36.

Additional powers.

As to licensed property.(d)

Power to mortgage unnecessary.

(a) The words in square brackets should be inserted when the last Form (No. 76) is also used. This power to raise money for payment of debts, &c., may generally be omitted in view of Ad. of E. Act, 1925, ss. 1–3, 39.

Stamp on conveyances for giving effect to an appropriation.

(b) It is desirable that the power (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 41; for a power to value: T. Act, 1925, s. 22) should be exercisable without the consent of the legatee to avoid any claim being made for ad valorem conveyance duty (see now Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, ss. 73, 74), as on an implied sale by the trustees to the beneficiary of the land conveyed, see Re Lepine [1892], 1 Ch. 210; 61 L. J. Ch. 153; Dawson v. I. R. C. [1905], 2 Ir. R. 69; also article in 55 Sol. J. 61. As a rule appropriations will be given effect to, as regards land, by an assent in writing under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36. Where there was a trust for sale, a power of appropriation was implied: Re Beverly [1901], 1 Ch. 681; 70 L. J. Ch. 295; Theobald, 7th ed., 464, et seq.; Re Craven [1914], 1 Ch. 358; 83 L. J. Ch. 403; cf. Re Cooke [1913], 2 Ch. 661; 83 L. J. Ch. 76. The value of appropriated securities should be taken as at the date of appropriation: Re Charteris [1917], 2 Ch. 379, at p. 386; 86 L. J. Ch. 658; see also Re Wragg [1919], 2 Ch. 58; 88 L. J. Ch. 269.

Power of appropriation under general law.

Compromise.

(c) The powers to compromise, &c., have been so restricted by decisions before 1926, that it is sometimes safer to make them exercisable free from liability to account.

(d) This clause will only be used where licensed property forms part of the testator's estate.

Power for a trustee who is personally interested to act.(e)

THE said —— may at his absolute discretion exercise or join in exercising or giving effect to any of the trusts or powers hereof or any statutory or other power, discretionary or otherwise, notwithstanding that he may be personally interested in the exercise or result thereof, or the said —— may permit his co-trustees or co-executors or co-trustee or co-executor to exercise such trusts or powers in like manner and with the same results in regard to binding my estate and any persons interested or to be interested therein as if such other trustees or executors had alone in regard to any matters in which the said —— may be personally interested as aforesaid been the trustees or executors of my Will, or the said —— may concur in any such matters as a mere formal party.

IN the professed execution of the trusts hereof no executor or trustee shall be liable for any loss to the trust premises arising by reason of any improper investment made in good faith or for the negligence or fraud of any agent employed by him or by any other executor or trustee hereof, although the employment of such agent was not strictly necessary or expedient, or by reason of any mistake or omission made in good faith by any executor or trustee hereof, or by reason of any other matter or thing except wilful and individual fraud or wrongdoing on the part of the executor or trustee who is sought to be made liable.

No. 81.

Power for professional executor or trustee to charge.

Reasons for a wide indemnity.

Power to appoint new trustees.

(1) MY wife, during her life [widowhood], shall have power from time to time to appoint a new trustee or new trustees of my Will:(j)

Power to employ agents.

(g) A professional charging clause operates as a legacy and where the assets are insufficient will abate proportionately: Re Brown (1918), W. N. 118. A power to employ agents is given by T. Act, 1925, s. 23; to concur with other persons by ib., s. 24; and to delegate trusts during absence abroad, ib., s. 25. The latter section is amended by the L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch. Semble, a power of attorney given by a person absolutely and beneficially entitled (e.g., a partner), is valid, though he may also be a trustee for sale, without the aid of any statutory or other power.

It is conceived that a devise of trust or mortgage estates abroad will seldom, if ever, be required. It is useless in regard to England.

Power to appoint new trustees.

(j) This is a substantive power to appoint new trustees, but being general in form, operates as a nomination of a person to act for the purposes of the statutory power: T. Act, 1925, s. 36. Under ib., s. 35, separate appointments of new trustees of the Will (as being the instrument declaring the trusts of the proceeds of sale) on the one hand and of assents and conveyances of land on trust for sale on the other hand must be made as the latter only relate to the legal estate; these, with the probate, will be produced to a purchaser, he is not concerned with the trusts of the Will. If title is made by personal representatives the probate only is material to the purchaser. The Will is, however, material to the title if an assent has been made before 1926, or where equitable interests in land are being dealt with.

(k) This confirmation should be added at the end of every codicil. As to the effect where there are several codicils, and only one is referred to: Follett v. Pettman (1883), 23 Ch. D. 337; 52 L. J. Ch. 521.

(m) The addresses and descriptions of the witnesses are not necessary, but are convenient for identification.

Gifts to attesting witness.

A witness must not be a legatee or the husband or wife of a legatee, or the legacy will fail: Wills Act, 1837, s. 15; Theobald, 7th ed., 119. Nor should a solicitor executor expressly entitled to charge be a witness: Re Barber (1886), 31 Ch. D. 665; 55 L. J. Ch. 373; Re Pooley (1888), 40 Ch. D. 1; 58 L. J. Ch. 1.

Alterations in Wills.

Any alteration should be signed or initialled both by the testator and the attesting witnesses: In b. Blewitt (1880), 5 P. D. 116; 49 L. J. P. 31.

PRECEDENTS OF WILLS (PERSONAL), INCLUDING WILLS CONFERRING ABSOLUTE INTERESTS IN ALL KINDS OF PROPERTY.

SECTION I.

WILLS CONFERRING ABSOLUTE INTERESTS IN ALL KINDS OF PROPERTY.

No. I.

WILL giving everything to WIFE or HUSBAND.

Commencement.

I, A. B., of, &c. [or the Wife of C. B., of, &c.], hereby revoke all testamentary dispositions heretofore made by me, and declare this to be my last Will, which I make this —— day of ——, 19—, [in contemplation of my intended marriage with —— and I declare that this Will shall not take effect unless the said marriage is solemnised within six months from the date hereof (a)]:

Gift of entire estate to husband or wife.

SUBJECT to the payment of my funeral and testamentary expenses and debts, which with all duties shall be paid primarily out of my personal estate, I give all my real and personal estate (including any property in respect of which I have a general testamentary power of appointment to which I am not required expressly to refer (b) but not including the statutory power to dispose of entailed interests) to my Wife [Husband] absolutely, and appoint her [him] to be the executrix [executor] of my Will.(c)

(a) A marriage revokes a Will (see Wills Act, 1837, s. 18) unless expressed to be made in contemplation of the marriage pursuant to L. P. Act, 1925, s. 177. A devise of land only passes an equitable interest.

(b) This will not operate as the exercise of a special power. For the statutory power to dispose of entailed interests in possession: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 176.

(c) If the testator is tenant for life of any settled land, insert here an appointment of special executors: Form No. 3 (3), supra.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand the day and year first above written.

Signed by the above-named A.B. [C.B.] as his [her] last Will in the presence of us both present at the same time, who in his [her] presence and the presence of each other have hereunto set our names as witnesses. } (Testator's signature.)

No. II.

WILL of a Woman married before 1883 in exercise of a power in her Marriage Settlement, and disposing of jewellery, &c.

Commencement.

I, A. B., the Wife of C. B., of, &c. (Form No. 1, p. 669).

Bequest of jewellery, &c.

1. I bequeath (describe jewellery, &c., excepted out of covenant to settle after-acquired property) to my sister Jane ——, absolutely free of duty.

Appointment under general (d) testamentary power in Marriage Settlement.

2. In default of any child of mine attaining a vested interest under my Marriage Settlement dated, &c., and subject to any appointment made under any power therein contained in favour of my issue, I declare that I intend to exercise the general testamentary power of appointment thereby conferred on me to the full extent thereof in manner hereinafter appearing.

Gift of entire estate (except jewellery) to husband or to sister.

3. Subject to the payment of my funeral and testamentary expenses and debts, which with all duties (including the duties on the foregoing legacy) shall be paid primarily out of personal estate over which I have a general power of appointment, I give all my real and personal estate (not hereby or by any codicil otherwise specifically disposed of) to my Husband absolutely if he survives me, but if he dies in my lifetime, then to my said sister Jane —— absolutely.

4. I appoint my Husband to be my executor, but if he dies in my lifetime, then I appoint my said sister to be my executrix.

In witness, &c. (Form No. 85, p. 741).

(d) For the exercise of special powers, see Forms Nos. 6—8, pp. 671–3.

No. III.

WILL of a WIDOWER or WIDOW giving everything to CHILDREN who are all of age.(e)

Commencement.

I, A. B., of, &c. (Form No. 1, p. 669).

Absolute gift to children living at testator's death or leaving issue then living.

1. SUBJECT to the payment of my funeral and testamentary expenses and debts, which with all duties shall be paid primarily out of my personal estate, I devise and bequeath all my real and personal estate (including any property in respect of which I have a general power of appointment to which I am not required to refer expressly, but not including the statutory power to dispose of entailed interests) to all or any my children or child living at my death, and if more than one in equal shares, but subject to any trust for sale implied by statute :(f)

Provision against lapse.

Provision to avoid double duties.

PROVIDED that, if any child of mine dies in my lifetime leaving issue living at my death, the share or interest to which such child would have been entitled if he or she had survived me shall go and devolve as if such child had survived me (g) and died immediately after my death, but this provision shall operate by way of direct gift to the person or persons (if any) beneficially interested under the Will or on the intestacy of such child, and shall not make the share or interest of such child part of his or her estate so as to be liable to debts or estate or other duty.

Executors.

2. I APPOINT my children (naming them, being not more than four or less than two) to be the executors of my Will and to be the trustees hereof for the purposes of any implied trust for sale.

IN WITNESS, &c. (Form No. 85, p. 741).

(e) If any children are under age, use Form No. 59A, p. 715. It is desirable in this case to give the estate to trustees on trust for sale, see Form No. 46, or Forms 47 and 48.

Implied trust for sale.

Lapse.

(f) If there is any land, a trust for sale will be implied before the gift in shares; an assent would then be made to not more than four of the children on trust for sale. See notes to Form No. 55, p. 713. As this is a gift to a class, s. 33 of the Wills Act, 1837, would not (apart from the words "living at my death") apply to save lapse. A general bequest does not exercise a power becoming operative after testator's death: Re Young [1920], 2 Ch. 427; 89 L. J. Ch. 614; see also Re Jarrett [1919], 1 Ch. 366; 88 L. J. Ch. 150. If the testator desires the issue of deceased children to take, then the residuary estate should be given to his trustees and Form No. 59A, p. 715, should be used.

(g) If there is a gift over to issue, they ought not to take vested interests until of full age, &c., see Form No. 59A, p. 715. If a child dies in the testator's lifetime, leaving issue, and it is ascertained that infants would take under the Will or on the intestacy of the child so dying, it will be desirable for the principal testator to make a new Will; but see Re Smith [1916], 2 Ch. 368; 86 L. J. Ch. 657.

Power to execute settlements.

The advantages of an executory Will.

(j) This precedent is intended for use either where there is not sufficient time to prepare the Will in detail (e.g., at a death bed), or where the testator desires to settle property or otherwise carry out any complicated arrangements by his Will on a "sheet of notepaper."

The desire for extreme brevity in Wills.

Many testators bring ill-advised pressure to bear on their solicitors to produce a short document which they imagine they can understand. The result frequently is that the common forms, designed to meet points arising under the existing law, are mutilated out of recognition, necessary powers and machinery are omitted, and the Will has to be construed by the courts, when the testator's wishes may or may not be carried out. It has been suggested that some difficulties may arise involving an application to the court by the adoption of executory forms of Wills; this is not the case when the discretion given to the trustees is sufficiently wide.

In the case of an executory document the necessary machinery can, if required, be worked out later, and justice done between the parties without the aid of the court. Hence the rule should be either to work out the instructions properly or not to attempt to do so in the Will.

The above Precedent will enable a solicitor to attend upon his client with the Will prepared in the above form, leaving the schedule in blank to be filled up when the instructions are given. He should, however, take a copy of the schedule to this Precedent with him as a guide in preparing the one to be adopted. A similar Precedent applicable to a realty Will is contained in Wills (Real), infra.

The need for an executory form of Will is less pressing after 1925, seeing that wide powers are given to trustees for sale (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28, by reference to the S. L. Act, 1925) and to executors (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39) and to trustees generally by T. Act, 1925; moreover by incorporating the Statutory Will Forms, 1925, much machinery can be dispensed with. Still, if the wishes of the testator are unknown and a death bed Will is required, an executory Will may be the only safe way to deal with the situation.

exercise of such discretion, execute all such assents, settlements, vesting instruments and dispositions as they may deem expedient:

Settlement to have effect in equity as from testator's death.

(iii) ANY such settlement or disposition may contain all such powers, directions and provisions as my Trustees may consider necessary or expedient, and shall have effect in equity so far as may be required as from my death:

Settlements to be binding as if made under order of Court.

(iv) ANY such settlements or dispositions executed by my Trustees shall be binding on all persons interested under my Will as if the same had been executed pursuant to an order of a Court of competent jurisdiction and notwithstanding that the same may contain any provisions which may appear to vary the instructions in the Schedule to my Will:

Expert advice.

(v) MY Trustees may act on expert advice, and shall not be liable for any mistake occurring in such advice.

IN WITNESS whereof I have hereunto set my hand the day and year first above written.

11. My wife to have power to appoint new trustees.(l)

Signed, &c. (continue Form No. 85, p. 741).

(l) If a copy of this schedule is at hand when instructions are taken from the testator, it may prevent some point being overlooked. The schedule contains a scheme for dealing with an estate on usual trusts, and it will be seen that the Will is about one-twentieth the length it would be if worked out.

The use of schedule for taking instructions.

substitute—"IN TRUST for all or any my daughters or daughter living at my death who attain the age of twenty-one years or marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares."

(t) Form No. 24A, p. 684, makes the daughters' legacies fall into residue if they have no issue who attain vested interests in their legacies.

Trust to invest, how far applicable.

(u) The investment clause will be required for the settled legacies even if the son takes the residue absolutely. If the son dies in the testator's lifetime, leaving infant children, a trust to invest will be required, though the daughters' shares may not be settled. Of course, if the son becomes absolutely entitled he can stop any sale or investment of the residue provided that the prior liabilities are discharged.

Bequest of a legacy to each younger son attaining twenty-one and to each daughter attaining that age or marrying.

Legacies of children dying before testator to go to their issue (if any).

7. I BEQUEATH to each of my children (other than my eldest son, John B.) who attains the age of twenty-one years, or [being a daughter] marries under that age, the sum of £5,000, free of duty, with interest thereon from my death until paid or appropriated at the rate of £5 per cent. per annum ; and if any child (other than my said eldest son) dies in my lifetime leaving issue, living at my death, then I bequeath the legacy to which any such child would have been entitled if he or she had survived me and attained a vested interest, to his or her children (if any) who attain the age of twenty-one years, or [being female] marry under that age, and if more than one, in equal shares, and so that every [person] female who marries while an infant may give a valid receipt for [his or] her legacy.

8. IF at my death any child or other issue of mine presumptively entitled to a legacy or a share of a legacy under the aforesaid bequests shall be under the age of twenty-one years, and [being a female] shall be also unmarried, then and in every such case the presumptive legacy or share of such infant shall be retained and invested by my Trustees in any of the investments hereinafter authorised, and the statutory provisions as to maintenance and advancement shall apply.(w)

(v) Cf. last Precedent.

Destination of accumulations.

(w) Under T. Act, 1925, s. 31 (1), the infant becomes absolutely entitled to the accumulations in the following cases :—

Vested interest in income.

(1) If he attains twenty-one or marries, and his interest in the income during his minority, or until his marriage, is a vested interest.

Legacies which fail to vest to sink into residue.

9. If any of the legacies hereinbefore bequeathed shall fail to become absolutely vested in any person under the foregoing provisions, every such legacy and the unapplied accumulations thereof, and the investments representing the same, or such part thereof as shall not have been applied for the advancement of any infant presumptively entitled thereto as aforesaid, shall fall into and form part of my residuary estate.

(1) If my son, John B., survives me, and attains the age of twenty-one years, then In trust for him absolutely:

But if he dies under age, then for his children attaining twenty-one, &c., and if no child, then for such son of testator as shall first attain twenty-one. (x)

(2) If the said John B. dies in my lifetime or survives me, and dies under the age of twenty-one years, then, and in any such case, my Trustees shall stand possessed of the Trust Fund, In trust for all or any the children or child of the said John B. who attain the age of twenty-one years or [being female] marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares, and if there shall be no such child of my said son, then In trust for the son of mine (other than the said John B.) who survives me and first attains the age of twenty-one years:

Acquisition of certain interests in capital.

(2) If, on attaining twenty-one or marrying, he becomes entitled to the property from which the income arose, in fee simple, absolute or determinable, or absolutely or for an entailed interest.

This does not affect a settlement made on his behalf under the Infants' Settlement Act, 1855.

On his marriage, he can give a valid receipt for the accumulations.

In all other cases the accumulations go with the capital of the property from which they arose, and, in the case of settled land, as if they were capital money arising from the land.

The powers conferred by the section apply so far only as a contrary intention is not expressed in the instrument creating the trust, and have effect, subject to the terms of that instrument: T. Act, 1925, s. 69 (2).

(x) If desired, the trusts may be extended to the children of other sons who die under age, with an ultimate trust in favour of the testator's daughters and their issue.

(d) The English Wills Act has been adopted in Australia and New Zealand and most of the other British colonies. In South Africa the Roman-Dutch law prevails.

Whenever practicable, separate Wills should be made under local expert advice dealing with the land and immoveable property in each separate country. The testator should make his Will of personal estate (other than chattels real) in accordance with the law obtaining in the country in which he is domiciled. Where colonial property is dealt with it may be expedient not to make use of the Statutory Will Forms, 1925.

(e) In some cases it is desirable to appoint separate trustees and executors, see next Precedent.

My Trustees may make arrangements among themselves for the division between them of the business of the trust, and in particular may leave the management of my property in any country out of Great Britain to any one or more of their number who may be resident there, and the management of my property in Great Britain to any two or more of their number who may be resident there, and in such case the trustees with whom the management of part of my property shall be left as aforesaid, shall, so long as the arrangement remains in force, be competent by themselves to exercise the trust for sale and all the powers of management conferred by my Will in relation to that property, and for that purpose shall have power as attorney or attorneys to sign and execute in the name or names of my other trustee or trustees any deed, agreement or other instrument, and such property may, if required, be vested solely in their names.

As to construction and incorporation of statutory powers and indemnities.

12. This Will shall, so far as possible, be construed and have effect in like manner as if the general law (including the statute law) of England applied thereto in all respects, and so far as necessary, all English statutory powers, indemnities and provisions shall (in addition to any powers given by any local law or Legislature) be deemed to have been expressly inserted herein, and in particular, but without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, all the provisions relating to the appointment and discharge of trustees contained in the Trustee Act, 1925, shall apply to this Will.

B. shall be less in amount than the shares of the other children [or issue] by the sum of £——.

2. SUBJECT as aforesaid, &c. (Form No. 84, p. 741. For further suggestions, see Prec. I, p. 771, supra).

No. VI.

CODICIL settling the shares of DAUGHTERS so as to make their interests cease on becoming RELIGIOUS SISTERS.

I, A. B., of, &c. (Form No. 2, p. 670).

1. I AM apprehensive that one or more of my daughters may be induced to enter into a religious sisterhood, and I desire to make the following alterations in my Will respecting the shares of my daughters in the Trust Fund as thereby defined :

Shares of daughters to be held in trust to pay income to daughter until she marries or becomes a sister.

(1) MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the share or shares, as well original as accruing, of each of my daughters who attains the age of twenty-one years and shall not previously have married, UPON TRUST to pay the annual income thereof to such daughter during her life or until she shall marry or become a sister in any religious sisterhood (whichever first happens), and if such daughter shall marry, then IN TRUST for her absolutely and so that her receipt therefor, notwithstanding infancy, shall be a valid discharge :

On marriage to be hers absolutely.

(2) BUT if a daughter shall become a sister in any religious sisterhood, then my Trustees may, at their discretion, out of the annual income of her share or shares make such allowance (if any) for her maintenance and benefit during her life as they shall think fit, and without being liable to account for the exercise of such discretion, and subject thereto shall hold the said share or shares, as well original as accruing and the annual income thereof IN TRUST for my other children or child (other than a daughter who has joined a sisterhood) who attain the age of twenty-one years, or being female marry under that age, and, if more than one, in equal shares :

If she becomes a sister, share to go over, except as to allowance for maintenance.

(3) IF such daughter shall die without ever having been married or having become a sister as aforesaid, then [IN TRUST for such person or persons, and in such manner as she shall by Will or codicil appoint, and in default of and subject to such appointment,] IN TRUST for my other children or child (other than, &c.) (as before) :

(4) EVERY share accruing to a daughter of mine under this Codicil shall be subject to the like trusts as are hereinbefore declared concerning her original share :

(5) The word "sisterhood" in this Codicil relates to Roman Catholic as well as Protestant institutions or associations, but any daughter of mine becoming an associate of any such institution shall not be considered as becoming a sister, unless the becoming an associate involves the surrender or an undertaking to surrender any part of her property.

Meaning of "sisterhood."

SUBJECT as aforesaid, &c. (Form No. 84, p. 741. For further suggestions see Prec. I, p. 771, supra).

COMMENCEMENT OF WILLS AND CODICILS.

No. 1.

Commencement of Will.

I, ——, of ——, hereby revoke all testamentary dispositions heretofore made by me, and declare this to be my last Will, which I make this —— day of ——, 19—, [and which for the purpose of convenience I have divided into —— parts(a)].

No. 2.

Commencement of codicil.(b)

I, ——, of ——, declare this to be a first [or second, &c.] codicil, which I make this —— day of ——, 19—, to my Will, which is dated the —— day of ——, 19—.

Intended marriage.

(a) Where a Will is long, it is sometimes convenient to divide it into parts. If the Will is made before the marriage add after the date:—" in contemplation of my intended marriage with ——, and I declare that this Will shall not take effect unless the said marriage is solemnised within six months from the date hereof." As to this, see L. P. Act, 1925, s. 177. If the Will is to take effect in any event say " shall, if I die before the said marriage is solemnised, take effect as if the said —— had died in my lifetime."

(b) Form No. 47 should be used at the end of all codicils.

SECTION II.

APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES, CONFIRMATION OF MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT, AND BEQUEST OF RENTS IN ARREAR, &c.(c)

No. 3.

Appointment of Executors and Trustees for purposes of S. L. Act.

(1) I APPOINT ——, of, &c., ——, of, &c., and ——, of, &c. (hereinafter called my Trustees), to be the executors of my Will, and to be the trustees hereof (d) for all the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925:

(2) I APPOINT the respective persons who at my death shall be the trustees for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925,

---

(c) For Forms of legacies, see Forms in Wills (Personal), p. 674, et seq.

Appointment of Trustees of compound settlements.

(d) The trustees become the trustees for the purposes of the S. L. Act of a compound settlement made by the Will and any subsequent instrument: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 31. Under the old law this could have been done by an express appointment to that effect in the prior instrument only: Re Spencer's S. E. [1903], 1 Ch. 75; 72 L. J. Ch. 59. This section has been amended by the L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch.; by virtue of that amendment, if there are no trustees of the prior instrument, but there are S. L. A. trustees of the instrument under which there is a tenant for life or statutory owner, then, until new trustees are appointed of the prior instrument or of the compound settlement, the trustees of the later instrument will be trustees of the compound settlement and can be named as such in the Vesting Assent made for giving legal effect to the settlement. Where three documents, A, B and C, constitute the settlement, if there are no S. L. Act trustees of A, but there are trustees of B, then such trustees become the S. L. Act trustees of B and C, and accordingly (document C creates the life interest) become trustees of A, B and C.

Probate material to the legal estate.

The probate is material as respects any legal estate in land, for it is evidence that the legal estate has under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, Pt. I, become vested in the executors. It will remain in them till a Vesting Assent is executed. The Will itself only operates as a "trust instrument" and governs the equitable interests which are not generally material to a purchaser: S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 6, 9, 110.

Management of land during a minority or pending a contingency.

The mere appointment of S. L. Act trustees operates to constitute them trustees for the purposes of S. L. Act, 1925, s. 102, which confers the requisite powers of management during a minority or pending a contingency, and takes the place of Conv. Act, 1881, s. 42, in regard to settlements whenever made, though in regard to a person entitled contingently it only applies where he becomes so entitled under an instrument coming into operation after 1925.

Devolution of trusts and powers.

As to the devolution of trusts and powers: T. Act, 1925, ss. 18, 36 (7), 43; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 34 (2). It is sufficient to refer to "my trustees" throughout without any further definition.

Legacies, guardians, &c., position of, in Wills (real).

For legacies to executors and trustees, see Wills (Personal), Form No. 3, p. 670, supra. It is often convenient in Wills settling real estate to deal first with the freeholds, leaseholds, heirlooms and other matters relating to the settlement and to place the legacies immediately before the gift of the residuary personalty. For appointment of guardians, see Wills (Personal), Form No. 4, p. 671, supra.

"Will" includes "codicil."

In a Will references to "my Will" are generally construed as including codicils, for a codicil forms part of a Will: Re Smith [1916], 2 Ch. 368; 85 L. J. Ch. 657.

of any settlement under which I am tenant for life or statutory owner (if willing to act) to be my special executors in regard to the settled land vested in me at my death pursuant to that settlement.(e)

No. 3A.

Forms in Pt. I of Statutory Will Forms to apply.

ALL the forms contained in Part I of the Statutory Will Forms, 1925 (being forms which relate to (1) Confirmation of settlements, (2) The meaning of "personal chattels," (3) Inventories and provisions respecting chattels, (4) Receipts for legacies given to charities, (5) Directions respecting annuities and (6) Powers of appropriation) are incorporated in my Will and shall have effect so far as applicable.

No. 3B.

Confirmation of testator's marriage Settlement.(f)

[I CONFIRM any Settlement made in contemplation of my marriage with my wife and declare that [subject as hereinafter expressly mentioned (g)] the provisions hereby made for her and my children [issue] shall be in addition to and not in satisfaction of those made or covenanted to be made for them by settlement.]

[No. 4.

Bequest of rents in arrear and accruing.(h)]

I BEQUEATH free of legacy duty to the [each] person of full age who at my death shall become beneficially entitled to the possession or to the receipt of the rents and the profits of the real estate [and chattels real] [at ——] hereinafter devised [or bequeathed] in settlement, all arrears of rents and profits due to me at my death, and all shares and proportions of rents and profits not actually due though accruing due at my death and payable to my estate after my death from the same property, but subject to payment of all [rents] rates, taxes, costs of insurance and repairs, and other outgoings (including estate duty payable in respect thereof) properly chargeable in account against the same and not discharged in my lifetime in exoneration of my residuary estate. [I also bequeath to the same person all my farming live and dead stock and effects [mining plant and effects] free of duty.]

Also of farming live and dead stock, and mining plant.

Special executors.

(e) See Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 22; such an appointment will be implied where necessary: ib., but it avoids mistakes if an express appointment is made. If the special executors renounce then the grant can be made to the general executors.

"Satisfaction."

(f) This clause is only required if Form 3A is not used; it prevents any questions arising under the doctrine of satisfaction, see Theobald, 7th ed., 759, et seq.

(g) E.g., if the testator gives legacies to children and directs them to bring into hotchpot advances made during his lifetime, see Wills (Personal), Form No. 64, p. 724, supra.

Apportionment between devisee and executor.

(h) As a general rule it is not convenient that the accruing rents of devised land should be apportioned as from the testator's death between devisee and executor. As to the effect of such a clause, see Re D. of Cleveland [1894], 1 Ch. 164; 63 L. J. Ch. 115; Re Ford [1911], 1 Ch. 455; 80 L. J. Ch. 355; Theobald, 7th ed., 216.

SECTION III.

DEVISE AND LIMITATIONS OF LAND BY WAY OF SETTLEMENT.

No. 5.

General devise of land of every tenure in Settlement.

I GIVE all the real estate and chattels real not hereby or by any codicil hereto otherwise disposed of and which I can at my death dispose of by Will in any manner I think proper for any estate or interest either by virtue of my beneficial ownership or under any general power [including the statutory power to dispose of entailed property] (except under [the statutory power to dispose of entailed property and except under] a power to which I am bound expressly to refer) To the persons who under the trusts hereinafter declared become entitled on or after my death to have vesting instruments made in their favour, Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions hereinafter declared, and so that every interest for life shall be without impeachment of waste [and where limited to a female (i) shall be without power of anticipation during any coverture], yet so that every tenant for life shall (save so

(i) See M. W. P. Act, 1907, s. 3. It is no longer necessary to limit life estates, given to females, for their separate use.

Form and effect of devise.

A devise does not pass any legal estate. It is convenient to express a devise to be in favour of persons entitled to have the legal estate vested in them; for an alternative, see Wills Personal, Form No. 3 (4), p. 671.

Where tenants for life are not to be impeachable for waste, but the provision is to be limited, the following may be substituted:—

Limited exemption from waste; restraint on anticipation.

AND so that every interest for life shall be without impeachment of waste, except waste in pulling down buildings and not restoring the same, or erecting equivalent buildings instead thereof, or in cutting ornamental timber save for the purpose of improving the growth of the timber left [and every interest for life limited to a female shall be without power of anticipation during any coverture].

Capital money.

As to equitable waste: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 135; as to the statutory power to insure and the application of insurance money: T. Act, 1925, ss. 19, 20. See also S. L. Act, 1925, s. 78 (as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sched.) as to the devolution of money directed to be held as capital money arising under that Act.

Alternative method to a strict settlement.

If preferred the property intended to be settled can be devised and bequeathed to trustees on trust for sale and to stand possessed of the net proceeds and of the rents and profits until sale on trusts similar to those required for the purposes of a strict settlement; this eliminates the need for a vesting instrument on each change of ownership, but though the trustees have power (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 29) to delegate certain powers of management to the person entitled to the income, still a settlement on these lines imposes on them more work, at any rate in the case of large estates, than they may be prepared to undertake. This can be met by extending the powers to delegate, see Settlements Personal, Form No. 56 (4), p. 160.

far as this obligation may be imposed on a lessee) be liable to insure buildings [except farm buildings] against fire to an amount equal to three-fourths of the sum required to rebuild the same in case of total destruction and to apply the insurance money in rebuilding or otherwise as capital money arising under the Settled Land Act, 1925, from the property insured (that is to say) :—

No. 6.

Rentcharge to wife.(j)

UPON TRUST that my wife, if living at my death, shall receive out of the premises (except advowsons) during [her widowhood] the residue of her life the yearly rentcharge of £——, to commence from my death, and to be considered as accruing from day to day, but to be paid without any deductions (except for income tax) by equal half-yearly payments, the first payment thereof to be made at the end of six months from my death if my wife shall then be living : And subject to the said rentcharge.

No. 6A.

Rentcharges to persons named in a Schedule.

UPON TRUST that the several persons named in the —— Schedule to my Will, if respectively living at my death, shall receive out of the premises (except advowsons) during their respective lives or for any less periods mentioned in that Schedule the respective yearly rentcharges set opposite their respective names in that Schedule, each rentcharge to commence from my death [unless otherwise stated in the said Schedule] and to be considered as accruing from day to day, but to be paid without any deduction (except for income tax) by equal half-yearly [quarterly] payments, the first payment to be made at the end of six [three] months from my death [or from the date fixed for the commencement of the rentcharge] if the rent-chargee shall then be living And subject to the said rent-charges.(k)

No. 7.

Life interest to wife.

UPON TRUST for my wife during her [widowhood] life [without power of anticipation during any coverture (l)], with remainder.

Powers and remedies for recovering rentcharges.

(j) For the powers and remedies annexed to the jointure : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 121 ; the rentcharge being for life can only take effect as an equitable interest ; the jointress can under that section create an equitable term of years for raising arrears ; legal effect must be given to any mortgage made by the term trustees under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16, by the estate owners ; usually it will be more convenient for the tenant for life to raise the money required under ib., s. 71.

Annuities.

(k) This is the most convenient mode of providing for annuities when the residuary personal estate is made to devolve with the land.

Statutory powers of tenant for life.

(l) These words will not be required if the interest is limited during widowhood only, nor if Form No. 5, supra, is used in its entirety. It is more usual to give the widow a rentcharge and give the eldest son the first life interest. An interest during widowhood gives the statutory powers of a tenant for life :

No. 8.

Limitation of residence to wife during widowhood or until she becomes entitled to a settled estate with a rent-charge issuing out of all the testator's real estate, with remainders over.

(1) As to my capital message, known as ——, in the County of ——, and the stables, gardens, pleasure-grounds and park, usually enjoyed therewith :—

Upon trust for my wife (if living at my death and if she shall not then be entitled to the possession or receipt of the rents and profits of the —— Estate situated in the County of ——, and settled by a Deed dated the —— day of ——), until she re-marries or becomes entitled as aforesaid or dies (whichever first happens) :

(2) And as to all other the property hereinbefore devised or bequeathed :—

Upon trust that if my wife shall be living at my death and shall not then be entitled as aforesaid, she may, as from my death and until she marries again or becomes entitled as aforesaid or dies (whichever event first happens), receive out of the same property (except advowsons) the yearly rentcharge of £—— [in addition to the said yearly rent-charge of £—— under my marriage Settlement], the rentcharge hereby limited to be considered as accruing from day to day, but to be paid without any deduction (except for income tax) by equal half-yearly payments, the first half-yearly payment to be made at the end of six months next after my death, if my wife be then living, and has not married again, or become entitled as aforesaid :

(3) And as to all the property devised or bequeathed, subject as aforesaid :—

(i) Upon trust for, &c.

No. 9.

Limitation of a term.(m)

Upon trust for my Trustees for a term of —— years from my death without impeachment of waste, Upon the trusts hereinafter declared concerning the same : And subject thereto.

No. 10.

Trust creating inalienable life interest.(n)

(1) Upon trust for my Trustees during the life of my son —— without impeachment of waste, Upon the trusts following (that is to say) :—

S. L. Act, 1925, s. 20 (1) (vi); even where given subject to maintaining children: Re Pollock [1906], 1 Ch. 146; 75 L. J. Ch. 120.

(m) If the term is to secure portions for the sisters and younger brothers of the eldest son, it will come immediately before his life interest.

Objects of limiting terms.

A term should generally be limited for raising capital sums, for discharging incumbrances, for the upkeep of policies, or for providing an indemnity. A term is no longer required in the case of a rentcharge. For the power for personal representatives to create rentcharges and limit terms : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 40.

(n) For the statutory forms of "protective trusts" : T. Act, 1925, s. 33. In the case of a strict settlement it will generally be expedient to set out the trusts and not to rely on that section, for many variations would be required.

(i) [(o) In case at my death no act has been done or suffered and no event has happened whereby the trust next hereinafter contained in favour of my said son if subsisting would cease to have effect, then UPON TRUST that my Trustees shall permit my said son to receive the income of the said property and be in the position and have the powers of a tenant for life thereof without impeachment of waste (with a right to require a vesting instrument to be made in his favour) until he shall do or attempt to do or suffer any act or thing, or until any event shall happen by or in consequence of which he would cease to be entitled to receive such income or any part thereof if the same were given to him absolutely during his whole life, in any of which cases as well as on his death the aforesaid trust in favour of my said son is to cease;

Trustees to have statutory powers when discretionary trust arises.

(ii) And after the cesser of the said trust in the lifetime of my said son UPON TRUST that my Trustees shall enter into, and during the residue of his life continue in possession or receipt of the rents and profits of the said property, and may, as statutory owners, require a vesting instrument to be made in their favour, and, in addition to the powers conferred on them as statutory owners, may exercise the powers of management conferred by section one hundred and two of the Settled Land Act, 1925, and any additional powers conferred by my Will, and shall pay the net income of the said property, after payment of all rates, taxes and other outgoings, and expenses incurred in the exercise of the aforesaid powers and in the opinion of my Trustees properly payable out of income to or for the maintenance and support or otherwise for the benefit of all or any one or more exclusively of the other or others of my said son and his wife and issue (if any) and my other issue for the time being in existence as my Trustees in their absolute discretion, and without being liable to account for the exercise of such discretion may think fit;(p)

Gift over on bankruptcy; effect on S. L. Act powers.

(o) If the son is bankrupt the first part of this trust will be omitted. The gift over is not void under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 106: Re Levy (1885), 30 Ch. D. 119; 54 L. J. Ch. 968; and thereafter he no longer has the powers of a tenant for life: ib., s. 20 (1) (vi) (viii); but the powers become exercisable by the trustees as statutory owners: ib., s. 23. Until a vesting instrument is made in favour of the trustees a purchaser without notice can deal with the former tenant for life: ib., s. 110.

Effect of discretionary trust "no tenant for life."

(p) Under this last trust there is no tenant for life within the meaning of S. L. Act, 1925: Re Atkinson (1886), 31 Ch. D. 577; 55 L. J. Ch. 49; and see Re Horne's S. E. (1888), 39 Ch. D. at p. 89; 57 L. J. Ch. 790; this brings

(iii) Notwithstanding the trusts aforesaid, the said property shall be deemed to be held upon such trusts as may be requisite for constituting my said son the protector of the settlement created by my Will during his life :

Accumulation of surplus income.

If desired, a power to accumulate surplus income during the subsistence of the last trust during a period not exceeding twenty-one years from the testator's death may be added : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 164.

Acceleration by disclaimer.

(q) Where a tenant for life with remainder to his sons in tail male disclaimed his life interest while he had no son living, the interest of the next tenant for life was held not to be accelerated : Re Scott [1911], 2 Ch. 374 ; 80 L. J. Ch. 750, but this decision has been questioned in Re Brooke [1923], 2 Ch. 265 ; 92 L. J. Ch. 504 ; and see article in 1917, 61 Sol J. 573.

after 1925 settled land comes to be held in undivided shares, a trust for sale is interposed. The trustees may require the personal representatives or other estate owners to vest the land in them and in the meantime it is held on the "statutory trusts." Act, 1926, Sched.; where (as in this case) the trust for sale takes effect by virtue of a statute, no question arises as to the approval of the trustees by the court to enable them to overreach family charges having priority to the trust for sale; the trustees have wider powers than if a trust for sale were created by a testator or settlor: ib. This Form gives the variations in the last preceding Form (and with slight alterations in Form No. 12, supra), where the testator's daughters and granddaughters take as tenants in common.

Minorities.

(x) This Form enables the son to appoint the equitable fee simple to himself. During the minority the personal representatives or S. L. Act trustees will have the statutory powers of a tenant for life and the legal estate in the settled land will be vested in them: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 26. If the son, on attaining full age, appoints the property to himself absolutely before a vesting assent is made in his favour, he can call on the personal representatives to make an absolute assent without nominating S. L. Act trustees, unless there are subsisting family charges or powers of charging which would keep the settlement on foot: S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 1 and 3, as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 1. Even if a vesting assent is executed by reason of the subsistence of family charges he, as absolute owner, can deal with the legal estate in the settled land, subject to the family charges, without requiring the capital money to be paid to the S. L. Act trustees. But he has an option to make title under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 20 (1) (ix), free from the family charges, this will still be the usual course: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 42, save when he requires to raise money subject to the family charges: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16: Re Egerton (1926), W. N. 107; 95 L. J. Ch. 153.

Children en ventre sa mère who might take under the limitations of a Will if born.

(y) This will follow the first part of Form No. 13, p. 786. The Act 10 Will. 3, c. 22 (1698, cited in Ruff as 10 & 11 Will. 3, c. 16, repealed L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1924, 10th Sched., by reason of the abolition of legal contingent remainders) which preserved contingent remainders (created before 1926) of posthumous children without the intervention of trustees to preserve them did not expressly refer to limitations under Wills. The statute appears to have been passed mainly for the purpose of removing the doubts which arose in the case of a Will in Reeve v. Long (1694), 1 Salk, 227. At the end of that case Mr. Butler's note to Co. Litt. 298 (3) is cited, in which he says that Reeve v. Long was decided by the Lords against the opinion of all the judges, and that "there is a tradition that as the case of Reeve v. Long arose upon a Will the Lords considered the law to be settled by their determination in that case, and were unwilling to make any express mention of devises made in Wills, lest it should appear to call in question the authority or propriety of their determination. Besides, independently of Reeve v. Long the words of the Act might have been construed, sons (not being persons who would also take interests for life) successively according to seniority in tail male, and so that each of such several persons (other than as aforesaid) shall take their interests successively in the order in which as heirs male of the body of the first Earl of X. they would succeed to the Earldom of X.

Limitation to heir by purchase.(z)

UPON TRUST in fee simple for the person or persons who at the time when all the limitations hereinbefore contained shall have determined or become incapable of taking effect, shall answer the description of my own right heir or right heirs, such persons if more than one to take (subject to the implied statutory trust for sale), in the like shares as they would have taken on a devolution by descent from me under the general law in force before 1926 in regard to freehold land.

without much violence, as applying to settlements made by Will, as well as settlements made by deed : see also Vaizey, 1091 et seq.; Challis' Real Property, 3rd ed., 140 ; Jarman, 6th ed., 1443, 1704 ; Barret v. B. (1744), 3 Atk. 203.

Trustees to preserve contingent remainders.

Thus even before 1926 the Form in the text did not require a limitation to trustees to preserve contingent remainders in favour of posthumous children. It was not, however, clear, under the old law, what happened to the legal estate during the period between the determination of the prior limitation and the birth of the child, e.g., under a limitation to A. for life with remainder to his first and other sons successively according to seniority in tail male, with remainder to B. (A.'s brother) for life with remainder to his first and other sons successively according to seniority in tail male, with remainder to X. for life, where B. died shortly before A. leaving a child en ventre sa mère at A.'s death. If the legal estate till the birth went over to X. with a shifting use back to B.'s child if a son and born alive, what is X.'s position in the meantime ? Semble, he was entitled to the intermediate rents and profits only, as a trustee for the child and could not have exercised the S. L. Act powers : 2 Vaizey, 1012.

Legal estate, how vested pending contingency.

After 1925 the legal estate in settled land will either be in personal representatives or in tenants for life of full age or statutory owners (including S. L. Act trustees during a minority) or in the S. L. Act trustees if there is no tenant for life or statutory owner ; in each case they will be the persons to exercise the statutory powers. In the case in question they, as estate owners, will retain the intermediate rents and profits till the child en ventre sa mère is born, thereafter the statutory powers of maintenance become applicable (T. Act, 1925, s. 31, applies if the settlement was created after 1925) ; as to powers of management : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 102. Legal estates converted into equitable interests do not fail : L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sched., Pt. I. As to what equitable interests can be created after 1925 : ib., s. 4.

Heir taking "by purchase."

(z) The Inheritance Act, 1833, s. 3, provides that under a devise to a testator's heirs, the devisees take by purchase and not by descent. The above Form postpones the vesting of the ultimate limitation until all the prior limitations have determined or failed, and it is conceived is generally preferable to an ultimate limitation UPON TRUST for my own right heirs, which vests the estate at the testator's death in the heir by purchase : Owen v. Gibbons [1902], 1 Ch. 636 ; 71 L. J. Ch. 338 ; and see Carson, 2nd ed., 379, et seq.

Clause cutting down estates of tenants in tail born in testator's lifetime to interests for life.(a)

(1) WHERE any person who under the limitations hereinbefore contained, either taken alone or in conjunction with this present provision, would become a tenant in tail male [or in tail (b)] by purchase of the property hereinbefore devised is born or en ventre sa mère (c) in my lifetime, then I revoke the interest [or interests (b)] in tail male [or in tail (b)] limited to any and every such person.

(2) WHERE an interest in tail male of any person is so revoked, then, instead of and by way of substitution for such interest, the property in which but for this clause that person would have taken such interest in tail male, shall (but subject to and in remainder after any interests preceding such interest in tail male), be held—

(a) Upon trust for the same person for life with remainder;
(b) Upon trust for the first and other sons of the same person, successively according to seniority in tail male;

With the like remainders over as, under the limitations of my Will taken with this clause, are limited after such revoked interest in tail male.

(i) In the case of a person who had no interest in tail male—estate as "heir" will be the person who would under the old law have answered the description of "the heir, either general or special, of the deceased in respect of his freehold land"; this rules out special customs of descent. Though devolution to the "heir" on an intestacy has (subject to a temporary exception affecting lunatics: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 51 (2)) been abolished: ib., s. 45, this does not affect the right of any person to take beneficially as heir by purchase: ib., s. 51 (1).

Name and arms clause.(h)

(1) Every person who under the limitations hereinbefore contained becomes entitled as tenant for life or as tenant in tail male or in tail by purchase to the property hereinbefore devised in settlement or to property representing the same shall (unless prevented by death or accident)—

(i) take, use and bear, in all deeds and writings which such person shall sign, and upon all occasions, my surname [or the surname of ——] either without any other surname or with and after any other surname ;

(ii) use and continue to use my arms [or the arms of ——] or quarter the same with the family arms of the person bound by this clause ;

(iii) apply for and endeavour to obtain a Royal Licence or take such other steps as may be requisite to authorise the user and bearing of the said surname and arms :

Forfeiture of estates.

(g) S. L. Act, 1925, s. 106, does not prevent a forfeiture taking place for any reason other than on account of the exercise of the statutory powers ; and see ib., s. 20 (1) (vi).

Contingent remainder or executory devise.

(h) See notes, Settlements (Real), Form 21, p. 261, et seq. The question whether a devise had, before 1926, to be construed as a contingent remainder or executory devise was one of law, it was not affected by the intention of the testator unless the Will showed an intention to make alternative gifts, one as a contingent remainder, and the other as an executory devise : White v. Summers [1908], 2 Ch. 256 ; 77 L. J. Ch. 506. After 1925 the distinction will not be material save to ascertain what interests can be defeated by a disentailing assurance. All future interests will take effect by way of trust. As to restrictions on executory limitations : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 134.

(2) WHERE any person becoming so entitled shall—

- (a) refuse or neglect to take, use and bear the said surname and arms or to take such steps as aforesaid,
- (b) at any time discontinue to use and bear the said surname and arms ;

then and in every such case—

- (i) if the person who so refuses or neglects or discontinues as aforesaid is a tenant for life—
  - (a) the interest for life of that person,
  - (b) all powers annexed thereto,
  - (c) in the case of a woman every rentcharge already appointed under any power herein contained in favour of her husband, shall absolutely determine and become void, and the said property shall immediately be held by the estate owner, personal representatives, trustees or other persons in whom it is vested during the residue of the life of the person whose interest for life so determines UPON TRUST from time to time to pay the income of the property to or permit the same to be received by the persons who would for the time being be entitled thereto under the limitations of my Will if that person were dead ; but not so as to accelerate any jointure, portions or other charges already appointed or charged by that person ;

- (ii) if the person who so refuses or neglects or discontinues as aforesaid is a tenant in tail male or in tail—the interest in tail male or in tail of that person shall absolutely determine, and the said property shall immediately be held in trust for the person next in remainder under the limitations of my Will, in the same manner as if the person whose interest is so made to determine were dead and there were a general failure of the issue inheritable to the interest which is so made to determine :

(3) ALL necessary vesting instruments shall be executed which are consequential on the change of ownership in accordance with section seven of the Settled Land Act, 1925 :

(4) PROVIDED that the obligations to take, use and bear and continue to use and bear the said surname and arms, and to take such steps as aforesaid, and the foregoing provisions for cesser of interests shall not apply—

- (a) to a peer or peeress,
- (b) to an infant unless and until the infant attains the age of twenty-one years,

(c) to a person who would forfeit other property by compliance with the obligation,

(d) except so far as relates to a discontinuance to use and bear the said surname and arms, to a person who already uses and bears the same,

(e) save as next hereinafter mentioned, to a woman during coverture :

(5) The obligations aforesaid shall apply to the husband of every woman, not being a peeress in her own right or in right of her husband, who becomes entitled as aforesaid—

(a) if and so far as such obligation would have applied to him in case he had himself become so entitled,

(b) notwithstanding that his wife may have previously complied with the same,

(c) as from his marriage or from the time when his wife becomes so entitled, whichever event last happens.

Any refusal, neglect or discontinuance by any such husband shall be deemed to be a refusal, neglect or discontinuance by his wife, and the foregoing provisions for cesser of interests shall apply to her accordingly :

(6) PROVIDED that in every case (except a case of discontinuance to use and bear the said surname and arms)—

(a) one year from the date when the obligations become binding shall be allowed for compliance therewith,

(b) the provisions for cesser of interests shall be postponed accordingly:

(7) THOSE provisions shall take effect—

(i) immediately in the case of a discontinuance,

(ii) in other cases, upon the expiration of such one year, if the obligations have not been complied with.

No. 22A.

Request to use name and arms.

I REQUEST that every person who under the limitations hereinbefore contained becomes entitled as tenant for life or as tenant in tail male or in tail to the property hereinbefore devised in settlement shall at all times take, use and bear and continue to use and bear my surname, either without any other surname or with and after any other surname, and my arms or quarter the same with his or her family arms, and take all steps which may be requisite to authorise the user and bearing of the said name and arms, but the non-compliance with this request shall not give rise to any forfeiture or cesser of interest.

SECTION IV.

TRUSTS OF TERMS.

No. 23.

Trusts of term for paying off incumbrances out of rents and profits, provision being made for the person entitled in possession subject to the term.(i)

(1) MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the said term of —— years UPON TRUST during the subsistence of the trusts of my Will to enter into possession of the premises and out of the net yearly rents and profits thereof (after payment thereout of all costs of repairs, insurance, rents, rates, taxes, and other outgoings), in the first place, to pay by equal half-yearly payments to, or otherwise apply for the benefit of the persons who, under the limitations hereof would, for the time being, if of full age and but for the said term, be entitled in possession to the property such yearly sum not being less than the yearly sum of £——,(j) as my Trustees in their absolute discretion without being liable to account think fit, and subject to the payment or application of such yearly sum, my Trustees shall (until the incumbrances hereinafter mentioned have been discharged) accumulate (k) the balance of the net rents and profits in the way of compound interest by investing the same, and the resulting income thereof in any of the investments (other than in the purchase of land) hereinafter authorised with power to vary investments :

(2) MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the fund to be accumulated as aforesaid UPON TRUST to apply the same from time to time in or towards the discharge of all incumbrances, not being yearly or periodical sums terminable on the dropping of a life (whether imposed by my Will or otherwise for a purpose for which accumulations may lawfully be made (l)), affecting the capital of the premises at my death (including any duties which may become a charge on the property at my death) :

(3) NOTWITHSTANDING the trusts aforesaid, my Trustees may, from time to time, instead of taking possession of the property comprised in the said term, permit the persons of full age and

---

(i) This Form is intended for use where estates are heavily incumbered. The term should be limited in priority to the first life estate. A yearly sum is made payable to the person entitled in possession under the limitation, and the balance of the income is to be accumulated to discharge incumbrances.

(j) A minimum sum is fixed so as to ensure provision for the person who but for the term would be entitled in possession.

(k) A direction to accumulate for the purpose of paying debts for any period is valid: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 164 (2) (i), but the trust must not infringe the perpetuity rule.

(l) See L. P. Act, 1925, s. 164 (2), as to accumulating for portions for children and issue; also Beech v. E. St. Vincent (1850), 3 De G. & S. 679; 19 L. J. Ch. 130.

capacity who for the time being under the limitations hereof would but for the said term be entitled in possession to the property to enter into possession of the whole or any part thereof and receive the rents and profits thereof on giving such undertakings to account to my Trustees for all money received by him or them as my Trustees may require in any such case; and the money so received by my Trustees shall (after paying or allowing for the said yearly sum) be invested, accumulated, and applied in like manner as if it had actually been received in the first instance by my Trustees under the foregoing trusts:

PROVIDED that no trustee of the said term shall be liable for any mistake in any account rendered by any person in possession as aforesaid nor on account of any act or default of such person, and a trustee while in possession shall only be liable for his own individual wilful default or wrongdoing:

(4) THE person from time to time who, but for the said term, would be a tenant for life or statutory owner under the Settled Land Act, 1925, may exercise the powers conferred by that Act [as extended by my Will] and may require a vesting instrument to be made in his favour accordingly:(m)

(5) IF any money shall be raised by way of mortgage under the said powers or any of them for discharging any incumbrance liable to be paid off out of accumulations as aforesaid, then the mortgage or incumbrance so effected shall stand in the place of the incumbrance discharged and shall be deemed to be an incumbrance subsisting at my death:

(6) IF any incumbrance subsisting or deemed to be subsisting at my death is discharged out of capital money (not being money raised by way of mortgage as aforesaid) for the purposes of the said Act arising under my Will, then such discharge shall operate to accelerate the cesser of the said term, but where an incumbrance is transferred it shall not be deemed to be discharged:

(7) IF on the cesser of the said term any accumulations

(m) Semble this sub-clause may be required to meet the decision in Re Frewen [1926], 1 Ch. 580; 95 L. J. Ch. 297. "Possession" includes the receipt of rents and profits or the right to receive the same, if any: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 117 (1) (xix); a tenant for life includes "a tenant for his own or any other life . . . whose estate . . . is subject to a trust for accumulation of income for any purpose": ib., s. 20 (1) (vi). If there is no tenant for life of full age, then the S. L. Act trustees have the powers: ib., ss. 23, 26. remain by reason of the application of such capital money in manner last aforesaid the balance of the said accumulations shall be held,(n) Upon the trusts upon which capital money arising under the said Act from the freehold property hereinbefore devised in settlement ought to be held :

(8) PROVIDED that if and when any person shall under the foregoing limitations or by virtue of any disentailing assurance become entitled in fee simple in possession or absolutely to the property hereby devised in settlement, then the foregoing trusts shall determine and the said term of —— years cease and be deemed satisfied whether any incumbrances shall then be subsisting or not,(o) and nothing herein contained shall confer on any incumbrancer a right to require the trusts of the said term to be executed :

(9) MY Trustees shall have power to raise and pay from time to time out of the accumulated fund or out of the rents and profits aforesaid all costs and expenses incurred in relation to the trusts of the said term, and a statement in writing signed by my Trustees that the said term is satisfied shall be conclusive evidence of the fact so stated.

No. 24.

Trusts of portions term in a Will.(p)

MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the said term of —— years :—

(1) UPON TRUST by mortgage (by charge or sub-demise) or sale or demise of the premises or any part thereof for all or any part of the same term, or by receipt of the income thereof, or by sale of timber or minerals, or by all or any of those means or by any other reasonable means to raise for the portion or portions of any child or children of mine living at my death who attain the age of twenty-one years, or being female marry

---

(n) If the last incumbrance is paid off out of capital money while the trust for accumulation is subsisting any balance should be held as capital money, in other cases accumulations not required go as income.

(o) This provision avoids any question arising as to the validity of the trusts of the term which must cease as soon as the property becomes indefeasibly vested.

Equitable terms in Wills and settlements.

(p) All terms created by Wills or settlements will take effect in equity, and effect must be given thereto by the estate owner under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16, or money can be raised by him under ib., s. 71, to answer the purposes of the term. Pending a vesting assent the personal representatives will be in a position to raise any money which may be required : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, Pt. I, and s. 39. As to death duties, see L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 16 and 18. Any legal term which may be outstanding on 1st January, 1926, in the trustees will be converted into an equitable term by the vesting deed, but this will not affect mortgages previously effected : S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 1 (6), as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch.

under that age (other than and besides a first or only son or any other son or sons [or any daughter or daughters (q)], who, before attaining the age of twenty-one years [or being female marrying under that age], shall or would if of full age be or become entitled [indefeasibly otherwise than by the operation of any provision for cesser or shifting clause (r)] under the limitations hereinbefore contained to the possession of, or a freehold estate in possession in the property hereby devised in settlement) the [net] sum of money hereinafter mentioned, with interest thereon at the rate of £5 per cent. per annum from my death (that is to say), The sum of £—— if there shall be only one such child, The sum of £—— if there shall be two such children and no more, And the sum of £—— if there shall be three or more such children; such portion or portions to be vested in and payable to such child or children at the age of twenty-one years or in the case of females upon marriage under that age, and if more than one in equal shares [and to be raised and paid free from all death duties and costs] and so that a married daughter shall notwithstanding infancy have power to give a valid receipt for her portion:

Trust for maintenance and education.

(2) UPON TRUST to raise out of the income of the premises, or by the sale of timber, and pay or apply for or towards the maintenance, education, or benefit of any child or other issue for the time being presumptively entitled to a portion or any share therein under the trusts hereof, and until such portion or share becomes payable such yearly sum (not exceeding interest at the rate of £5 per cent. per annum on the then presumptive portion or share of such child or other issue) as my Trustees shall deem proper such yearly sum to be clear of all deductions (except for income tax [and death duties]) and to be applied by my Trustees, or to be paid to the guardians or guardian of such child or other issue for the purposes aforesaid, and so that in the latter case my Trustees shall not be concerned to see to the application thereof:

Cesser or shifting clause.

PROVIDED that the amount so raised be taken in part discharge of the portion or share in respect of which it is raised in case such son or other male issue [such child or other issue] eventually becomes entitled to a portion or a share therein:

Maximum capital sum raisable.

(4) PROVIDED that no more than the total principal sum of £—— (the maximum) shall be raisable under the trusts aforesaid for portions [and] advancements [costs and death duties], but the excess which would, but for this provision, have been raisable for the purposes aforesaid shall sink into the property affected thereby:

Surplus rents and profits.

(5) SUBJECT to the trusts hereinbefore declared, and to the right of my Trustees to raise by any of the means aforesaid all costs and expenses incurred in relation thereto, the rents and profits of the premises comprised in the said term shall be received by the persons for the time being entitled in reversion immediately expectant upon that term:

Daughters' portions not to be raised if they die spinsters.

(6) PROVIDED that no portion shall be raised for the benefit of any daughter of mine unless and until she marries or has married, but the portion shall, when vested, carry interest at the rate aforesaid, and if any daughter of mine shall die without ever having been married her portion shall not be raised, but on her death shall sink into the property affected:

Issue of child dying in testator's lifetime to take parent's portion.

(7) (i) IF any child of mine dies in my lifetime leaving a child or children living at my death, the portion (if any) to which such child of mine would under the trusts aforesaid have been entitled, if living at my death and having then attained the age of twenty-one years, shall be held IN TRUST for all or any the children or child (living at my death) of such child of mine who attain the age of twenty-one years, or in the case of females marry under that age, and if more than one, in equal shares, and so that a female on marriage may, notwithstanding infancy, give a valid receipt for her portion or share, and accordingly, for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of portions payable under the trusts aforesaid, a child of mine so dying shall be deemed to have survived me and attained the age of twenty-one years, but not so as to vest the portion in that child;

(ii) PROVIDED that if no vested interest shall be taken by the issue of a child of mine dying in my lifetime in a portion under the trust last aforesaid, then that portion shall (without prejudice to the foregoing provisions for maintenance and advancement) sink into the property affected ;

(iii) PROVIDED ALSO, that the foregoing provision as to the portion of a daughter of mine not being raised before her marriage shall apply to the portion or share therein of any female issue of a child of mine dying in my lifetime :

Receipts.

(8) THE receipts by my Trustees or other the trustees for the time being of the said term shall be a complete discharge for all money raisable under the trusts thereof.(s)

Settlement of daughters' portions.(t)

Trust to invest.

(1) NOTWITHSTANDING the trusts aforesaid my Trustees shall retain the portion when raised (u) to which any daughter of mine who survives me shall become entitled under the trusts of the said term, UPON TRUST to invest the same in any of the investments (other than the purchase of land) hereinafter authorised, but so that every investment and change of investment made during the life of such daughter shall be made with her consent :

Income to daughter for life.

(2) MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the portion of such daughter or the investments representing the same, which investments are hereinafter included in the description of such daughter's portion, UPON TRUST to pay the income thereof to such daughter for her life without power of anticipation during any coverture :(v)

Capital and income to issue as daughter appoints.

(3) AFTER her death the capital and income of the portion of such daughter shall be held IN TRUST for all or any one or more, exclusively of the others or other of the issue of such daughter whether children or remoter descendants, at such time, and if more than one in such shares, with such provisions for maintenance, education, advancement, and otherwise at the discretion of any person and with such gifts over, and generally in such manner, for the benefit of such issue or some or one of them

---

(s) The object of this clause is to make it clear that the receipts of portionists will not be required. Semble, independently of this clause this would be so : T. Act, 1925, ss. 14, 17 ; clearly this would be so if the money were raised by mortgage.

(t) This Form will follow the last one when so desired. It is not usual to settle a daughter's portion when raisable out of land.

(u) This will not be until the daughter's marriage : see clause (6) of last Form.

Appointed portion cannot be settled.

(v) The daughter's portion cannot be settled by the testator if the portion is appointed to her under a special power, e.g., in the testator's marriage settlement. He could, however, put her to her election to settle it.

as such daughter shall, by deed, revocable or irrevocable, or by Will or codicil appoint ; And in default of and until and subject to any such appointment, IN TRUST for all or any the children or child of such daughter who attain the age of twenty-one years, or being female, marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares:

Hotchpot.

(4) PROVIDED that any child who or whose issue takes any part of such daughter's portion under any appointment by her shall not, in the absence of any direction by her to the contrary, take any share in the unappointed part without bringing the share or shares appointed to him or her or his or her issue into hotchpot and accounting for the same accordingly:

Advancement clause.

(5) MY Trustees may at any time and from time to time, but during the life of such daughter only with her consent in writing, raise any part or parts not exceeding one-half of the presumptive or vested share of any child or other issue of such daughter under the trusts hereinbefore declared and pay or apply the same for the advancement or benefit of such issue as my Trustees think proper :(w)

In default of issue, portion made capital money.

(6) IF any daughter of mine shall not have any child who under the trust in default of appointment hereinbefore contained attains a vested interest in her portion, then (subject to the trusts and powers hereinbefore declared in favour of such daughter and her issue) her portion and all statutory accumulations (if any) of income or so much thereof respectively as shall not have become vested or been paid or applied under any trust or power affecting the same shall be held, Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions upon and subject to which capital money arising under the Settled Land Act, 1925, from the freehold property hereby devised in settlement or investments representing the same would be held :(x)

Extent of statutory power of advancement.

(w) Though the statutory power of advancement (T. Act, 1925, s. 32 (2)) only applies to money or securities or property held on trust for sale and the money, &c., is not by statute or in equity considered as land or applicable as capital money for the purposes of the S. L. Act ; semble, the statutory power would have applied in this case, for the portion is not made "capital money" until the trusts in favour of the issue fail or cease. The reason for the restriction on the extent of the power is that where the money has to be raised on the security of land or by means of a term (e.g., a portions term) special trusts are required for this purpose. The power to raise money given by T. Act, 1925, s. 16, does not follow the form used for this purpose.

(x) See S. L. Act, 1925, s. 78, as amended ; it is no longer necessary to employ an express trust to purchase land to make the money devolve as land, for this section meets the decisions in Re Walker [1908], 2 Ch. 705 ; 77 L. J. Ch. 755 ; and Re Twopenny [1924], 1 Ch. 522.

(7) Power for daughters to appoint life interests to surviving husbands—Wills (Personal), Form No. 60, sub-clause (7), p. 719. Also power to appoint separate Trustees and to vary trusts on marriage, if desired, see sub-clauses (8), (9) and (10) of same Form.

Power to appoint life interest to husband, &c.

No. 25A.

Trusts of a term to raise and pay portions and legacies mentioned in a Schedule.

MY Trustees shall stand possessed of the said term of —— years :

(1) UPON TRUST by mortgage (by charge or sub-demise) or sale or demise of the premises or any part thereof for all or any part of the same term, or by receipt of the income thereof, or by the sale of timber or minerals, or by all or any of those means, or by any other reasonable means to raise and pay the legacies and other capital sums mentioned in the —— Schedule to my Will [and the duties thereon payable at my death] and the costs of raising the same in the manner and at the times provided in that Schedule :

(2) SUBJECT to the trusts aforesaid and to the right of my Trustees to raise by any of the means aforesaid all the costs and expenses incurred in relation thereto, the rents and profits of the premises comprised in the said term shall be received by the persons for the time being entitled in reversion immediately expectant upon that term.(y)

SECTION V.

POWERS OF CHARGING.

No. 26.

Power for trustees to raise money for debts and legacies in aid of personal estate.(z)

(1) MY Trustees may, notwithstanding any of the trusts hereinbefore limited, or to be limited under any of the powers herein contained, and in priority thereto, but subject to any disposition previously made for money or money's worth, raise by mortgage of the premises, or any of them, [except advowsons and my mansion-house at ——, and the demesnes thereof and the park and other lands usually occupied therewith,] and upon such terms as my Trustees think fit, any money which they shall deem to be required in aid of my residuary

---

(y) If the residuary personal estate is made to devolve as capital money it will be applicable for paying these legacies, and if sufficient no mortgage will be required to raise them. This form can be made use of in place of the full Form No. 24, supra, where all the younger children intended to be provided for can be named.

(z) This Form enables the trustees to raise money for administration purposes. An alternative way of effecting this purpose is to limit a term to the trustees preceding all other limitations upon trust to raise the money if required. This power is not generally required, for under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, Pt. I and s. 39, the personal representatives will have ample power to raise money for administration purposes.

[real and] personal estate to pay my funeral and testamentary expenses, death duties, debts, [and] legacies, [and annuities, but so that annuities shall, so far as possible, be paid as they become due out of rents, profits and income, and not by raising a capital sum to provide for the same,] And any person advancing money on mortgage shall not be concerned to enquire whether money is wanted for the purposes of my Will or whether more than is wanted is raised or as to the application thereof :

(2) If any such mortgage is made after a vesting instrument has been executed in regard to the property intended to be charged legal effect shall be given thereto by the estate owner pursuant to section sixteen of the Settled Land Act, 1925.(a)

No. 27.

Contingent power for successive tenants for life to limit rentcharges. (b)

(1) Every person hereby made tenant for life of the property hereby devised in settlement may, &c. (continue as in Form No. 29, Settlements (Real), p. 277, supra).

(1) Every person hereby made tenant for life of the property hereby devised in settlement may, &c. (continue as in Form No. 30, Settlements (Real), p. 278, supra).

Section VI.

POWERS TO RELEASE RENTCHARGES AND SURRENDER TERMS.

No. 29.

Power for females restrained from anticipation to release their rentcharges.

Every female who under the limitations hereof or under any exercise, &c. (continue as in Form No. 31, Settlements (Real), p. 280).

No. 30.

Power for the Trustees of a term to surrender any property comprised in the term in certain events.

Subject to any disposition which may have been made for raising any money, &c. (continue as in Form No. 32, Settlements (Real), p. 281).

Powers transferred to tenant for life.

(a) Powers conferred by a settlement (including a Will) on the trustees or other persons relating to the settled land (not being merely powers of revocation or appointment) are made exercisable by the tenant for life or statutory owner as if they were additional powers : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 108 (2) ; hence, when the tenant for life (who is a trustee for this purpose : ib., s. 107) has to carry out the transaction pursuant to s. 16 he will of necessity have the requisite power to do so.

(b) As the first tenant for life is not ascertained until the testator's death an absolute power of charging, as in Settlements (Real), Forms Nos. 27 or 28, pp. 274–5, is not required, but where the powers are to be exercised by a son of the testator the powers can be enlarged.

SECTION VII.

BEQUEST OF HEIRLOOMS AND RESIDUARY PERSONAL ESTATE SO AS TO DEVOLVE WITH THE LAND DEVISED IN STRICT SETTLEMENT.(c)

No. 31.

Bequest of heirlooms.(d)

(1) I BEQUEATH free of duty all my diamonds and the settings thereof, and also all my pictures, prints, statues, sculptures, articles of vertu, books and plate (hereinafter referred to as the heirlooms), unto my Trustees, UPON TRUST that my Trustees shall allow the same to devolve and be enjoyed as heirlooms along with the freehold property hereinbefore devised in settlement and with any mansion house in which the heirlooms may be kept which is settled with the said property :(e)

Inventories.

(2) FORM 3 of the Statutory Will Forms, 1925 (relating to inventories), is incorporated in my Will and shall apply to the heirlooms :

Tenant for life becomes the trustee of land of every tenure.

(c) There is no longer any object in bequeathing leaseholds separately from freeholds, all land, whatever its tenure, must, when the personal representatives execute a vesting assent, be vested in the tenant for life or statutory owner as the trustee thereof. There are no longer any copyholds to be separately dealt with, and it was never the practice to deal with enfranchised land apart from the other freeholds ; the fact that the manorial incidents may not have been extinguished can make no difference in this respect. It may, however, be convenient that the personal representatives should enter into a compensation agreement before they assent.

What property should be vested in the S. L. Act trustees.

On the other hand the trustees of the settlement are still the proper persons to act as the trustees of heirlooms and other personal estate not being chattels real.

Entailed interests ; fee simple conditional.

The fact that entailed interests (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 130) can be created in personal as well as real property simplifies all the forms relating to strict settlements of personalty ; it should also be noted that a fee simple conditional on the birth of issue formerly affecting copyholds has been converted into an entailed interest : L. P. Act, 1922, 12th Sch., para. (8) (ii).

Legacies and annuities.

(d) After this Form add bequests of pecuniary and other legacies (see Form No. 25A, limiting a term to raise legacies) so as to precede immediately the gift of residue (see next Form). If the residue is settled to devolve as capital money and the eldest son (first tenant for life) is of full age it is often desirable to give the farming stock and mineral plant to him absolutely, see Form No. 4, p. 780. Any annuity to be charged on the land should be given by way of rentcharge, see Forms Nos. 6, 6A and 8, supra ; also Re Beresford-Hope [1917], 1 Ch. 287 ; 86 L. J. Ch. 182. Personal representatives have power to limit rentcharges to give effect to annuities affecting land : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 40 ; they may also limit terms on trust for raising principal sums : ib. This section applies to Wills as well as to intestacies.

Settlement of heirlooms by reference to land.

(e) Where personal estate (including proceeds of sale and heirlooms) is directed to be enjoyed or held with land in which an entailed interest has been created, the direction is sufficient to create a corresponding entailed interest in the personal estate : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 130 (3).

PROVIDED that my Trustees may, from time to time, till the heirlooms become absolutely vested, inspect the same and provide for the custody, preservation, insurance (so far as the heirlooms are capable of insurance) and repair of the heirlooms at the expense of the usufructuary:

Power of sale.

(3) A sale of the heirlooms,(f) or any of them, may be made under section sixty-seven of the Settled Land Act, 1925 [with the consent of my Trustees and], without any order of the court:

Exchange, &c.

(4) WITH the consent of my Trustees and at the expense of the usufructuary—

(a) the heirlooms or any of them may be exchanged for other chattels, or

(b) the form or fashion of the heirlooms or any of them may be altered, or

(c) other articles may be substituted for the heirlooms or any of them:

PROVIDED that in any such case the intrinsic value of the heirlooms shall not thereby be diminished:

Power to let heirlooms.

(5) The usufructuary, or if there be no such person of full age, then the statutory owners of the settled land or other persons having power to grant a lease of the settled land, may at his or their discretion (ff) let the use and enjoyment of the heirlooms or any of them, together with any mansion or other house containing the heirlooms, by any lease capable of being made of such house:

PROVIDED that the tenant shall—

(a) sign an inventory of the heirlooms delivered to him,

(b) covenant or agree with the lessor to keep such heirlooms in repair during the subsistence of the tenancy,

(c) covenant or agree with the lessor not to assign, underlet or part with his interest under the tenancy without the consent in writing of the lessor:

Indemnity.

(6) During the subsistence of any such tenancy the usufructuary and my Trustees shall not be liable for any loss, damage or depreciation in respect of the heirlooms delivered to the tenant.

(f) For Precedent of Agreement for Sale of Heirlooms, see Vol. I, p. 400.

Death duties on heirlooms.

Capital money arising from other settled property can be applied in discharging death duties on heirlooms: Re E. of Egmont's S. E. [1912], 1 Ch. 251; 81 L. J. Ch. 250.

(ff) The court will not interfere with this discretion: Re Smith-Bosanquet (1909), 53 Sol. J. 430.

No. 32.

Bequest of personal estate upon trust for conversion and so as to devolve with the settled land as capital money.

(1) I BEQUEATH all the personal estate not hereby or by any codicil otherwise specifically disposed of, and which I can dispose of by Will in any manner I think proper, either as beneficially entitled thereto or under any general power [including the statutory power to dispose of entailed personal property] (except under [the statutory power to dispose of entailed personal property and except under] a power to which I am bound expressly to refer), unto my Trustees, UPON TRUST that my Trustees shall stand possessed of the same Upon the administration trusts expressed in Form 8 of the Statutory Will Forms, 1925, which form is incorporated in my Will, subject to the following variations, namely—

(a) the expression "my debts" shall include mortgage debts (if any) affecting the real estate and chattels real hereinbefore devised in settlement ;

(b) the expression "duties" shall include duties payable out of capital on my death in respect of the said real estate and chattels real ;

(c) annuities shall, in the first instance, be treated as rentcharges affecting the said real estate and chattels real, but my Trustees shall have power at any time to set aside a fund to answer any annuities or to purchase annuities from the Government or from an insurance office, and thereupon the security or annuity so provided shall be accepted in lieu of the original security or annuity :

Residue to be held as capital money.

(2) So much of the property or the net proceeds of sale thereof as may not be required for the purposes of the said administration trusts shall be held by my Trustees, Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions upon and subject to which capital money arising under the Settled Land Act, 1925, from the freehold property hereinbefore devised in settlement or investments representing the same would be held.(g)

(g) If the personal estate is settled upon particular trusts as personalty the appropriate Forms in Wills (Personal) should be used, but it is generally expedient to let the residuary personalty devolve with the land to provide a fund for payment of duties and effecting improvements, leaving the younger children and others to be provided for by means of the trusts of a portion term or rentcharges. It is no longer necessary to impose a trust to purchase land in order to make the money devolve with the settled land: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 78, as amended.

Variation where the residuary personalty is to go to

If the residuary personalty is to be given to the first tenant for life absolutely then strike out from "my trustees" in sub-clause (2) in the above Form and substitute :—

"IN TRUST absolutely for the person of full age who shall first become entitled under the foregoing limitations to the first estate of freehold in the freehold property hereinbefore devised in settlement."

Settlements by reference.

(h) This form takes the place of the old devise to the uses or upon the trusts of a settlement which was used before 1898. The Vesting Assent will be a subsidiary vesting instrument, see S. L. Act, 1925, s. 10. The S. L. Act trustees of the settlement which is referred to become the trustees of the Will so far as it creates a settlement by reference: ib., s. 32. As to estates settled by different settlements on the same limitations: ib., s. 91.

No. 34.

Appointment of land and capital money on the trusts of a voluntary settlement of capital money made by the testator and his eldest son.

(being a disentailing assurance of the property subject to the limitations of ——) and of all other powers, I make the following appointments, namely :—

(1) I APPOINT that all the real estate and chattels real which at my death may be subject to the said power of appointment shall be held Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions which under a Deed (hereinafter called the Settlement of 19—) dated, &c., and made, &c., may at my death be subsisting or capable of taking effect with respect to the freehold property thereby directed to be purchased out of the capital money and investments thereby settled, and as if the said freehold property had been actually purchased and settled pursuant to the direction contained in the Settlement of 19—, but not so as to increase or multiply charges or powers of charging :

(2) FOR giving effect to the said appointment I direct that all necessary vesting instruments shall be executed for vesting the real estate and chattels real so appointed in the tenant for life or statutory owner under the Settlement of 19— on the trusts aforesaid and for nominating the trustees thereof as trustees for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925 :

(3) I APPOINT that all capital money and investments (if any) which at my death may be subject to the said power of appointment shall be vested in the trustees or trustee for the time being of the Settlement of 19—, to be held by them or him Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions thereby declared concerning the capital money and investments thereby settled, or such of the same as may be subsisting or capable of taking effect.(k)

SECTION X.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.(o)

No. 37.

Power to pay insurance premiums to trustees in lieu of effecting fire insurances.

ANY tenant for life or statutory owner may, instead of effecting any policy of insurance against damage by fire to any buildings (other than any principal mansion house) pay the amount of the premiums which in the opinion of my Trustees would have been payable for effecting and maintaining any such insurance to my Trustees, and the money so paid or during a minority retained by them shall be held as capital money arising under the Settled Land Act, 1925, from the freehold property hereinbefore devised in settlement, and any capital money may be applied in making good any damage by fire to any such buildings.

No. 38.

Statutory owners may present to livings during minorities.(p)

DURING the minority of any person who, under the limitations hereinbefore contained, is or would if of full age be entitled to the settled property as tenant for life or as tenant in tail male or in tail by purchase or in any other case where the powers conferred by the Settled Land Act, 1925, are exercisable by statutory owners, the statutory owners may present a fit person to any ecclesiastical benefice either absolutely or subject to such lawful terms, if any, as to resignation as the statutory owners deem proper.

Power for professional trustees or executors to charge.

ANY executor or trustee (including a term trustee) being a solicitor or other person engaged in any profession or business shall be entitled to be paid all usual professional or other charges for business transacted, time expended, and acts done by him, or any partner of his, in connexion with the trusts hereof, including acts which a trustee or executor, not being in any profession or business, could have done personally.

(o) Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 31, if the right of redemption in any mortgage vested in the S. L. Act trustees is barred, the land may be made subject to the settlement by means of a subsidiary vesting deed. Before this is done the fee simple or head term should be acquired by enlargement or otherwise, under ib., ss. 88 (3), 89 (3). It is no longer necessary to make any express provision as to the destination of accumulations made during a minority; this is now sufficiently provided for by T. Act, 1925, s. 31. The S. L. Act trustees have additional powers of management during a minority; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 102; they also have the statutory powers of a tenant for life: ib., s. 26, unless the settled land is vested in personal representatives, when the latter will have the powers: ib., see also Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28.

Re-limitation of family charge.

(k) Seeing that whoever are the trustees of the compound settlement will be nominated to act as S. L. Act trustees of the Vesting Instrument: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 1, it is no longer essential to re-limit family charges subsisting under a previous settlement; still the practice may be conveniently continued to show in one instrument the order in which the limitations are to take effect and to enable the trusts of the prior documents to be closed. Under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 31 (as amended), the S. L. Act trustees (if any) of the prior settlement will be trustees of the compound settlement. If there are no S. L. Act trustees of the prior instrument, then the trustees of the instrument under which there is a tenant for life or statutory owner will be the S. L. Act trustees of the compound settlement until other trustees are appointed in their place.

Appointment of executors and trustees.

1. (1) I APPOINT C. D., of, &c., and E. F., of, &c. (hereinafter called my Trustees), to be the executors and trustees of my Will:

Personal representatives become S. L. Act trustees.

(r) The terms of the power must be carefully followed in each case. The mere appointment of executors, no S. L. Act trustees being expressly appointed, will, where a settlement is created, operate to constitute them S. L. Act trustees: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 30 (3). In this Precedent no settlement is created, the charges created by the exercise of the special powers are read into the instrument conferring the powers.

Rentcharge charged on other rentcharges.

A jointure can be charged on other rentcharges, e.g., where the settled land consists of perpetual rentcharges: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 122.

2. In exercise of the power for this purpose conferred on me by a Deed (hereinafter called the Settlement) dated the —— day of —— and made between, &c., and of all other powers I appoint to my wife Jane B., in case she survives me, during the residue of her life, a yearly rentcharge of £——, by way of jointure to be issuing out of or to be charged on all the property (except advowsons) which at my death shall be subject to the subsisting limitations of the Settlement and to commence from my death and to be considered as accruing from day to day, but to be paid without any deductions (except income tax) by equal half-yearly payments, the first payment thereof to be made at the end of six months from my death if my wife shall then be living.

Charge of portions and appointment of term.(s)

3. In exercise of the power for this purpose also conferred on me by the Settlement and of all other powers :—

(1) I appoint that all the property (except advowsons) which at my death shall be subject to the subsisting limitations of the Settlement (but subject and without prejudice to the jointure rentcharge hereinbefore limited and the remedies for recovery thereof) shall be held, In trust for my Trustees for the term of 1,000 years to commence from my death without impeachment of waste, Upon trust that my Trustees shall if there shall be any child or children of mine living at my death who attain the age of twenty-one years or being female marry under that age (other than and besides a first or only son or any other son or sons [or any daughter or daughters] who before attaining the age of twenty-one years [or being female marry under that age] shall or would if of full age be or become [indefeasibly] entitled under the limitations of the Settlement to the possession of or to a freehold interest in the lands thereby settled) then by mortgage or sale or demise of the property or any part thereof (continue and adapt Form No. 22, Settlements (Real), p. 264, supra, omitting the power of appointment).

2. In exercise of the power for this purpose conferred on me by a Settlement dated the —— day of ——, and made, &c., and of all other powers, I appoint that the trustees for the time being of the term of —— years thereby limited for raising portions for my younger children and their issue, shall stand possessed of the sum which shall be raisable under the trusts thereof at my death In trust for such of my daughters as shall survive me and attain the age of twenty-one years or marry under that age, and if more than one in equal shares, and so that each married daughter shall, notwithstanding her minority, have power to give a valid receipt for her portion.

Legacies to eldest and younger sons.(w)

3. (1) I bequeath the sum of £—— to the son of mine who shall at my death be of full age and become entitled to the possession or to the rents, profits or income of the property subject to the limitations of the said Settlement, and the sum of £—— to each of my other sons who survives me and attains the age of twenty-one years:

(2) Each legacy shall be set aside and invested by my Trustees until the legacy vests and shall carry interest at the rate of £5 per cent. per annum from my death till invested or appropriated.

4. I bequeath to my Trustees for each of my daughters and her issue (continue as in Form No. 24, Wills (Personal), p. 684).

Directions to daughters to settle portions upon similar trusts to the settled legacies.

5. Each of my daughters shall, to the satisfaction of my Trustees, settle the portion hereinbefore appointed to her Upon trusts corresponding with the trusts hereinbefore (by reference to the Statutory Will Forms) declared concerning the legacy hereby bequeathed for the benefit of her and her issue; and if any daughter of mine shall make default in giving effect to such direction within six months after my death or within such extended period as my Trustees shall at their absolute discretion permit, the legacy so bequeathed shall lapse as if such daughter had died in my lifetime without ever having been married; but this provision shall not extend to any daughter who by virtue of a covenant to settle after-acquired property is liable to settle her portion on the trusts of her marriage settlement.

(v) If a daughter dies in testator's lifetime, leaving issue, the testator can, if the power permits, provide for the issue by his Will or a codicil.

(w) It is assumed that the son who takes the estates will be of age. As to appointing trustees of an infant's legacy instead of paying it into court: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 42. Where executors have before 1926 set aside a legacy for an infant, this section protects them.

Legacies duty free.

6. ALL legacies hereby bequeathed shall be paid free of duty.

Gift of residue after payment of debts, &c., so as to devolve with the land comprised in the settlement.

7. I DEVISE AND BEQUEATH to my Trustees (continue and adapt Form No. 35, p. 811; extending it to real estate and add such further forms as the circumstances require).

Limitations to issue male.

(2) Limitations to testator's first and other sons successively for

(x) It is assumed in this Precedent that the testator's younger children are otherwise provided for.

Right of tenant for life to legal estate in the settled land.

The trustees, though entitled to possession in right of the 1,000 years term, will not have the legal estate in the settled land. That will, by a vesting assent, be vested in the tenant for life of full age; he must give effect to the rights of the trustees of the term: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16; the testator cannot (except as noted below) deprive him of his right to have the settled land vested in him: ib., s. 106 (1) (a). The term only creates a family charge: ib., s. 1 (1) (v); the tenant for life remains such, notwithstanding the prior trust for accumulation: ib., s. 20 (1) (vi). If it is not desired that the legal estate in the land should be vested in a tenant for life, the mode to effect this is either to devise the land on trust for sale or to avoid creating a tenant for life, e.g., by means of a discretionary trust, or by following the scheme adopted in Re Frewen [1926], 1 Ch. 580. A trust for sale can be properly employed in the case of small estates, but where the estate is large the duties imposed on the trustees would generally be too heavy to get trustees to accept the trust, even though they have power (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 29) to delegate the powers of leasing and accepting surrenders of leases, though the power to delegate may be extended.

Means of preventing tenant for life from taking legal estate.

Over-reaching of legal terms.

If a legal term is, by mistake, limited or reserved to the trustees by a vesting instrument, in priority to the legal estate vested in the tenant for life, he will nevertheless be able to over-reach it, save where a legal mortgage has been created to secure money actually raised: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 72. In settlements inter vivos no provision is made authorising a legal term to be created: ib., s. 4; in the case of a Will, a legal term cannot be created; it only operates in equity to create a "trust instrument": ib., s. 6; L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1924, 9th Sch., para. 3. Legal terms created by a settlement before 1926 are got in by the vesting deed: S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 1 (6) (as amended), without prejudice to mortgages.

Legal terms cannot be created by settlement or Will.

ASSENT by PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVES in favour of a person SOLELY and ABSOLUTELY entitled to the LAND (freeholds, enfranchised lands and leaseholds), free from FAMILY CHARGES,(b) [but subject to Mortgages] whether so entitled under a WILL, an INTESTACY, a CONVEYANCE by a beneficiary, or an APPROPRIATION.(c) (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS ASSENT is made the —— day of ——, 19—, BETWEEN A. B., of, &c., and C. D., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Grantors), of the one part, and E. F., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Beneciary), of the other part: WHEREAS :—

Death and probate.

(1) R. F., being at his death entitled to the property mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto [subject to the legal incumbrances mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto but otherwise] free from incumbrances died on the ——, 19—, having by his Will dated ——, 19—, appointed the Grantors to be his executors, who on the ——, 19—, duly proved the same [with —— codicils

Family charges.

(b) If there are family charges subsisting, this creates a settlement: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 1 (1) (v), and the assent must take the form of a vesting assent giving the names of the S. L. Act trustees: ib., ss. 5, 6, 8. If there are two or more beneficiaries and the land is not settled land, the assent must be made to them on trust for sale.

Simple form.

A simple form of assent (see next Precedent) is given in L. P. Act, 1925, 5th Sch., Form No. 8, see notes to that form. It will relate back to the death unless a contrary intention appears, and can be properly given, though duties remain to be paid if the personal representatives are satisfied as to the arrangements made for payment.

Stamp. Memorandum Parchment.

Assents are (subject to the express provisions in the S. L. Act, 1925, relating to vesting assents) governed by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36; no stamp duty is payable unless they are executed under seal, when a 10*s.* stamp will be required. A memorandum of an assent must be placed on the Probate or Letters of Administration. An assent is a new form of conveyance, and should preferably be executed on parchment. It is an essential part of the title to a legal estate.

Appropriation deeds stamp.

As to stamping a conveyance for giving effect to an appropriation made under a power which is only exercisable with the consent of persons interested (e.g., Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 41), as a conveyance on sale, see Re Beverly [1901], 1 Ch. 681; accordingly it is always desirable (see Statutory Will Forms, 1925, Form 6) to vary the statutory power so as to make it exercisable at the discretion of the representatives or trustees without any consent, see Re Wragg [1919], 2 Ch. 58; 88 L. J. Ch. 269. This, however, cannot be done where a person dies intestate.

It is assumed in this Precedent that any stamp duty attributable to an appropriation or to a conveyance by a beneficiary of his equitable interest to a purchaser has been discharged.

(c) For the power to appropriate: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 41.

(2) The Beneficiary having become entitled (d) to the said property [subject only to the aforesaid incumbrances] and having made arrangements for the payment of all death duties (if any) remaining undischarged and affecting the said property to the satisfaction of the Grantors [or and having discharged all death duties affecting the said property], has requested the Grantors to execute such assent as is hereinafter contained, which they have agreed to do in manner hereinafter appearing : NOW IT IS HEREBY DECLARED as follows :—

1. THE Grantors, As Personal Representatives of the said testator [intestate] hereby assent to the vesting in the Beneficiary of :—

Freeholds.

[First] ALL THOSE freehold properties [rentcharges] and rights situated or arising in the parishes of ——, in the county of ——, and more particularly described in the [First Part of the First] Schedule hereto, and in the case of lands delineated on the plan[s] hereto and thereon edged pink [Together with the lands and rights included in the fee farm grants mentioned in that Schedule] :

Enfranchised lands.

[Secondly] ALL THOSE enfranchised lands situated in the parishes of ——, in the county of ——, and more particularly described in the [Second Part of the First] Schedule hereto and delineated on the plan[s] hereto and thereon edged green :

Leaseholds.

[And thirdly] ALL THOSE leasehold properties mentioned in the [Third Part of the First] Schedule hereto and all the premises comprised in and demised by the Leases therein mentioned :

AND all other (if any) the properties and rights which ought to be vested by this Assent :

Recitals of equitable interests.

Assents when applicable.

(d) The personal representatives will require the beneficiary to satisfy them as to his title, but it is not generally expedient to recite the equitable title. Assents by personal representatives are available to transfer a legal estate for all purposes, save dispositions by them for money or money's worth. Equity follows the law, and though the statutory provisions are confined to legal estates, assents, similar in form, should be used for equitable interests.

Endorsement by steward.

(e) Where the land is affected by manorial incidents the assent must be produced to the steward for endorsement within six months and the fines and lords of the manors remaining unextinguished] and as to the leasehold properties for the residue of the respective terms for which the same are held and at the rents and subject to the lessees' covenants and conditions affecting the same :

Indemnity.(g)

2. AND the Beneficiary hereby agrees [covenants] with the Grantors that the Beneficiary and the persons deriving title under him will at all times as from the death of the said testator [intestate]—

(1) Pay all the rents respectively reserved by the said leases [and the fee farm grants mentioned in Clause five of the First Schedule hereto] :

[(2) Pay the mortgage debts mentioned in the Second Schedule hereto and keep down the interest thereon [and all death duties payable on the death of the said testator [intestate] in respect of the premises and remaining undischarged, and the interest (if any) thereon] :

fees paid: L. P. Act, 1922, s. 129. It will generally save expense if a compensation agreement is entered into by the personal representatives, before the assent is made, at the expense of the beneficiary, but the fines and fees must be paid up to date.

Assents subject to legal estate.

(f) Assents can properly be made (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (10)) subject to legal estates (e.g., legal mortgages or legal rentcharges), but not subject to over-reachable equitable interests ; in the latter case there will be a trust to give effect to them. If the land is held on trust for sale, a trust will be imposed on the proceeds of sale and the rents until sale. In some cases a legal mortgage should be made by the representatives before the assent is given : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16 (1) (ii) ; L. P Act, 1925, s. 3 (1) (c).

Indemnity stamp. Death duties.

(g) If there is an agreement for an indemnity, the assent should be executed over a 6*d*. stamp ; if it is executed under seal the stamp will be 10*s*. As to the right of the personal representatives to be indemnified against death duties: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (10 .

1. ALL THAT the manor or lordship or reputed manor or lordship of ——, in the county of —— :

2. ALL THAT advowson (h) or perpetual right of presentation of and to the Rectory [Vicarage] and Church of Saint ——, in the parish of ——, in the county of —— :

3. ALL THAT yearly tithe rentcharge of £—— issuing out of lands in the parish of ——, in the county of —— :

4. THE following perpetual yearly rentcharges :—

Amount of rentcharge	Lands Charged.	Date of Grant reserving the rent.	Parties to Grant.

5. THE following lands affected by perpetual rentcharges :—

Date of Grant.	Parties to Grant.	Lands conveyed.	Rents reserved.

6. PARTICULARS of freehold lands :—

No. on Plan.	Description.	Tenant's name.	Acreage.

Benefices Act, 1898.

(h) If the assent includes an advowson, it should be registered with the Diocesan Registrar pursuant to the Benefices Act, 1898, within one month.

Second Part.

Particulars of enfranchised lands (formerly copyhold of the Manors of ——) affected by manorial incidents.

No. on Plan.	Description.	Tenant's name.	Acreage.

Third Part.

Particulars of leaseholds.

Date of Lease.	Parties.	Land Demised.	Term.	Yearly rent.

[SECOND SCHEDULE.] (i)

Particulars of incumbrances.

Amount. owing.	Present Mortgagees.	Land charged.	Date of Mortgage.

(i) Where there are incumbrances, it is clear that the usual covenant or agreement for indemnity should be given. It makes no difference how the title arises under which an assent is claimed; thus, if land is given to trustees in trust for a person of full age absolutely, the trustees can be ignored; they cannot take a legal title under the Will and have no equity to the land. If by reason of a joint tenancy (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36) or a tenancy in common (ib., s. 34; 1st Sch., Pt. IV; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 36) or any other implied (L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 25 (4), 31, 32; Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33) or express trust for sale the land becomes subject to such a trust, the assent must be made in favour of the trustees on trust for sale. Similarly, if the land becomes "settled land," the vesting assent must be made in favour of the tenant for life or statutory owner. If the land was settled before the death of a tenant for life or statutory owner, the persons to make the assent will (unless they renounce) be the special representatives to whom probate or representation has been granted limited to the settled land.

Title to have an assent.

Trustees for sale.

Tenant for life and statutory owners.

In no case can a valid assent to the passing of a legal estate be made in favour of an infant: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 1 (6); the land will, during a minority, either be held on trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 19 (2), 28 (4); 1st Sch.,

Infants.

No. IV.

ASSENT by PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVES in favour of a PERSON SOLELY and ABSOLUTELY ENTITLED free from family charges or other incumbrances; no INDEMNITY being required.(j) (Legal Estate.)

I, A. B., of, &c., as the personal representative of X. Y., late of, &c., deceased, do this —— day of ——, 19—, hereby, As Personal Representative, assent to the vesting in C. D., of, &c., of—

[ALL THAT farm, &c.] or

[ALL the property described in the Schedule hereto] for all the estate or interest of the said X. Y. at the time of his death [or for an estate in fee simple].

AS WITNESS, &c. [Add Schedule if required.]

Pt. III, para. 2; or will become settled land: S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 1 (1) (ii) (d), 19 (3), 26, 27; 2nd Sch., para. 3.

Postponement of assents.

It is expedient generally to postpone assents and allow the land to be managed by the personal representatives (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39) till there is a person of full age in whose favour the assent can be made, and until the charges immediately raisable have been cleared; in the meantime the persons interested can be let into possession: ib., s. 43.

Date of death of testator or intestate.

It is immaterial whether the testator or intestate died before or after 1st January, 1926, provided that the land is vested in the personal representatives the new law relating to assents applies: ib., s. 36 (12).

Registration in Middlesex and Yorkshire.

Assents affecting legal estates in land in Middlesex and Yorkshire must be registered in the local deeds register: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 11; unless the title to the land is registered: L. R. Act, 1925, s. 135. Registration of title dates back to the date of application, hence when the title is about to be registered it is not necessary to register in a deeds register.

Freedom from stamp duty.

In accordance with Kemp v. I. R. C. [1905], 1 K. B. 581; 74 L. J. K. B. 112, assents do not attract stamp duty when not under seal: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (11); the principle that each change of legal ownership should be evidenced by something in writing, increases the number of documents of title required, and, though an assent operates as a conveyance, it would not on this account have been fair to impose a stamp.

Security to be given to personal representatives.

(j) This is the simple form given in L. P. Act, 1925, 5th Sch. (Form No. 8), applicable where a person is solely and absolutely entitled. Where a covenant for indemnity is required (see last Precedent) it is more convenient to express the assent to be made between parties. A covenant or agreement for indemnity will generally be sufficient to cover liabilities, though Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (10), speaks of a "security for the discharge of any such duties, debt or liability"; thus in proper cases a deposit of securities might be required, but this will seldom happen. If the testator or intestate was not personally liable for the rent or for the performance of the covenants in a lease, this Form can be used, otherwise the last Precedent should be used and adapted to the case. The usual covenants implied by conveying "As Personal Representative" of a deceased person are implied in an assent, though not under seal: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 76 (1) (f); Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (3). See also generally as to assents, notes to last Precedent.

Leaseholds.

Covenants for title.

[NOTE.—The expression "conveyance" includes an assent, but an assent will relate back to the death unless a contrary intention appears. An assent may be properly given, though duties remain to be paid, if the personal representative is satisfied in regard to the arrangement made for payment.(k)]

ASSENT by PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVES to the vesting of FREEHOLDS in THEMSELVES as TRUSTEES FOR SALE.(l) (Legal Estate.)

WE, A. B., of, &c., and C. D., of, &c., as the personal representatives of X. Y., late of, &c., deceased, do this —— day of ——, 19—, hereby :—

Assent on trust for sale.

1. AS Personal Representatives assent to the vesting in ourselves of :

ALL AND SINGULAR the property and rights mentioned in the Schedule hereto :

TO HOLD unto ourselves in fee simple, UPON TRUST to sell the same or any part thereof with power to postpone the sale : And to stand possessed of the net proceeds of sale and other money applicable as capital and the net rents and profits until sale, Upon the trusts respectively declared concerning the same by the Will dated, &c., of the late ——, who died, &c. (k) This note is part of the Act itself and is borne out by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 ; "conveyance" is defined in L. P. Act, 1925, s. 205 (1) (ii).

Assent in favour of selves.

(l) This is taken almost verbatim from Form No. 9 in the 6th Sch. to the L. P. Act, 1925. Where an assent is made by personal representatives in favour of other persons it is more convenient to express it as being made between parties, see Prec. No. VI, infra. For a power to convey to self : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 72. Personal representatives will only assent in favour of themselves after administration (so far as it affects the property in question) has been completed, and generally with a view to a new trustee being appointed for the purposes of the trust for sale.

Personal representatives become trustees for sale, when.

In the text it is assumed that the personal representatives either took as devisees in trust for sale under the Will of their testator, or that they were trustees for sale under the settlement referred to, the testator having directed that the land should be held on the trusts of that settlement, or that they are the representatives of the intestate who owned the land : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33. They may also become trustees for sale by reason of the land having been devised in undivided shares : L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. IV, para. 1 (1) ; or as S. L. Act trustees of settled land limited to devolve in undivided shares : ib., para. 1 (3) as amended : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 36.

[Additional powers.(m)]

[2. DECLARE that in addition to the powers which are by the Law of Property Act, 1925, and by any other statute conferred on trustees for sale the following powers are also exercisable from time to time by the trustees hereof, namely :—[set out the powers, if any.]

Power to appoint new trustees.(n)

3. AND declare that F. G., of, &c., and M. G., of, &c., during their joint lives, and the survivor of them during his or her life, have or has power to appoint new trustees of this Assent :

[or that the statutory power to appoint new trustees applies to this Assent, or otherwise as the case requires to correspond with the power applicable to the trust for sale created by the Will, Settlement, intestacy or statute.]

No. VI.

ASSENT by PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVES to the vesting of land in other persons as TRUSTEES FOR SALE. (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS ASSENT is made the —— day of ——, 19—, BETWEEN A. B., of, &c., and C. D., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Grantors), of the one part, and E. F., of, &c., and G. F., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Trustees), of the other part : WHEREAS :—

Additional powers.

(m) No additional powers beyond those conferred by statute (e.g., L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 28 and 29 ; T. Act, 1925, Pt. II) could well be conferred save by the instrument, if any, creating the trust for sale, or by a powers deed made by all the persons beneficially interested being sui juris.

Appointment of new trustees of assents and conveyances creating trusts for sale.

(n) The persons having power to appoint new trustees of a conveyance or assent on trust for sale are bound to appoint the same persons (if any) to be trustees of the settlement (including a Will), of the proceeds of sale : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 24 ; this of necessity does not apply where the trusts of the proceeds of sale are declared by the instrument which creates the trust for sale. There must not be more than four trustees for sale : T. Act, 1925, s. 34. The trustees of the conveyance or assent must be appointed by a separate instrument from that whereby new trustees are appointed of the settlement (if any) of the net proceeds : ib., s. 35 (1) ; a memorandum of the appointment must be endorsed on the conveyance or assent : ib., s. 35 (3). The power to appoint is conferred by : ib., s. 36.

Curtain effected by assents.

An assent to the passing of a legal estate operates to draw a curtain over the equitable interests ; unless a memorandum of a previous assent or conveyance has been endorsed on the probate or letters of administration, the assent is sufficient evidence that the person in whose favour the assent is given is the person entitled to have the legal estate conveyed to him, and upon the proper trusts, if any : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (7).

Death and Probate.

(1) X. Y., being at his death entitled to the property mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto [subject to the incumbrances mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto but otherwise] free from incumbrances, died on the —— day of ——, 19—, having by his Will dated ——, 19—, appointed the Grantors to be his executors, who on the —— day of ——, 19—, duly proved the same [with —— codicils thereto not affecting the appointment of executors] at the —— Probate Registry :

Statement by personal representatives.

(o) See Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (6) ; this statement is good in favour of a purchaser. A sufficient "statement" is usually implied by the words "As Personal Representatives" : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 76 (1) (f) ; 2nd Sch., Pt. VI. See generally on this Precedent, notes to Prec. III, and to the last Precedent. The personal representatives are the persons accountable for the duties payable on the death : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 16.

Title of trustees for sale.

(p) The trust for sale may have been created by the Will of the testator, and though the personal representatives may have been the original trustees, other trustees may have been appointed in their place ; or a beneficiary under the Will or intestacy may have conveyed his equitable interest to trustees for sale ; or the testator may have devised the land to the trustees for sale holding under an existing conveyance or Will.

No. VII.

ASSENT by Personal Representatives to the vesting of land in BENEFICIAL OWNERS (q) as joint tenants on trust for Sale. (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS ASSENT is made (date), BETWEEN A. B., of, &c., and C. D., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Grantors), of the one part and E. F.,

Joint tenants.

(q) Joint tenants beneficially entitled to land (not being settled land), hold the legal estate in trust for sale, but this does not prevent the survivor being solely and beneficially entitled from dealing with his legal estate as if it were not subject to a trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36 (as amended), though for the protection of a purchaser the land may be treated as subject to a of, &c., and G. F., his wife (hereinafter called the Beneficiaries) [or if there are more than four persons who have become entitled in undivided shares, and have selected four of their number to act as trustees for sale, set out the names and addresses of the selected trustees (hereinafter called the Trustees) and continue as in last Precedent] of the other part: WHEREAS:—

(1) to (3) (Recitals as in last Precedent.)

Title of Beneficiaries.

(4) The Beneficiaries having become absolutely and beneficially entitled to the said property as joint tenants [or in equal shares or otherwise as the case may be subject only to the incumbrances affecting the entirety mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto but free from incumbrances affecting undivided shares] have requested the Grantors to execute such assent as hereinafter contained which the Grantors have agreed to do in manner hereinafter appearing:

NOW IT IS HEREBY DECLARED as follows:—

Assent on trust for sale.

1. (As in clause 1 of last Precedent, substituting "Beneficiaries" for "Trustees," down to and including the words "rents and profits until sale," and continue)

UPON TRUST for the Beneficiaries as joint tenants absolutely [or in equal shares absolutely, or otherwise as required to give effect to the beneficial interests. There is no objection where there are not more than four beneficiaries and they are parties to declaring the trusts of the proceeds by the instrument creating the trust for sale].

Additional powers.(r)

2. THE Beneficiaries hereby declare that the Trustees for the time being hereof shall (in addition to all powers which are by statute conferred on trustees for sale) have the following powers, namely:—

Undivided shares.

trust for sale: ib., s. 23. If land is to be held in undivided shares, the legal estate in the entirety will be held on trust for sale: ib., ss. 34, 35; 1st Sch., Pt. IV; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 36 (as amended). If the proceeds are held in trust for persons of full age absolutely (the undivided shares not being encumbered) they may require the entirety to be vested in not more than four of them on trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 3 (1) proviso. The last Precedent would cover such a case. The beneficiaries, if more than four, can by a separate powers deed direct the legal estate to be vested in four named persons, and give any additional powers required, including, if desired, an express power to appoint new trustees.

Powers deed.

Rights of persons entitled to proceeds of sale.

It is clear from s. 23, see the words "under the directions of the persons interested in the proceeds of sale" (also ib., s. 3, and S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16), that the persons entitled to the proceeds of sale may give additional powers and general directions to the trustees for sale, or estate owners holding the legal estate in the entirety.

Absolute owners

(r) It is assumed in the text that beneficiaries are absolutely entitled, hence can confer such additional powers as they think fit; as the recitals

(1) All the powers which are by the Settled Land Act, 1925 (including, in particular, section sixty-four thereof without the restriction therein contained), or by section sixty-six of the Law of Property Act, 1925 (relating to further assurances), made exercisable with the leave of the Court, shall, for the purposes of this Assent, be exercisable at the discretion of the Trustees without any order of the Court: (s)

(2) A mortgagee shall not be concerned to see for what purpose money is raised: (t)

(3) Any person dealing with the Trustees for money or money's worth may assume that all transactions (if any) not authorised under any statutory power (as hereby extended) have been duly authorised by the persons interested.

[Power to appoint new trustees.]

[3. In the case in the text which assumes that a husband and wife are the sole beneficiaries, no express power to appoint new trustees will be required; but if there are any beneficiaries (not acting as trustees) who have executed a powers deed, then the power (if any) must correspond with that given by such a deed.] conferring additional powers.

show that they are the only persons interested there will be no need in such a case for a separate powers deed. The powers do not bind any legal mortgagees whose legal charges or mortgage terms have priority to the trust for sale, but do bind the right of redemption which remains a legal estate till the mortgagees realise their security under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 88 or 89 (as amended). Compare the power in Vol. I, p. 655.

Any transaction authorised.

(s) As under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 64, any transaction which could have been validly effected by an absolute owner is (subject to an exception as to improvements) authorised, this removes any question as to raising money by mortgage or carrying out any other proper transaction.

(t) As to the specific power for raising money on mortgage: ib., s. 71; and as to raising money at the request of the beneficiary: ib., s. 16.

Order of payment of debts.

(u) The order of application of assets for the payment of debts, where an estate is solvent, is prescribed by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, 1st. Sch., Pt. II, but this may be varied by a testator: ib., para. 8. Mortgage debts are primarily to be paid out of the security affected: ib., s. 35. It will still be open for the representatives to exhaust the personal estate in paying simple contract debts in preference to mortgage debts unless the Will otherwise directs: Re Samson [1906], 2 Ch. 584; 76 L. J. Ch. 21 (over-ruling Re Hankey [1899], 1 Ch. 541; 68 L. J. Ch. 242), see also Re Jennes (1909), 53 Sol. J. 376. This will be particularly material when an assent is made for giving effect to a residuary gift. In effect Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 46, creates a residuary gift, the rights of the surviving spouse of the intestate to the personal chattels and £1,000 being treated as legacies.

Assents to give effect to residuary gifts.

Land Registration Act, 1925.

Title No. ——.

(Date.) I, A. B., of, &c., as Personal Representative of the late C. D., of, &c., hereby assent to the land comprised in the title above referred to vesting in E. F., of, &c. [and G. H., of, &c.].

[Restriction where the land is held on trust for sale and the proprietors have no power to deal with it as absolute owners.]

[And I, the said A. B., apply for the entry of the following restriction :—(w)

Except under an Order of the Registrar, no disposition is to be registered unless authorised by the Settled Land Act, 1925, and, except where the sole proprietor is a trust corporation, no disposition under which capital money arises is to be registered unless the money is paid to at least two proprietors.]

VESTING ASSENT of SETTLED LAND in favour of a TENANT by the CURTESY for giving effect to a SETTLEMENT arising on an INTESTACY.(x) (Legal Estate.)

THIS VESTING ASSENT is made, &c. (date), BETWEEN A. B.,

Assents as respects registered land.

(v) See L. R. Act, 1925, s. 41 ; L. R. Rules, 1925, r. 170 ; ib., Sch., Form No. 56 ; the precedent in the text follows that form. The heading to the form speaks of a devise or appropriation, but the form is available for any of the purposes authorised by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36. The form applies whether the intended proprietor is solely and absolutely entitled, or holds on trust for sale (whether express or implied), or as personal representative of another person. In the case of registered land an assent is not required as a curtain to screen the minor or equitable interests, this is done by the register itself, it follows that there is no need to declare a trust for sale in the assent ; whether the land is or is not subject to a trust for sale is a matter to be decided off the register. If the land is held on trust for sale, then the trustees for sale are the persons to be registered as proprietors : L. R. Act, 1925, s. 94. If there are additional powers these should be mentioned in the Assent, see Prec. V and VII, supra.

Assent not required as a curtain, when.

Trustees for sale to be registered as proprietors.

Registered restriction.

(w) The restriction in Form No. 10 in the Schedule to the rules applies where the trustees for sale are not also absolute owners or have not power to deal with the land as if they were absolute owners.

The survivor of joint tenants who is solely and beneficially entitled can deal with the land as if it were not subject to a trust for sale : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36, as amended.

(x) For a short form of Vesting Assent : S. L. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Form of, &c., and C. D., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Grantors), of the one part, and T. L., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Tenant for Life), of the other part: WHEREAS:—

Death of wife intestate.

(1) R. L. (the wife of Tenant for Life, to whom she was married on the —— day of ——) died intestate on the —— day of ——, 19——, being at her death seised of the freehold property mentioned in the First Schedule hereto for an estate in fee simple in possession IN TRUST for herself in tail, with divers remainders over, the Grantors being at her death the trustees for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925, of the Settlement dated, &c., which created the said entailed interest:

Letters of Administration.

(2) On the —— day of ——, 19—, Letters of Administration were granted by the —— Probate Registry to the Grantors specially limited (y) to the settled land aforesaid:

Where a "settlement" can arise on an intestacy after 1925.

No. 5, and see notes to that form. A settlement cannot arise by reason of the death of a person intestate after 1925, save where a woman tenant in tail does not exercise the testamentary power to dispose of entailed property (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 176) leaving a husband who takes by the curtesy: ib., s. 130; or where a lunatic living and of full age on 1st January, 1926, dies intestate entitled to real estate (not including chattels real) then under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 51 (2), an infant heir-at-law (not a customary heir) might take; this would create a "settlement": S. L. Act, 1925, s. 1 (1) (ii) (d), when the S. L. Act trustees would, as "statutory owners," have the powers of a tenant for life after the administrators had assented: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 26; or the husband of the lunatic might become tenant by the curtesy and so become a tenant for life: ib., s. 20 (1) (vii); or the wife might get her dower assigned by metes and bounds and so become tenant for life of the land assigned: ib., ss. 1 (3), 19; or the heir being an infant at the death and afterwards attaining full age subject to unassigned dower: ib., s. 1 (3), would be an absolute owner subject to a family charge: ib., s. 20 (1) (ix), and so have the powers of a tenant for life; for a "settlement" once created: ib., s. 1 (3); would thereafter continue: ib., s. 3; by reason of the subsistence of the family charge. But, save in the above cases a trust for sale arises on an intestacy: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 33; and where the land is subject to a trust for sale it cannot be "settled land": S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 1 (7), 3, as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch. Though it may have been subject to a "settlement" the latter ceases as soon as the land is held on trust for sale, but the trustees for sale become entitled to exercise all the statutory powers of a tenant for life, including any additional powers conferred by the Settlement: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28 (as amended).

Dower, unassigned, when creates a family charge.

General rule, trust for sale arises on an intestacy.

An immediate trust for sale destroys a settlement.

Who are S. L. Act trustees when there is a tenant by the curtesy.

(y) The interest of a tenant by the curtesy is deemed to be an interest arising under a settlement made by the wife: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 20 (3); of which settlement her personal representatives would be the S. L. Act trustees: ib., s. 30 (3); unless apart from that sub-section there were such trustees. In this case there were such trustees under the settlement creating the entail, to whom special representation would be granted: Jud. Act 1925, s. 162 (replacing Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 10). Even under the old law the husband was passed over in a proper case: In b. Ardern (1898), P. 147; 67 L. J. P. 70.

Memorandum endorsed.

See that a Memorandum of the Assent is endorsed on the Letters of Administration: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36, and see notes to Prec. III, supra.

(3) The Grantors being satisfied (z) that (by reason of the birth on the —— day of ——, 19—, of G. L., a child of the said marriage capable of inheriting the said estate tail) T. L. is entitled to have the said property vested in him have, at his request, agreed to execute such vesting assent as is hereinafter contained :

Title of tenant for life.

NOW IT IS HEREBY DECLARED as follows :—

1. THE Grantors, As the Personal Representatives of the said R. L. in relation to the premises, (a) hereby assent to the vesting in the Tenant for Life of—

Vesting assent.

ALL the property and rights described in the First Schedule hereto for an estate in fee simple.

2. THE premises are vested in the Tenant for Life, Upon the trusts which by reason of the death of the said R. L., intestate as aforesaid, or under the Settlement hereinbefore mentioned, or otherwise, the same ought from time to time to be held.

Trusts.

3. THE Grantors are the trustees of the Settlement for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925.

S. L. Act trustees.

4. THE additional or larger powers conferred by the above-mentioned Settlement in relation to the settled land are mentioned in the Second Schedule hereto, and by virtue of the Settled Land Act, 1925, operate and are exercisable as if conferred by that Act on a tenant for life. (b)

Additional powers.

Primâ facie the trustees of the prior instrument are trustees of a compound settlement ; but where there are no such trustees then, apart from any appointment by the Court, the S. L. Act trustees of the instrument under which there is a tenant for life are the trustees of the compound settlement : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 31 ; L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch.

Trustees of compound settlements.

(z) It is only necessary that inheritable issue of the marriage should have been born alive during the coverture. The deceased must have been entitled in possession, but whether she held the land as her separate property or not is immaterial : Hope v. H. [1892], 2 Ch. 336 ; 61 L. J. Ch. 441. A purchaser will require evidence of the marriage and the birth of the child : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 110 (2) proviso.

When curtesy attaches.

(a) The special representatives have power to deal with the settled land without the concurrence of the general representatives, if any : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 24.

Special representatives.

(b) As there is a compound settlement consisting of the original settlement and the settlement deemed to have been made by the wife (represented by the letters of administration), any additional powers given by the original settlement would be exercisable by the tenant by the curtesy. Independently of any family charges subsisting under the original settlement, the remainders over expectant on the termination of the estate tail, would, until it is barred, keep the settlement alive.

Additional powers.

Appointment of new trustees.

5. THE statutory power to appoint new trustees is applicable.(c)

IN WITNESS, &c.(d) [Add Schedule of the land and a Schedule referring to the additional powers.]

No. X.

VESTING ASSENT of SETTLED LAND in favour of a TENANT FOR LIFE for giving effect to a SETTLEMENT (e) made by a WILL. (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS VESTING ASSENT is made, &c. (date), BETWEEN A. B., of, &c., and C. D., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Grantors), of the one part, and T. L., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Tenant for Life), of the other part: WHEREAS :—

Death and probate.

(1) X. Y., late of, &c., being at his death entitled to the property mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto [subject to the incumbrances mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto, but otherwise] free from incumbrances, died on, &c., having by his Will dated, &c., appointed the Grantors to be his executors, who, on the —— day of ——, 19—, duly proved the same [with

---

(c) If any express power to appoint new trustees is in terms made exercisable by the tenant for life, then this clause must state that he has power to appoint.

Recitals; evidence.

(d) This is one of the cases within S. L. Act, 1925, s. 110 (2), proviso (c), hence it may be safer to take the assent under seal (stamp 10*s.*) in order that in twenty years' time the recitals may be evidence of the facts: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 45 (6); though an assent under hand would be an "instrument" within that sub-section.

Settlements made by Will.

Death duties; term to secure payment.

(e) Where a settlement is made by Will, the personal representatives will give effect to it by a vesting assent: S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 6, 8 (4) (b); a conveyance or assent under seal may reserve a term of years to the grantors for indemnifying them against unpaid death duties, interest and costs; this power is given in terrorem with a view to enabling the representatives to insist on proper provision being made for their payment, e.g., by a direction to discharge them out of capital money (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 18), or by a mortgage for raising the duty as and when the instalments become due: see note to Form No. 5 in S. L. Act, 1925, 1st Sch.; also Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (10). No precedent is given of the reservation of such a term as the practice is not recommended.

Letting beneficiary into possession pending the clearance of charges.

Though the representatives have no power to postpone an assent merely on the ground that duties are undischarged, it will generally be in the interests of all parties to postpone the assent till all family charges immediately raisable have been cleared, meantime the tenant for life should be let into possession: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 43.

Settled land vested in personal representatives on 1st January, 1926.

If the settled land is vested in personal representatives on 1st January, 1926 (e.g., as to leaseholds under the general law or as to freeholds under L. T. Act, 1897, Pt. I), or becomes vested in them before a principal vesting deed is executed, then this or the next Precedent will be applicable: see S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 2.

Stamp Duty.

No stamp duty is payable in respect of a vesting assent not under seal: S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 2 (2).

—— Codicils thereto not affecting the appointment of executors] at the —— Probate Registry :

Title of tenant for life.

(2) The Grantors being satisfied that the said property ought to be vested in the Tenant for Life on the trusts hereinafter referred to, have, at his request, agreed to execute such vesting assent as hereinafter contained :

NOW IT IS HEREBY DECLARED as follows :—

Vesting assent.

1. The Grantors, As the Personal Representatives of the said testator, hereby assent to the vesting in the Tenant for Life of—

All, &c. [For Parcels and limitations of the estate to be taken, see Prec. III, supra. If it is convenient an habendum can be used, see Prec. V, supra.]

Trusts.

2. The premises are vested in the Tenant for Life, Upon the trusts declared concerning the same by the Will hereinbefore mentioned, or other the trusts on which the same ought from time to time to be held.

S. L. Act trustees.

3. The Grantors are the trustees of the settlement for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925.

Additional powers.

4. The additional or larger powers mentioned in the —— Schedule hereto are conferred by the said Will in relation to the settled land, and by virtue of the Settled Land Act, 1925, operate and are exercisable as if conferred by that Act on a tenant for life.(f)

New trustees.

5. The power of appointing a new trustee or new trustees of the settlement is vested in the Tenant for Life during his life.(g)

Indemnity.

6. (Adapt clause 2 of Prec. III, p. 843, supra. The tenant for life must not be made personally liable to pay duties payable out of capital or to pay the principal sums secured by mortgages.)

As witness, &c. [Add Schedules (h), see Prec. III, supra, and notes thereto, also add a Schedule of additional powers, if any.]

Additional powers. Power of appointment.

(f) Only those relating to the settled land should be mentioned, not those relating to the creation of family charges or the investment or application of capital money. But if there is an over-riding power of appointment under which the powers of a tenant for life can be enlarged this fact should be mentioned. As to the powers which though expressed to be conferred on other persons are made exercisable by a tenant for life: S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 108–109; this was necessary as he is made the trustee of the land.

New trustees.

(g) This assumes that the Will gives a power to the tenant for life for the time being to appoint new trustees. If this is not so, but the statutory power is exercisable, this should be mentioned instead.

Incumbrances to be scheduled.

(h) Incumbrances which affect the life interest should not be scheduled, these are not material to the title to the legal estate : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 104 ;

No. XI.

Death and special probate or administration.

(1) X. nor should family charges or powers to create family charges be mentioned. The legal mortgages affecting the settled land which cannot be overreached must be scheduled, not those created by a remainderman.

Special representation as respects settled land.

Settlement terminating by reason of the death.

Deed of discharge unnecessary.

Tenant in tail.

(i) This Precedent applies where a tenant for life living on 1st January, 1926, dies before a vesting deed is made in his favour: S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 2; for under L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II, para. 5, the legal estate vests in him. It also applies to the ordinary case of a tenant for life dying during the subsistence of a settlement: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 7. In both of these cases representation will be granted to the S. L. Act trustees of the settlement specially limited to the settled land: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 22 (testate cases); Jud. Act, 1925, s. 162, replacing Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 10 (intestate cases). If by reason of the death the settlement determines (e.g., where the land becomes vested in an absolute owner free from family charges, or becomes subject to a trust for sale) then in place of a vesting assent, an absolute assent, or an assent on trust for sale will be executed: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 7 (5). No deed of discharge under ib., s. 17, will be required in such a case: ib., s. 110 (5). If a tenant in tail becomes entitled free from family charges and bars the entail before an assent is given, the assent would take the form of an absolute assent.

referred to, have, at his request, agreed to execute such Vesting Assent as hereinafter contained:

NOW IT IS HEREBY DECLARED as follows:—

Vesting assent.

1. THE Grantors, As the Personal Representatives of the said X. Y., deceased, hereby assent to the vesting in the Tenant for Life of—

ALL, &c. (For Parcels and limitations of the estates to be taken see Prec. III, supra. If it is convenient, an habendum can be used.)

As to clause* 6, an indemnity may be required as respects leaseholds for the protection of the estate of X. Y., and of the Grantors.(j))

AS WITNESS, &c. [Add Schedules, see Prec. III, supra, and notes thereto, also a Schedule of additional powers, if any. As the S. L. Act, 1925, gives such wide powers, it will be found that in many cases there are no additional powers.]

No. XII.

(j) Though a vesting assent is free from stamp duty if not under seal, still if an agreement for an indemnity is added it should be executed over a sixpenny stamp. If it is taken under seal the stamp will be 10*s*.

Named persons.

All assents must be made in favour of named persons and must be in writing. An assent not in writing or not in favour of a named person will not pass a legal estate: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36 (4).

Persons who became statutory owners.

(k) The persons who become "statutory owners" are—

(i) During a minority, the S. L. Act trustees after a principal vesting instrument has been executed: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 26 (1) (b). They (as in the text) will generally be the executors; save for the purpose of obtaining an up-to-date description of the property it will seldom be necessary to have a vesting instrument during a minority for the personal representatives have the statutory powers of a tenant for life: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39.

(ii) Where there is no tenant for life (e.g., by reason of the subsistence of a discretionary trust): S. L. Act, 1925, s. 23. In this case the person on whom the powers are expressly conferred by the settlement will be the "statutory owner." In default of any such express power, the S. L. Act trustees will be the statutory owners.

Where the statutory owners are not the same persons as the S. L. Act trustees, the vesting assent will be in the form of Prec. X, supra, with slight bearing in mind that in the case of registered land it is not the vesting instrument but the register itself that operates as a screen to mask the minor or equitable interests. The vesting instrument or transfer should give to the registrar such information as may be requisite to enable him to make the proper entries in the register : cf. Form 9 in the Schedule to the Rules relating to dealings with a mansion house.

Stamp duty. A vesting assent of registered land does not attract Inland Revenue Stamp Duty.

Additional powers. (m) The references to powers conferred by the S. L. Act, 1925, include powers conferred by the settlement in extension of the statutory powers : L. R. (n) The personal representatives of the successor have not, it is assumed, administered his estate, and may require the property for discharging liabilities. Assent may be made to a trustee in bankruptcy. Similarly, if the successor had become a bankrupt, an assent might be made in favour of a trustee in bankruptcy ; a sole trustee in bankruptcy or a sole trustee of a deed of arrangement can now give receipts for capital money : L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 3. The function of an assent is to clothe a person (not being a purchaser from the representatives) with any legal estate which he is entitled to call for : Ad. of E. It is convenient to leave a tabulated page at the end of the probate or letters, in which notices of dealings by the personal representatives can be conveniently inserted.

(p) See Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 41. This extends to the real and personal property of a testator or intestate whether dying before or after 1st January, 1926, and authorises an appropriation in or towards satisfaction of any legacy, or any other interest or share in his property, whether settled or not; but an appropriation cannot be made so as to affect prejudicially any specific devise or bequest. The expression "settled legacy, share or interest" includes one to which a person is not absolutely entitled at the date of the appropriation: sub-s. (7). A power to value and employ an agent for that purpose and to execute all necessary conveyances and assents is given by sub-s. (3). Power to appropriate.

Declaration of trust.

1. (1) THE Executors shall, at the cost of the estate of the said testator, execute all such vesting and other assents, transfers of investments (including transfers of mortgages) and all such other assurances as may be required for giving legal effect to the appropriations or allotments hereinbefore mentioned, and in the meantime shall hold the properties upon the trusts which would have been applicable thereto if the said assurances had been executed :

(2) So far as regards the property to be retained to answer any share or interest settled by the said Will the Executors shall (as trustees of the said Will but without prejudice to the trust for sale therein contained) stand possessed thereof Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions requisite for giving effect to the allotments and appropriations hereinbefore mentioned, and in particular shall (at the cost aforesaid) execute in regard to land all such assents on trust for sale in favour of

[Agreement.]

[(8) Recite agreement to execute declaration of trust]:

NOW THIS DEED WITNESSETH and it is hereby declared as follows :—

Declaration of trust.

1. THE Administrators shall, at the cost of the estate of the said intestate, execute all such vesting and other assents, transfers of investments (including transfers of mortgages), and all such other assurances as may be required for giving effect to the appropriations and allotments hereinbefore mentioned, and in the meantime shall hold the properties upon the trusts which would have been applicable thereto if the said assurances had been executed.

Savings.

2. NOTHING herein contained shall affect the right of the personal representatives from time to time of the said intestate to make further appropriations of shares or interests which have not become absolutely vested or to deal with any property (not hereby absolutely appropriated) or which may hereafter fall in or become part of the assets of the said intestate.

No. XVIII.

GRANT of a rentcharge to a DOWRESS (being the WIDOW of a LUNATIC living, and of full age, on 1*st January,* 1926), in lieu of her DOWER, by way of family arrangement.(t) (Equitable Interest.)

THIS GRANT is made, &c. (date), BETWEEN H. B., of, &c., M. B., of, &c., and D. B., of, &c. (hereinafter together called the Administrators), of the first part, the said H. B. (hereinafter called the Owner), of the second part, and the said D. B. (hereinafter called the Dowress), of the third part : WHEREAS :— Parties.

(1) A. B., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Intestate), on the, &c. (date), married the Dowress, and there was issue of the said marriage two sons and no more, namely, the Owner, who was born, &c., and a younger son, the said M. B., who was born, &c. : Marriage, &c., of lunatic.

(2) Recite the Order appointing a Committee or Receiver in Lunacy of the Estate of A. B. : Order in Lunacy.

(3) The Intestate died intestate on the ——, 19—, never having recovered his testamentary capacity since the date of the recited Order, being at his death seised of the freehold property mentioned in the Schedule hereto, for an estate in fee simple, in possession, free from incumbrances : Death, &c.

(t) See Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 51 (1). It is assumed that the heir-at-law was not an infant at the death of the intestate; had this been so the right to dower would have been converted into a family charge by S.L. Act, 1925, s. 1 (3), and a settlement would have been deemed to have been made by the intestate : ib., s. 1 (2) ; the settlement would have remained subsisting after the heir had attained full age : ib., s. 3. In that case (unless the dowress preferred to take a rentcharge in lieu of dower) the administrators would have merely executed a vesting assent in favour of the heir when of age, and have therein nominated themselves as S. L. Act trustees : ib., s. 30 (3). Had there been only one administrator, he would under that sub-section have appointed an additional S. L. Act trustee to act with him before making the assent. Dower when a family charge.

If the heir is of full age at the death of the intestate, and the dowress does not consent to accept a rentcharge, he can, after an assent is made in his favour, make a settlement ad hoc under ib., s. 21, and so place himself in a position to over-reach her equitable interest. Alternative procedure.

The Intestates' Estates Act, 1890, is repealed as to deaths after 1925 by Ad. of E. Act, 1925, 2nd Sched., Pt. I, thus, though the old general law as to "devolution" in regard to freeholds is restored in the special case provided for in s. 51 (2), semble, the dowress has no claim to a rateable part of the £500 charge in regard to the real estate. She takes the interests provided for her by s. 46 in regard to the leaseholds and other personal estate. Intestates' Estates Act, 1890.

In the unusual case of dower being assigned by metes and bounds, the letters of administration or probate (partial intestacy) relating to her husband's estate, becomes the "settlement" : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 1 (3), and as regards the land assigned, she becomes a tenant for life within s. 19, and has a right to require a vesting assent to be made in her favour. Dower assigned.

Administration.

(4) On the —— day of ——, 19—, Letters of Administration to the estate of the Intestate were granted by the —— Probate Registry to the Administrators, who, in due course of administration, have paid all death duties and other claims affecting the said freehold property:

Agreement to accept rentcharge.

(5) The Dowress has, at the request of the Owner (as heir-at-law of the Intestate), agreed, by way of family arrangement (u) to accept the yearly rentcharge hereinafter mentioned in satisfaction of all claims to dower or otherwise, in respect of the said freehold property:

NOW THIS DEED WITNESSETH, and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Grant of rentcharge.

1. (1) In consideration of the release hereinafter contained the Owner, As Settlor, hereby grants unto the Dowress:

One yearly rentcharge of £–, to commence from the death of the Intestate, and to be charged on and issuing out of the freehold property mentioned in the Schedule hereto, and to accrue from day to day, but to be paid by equal half-yearly payments, the first to be made at the end of six months from the death of the Intestate. Together with all statutory and other powers for compelling payment thereof,

To hold unto the Dowress during the residue of her life:

(2) Provided that all payments (if any) hitherto made in respect of dower shall be accepted towards discharge of the said rentcharge.

Release.

2. In consideration of the said grant, the Dowress, As Mortgagee, hereby releases the said freehold property and any other property affected thereby from all claims (other than the said rentcharge), in respect of dower or otherwise.

Vesting assent to be made, &c.

3. (1) The Administrators are hereby appointed to be the trustees hereof for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925.(v)

[(2) Add additional powers, if required.]

(3) The Owner during his life shall have power to appoint new trustees hereof.

(u) Thus the rentcharge becomes a family charge: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 1 (1) (v).

Absolute owner subject to a family charge.

(v) See S. L. Act, 1925, s. 30 (1) (v), as to appointments of trustees by the persons beneficially entitled. Though the heir, after the vesting assent is made, becomes an absolute owner subject to a family charge within: ib., s. 20 (1) (ix), he, or other the estate owner for the time being, can nevertheless deal with his legal estate subject to the equitable rentcharge: L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 1; e.g., where he desires to raise money for his private purposes and the rent-chargee does not consent to the rentcharge being postponed under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16.

(4) THE Administrators shall forthwith, at the cost of the Owner, execute a Vesting Assent in his favour, in regard to the said property.

IN WITNESS, &c. (Add Schedule.)

NO. XIX.

SURRENDER of a LIFE INTEREST to enable the LAND to be vested in TRUSTEES on TRUST for SALE, but not so as to affect BENEFICIAL INTERESTS.(w) (Equitable Interest.)

Parties.

THIS SURRENDER is made, &c. (date), BETWEEN T. L., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Tenant for Life), of the one part, and B. L., of, &c., and R. L., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Executors), of the other part: WHEREAS:—

Will.

(1) A. L., late of, &c., by his Will dated, &c., after appointing the Executors to be his trustees and executors, and after making divers bequests, devised and bequeathed the freehold and leasehold properties mentioned in the Schedule hereto to his wife, the Tenant for Life, during her life, without impeachment of waste, with remainder (x) to the Executors UPON TRUST to sell the same and to stand possessed of the net proceeds and the rents and profits until sale on the trusts therein mentioned:

[Death, &c.]

[(2) Recite death of testator and probate:]

Scheme for rendering a vesting assent unnecessary.

Termination of a settlement by a trust for sale.

(w) It has been suggested that the S. L. Act, 1925, should be amended to authorise a tenant for life to require the settled land to be vested in trustees for sale, in simple cases, such as that in the text, so as to avoid having to make a vesting instrument in favour of the tenant for life and subsequently take out special representation to the settled land. Though s. 13 prohibits a legal estate in "settled land" from being conveyed (otherwise than by personal representatives) till a vesting instrument has been made in favour of the tenant for life, it only applies so long as the land remains "settled land" and does not prohibit dealings with the life interest. Now that a "settlement" ceases when the land becomes subject to a trust for sale: ss. 1 (7), 3 (1); L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sched., it becomes possible to terminate the "settlement." A surrender by a tenant for life to the person next entitled extinguishes his powers, which become exercisable as if he were dead: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 105; L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sched. Thus, if the remaindermen are trustees for sale, they can exercise the powers: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28.

Effect of surrender to person next entitled.

Surrender to remainderman.

(x) If the remainder is given to a person absolutely, the surrender must be made to him on the terms that he consents to the land being vested in trustees for sale and directs them to hold the rents, profits or income of investments on trust for the tenant for life for her life.

Agreement to surrender at request of beneficiaries.

(3) The Tenant for Life has, at the request in writing of the persons beneficially interested (subject to her life interest) in the net proceeds of sale of the said properties, and on the terms that the net rents, profits and income shall, during her life, be held on the trusts hereinafter mentioned, agreed to execute such surrender as is hereinafter contained:

NOW THIS DEED WITNESSETH and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Surrender of life interest.

1. In consideration of the premises, the Tenant for Life, As Settlor, hereby surrenders and conveys unto the Executors:

All that the life interest of the Tenant for Life in the properties mentioned in the Schedule hereto,

To the intent that the said life interest shall absolutely merge and be extinguished and that the said properties shall henceforth be held upon trust for sale.

Trusts of income.

2. The Executors or other the trustees or trustee for the time being of the said Will shall, in accordance with the directions for that purpose given to them in writing by the persons beneficially interested as aforesaid, stand possessed of the net rents and profits until sale and of the income of the investments representing the net proceeds of sale which may accrue during the lifetime of the Tenant for Life, Upon trust to pay the same to her during her life, and shall account to her therefor on the same footing as if she had remained tenant for life of the said properties without impeachment of waste.

Assent to be made.

3. The Executors shall forthwith assent to the vesting of the said property in themselves (as trustees of the said Will), Upon trust to sell the same and stand possessed of the net proceeds of sale or other capital money and of the net rents and profits until sale and of the income of all capital money, Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions upon and subject to which the same ought to be held under the said Will as varied by this deed.

In witness, &c. (Add Schedule.)

CHAPTER V.

THE LAW OF CHARITIES.

SECT. I.—The restrictions imposed by law on dispositions of land for charitable purposes.(a)

Definition of "charity."

Includes all objects recognised as charitable by 43 Eliz. c. 4; viz., relief of the poor, advancement of learning or religion, or any useful public purpose.

CHARITY, in the legal sense of the term, includes all those objects or purposes which are enumerated as charitable in the preamble of the statute 43 Eliz. c. 4,(b) or included within the purview of that preamble.(c) Charitable purposes under this preamble may be grouped as follows :—

(i) For the relief of poverty ;
(ii) For the advancement of education ;
(iii) For the advancement of religion ;
(iv) For other purposes beneficial to the community ;(d) though everything which is capable of being brought within any of these heads is not necessarily a charity : Re Macduff [1896], 2 Ch. at p. 474.

Statutes of Mortmain.

Mortmain, &c., Acts, 1888 to 1892.

Divers ancient statutes, called the Statutes of Mortmain, prohibited alienations of land to corporate bodies without a licence from the Crown, under pain of forfeiture. Dispositions of land to unincorporate persons in trust for charitable purposes were not within those statutes, but were subjected to restrictions by the Act 9 Geo. 2, c. 36. The law relating to Mortmain is wholly distinct from that relating to charitable uses, though both subjects are dealt with in the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1888. That Act repeals the Statutes of Mortmain and also the Act 9 Geo. 2, c. 36, and the Acts amending it, but its provisions are substantially the same as those of the repealed Acts. The Act of 1888 is amended as regards dispositions by Will and as regards the definition of the word "land" by the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1891, and it is further amended by the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1892.

S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29.

Instrument to be recorded with Charity Commissioners or Board of Education.

Again, the S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4), amends s. 4 of the Act of 1888, by requiring assurances and instruments declaring the charitable uses within that section to be sent to the Charity Commissioners within six months. This takes the place of the requirements respecting attestation and enrolment prescribed by sub-ss. (6) and (9). It corresponds with the provisions in the Education Act, 1921, s. 117, requiring instruments relating to educational charities to be sent to the Board. Instruments relating to registered land need not be so recorded.

(b) This Act is repealed, except as regards the preamble, by the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1888, where the preamble is reproduced.

Power to deal with charity land.

This section (s. 29) must be read by itself; it is not part of the general scheme of the S. L. Act, but was introduced, pending its reproduction in an Act consolidating the Charitable Trusts Acts, with a view to securing that trustees for charitable or public purposes should have power to carry out any reasonable transaction.

The section is, however, part of scheme under which the S. L. Act, 1925, is treated as a General Powers Act in relation to land held by fiduciary owners; it is required to prevent charity land vested in two or more joint tenants from being subjected to a trust for sale by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36 (1).

Universities and College Estates Act, 1925.

It does not apply to land affected by the Universities, &c., Act, 1925, for that Act sets out the powers, formerly incorporated by reference to the S. L. Acts, 1882 to 1890, together with certain new powers given by the S. L. Act, 1925, which are to be exercisable by certain universities, colleges, &c.

Assurance in mortmain prohibited, except with licence from Crown or by authority of statute.

Part I of the Act of 1888 provides that land shall not be assured to or for the benefit of, or acquired by or on behalf of, any corporation in mortmain otherwise than under the authority of a licence from the Crown or of a statute for the time being in force, and that if any land is assured otherwise than as aforesaid, the same shall be forfeited to the Crown, subject to certain reservations in favour of a mesne lord. The Crown is expressly empowered to grant licences to assure and acquire lands in mortmain. The prohibition does not extend to leases for a term less than 100 years: Tudor, 4th ed., 429.

Conditions under which assurances may be made to charitable uses.

Part II of the Act of 1888 relates to charitable uses. Section 4, as amended by the Act of 1891, provided that, subject to the exceptions contained in the Act, every assurance otherwise than by Will (e) of land,(f) or of personal estate to be laid out in the purchase of land, to or for the benefit of any charitable use, must be made in accordance with the following requirements:—

The assurance must take effect in possession immediately from its making. It must be irrevocable without any reservation or provision for the benefit of the assuror. It may, however, contain grants or reservations of a peppercorn or other nominal rent, of mines or minerals, or of any easements, covenants and provisions in regard to buildings, streets or roads, drainage or nuisances, a right of entry on non-payment of rent or breach of covenant and other like stipulations. On a sale for full and valuable consideration (g) the consideration may consist wholly or partly of a rent, rentcharge, or other annual payment, with or without a right of re-entry for non-payment. Except in the case of stock in the public funds, the assurance must be by deed and must be recorded within six months (as regards educational charities) pursuant to Ed. Act, 1921, s. 117, and as regards other charities pursuant to S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4). Further, unless the assurance has been made for full and valuable consideration, it must be made at least twelve months (h) before the death of the assuror, unless it is an assurance of stock in the public funds, in which case the stock must be transferred at least six months before the death of the assuror.

(e) Act of 1891, s. 5; Re Hume [1895], 1 Ch. 422; 64 L. J. Ch. 267.

(f) "Land" includes tenements and hereditaments, corporeal or incorporeal, of any tenure, but not money secured on land or other personal estate arising from or connected with land: Act of 1891, s. 3; Tudor, 4th ed., 448.

Omission to record may be remedied.

Where there has been an omission to record a deed within the proper time, the Commissioners have power to extend the time.

Assurances for a public park, elementary school, or public museum are exempted from Act.

Section 6 of the Act of 1888 provides that Parts I and II of the Act shall not apply to an assurance by deed of land for the purposes only of a public park,(i) a school-house (j) for an elementary school,(k) or a public museum,(l) but save in the Park.

(i) "Public park" includes any park, garden, or other land dedicated or to be dedicated to the recreation of the public.

School-house.

(j) "School-house" includes the teacher's dwelling-house, the playground (if any), and the offices and premises belonging to or required for a school. The devise of a school-house for the purposes of an elementary school was exempted by the Education Act, 1902, s. 23; and see Bourchier-Chilcott, 58. Section 117 of the Education Act, 1921, exempts gifts of land or of personal estate to be laid out in purchase of land for educational purposes from all restrictions of law imposed by the Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1888; this applies whether the gift took effect before or after 1921, but the Will or other assurance must be sent to the Office of the Board of Education as soon as may be after execution, or in the case of a gift by Will after the death of the testator to be recorded in the books of the Board: ib., sub-s. Elementary school.

Museum.

(l) "Public museum" includes buildings used or to be used for the preservation of a collection of paintings or other works of art, or of objects of natural history, or of mechanical or philosophical inventions, instruments, models or designs, and dedicated or to be dedicated to the recreation of the public, case of a gift for educational purposes (m) a deed containing such assurance, made otherwise than in good faith for full and valuable consideration, must be executed not less than twelve months before the death of the assuror, and must be enrolled in the books of the Charity Commissioners within six months after its execution. Section 1 of the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1892, extends s. 6 of the Act of 1888 to assurances by deed to any local authority for any purpose for which such local authority is empowered by Parliament to acquire land, and dispenses with the provisions as to execution at least twelve months before the death of the assuror. A local authority may obtain leave from the Lord Chancellor to act as a trust corporation in regard to charitable trusts: L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 3.

Local authorities.

Assurances for certain universities, colleges and societies exempted.

Under s. 7 Part II does not apply to assurances for the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, London, Durham, and the Victoria University, or any of the colleges of those universities, or to the colleges of Eton, Winchester, and Westminster, or to Keble College.(n) Nor to assurances, otherwise than by Will, to trustees of any society for religious purposes, or for the promotion of education, art, literature, science, or other like purposes of land not exceeding two acres to erect a building for such purposes, provided the assurance is made for full and valuable consideration.

Exempted assurances may, if thought fit, be recorded.

Trustees of any assurance to which this section applies may cause such assurance to be recorded with the Charity Commissioners.

All other statutory exemptions preserved.

All statutory exemptions from the Mortmain Acts which were in force at the time of the passing of the Act of 1888 are saved and kept in force by s. 8: Tudor, 4th ed., 470. The following are examples:—

Gifts and sales to Queen Anne's Bounty or Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

1. Gifts and sales may be made by deed recorded, or by Will to the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty for the augmentation of the maintenance of the poor clergy,(o) or to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for the endowment or augmentation of the income of ministers or perpetual curates of new district churches, or for providing a district church or chapel.(p)

Gifts for erecting churches, &c.

2. Gifts may be made by deed recorded, or by Will (such deed or Will being executed three months at least before the donor's death), of land not exceeding five acres, or of goods and chattels not exceeding £500 in value, for erecting, rebuilding, repairing, purchasing, or providing any church or chapel where the rites of the Church of England are observed, or any house for the residence of the officiating minister of any such church or chapel, or any churchyard or glebe for the same.(q) The Gifts for Churches Act, 1803, does not extend to a married woman whose disability is not removed by the M. W. P. Act, 1882: Re Smith (1887), 35 Ch. D. 589; 56 L. J. Ch. 726.

Endowments under Church Building Acts.

3. Endowments under the Church Building Acts (r) consisting of or arising out of lands or other hereditaments, or money to be laid out in lands or other hereditaments for the purposes of a site for any church or chapel, churchyard, parsonage house or glebe, or for the use or benefit of any church or chapel, or of the incumbent or minister thereof, or for the repairs thereof, are exempted from the Statutes of Mortmain, except where the endowment exceeds the annual value of £300.(s)

School sites, &c.

4. Under the School Sites Acts, 1841 to 1852, the Literary and Scientific Institutions Act, 1854, the Consecration of Churchyards Acts, 1867, and the Places of Worship Sites Acts, 1873 and 1882, a tenant in fee simple, or in tail, or for life, may convey by way of gift, sale or exchange, a limited quantity of land:—

(i) As a site for a school (t) for the education of poor persons or for the education or board of masters or mistresses of elementary schools, or the residence of the schoolmaster or schoolmistress, or otherwise for the education of such poor persons in religious and useful knowledge.

Literary and scientific institutions. 17 & 18 Vict. c. 112.

(ii) For any institution for the time being established for the promotion of science, literature, the fine arts, for adult instruction, the diffusion of useful knowledge, the foundation or maintenance of libraries or reading rooms, of public museums and galleries of paintings and other works of art, collections of natural history, mechanical and philosophical inventions, instruments, or designs.(u)

For what are such purposes, see A.-G. v. Shadwell [1910], 1 Ch. 92; 79 L. J. Ch. 113; and see A.-G. v. Price [1912], 1 Ch. 667; 81 L. J. Ch. 317; though the legal estate may revert, it remains a legal estate: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 7 (1).

Enlargement of churchyards.

(iii) For the enlargement of any churchyard: Clegg v. Metcalfe [1914], 1 Ch. 808; 83 L. J. Ch. 743.

30 & 31 Vict. c. 133.

Places of religious worship. 36 & 37 Vict. c. 50; 45 & 46 Vict. c. 21.

Under School Sites and other Acts enrolment is not dispensed with.

(iv) As a site for a church, chapel, meeting house, or other place of divine worship, or for the residence of a minister officiating in such place of divine worship, or in any place of worship within one mile of such site, or for a burial place; subject, however, to certain conditions prescribed by the Acts as regards conveyances by a tenant for life. The above Acts provide that only one witness to the execution of the deed shall be necessary, and that the deed is to be valid, although the owner or grantor may die within twelve months, but they do not dispense with the obligation to record the deed.

Assurances within School Sites and other Acts, and also within s. 6 of Act of 1888.

An assurance made under the Acts mentioned in paragraph 4, supra, which is also an assurance falling within s. 6 of the Act of 1888, need not be enrolled in the Central Office, nor, having regard to s. 8, need it, if voluntary, be executed twelve months before the grantor's death. But unless made for full and valuable consideration, it should be recorded in the books of the Charity Commissioners or Board of Education. Sites given for elementary schools are exempted by the Education Act, 1902, s. 23 (5).

Recreation grounds. 22 Vict. c. 27.

5. Under the Recreation Grounds Act, 1859, ss. 1 and 2, any land may be lawfully conveyed by deed to trustees to be held by them as open public grounds for the resort and recreation of adults and as playgrounds for children and youths, or either of such purposes; and it is expressly provided that the deed need not be enrolled, and that it will be valid, though the donor may die within twelve months.(v) And under the same Act, s. 7, personal property not exceeding £1,000 may be bequeathed to defray the expense of purchasing, &c., ground for the aforesaid purposes.(w)

Conveyances on sale to a charity must be recorded.

In cases not coming within any statutory exemption, a conveyance of land by way of sale to trustees for a charitable purpose must be recorded, though the purchase-money is derived from the sale of land previously in mortmain: Ex p. Christ's Hospital (1864), 10 L. T. 262.

Adaptation of Act to registered land.

As regards registered land, the Act of 1888, s. 9, provided that any assurance required to be made by deed might be made by a registered disposition under the Land Transfer Act, 1875, or any Act amending the same, and any assurance so made need not be executed in the presence of two witnesses, nor be enrolled in the Central Office.(x)

Under the Land Registration Act, 1925, s. 98, the official trustee of charity lands will be registered as proprietor, where the legal estate is vested in him, though the power to dispose of the land may be vested in the managing trustees. The registration of title to land belonging to a benefice is provided for by s. 99, while the registration of the title of a county council or borough council to small holdings is provided for by s. 71.

Glebe land.

Small holdings.

Additional powers for tenants for life, statutory owners, trustees for sale, and personal representatives to grant or demise land for charitable or public purposes.

Water rights may be granted to statutory bodies under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 54; land may be granted or demised for the charitable or public purposes mentioned in s. 55, subject to the limits imposed by that section; streets and open spaces may be provided or dedicated to the public under s. 56, and for these purposes a tenant for life can dedicate land as if he were an absolute owner; land may be provided for small dwellings, small holdings and dwellings for the working classes under s. 57. Though a tenant for life is a trustee, he can, at his own expense, erect dwellings for the working classes on the settled land with the previous approval in writing of the trustees, and this will not be deemed an injury to the remainderman: s. 107 (2). All the above powers are exercisable by trustees for sale; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28, and by personal representatives: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39. The object of the above powers generally is to place the tenant for life, &c., in the position of an absolute owner to do what is best for the development and improvement of the settled land, not to exempt the disposition from the requirements of the Act of 1888, as modified by the Ed. Act, 1921, s. 117, or by the S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4).

Trustees under a void charity deed may acquire title by the Limitation Acts.

A deed (not within the exemptions) which does not comply with the requirements of the Act of 1888 (as modified or amended) is absolutely void, not only as to the creation of the trusts, but also as to the conveyance of the legal estate. If, therefore, the trustees of the charity enter into possession and remain in possession for twelve years, they acquire a good title under the Limitation Acts.(y)

Sect. II.—The powers and duties of trustees as regards the management of charity property.

Endowed charities.

Charitable Trusts Acts.

The powers and duties of trustees as regards the management of charity property are in the main regulated, in the case of endowed charities (with certain exceptions), by the Charitable Trusts Acts, 1853 to 1894.

Charity Commissioners constituted.

By the Act of 1853, s. 1, a board is constituted called "The Charity Commissioners for England and Wales" (s. 3), which board is empowered to give advice and directions in all matters relating to the management or administration of any charity, and the trustees acting on such advice or directions will be deemed to have acted in accordance with the trust: s. 16; Tudor, 4th ed., 515.

Board may authorise leases, mortgages, sales, &c.

The board may authorise leases for building and mining purposes, repairs and improvements, the raising of money by mortgage for any such purpose, and sales and exchanges of charity land,(z) and legal proceedings relating thereto.(a) These (z) Sections 21, 24; and see s. 26 and the Act of 1855, s. 38. The power to authorise a sale is not affected by the Allotment Extension Act, 1882; Sutton Parish to Church (1884), 26 Ch. D. 173; 53 L. J. Ch. 599.

(a) Section 17. An action to enforce a common law right is not within the section: Holme v. Guy (1877), 5 Ch. D. 901; 46 L. J. Ch. 648; Tudor, 4th ed., 518.

Additional powers by reference to S. L. Act. powers are extended by S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29; they are exercisable subject to such consents or orders being obtained as would have been requisite, if the powers had been conferred by the instrument creating the trust; where a dealing is to be effected for less than the best price or rent or gratuitously or any interest in land is to be acquired, the same consent or order is requisite as if the transaction were a sale: ib., s. 29 (2). The jurisdiction of the court, Charity Commissioners, Board of Education or other competent authority is not affected: ib., s. 29 (3).

Official trustee. By the Act of 1855, s. 15, the secretary is constituted a corporation sole by the title of "The official trustee of charity lands," and charity lands may be vested in him by an order of court: Act of 1853, s. 48, or the Charity Commissioners: Act of 1860, s. 2; and see Act of 1887, s. 5, and thereupon such property vests in the official trustee and his successors without any conveyance: Act of 1853, s. 48; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 9.

It is not the practice of the Commissioners to allow active duties to be given to the official trustee. He holds lands vested in him as a bare trustee: Act of 1853, s. 50, and it seems doubtful whether there is jurisdiction under the section to make an order giving him any active duties: Tudor, 4th ed., 550. Though he is a bare trustee a legal estate vested in him on 1st January, 1926, is not taken out of him: L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II, para. 7 (k).

Official trustees of charitable funds. By s. 4 of the Act of 1887, such officers of the Commissioners as they with the approval of the Treasury appoint are the official trustees of charitable funds. They have perpetual succession and may hold stocks, securities and money, which devolve on their successors without any transfer or assignment: Charitable Trusts Act, 1855, s. 18.

Educational charities. In the case of educational charities the Board of Education stands in the place of the Charity Commissioners. The provisions of the Mort. & Charitable Uses Acts, 1888 and 1891, in respect of an assurance of land to a charity, as defined by s. 10 of the Act of 1888, do not apply in respect to any assurance for a purpose connected with the Education Act, 1921, whether or not the assurance was made before the passing of that Act. Instead of enrolment such assurances will be entered in the books of the Board of Education: Ed. Act, 1921, s. 117.

Restriction on sales, mortgages, leases, &c., by trustees. The Act of 1855, s. 29, provides that no sale, mortgage, or charge of the charity estate, and no lease in reversion after more than three years of any existing term, or for life, or in consideration wholly or in part of any fine, or for any term of years exceeding twenty-one years, shall be granted by the trustees of any charity otherwise than with the express authority of Parliament or of a court or judge of competent jurisdiction, or according to a scheme legally established, or with the approval of the Commissioners. A lease granted without such authority is absolutely void.(b) A deed or charter founding a charity is not a scheme within the meaning of s. 29, and trustees cannot sell without the leave of the Commissioners.(c) In this respect the transactions authorised by S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29, take effect as if they had been authorised by the instrument creating the trust, but that section does not impose a fetter on dealings by charity trustees where the charity is not within the jurisdiction of the Commissioners or the Board of Education. No lease for lives would be authorised, it would not create a legal term. Leases for lives are converted into terms of ninety years terminable by notice on either side after the dropping of the life: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 149 (6).

Leases for lives.

Small Holdings, &c., Act, 1908.

Under the Small Holdings and Allotments Act, 1908, s. 33, trustees within the meaning of the Allotments Extension Act, 1882, may sell or let land with the leave of the Commissioners or the Board of Education.

Who may appoint and remove trustees.

Under the Act of 1860, s. 2, the Commissioners may make orders for the appointment or removal of trustees of a charity, and the jurisdiction of the Commissioners is extended to the appointment or removal of trustees of places of religious worship or certain lands and buildings held upon the same or like trusts as the place of worship: Acts of 1869, s. 15; 1894, s. 4. Notice of the Commissioners' intention to make the order need only be given to such of the trustees as are not privy to the application: Acts of 1860, s. 3; 1869, s. 4, and a month's public notice of the proposal to appoint or remove the trustees must be given: Act of 1860, s. 4, but no order is to be made where the gross annual income of the charity amounts to £50 or upwards, except upon the written application of the trustees, or a majority of them, or, in the case of incorporated trustees, under their common seal: Act of 1860, s. 4. Where such application has been made it cannot be withdrawn.(d)

Accounts.

The trustees of any charity within the jurisdiction of the Commissioners are bound to render certain accounts to them annually: Act of 1855, s. 44. If arrangements could be made, when a list of a charity's investments is sent, for the Commissioners to make suggestions as to what changes of investment are expedient, this would go a long way towards reconciling donors and their trustees to the jurisdiction of the Commissioners.

Advice as to investments.

Efforts to escape from jurisdiction.

There can be no question that for many years past efforts have been made to escape from the jurisdiction which has been considered irksome and expensive. Whether rightly or wrongly, the Commissioners have been regarded as mere inquisitors, whose sole duty is to see that no breaches of trust, whether merely technical or otherwise, are committed, without any regard to the spirit of the trust or a change in circumstances, though the making of new schemes has undoubtedly given new life to charities which would otherwise have become moribund. In recent years a distinct improvement has been noticeable in the general attitude; if once it is recognised that the policy of the Commissioners is to give all the assistance in their power to the carrying on of trusts without imposing unnecessary burdens and delay in regard to details, their jurisdiction would be welcomed.

Majority of acting trustees may grant leases of land vested in official trustee.

Where lands are vested in the official trustee, the acting trustees of the charity, or the majority of them (such majority not being less than three), may grant such leases of the land as they might have granted if the same were legally vested in themselves: Act of 1855, s. 16.

Majority of trustees may execute assurances.

The Act of 1869, s. 12, provides that where the trustees, acting in the administration of any charity, have power to determine on any sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease, or other disposition of any property, a majority of those trustees who are present at a meeting duly constituted, and vote on the question, may execute and do all assurances and things for carrying into effect such sale, &c., and such assurances, &c., have the same effect as if they were executed by all the trustees and the official trustee of charity lands.(e)

The power for the majority to convey or create a legal estate is recognised in S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (5), but they will be expressed to convey in the names of the persons (including the official trustee of charity lands) in whom the estate is vested.

Exemptions from Acts.

The Acts do not extend to the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, London or Durham: Act of 1853, s. 62, or to Eton or Winchester: Act of 1855, s. 49, or to any cathedral or collegiate church,(f) or any building registered as a place of meeting for religious worship, and used in good faith as such,(g) or to certain lands and buildings certified by the Commissioners to be appurtenant to or held upon the same or like trusts as the building registered,(h) or to the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty, the British Museum, or to any friendly or benefit society, or savings bank, or any institution, &c., for religious or other charitable purposes, wholly maintained by voluntary contributions. The Act of 1853, s. 62,(i) also provides that where any charity is maintained partly by voluntary contributions and partly by means of income arising from any endowment, the Act shall apply only to the income from endowment, and that no donation or bequest to or in trust for any such charity as last aforesaid, of which no special application is directed, and which may be legally applied by the governing or managing body as income in aid of voluntary subscriptions, shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioners; and that no portion of any such donation, &c., or of any voluntary subscription which is set apart and invested by the governing body for the purpose of some defined and specific object or purpose in pursuance of any rule or resolution made or adopted by the governing body, shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the board. It also exempts the funds of missionary societies.

general purposes of a charity, the capital whereof may lawfully be applied as income consistently with the terms of the gift, are exempt from the jurisdiction of the Commissioners. Such gifts and the income thereof are not brought within the jurisdiction by being invested by the governing body in securities, or in the purchase of land; accordingly land purchased with money so given may be sold by the trustees without the consent of the Commissioners.(j)

Temporary investments of property applicable as income.

The Act extends to "any cathedral, collegiate, chapter, or other schools," but this only means schools ejusdem generis. It does not include a ragged school, which will be exempt quâ school, but will come under the operation of the Act if not wholly maintained by voluntary subscriptions and income from endowment, but partly by Government and public grants.(k)

Exempted charities may on application be brought within Acts.

The trustees of any exempted charity may apply to the board to have the Charitable Trusts Acts, or any provisions thereof specified in the application, extended to that charity.(l)

In cases not within Acts jurisdiction remains with Chancery Division.

The powers of the trustees of any charity not within the above Acts depend on the terms of the charter or trust deed by which it is founded; if these are defective resort can be had to the Chancery Division to supply the defect, so far as this may not have been remedied by S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29.

Transfer of jurisdiction over educational endowments to Board of Education.

Under the Board of Education Act, 1899, and Orders in Council made in pursuance thereof, the jurisdiction of the Commissioners over educational endowments is transferred to the Board of Education except as to the department of the official trustee of charity lands and the official trustees of charitable funds.(m)

(PRECEDENTS) CHARITIES.(a)

No. Ia.

VOLUNTARY CONVEYANCE of Freeholds on Trust for Sale where the proceeds of sale are settled by a Deed of even date upon Trusts for a Charity.(b) (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS CONVEYANCE is made, &c., Between A. B. (hereinafter called the Settlor), of, &c., of the one part, and G. H., of, &c., K. L., of, &c., M. N., of, &c., and P. Q., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Trustees), of the other part :

Seisin of freeholds and desire to convey the same.

Whereas the Settlor is seised in fee simple in possession free from incumbrances of the freehold property hereinafter described and is desirous of conveying the same to the Trustees upon the trusts hereinafter declared :

(a) For Precedents of conveyances by trustees of a charity, see Vol. I.

Objects of scheme.

(b) The objects of the scheme effected by Precs. I and II are as follows:—

By Prec. I the land is conveyed upon trust for sale, and the trusts in favour of the charity are kept off the title. It is assumed that, at the date of the conveyance, the charity is either "mixed" or supported solely by voluntary contributions. This scheme will not be adopted when the land is required as a permanent endowment to be administered under the direction of the Charity Commissioners.

By Prec. II the proceeds of sale as well as the rents and profits until sale are made applicable for the general purposes of the charity. The fact that capital as well as income is made applicable for the general purposes ousts the jurisdiction of the Commissioners, if the charity is at the date of the conveyance a mixed charity or one wholly supported by voluntary contributions : Re Church Army (1906), 75 L. J. Ch. 467 ; Re Child Villiers [1922], 1 Ch. 394 ; 91 L. J. Ch. 473, and articles thereon in (1924), 69 Sol. J. 133, 155, 170 and 188.

Where land used for purposes of the charity.

The judgment of Cozens-Hardy, M.R., in A.-G. v. Mathieson [1907], 2 Ch. 383, raises doubts whether land which is actually used for the purposes of the charity, as opposed to an investment, can be exempted from the jurisdiction of the Commissioners by this scheme, but in that case the proceeds of sale of the land could not have been applied as income ; see ib., p. 394.

Enrolment.

Under the Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1888, s. 4 (9), where charitable uses are declared by a separate instrument, it was not necessary to enrol the conveyance, but only the declaration of trusts. Hence, it will not be necessary to record Prec. I, but Prec. II must be recorded in the books of the Commissioners pursuant to S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4).

Stamp.

Where, as in the above cases, the conveyance is voluntary, ad valorem stamp duty on the value of the land will be payable under Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 74, and the stamp must be adjudicated.

NOW THIS DEED WITNESSETH as follows :—

Operative part.

Conveyance of freeholds.

1. FOR effectuating the aforesaid desire and in consideration of the premises, the Settlor (c) hereby conveys unto the Trustees:

Parcels.

ALL THAT, &c.,(d)

Habendum.

TO HOLD unto the Trustees in fee simple, Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions hereinafter declared concerning the same.

Trust for sale with power to postpone.

2. THE Trustees shall stand possessed of the premises, UPON TRUST to sell the same or any part thereof, with full power at their absolute discretion to postpone any such sale.(e)

Proceeds of sale to be held on trusts of deed of even date.

3. THE Trustees shall stand possessed of the net money to arise from any such sale (after payment thereout of all costs incidental thereto) and any other capital arising under the powers conferred on the Trustees, and also of the rents and profits of the premises until sale, Upon the trusts and subject to the powers and provisions declared concerning the same by a Deed already prepared and intended to bear even date herewith and to be made between the same persons as the parties hereto and in the same order and to be executed immediately after this conveyance.(f)

[Additional powers.]

[4. Add any additional powers required beyond those conferred by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28, by reference to the S. L. Act, 1925.]

Power to appoint new trustees.

5. THE Settlor during his life shall have power to appoint new trustees hereof, and after his death the statutory power shall apply. (The power to appoint new trustees should correspond with the power contained in the Declaration of Trust of the proceeds of sale.(g))

(c) No covenants for title should be given in this case.

Registered land.

(d) Where the settlor is registered under the L. R. Act, 1925, the trust for sale may be declared by the deed declaring the trusts of the proceeds of sale, for the register keeps the trust off the title, see Instrument of Transfer, Prec. Ic, infra.

Variation where the land is purchased.

(e) If the transaction is a purchase and part of the purchase-money is to be raised on mortgage of the land, then the first trust will be to execute the intended mortgage and to stand possessed of the right of redemption on trust for sale, and see next Precedent. Trustees are not responsible for any loss for postponing a sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 25 (2). The conveyance to joint tenants does not in the case of charity land create a trust for sale under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36 (1), for the land is treated as "settled land": S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29.

(f) See Prec. II, infra. This does not bring the settlement on the title. The trust for sale continues in favour of a purchaser till the land is conveyed to or by the directions of the persons entitled to the proceeds: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 23. In the case of trustees for sale holding the proceeds for charitable purposes the number of trustees may exceed four: T. Act, 1925, s. 34 (3) (b), but where it is desired, as in this case, not to disclose the fact that the trustees hold the proceeds for charitable purposes, it is not expedient that there should be more than four trustees.

(g) When new trustees are appointed of the declaration of trust, the same persons must be appointed to be trustees of this deed, but the appointments

II, the land should be transferred to the trustees by an instrument of transfer in the prescribed form so as to make them registered proprietors. There need be no separate conveyance on trust for sale, but that trust may be declared (Prec. No. II, infra) by the deed whereby the trusts of the proceeds of sale are declared. The register keeps the trusts off the title without the aid of a separate conveyance on trust for sale. The trustees of the charity will be entitled to be registered as proprietors of the land without the entry on the register of any restrictions on their right to deal with the land: Re Wesleyan Chapel [1909], 1 Ch. 454; 78 L. (ii) That a Conveyance in the form of the draft produced at the meeting (being the draft of the Conveyance bearing even date herewith hereinafter mentioned) should be executed by the Settlor and the Trustees for the purpose of giving effect to the desires of the Settlor with regard to the freehold property intended to be thereby conveyed;

(m) See Prec. IA, supra. If the title of the land is registered then the Instrument of Transfer (Prec. IC) will be recited and the first trust in clause 1 will be to hold the land on trust for sale.

Powers of trustees for sale.

For the powers conferred on trustees for sale by reference to the S. L. Act, see L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28; the powers conferred by S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29, do not apply when the land is held on trust for sale. But the provision in sub-s. (4) relating to recording of assurances is of general application.

NOW, pursuant to the said agreement and resolution, THIS DEED WITNESSETH and it is hereby agreed as follows :—

Proceeds of sale, &c., to be applied for general purposes.

1. THE Settlor hereby directs and the Trustees hereby declare and do agree with the Settlor that the Trustees shall and will stand possessed of the net money to arise from any sale of the said property under the trust for sale contained in the recited conveyance of even date herewith, and of any other capital money which may arise on the exercise of their statutory or other powers, and of any other money which may from time to time be received by the Trustees under the directions of the Governing Body, and whether such money shall arise from subscriptions, donations, bequests, or from any other source, and also of any investments for the time being representing the same (hereinafter called the Trust Fund), and also of the rents and profits of the said property until sale, and of any other income derived from the Trust Fund (hereinafter referred to as the income of the Trust Fund), UPON TRUST (subject only to the express conditions imposed by any donor) primarily to apply both the capital (n) and income of the Trust Fund for the general purposes of the Charity in such manner as the Governing Body shall from time to time at their meetings direct.

[Other purposes.]

[(2) Add here any other purposes, such as acquiring land, which may be thought suitable in the particular case.(o)]

Fund applicable as income.

(n) As the capital is made primarily applicable as income for the general purposes of the charity, the trust fund will be exempt from the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners. Under clause 2 the trustees are given power, without prejudice to the trusts contained in clause 1, to apply the income alone for the general purposes of the charity.

(o) Any capital arising from land held on trust for sale may be laid out in the purchase of other land to be held on trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28.

(s) See that the deed is recorded within six months with the Commissioners pursuant to S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4).

(t) If it is desired that the property be exempt from the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners it should be conveyed on trust for sale as in Prec. IA, supra, the trusts of the proceeds of sale being declared by a deed of even date framed on the model of Prec. II, p. 888.

(u) This deed must be recorded with the Commissioners within six months : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4). If the donor dies within twelve months the deed will be void, and it is therefore suggested that he should make a codicil to his Will, confirming the deed in the event of his death within this period. For the form of such a devise, see Wills (Personal), Form No. 35, p. 694, supra.

Course to be pursued to vest lands in official trustee.

(v) Where it is wished, in order to save the expense of the conveyance, which would otherwise be necessary on every change of trustees, to vest the legal estate in charity lands in the official trustee, it is not proper for the founder of the charity to convey it in the first instance to the official trustee ; he should convey it to the acting trustees appointed by himself, and when thus clothed with the charitable trust it may be vested in the official trustee by an order of the Charity Commissioners made on the application of the trustees.

2. THE Charity shall be under the sole management and control of the following persons as trustees (that is to say): the P—— Court Trustee for the time being as hereinafter defined, the Rector for the time being of the Parish of P——, and the churchwardens for the time being of the said Parish (all of which persons are hereinafter collectively called the Managers).

I, A. B., of, &c. (donor), do this —— day of ——, hereby freely Conveyance.

(x) See L. R. Rules, 1925, rr. 60–62, 122–24, 128, 129, and Forms Nos. 12 and 36.

This deed need not be enrolled in the Central Office, nor are two witnesses necessary: Mortmain, &c., Act, 1888, s. 9; nor need it be recorded with the Charity Commissioners: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4). It will save costs if an order is obtained from them vesting the land in the Official Trustee of Charity Lands, to enable him to be registered proprietor at once. Restriction No. 12 (in the Schedule to the Rules) will be entered against the title.

(y) If the registrar refuses (which is unlikely) to allow the rules and regulations to be inserted in the transfer, there must be a contemporaneous (unregistered) deed containing them. CONVEYANCE of LAND as a site for a CHURCH of ENGLAND SCHOOL under the SCHOOL SITES ACT, 1841.(e) (Legal Estate.)

Conveyance of land to minister and church-wardens.

UNDER the authority of the School Sites Act, 1841, I, A. B., of, &c. ALL, &c. (Describe land),(g)

As a site for a school for poor persons.

TO HOLD unto the said rector and churchwardens, and their successors, for the purposes of the said Act, and to be applied as a site for a school (h) for poor persons and for the residence of the master [or mistress] of the said school and for no other purpose whatsoever.(i)

(e) See s. 10, under which attestation by one witness to the execution by each party is made sufficient. Where a deed is recorded under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4), with the Commissioners or with the Board of Education under Ed. Act, 1921, s. 117, it is not necessary to have two witnesses. As the terms of the deed do not require the school to be an elementary one as defined in s. 6 of the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1888, although it will probably be used as such, the deed should be recorded with the Board of Education as soon as may be under Ed. Act, 1921, s. 117. If it came within the meaning of the Ed. Act, 1902, s. 23 (5), as a gift of a school-house, it would be exempt.

If it is wished to obtain a grant from the National Society, it will be necessary to use the special form of conveyance which they require, and can be obtained at their office.

Minister and church-wardens.

(f) Under s. 7 of the School Sites Act, 1841, as qualified by s. 4 of the School Sites Act, 1844, the minister and churchwardens are a quasi corporation for this purpose only.

(g) If the grant is by a limited owner the land must not exceed one acre: s. 2; an absolute owner may grant any quantity: School Sites Act, 1849, s. 5; see also S. L. Act, 1925, s. 55 (1) (i); L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28; Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39.

(h) If it is intended that the school shall never be used except as an elementary school, the words "an elementary school" should be substituted here for "a school."

Reverter.

(i) If the school ceases to be used for the purposes specified in the deed, it will revert to the estate of the grantor under s. 2 of the School Sites Act, 1841, though it has been continuously used for other purposes specified in the Act: see A.-G. v. Shadwell [1910], 1 Ch. 92; 79 L. J. Ch. 113; also A.-G. v. Price [1912], 1 Ch. 667; 81 L. J. Ch. 317. The estate owners must, where the right is equitable, convey the site to the grantor or the persons deriving title under him when the right of reverter takes effect: L. P. (5) Every annual subscriber of 5*s.* and upwards, who shall have paid his subscription for the current year, and every donor of £2 and upwards, may attend and vote at the meeting.

Foundation managers.

2. So long as the school shall be conducted as a public elementary school under the provisions of the Education Acts, 1870 to 1921, the Trustees may from time to time appoint the foundation managers either wholly from their own body, or partly from their own body and partly from outside, as they may think fit, and may from time to time remove any of the foundation managers and appoint others in their place.

Religious instruction.

3. (1) THE education at the school shall include religious instruction which shall be in accordance with the doctrines of the Church of England, and under the superintendence of the Rector or other the officiating minister for the time being of the said Parish, subject to the provisions of any Act of Parliament affecting the same:

CONVEYANCE of LAND by a TENANT FOR LIFE under S. L. ACT, s. 55, as a SITE for an IRON CHURCH, with power for the GRANTEES to convey it to the ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSIONERS in case of its being ENLARGED into a PERMANENT BUILDING.(v) (Legal Estate.)

THIS CONVEYANCE is made, &c., BETWEEN T. L., of, &c.

Parties.

(v) Under the Places of Worship Sites Acts, 1873 and 1882, where a tenant for life wished to convey land as a site for a church, chapel, meeting-house or other place of Divine Worship, or for a residence for a minister officiating in such place of worship, or for a burial place, either the person next entitled in fee simple or in tail had to join in the conveyance, but under L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1924, 9th Sched., para. 7, a separate consent in writing is sufficient. If the person next entitled was unborn or not ascertained, then the next remainderman (whether entitled for life, in fee or in tail), or if none such, then the trustees of the land during the suspension or contingency of the immediate or expectant estate in fee or in tail, had to join. When the conveyance was for valuable consideration the purchase-money had to be paid to the trustees of the settlement, or if there were none in existence, then to two trustees to be appointed in writing by the tenant for life. For a Precedent under the old law see 21st ed., Vol. II, p. 1077. Now under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 55 (1) (i), the tenant for life can, without any such consent, convey the site or an extension of a site for a place of religious worship, &c., provided that not more than one acre is conveyed for any purpose mentioned in para. (i), and that the conveyance is made for the development, improvement or general benefit of the settled land or any part thereof.

Old law.

New law.

(hereinafter called the Donor), of the first part, A. T., of, &c., and B. T., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Trustees),(w) of the second part, and The Rev. E. F., of, &c., the present Vicar of the said Parish of ——, and G. H., of, &c., and J. K., of, &c., churchwardens of the said Parish (hereinafter together called the Grantees), of the third part: WHEREAS:—

Vesting instrument.

(1) By a Vesting Deed [Assent] dated, &c., the piece of land hereinafter described (with other land), was declared to be vested in the Donor in fee simple on the trusts of a Will dated, &c., and proved, &c. [or on the trusts of a Settlement dated, &c.], and the Trustees were declared to be the trustees of the Settlement [created by the said Will] for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925:

Desire to grant site for temporary church.

(2) For the development, improvement or general benefit of the settled land the Donor is desirous of making a grant in fee simple gratuitously of the land hereinafter described as a site for a place of religious worship to the Grantees in manner, and on the trusts hereinafter appearing:

Iron church to be licensed.

(3) It is contemplated that at present only an iron temporary church can be erected on the said site (to be licensed by the Archbishop of Canterbury), the said site not being large enough for a permanent building, but it is hoped that the site may be hereafter enlarged by the acquisition of other land, and that a permanent church may then be built in which case it may be desirable that the church and site should be vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners under the Church Building Acts: NOW THIS DEED WITNESSETH, and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Grant of site.

1. THE Donor, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by section fifty-five of the Settled Land Act, 1925, and of all other powers hereby, As Settlor, conveys unto the Grantees:

ALL, &c. (parcels),

TO HOLD unto the Grantees in fee simple discharged as mentioned in section seventy-two of the said Act, UPON TRUST to use the said land (either alone or in conjunction with any adjoining land which may be obtained for the purpose) as a site for a church or chapel of ease for the celebration of divine service

---

(w) The S. L. Act trustees are not necessary parties, as no capital money arises on the transaction, but it is more convenient to express them to be parties to show that there are trustees, for the grantees are not purchasers within S. L. Act, 1925, s. 110 (4). If the remainderman is of age it may be expedient to obtain his separate consent in writing to comply with the Places of Worship Sites Acts as amended.

according to the doctrine and rites of the Church of England as by law established, or for any other kindred purposes mentioned in paragraph (i) of sub-section (1) of section fifty-five aforesaid, and for no other purpose whatever.

Vicar and churchwardens to have sole control.

2. (1) UNLESS and until the said land shall become vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners as hereinafter provided the erection of the church or chapel thereon, and the arrangements for the conduct of divine service therein, and the management of the same generally, shall be under the sole control of the persons who shall, for the time being, be the vicar and churchwardens of the said Parish of —— :

(2) If and whenever the legal estate in the said land shall, under this Deed, be vested in any persons other than the vicar or churchwardens for the time being, such persons shall convey and deal with the same from time to time as the said vicar and churchwardens shall direct.

Declaration that if permanent church built, site may be conveyed to Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

3. IF the said vicar and churchwardens, for the time being, shall at any time hereafter determine to have a permanent church erected, either wholly on the land hereby conveyed, or partly on that land and partly on other land to be hereafter acquired for the purpose, then and in such case the said vicar and churchwardens may convey the said land, or cause the same to be conveyed by the estate owners for the time being, to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, or as the said Commissioners shall direct, to be devoted, when consecrated, to ecclesiastical purposes for ever,(x) by virtue and according to the true intent and meaning of the Church Building Acts, 1818 to 1884.

Limit of land granted.

4. THE Donor hereby declares that as respects the land comprised in the recited vesting instrument not more than one acre has in any particular case been conveyed for any purpose mentioned in paragraph (i) of sub-section (1) of section fifty-five of the Settled Land Act, 1925.

Acknowledgment.

5. THE Donor hereby acknowledges the right of the Grantees to production of the recited vesting instrument and to delivery of copies thereof.

IN WITNESS, &c.

Consecrated land. Faculties.

(x) Land once consecrated is consecrated for ever or at any rate till an Act of Parliament divests it of its sacred character. Secular Courts have no jurisdiction to grant a faculty for its use for secular purposes, but Ecclesiastical Courts may in certain cases grant such a faculty: Sutton v. Bowden [1913], 1 Ch. 518; 82 L. J. Ch. 322. As under the trusts the site may be used for purposes outside the Places of Worship Sites Acts it may be expedient to record the deed with the Charity Commissioners within six months.

No. Xb.

INSTRUMENTS for same purposes as last Precedent where LAND is REGISTERED.

Transfer by tenant for life as site for church.

(Date.) PURSUANT to section fifty-five of the Settled Land Act, 1925, I, A. B., of, &c. (tenant for life), hereby transfer to The Reverend E. F., of, &c., G. H., of, &c., and J. K., of, &c., the land, &c., UPON TRUST to apply the said land as a site for a church or chapel of ease for the celebration of divine service according to the doctrine and rites of the Church of England as by law established or for any kindred purpose mentioned in paragraph (i) of sub-section (1) of the said section and for no other purpose whatsoever: AND IT IS HEREBY DECLARED that no land other than that hereby transferred is now held by the transferees for the same purpose; And that not more than one acre has in any particular case been conveyed by the said A. B. or his predecessors for any purpose mentioned in the said paragraph.

(The transfer must be executed by the Donor and the Grantees and attested.)

Where part of a park is purchased the court will not assume that the remainder has been dedicated to the public merely because it is left unfenced: A.-G. v. Bradford Corp. (1911), 55 Sol. J. 715.

(a) This operates as a covenant by the corporation for themselves and their assigns: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 79.

IN WITNESS, &c.

No. XII.

CONVEYANCE on a sale of a BUILDING and LAND for a NONCONFORMIST CHAPEL and a MINISTER'S HOUSE.(c) (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS CONVEYANCE, made, &c. (date), BETWEEN A. B., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Vendor), of the one part, and [insert names and addresses of trustees] (hereinafter called the Trustees), of the other part: WITNESSETH, and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Conveyance to Trustees.

1. IN consideration, &c., the Vendor, As Beneficial Owner, hereby conveys unto the Trustees:

ALL, &c. (parcels),

TO HOLD unto the Trustees in fee simple upon the trusts hereinafter declared.

Power to re-enter.

(b) In a lease of this nature it is not usual to insert any condition for re-entry on breach of covenant. But where the demise is made by a tenant for life, it will be essential to insert a covenant to pay the rent (if any) and a condition of re-entry: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 42, unless this requirement is negatived by the settlement, and see ib., s. 55. Model bye-laws for the regulation of pleasure grounds are issued by the Ministry of Health; see also the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, s. 76. As to the rights of the public over commons and waste lands and the regulation thereof: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 193; as to restrictions against fencing in commons: ib., s. 194.

Commons.

Number of trustees.

(c) Most dissenting denominations have model trust deeds, as to which inquiries should be made. There is no restriction on the number of trustees: T. Act, 1925, s. 34 (3).

Semble, the deed comes within the Mortmain, &c., Act, 1888, s. 7 (2), if the land does not exceed two acres and so far as it is to be used for the erection of a chapel, &c.; but as the trustees have power to apply the proceeds of a sale for promoting the objects of the society generally, it may be open to question whether this is covered by the exemption. On the whole, it will be prudent to record the deed with the Charity Commissioners: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4).

Registered places of worship.

Under the Places of Religious Worship Registration Act, 1855, s. 9, the building will be exempt from the provisions of the Charitable Trusts Acts if it is registered as a place of religious worship and so long as it is used in good faith as such, except so far as relates to the appointment and removal of trustees, the vesting of real or personal estate, and the establishment of schemes, as to which see C. T. Act, 1869, s. 15. By the C. T. (Places of Religious Worship) Act, 1894, the exemption contained in the Act of 1855 is extended to certain other lands and buildings.

Trust to permit same to be used as a place of worship by dissenting society.

2. The Trustees shall permit the premises to be used as a place of public worship by the Society of Protestant Dissenters called ——, and shall permit to officiate in the said building and to reside in any house which may hereafter be erected upon the premises such persons of the denomination of Protestant Dissenters called —— as the members of the said Society present at any chapel meeting duly assembled for that purpose, by public notice to be given in the said building during public worship on the two Sundays immediately preceding such chapel meeting, or two-thirds of them in number (hereinafter called the prescribed majority), shall from time to time elect as their minister or pastor during their will and pleasure.

To allow Sunday school and other schools to be held in building.

Repayable by instalments.

(d) The above powers cannot generally be exercised after the building has ceased to be used as a place of religious worship without the approval of the Charity Commissioners. In a mortgage made by order of the Commissioners provisions will be inserted for paying off the principal money by instalments: C. T. Act, 1855, ss. 29, 30.

Society, in such manner as the prescribed majority shall from time to time direct.

If Society is dissolved, premises to be held on other trusts.

5. THE Trustees shall, if the said Society shall be totally dissolved or dispersed, or the regular public worship at the said building be discontinued for at least twelve consecutive months, stand possessed of the premises, UPON TRUST, &c. New Trustees.

6. PROVIDED that if and when the number of the Trustees for the time being hereof shall by death or otherwise be reduced to four or less (or oftener if the prescribed majority shall think it expedient) so many other persons shall be appointed to be Trustees hereof as shall make up the whole number of Trustees to nine or less, such new Trustees to be from time to time appointed by the prescribed majority.

MEMORANDUM of the choice and appointment of new Trustees of the chapel at ——, in the County of ——, known as The —— Independent Chapel, and the minister's house

Statutory provisions for facilitating the appointment of new trustees of land held in trust for religious or educational purposes.

(e) Provision is made to facilitate the appointment of new trustees holding property in trust for religious or educational purposes, by the Trustee Appointment Acts, 1850, 1869 and 1890 (13 & 14 Vict. c. 28; 32 & 33 Vict. c. 26; 53 & 54 Vict. c. 19). The operation of these Acts is preserved by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 7 (3) (c). The Act of 1850 provides that whenever freehold or leasehold property in England or Wales has been or shall be acquired by any congregation, society, or body of persons associated for religious purposes, or for the promotion of education, as a chapel, meeting-house, or other place of religious worship, or as a dwelling-house for the minister, with offices, gardens, and glebe, or land in the nature of glebe, for his use, or as a school-house, with the schoolmaster's house, garden, and playground, or as a college, academy, or seminary, with or without grounds, for air, exercise, or recreation, or as a hall or rooms for the meeting or transaction of the business of such congregation, or society, or body of persons; and whenever the conveyance, &c., of such property has been or may be taken to or in favour of a trustee or trustees to be from time to time appointed, or of any party named in such conveyance, &c., or subject to any trust for the congregation, or society, or body of persons, or of the individuals composing the same, such conveyance, &c., shall not only vest the property in the parties named therein, but also in their successors in office for the time being, chosen and appointed in the manner provided or referred to in the conveyance, &c., or in any separate deed or instrument declaring the trust, without any transfer or other assurance. And the Act also provides that every choice and appointment of a new trustee shall be made to appear by some deed under the hand and seal of the chairman for the time being of the meeting at which the appointment shall be made, and shall be executed in the presence of such meeting and attested by two or more credible witnesses, and the deed may be in the form contained in the schedule to the Act.

Appointment of new trustees, how to be evidenced.

Burial.

The Act of 1850 is extended by the Act of 1869 to burial grounds.

Extension of Act of 1850 by Act of 1890.

By the Act of 1890 the Act of 1850 is declared to apply to and include any land acquired by trustees in connexion with any society or body of persons comprising several congregations or other sections or divisions, or component parts associated together for any religious purpose, when such land is held in trust for any of the following purposes, namely :—(1) A place for religious worship; (2) An endowment or provision for the maintenance of any place of religious worship or the minister thereof, or provision for expenses connected therewith; (3) A burial ground; (4) A place for education and training of students, whether for the ministry or for any other purpose; (5) A schoolhouse for a Sunday school, day school, or other school; (6) A residence for a minister or schoolmaster, or for the caretaker of a place of religious worship, or of a schoolhouse or meeting-house or offices or other buildings for or in connexion with religious or educational purposes.

Statutory power to appoint new trustees made applicable to cases under these Acts.

The power to appoint new trustees, conferred by T. Act, 1925, s. 36, or any other statutory power for the same purpose for the time being in force, applies to all land acquired and held on trust for any of the purposes to which the above Acts apply. And any such statutory power may be exercised either by the persons and in the manner provided by that power or by the persons and by resolution at a meeting, or in any other mode in which, under the instrument creating the trust, the appointment of a new trustee in the place of a deceased trustee can be effected; but where a special qualification is required, persons so qualified shall alone be appointed: Act of 1890, s. 3.

Provision against concurrent exercise of powers.

Where, by force of the Act of 1890, an appointment of a new trustee is capable of being made under a power in any instrument, as well as under a statutory power, no appointment is to be made under the statutory power until twelve months after the happening of the vacancy: s. 5.

After six months, appointment to be valid in favour of purchaser.

After the expiration of six months from the date of an appointment of new trustees, the persons appointed shall be deemed duly appointed and can make a valid and effectual conveyance to any purchaser or mortgagee, if no proceedings are taken in the meantime to impeach the appointment: s. 6.

Memorandum in statutory form to be conclusive evidence of certain matters.

Whenever the trustees, or a major part of the trustees, or any other persons present at a meeting duly constituted, are empowered to appoint trustees by resolution, then a memorandum of the appointment, which states that the meeting was duly constituted, and which is otherwise made in the form or to the effect and also subscribed in the manner directed or provided in the Act of 1850 and the schedule thereto is sufficient and conclusive evidence that the appointment was duly made, without any evidence of the due constitution of the meeting or of the proceedings thereat: s. 7.

The above Precedent is in accordance with the form in the schedule to the Act of 1850.

CHAPTER VI.

THE NEW LAW AS TO LEASES.

SECT. I.—The nature and operation of leases and tenancies.

Definition of a lease.

A LEASE is an assurance or contract whereby land, or any other thing capable of being demised, is let by one person to another for an interest less in duration than the lessor has therein; an assurance for the whole duration of the estate or interest of the grantor, even though in the form of a demise, operates generally as an assignment: Beardman v. Wilson (1868), L. R. 4 C. P. 57; but a mortgage by sub-demise for a term commensurate with the term granted by a previous mortgage creates a concurrent legal term;(a) for this purpose it is only necessary that each mortgage term should be less than that granted by the lease.

Demise operating as assignment.

Leases for more than three years to be created by deed.

Under the L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 52, 53 and 54, all leases are required to be created by deed except leases taking effect in possession for a term not exceeding three years at the best rent obtainable without a fine.

An agreement for a lease must be in writing.

An agreement for a lease not operating as an actual demise must be in writing: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 40 ("disposition" includes a lease: ib., s. 205 (1) (ii)); or it will not be enforceable by action.

Time of commencement.

In an agreement for a lease it is necessary that the time for its commencement should be stated or be capable of being implied from the terms of the agreement, taken as a whole: Marshall v. Berridge (1881), 19 Ch. D. 233; 51 L. J. Ch. 329; Humphery v. Conybeare (1899), 80 L. T. 40.

Operation of leases to confer exclusive rights.

A lease operates as a contract that the lessee shall have exclusive use of the thing demised for the term granted, but easements may be demised in common; this term may be one or more years or for less than a year, or at the will of either the lessor or the lessee.

Assignment operating as demise.

(a) As to mortgages of leaseholds: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 86, 149 (5); 1st Sch., Pt. VIII; 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 273–76, 394, 516–19. A mortgage of a term expressed to be by assignment will operate as a sub-demise: ib., s. 86 (2).

An instrument purporting to be a lease and containing the usual words of demise will not operate as such if the contents show that it was intended by the parties to operate only as a licence: Taylor v. Caldwell (1863), 3 B. & S. 826; 32 L. J. Q. B. 164; similarly an instrument purporting to be a licence may operate as a lease: Glenwood Lumber Co. v. Phillips [1904], A. C. 405; 73 L. J. P. C. 62.

Implied licence.

Licence construed as a lease.

A tenancy is the relationship existing between landlord and tenant. It may be created by a lease, or by an agreement for a lease: Walsh v. Lonsdale (1882), 21 Ch. D. 9; 52 L. J. Ch. 2; or it may be implied by law.

Definition of "tenancy"; how created.

Legal terms of years.

The only term of years which may be granted for a legal estate is a term of years absolute: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 1.

Legal terms of years.

A term of years absolute is defined in: ib., s. 205 (1) (xxvii), and includes terms from year to year and for less than a year, terminable or not by notice, but not terms determinable by reason of a death or the cesser of a determinable life interest.

Definition of "term of years absolute."

A term of years absolute may take effect in possession or in reversion expectant on another interest, and may be made to run concurrently with any other legal estates including other legal terms: ib., ss. 1 (5) and 205 (1) (xxvii).

Before 1926 a tenancy could not, save when created under the Statute of Uses or by Will, take effect until the tenant entered; before entry the tenant had only an interesse termini which, though an assignable interest, was not an estate in the land.

Abolition of "interesse termini" and commencement of terms of years absolute.

After 1925 a term commences, without entry, upon the date fixed for its commencement by the lease or tenancy agreement: ib., s. 149 (2); hence, it has become impossible for an interesse termini to arise, though abundanti cautelâ this interest has been expressly abolished by ib., s. 149 (1).

Entry not essential.

A term expressed to commence from a specified day begins on the day after that specified: Meggeson v. Groves [1917], 1 Ch. 158; 86 L. J. Ch. 145; Raikes v. Ogle [1921], 1 K. B. 576; 90 L. J. K. B. 588.

Date from which a term expressed to commence takes effect.

Where no date is given for the commencement of a term the term will commence on the date of delivery of the lease: Norton on Deeds, 173.

Where no date is given.

As a result of the abolition of interesse termini, reversionary leases, created after 1925, take effect as legal terms. Moreover the rule against perpetuities does not apply to the grant of a Limit of time in which terms of years must take effect.

term: Mann, Crossman, &c. v. Land Registrar [1918], 1 Ch. 202. Accordingly it became necessary, to prevent complication of titles, to impose expressly a limit within which a term to take effect in futuro could be validly created.

This limit is twenty-one years from the date of the lease as respects any term granted after 1925 at a rent or in consideration of a fine. Such a term limited to commence at a more remote date is void: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 149 (3).

Limit does not apply to certain equitable terms.

No harm can be done by the creation of equitable terms in a will or settlement, however remote the date may be at which they may take effect, for such terms can be over-reached when the legal estate is dealt with, hence s. 149 (3) does not apply to such terms.

Application of the same rule to contracts for leases.

A contract, made after 1925, for a lease to take effect at a date more than twenty-one years from the date of the contract is void; such an "estate contract," if valid, could have been protected under L. C. Act, 1925, s. 10, Class C (iv).

Leases for Lives.

Prohibition of leases for lives at a rent or in consideration of a fine and conversion into terms.

Leases, at a rent or for a fine, for lives, or terminable by reason of the death or marriage of any person, or by reason of the termination of a terminable life interest, may no longer be granted. Whenever granted, they take effect as terms for ninety years terminable by one month's notice given by either party after the event upon which they were expressed to have been made determinable; accordingly they become legal estates: ib., s. 149 (6). A contract to grant such a lease is satisfied by the grant of a term for ninety years terminable by notice as above: ib., s. 149 (6). This sub-section does not apply to equitable interests created by settlements or Wills.

Perpetually Renewable Leases.

Effect of covenant for perpetual renewal after 1925.

After 1925 leases will not contain covenants for perpetual renewal. If such a covenant is inserted in a lease it will operate to create a term of two thousand years; such a covenant contained in a sub-lease will operate to create a term less by one day than the head term, but in no case will there be any liability for renewal or for the payment of any fines, fees, costs, or other money in respect of renewal: L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 5.

Effect of contracts for perpetual

A contract (not completed) for perpetual renewal entered into before 1926 will be satisfied by the creation of a term of 2,000 years as above : ib., para. 6 (1). In such a case the loss of fines and other money which would have been payable on renewal will be taken into account when the rent is fixed, and any dispute concerning the rent to be paid may be submitted to the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries : ib., para. 6 (2).

renewal entered into before 1926.

Effect of similar contract entered into after 1925.(b)

A contract for perpetual renewal entered into after 1925 will have effect as an agreement to grant a long term as above, save that the amount of the fines, &c., which would have been payable on renewal will not be taken into account in fixing the rent : ib., para. 7 (1).

Contracts to renew a lease for more than sixty years.

A contract entered into after 1925 to renew a lease for more than sixty years is void : L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 7 (2).

Tenancies at Will and on Sufferance.

Tenancy at will.

A tenancy at will is where a tenant holds at the will of his landlord ; such a tenancy is deemed by law to be at the will of the tenant also, hence it can be determined by either party at pleasure.(c)

Tenancy on sufferance.

A tenancy on sufferance is created by a tenant wrongfully holding over after the termination of his tenancy without either the assent or dissent of his landlord. Such a tenant has no estate or interest in the land, though, in right of being in possession, may sue for trespass, but cannot maintain an action for ejectment ; he may, however, obtain a title against his landlord under the Limitation Acts.(d)

Distinction between tenancies at will and on sufferance.

The distinction in principle between a tenancy at will and on sufferance is that in the former case the tenant holds by right, in the latter the tenant holds by wrong.

Tenancy of a mortgagor in possession.

A mortgagor in possession is sometimes said to hold as tenant at will to the mortgagee, but in reality the relationship more closely resembles a tenancy on sufferance ; for any person who, after the date of the mortgage, is let into possession of the property by a mortgagor, except under his express or statutory powers, is, as regards the mortgagee, in the same position as the mortgagor. After 1925 the mortgagor will either have the fee simple or the head term, but this does not alter the situation.

Effect of a lease of an agricultural

Where, however, a person occupies an agricultural holding under a contract of tenancy with a mortgagor which is not holding which is not binding on a mortgagee.

binding on the mortgagee, the mortgagee must comply with the provisions of the Agr. Hold. Act, 1923, s. 15, before he can obtain possession of the property.

Mortgages are subject to existing leases.

A mortgage takes effect subject to all leases and tenancies existing at the date of the mortgage, but a mortgagee may at any time order the tenant to pay the rent to him or to his receiver; when the mortgagor collects the rent he does so as the agent of the mortgagee.

R. P. Lim. Act, 1833, s. 7 (tenancies at will).

The provisions of the R. P. Lim. Act, 1833, s. 7, relating to tenancies at will, do not apply to mortgages.

Tenancies from year to year.

Creation of tenancies from year to year.

A tenancy from year to year may be created by an instrument in writing or by parol or may be implied by law.

Implied tenancy.

An implied yearly tenancy arises where a tenant takes possession and pays rent, without express provision being made as to the length or terms of the tenancy.

Lessee holding over and paying rent becomes tenant from year to year.

If a tenant remains in possession after the expiration of his lease, with the consent of the lessor, and nothing is said to rebut the inference of law, the tenancy becomes a tenancy from year to year on the terms of the old tenancy so far as applicable; (e) if a tenant enters under a lease which is void at law he is liable as tenant from year to year on such of the terms of the lease as are applicable to a yearly tenancy. (f)

Terms applicable to a yearly tenancy.

Option to purchase.

Covenants to repair and insure and a proviso for re-entry on non-payment of rent or breach of covenant are applicable to an implied yearly tenancy: Woodfall, 21st ed., 273; but an option to purchase the reversion is not so applicable, hence it lapses when the tenant begins to hold over: Re Leeds and Batley [1920], 2 Ch. 548; 89 L. J. Ch. 645.

A lease void for not being under seal operates as an agreement.

A lease which is void under the L. P. Act, 1925, s. 52, as not being under seal, may be sued on as an agreement for a lease and specific performance will be granted: Zimbler v. Abrahams [1903], 1 K. B. 577; 72 L. J. K. B. 103.

Enforceable contract.

be specifically enforced, holds under the same terms as if the lease had actually been granted: Walsh v. Lonsdale (1882), 21 Ch. D. 9; 52 L. J. Ch. 2; Manchester Brewery Co. v. Coombs [1901], 2 Ch. 608; 70 L. J. Ch. 814.

Effect of an agreement to grant a lease after the determination of an existing lease.

As the interest formerly known as an interesse termini cannot exist after 1925, an agreement for a reversionary lease can be enforced; semble, the decision in Lewis v. Baker [1905], 1 Ch. 46; 74 L. J. Ch. 39, that a tenant holding under a reversionary lease could not distrain for rent against a sub-tenant until by entry the reversionary term commenced, would not be followed, for entry is no longer material, but in other respects a term must have commenced to create a reversion.

Effect of an option for a lease in a yearly tenancy agreement.

If a yearly tenancy agreement provides that the tenant may at his option have a lease for a specified term, but without any stipulation as to the time within which the option must be exercised, the landlord may at any time call on the tenant to exercise the option; if the tenant fails to exercise his option in the time specified, the landlord may determine the tenancy, but until the tenancy is determined the option will continue.(g) An option of this kind passes with the tenant's interest, and on his bankruptcy will pass to his trustee in bankruptcy.(h)

Where a tenant enters under an agreement for a lease for twelve months with an option for a lease after that period he is entitled to a lease for a year: Austin v. Newham [1906], 2 K. B. 167; 75 L. J. K. B. 563.

Determination of yearly tenancies.

A yearly tenancy is determinable, except in the case of agricultural holdings, at the end of any year by either party giving six months' notice, and until so determined it will continue from year to year; but there is nothing repugnant to such a tenancy in a stipulation that after the first year it will be determinable upon less than six months' notice or that the notice to be given by one party shall be different to that to be given by the other party, or that apart from notice the tenancy shall be determinable at the discretion of one of the parties (e.g., by the sale of the property by the landlord): Mayo v. Joyce [1920], 1 K. B. 824; 89 L. J. K. B. 561; Allison v. Scargill [1920], 3 K. B. 443; 89 L. J. K. B. 1084.

Act, 1923, s. 25 (notice).

Act, 1923, s. 25, applies, the tenancy can only be determined by a notice expiring at the end of twelve months after the year of tenancy in which the notice is given; and any agreement for shorter notice is void.

Power for landlord to determine a tenancy as respects part.

Except in the case of agricultural holdings and independently of L. P. Act, 1925, s. 140 (2), as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 2, a landlord could not determine a tenancy as regards part only of the land comprised therein, thus, where property was sold in two lots and the tenant had not accepted the division of the tenancy, a notice to quit given by the purchaser of one lot was held to be invalid: Re Bebington [1921], 1 Ch. 559; 90 L. J. Ch. 269. This decision was met by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 140 (2).

Statutory power, as regards agricultural holdings, to give notice to quit part.

Rights of the tenant under the notice.

In the case of a yearly tenancy of an agricultural holding a landlord may, under Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 27, give a notice to quit part of the holding with a view to the land being used for any of the purposes mentioned in that section, provided the notice states that it is given for one or more of those purposes. In the absence of any agreement to the contrary the tenant may, within twenty-eight days, treat such notice as a notice to quit the entire holding. If he elects not to treat such notice as notice to quit the entire holding his rent must be adjusted to the new circumstances, and the part of the holding to which the notice relates will be treated as a separate holding for the purpose of compensation under the Agr. H. Act, 1923.

Right of the owner of part of the reversion to give notice to quit that part.

Counter notice under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 140.

If, under the lease, there is a right to give a notice to quit, the owner of a part of the reversion may give the notice as respects that part, but the lessee may within one month determine the lease in regard to the rest of the land by giving a counter notice to the owner of that reversion expiring at the same time as the original notice: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 140 (2).

Rights of agricultural tenant.

Counter notice under L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 2.

Compensation rights.

If the land is an agricultural holding the tenant may, within twenty-eight days of the service of the notice, serve on the persons severally entitled to the severed parts of the reversion, a notice that he accepts the original notice as a notice to quit by the owners to take effect at the same time as the original notice. This acceptance takes effect under Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 12 (7) (d), see L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 2, and the tenant may assert his rights to compensation against the lessors affected. There is no hardship in this, for the original owner of the entirety, having disposed of part, has put it in the power of his purchaser to serve the original notice.

SECT. II.—The rent reserved on leases, and the remedies for its recovery.

Rent.

The ordinary consideration for a lease is rent, or an annual return in money or in kind reserved to the lessor. A power of distress is incident by common law to rent reserved on leases of real and corporeal property. The right to distrain depends on the possession of the legal reversion: Woodfall, 21st ed., 525, et seq.; and is not assignable.(i)

Distress.

Distress for rent payable in advance.

When rent is payable in advance the landlord may distrain as soon as it becomes due.(j)

Distress before liquidation of company.

Where the tenant, being a limited company, goes into liquidation and before the liquidation the landlord distrains for rent payable in advance, the fact that the rent is payable in advance is no reason for restraining the lessor from proceeding with his distress.(k)

Re-entry.

A power of re-entry must be given in a lease where it is required; it is not an incident to leases at common law.

Rent falling due on Sunday.

A distress may be made for rent in arrear between sunrise and sunset on the day following the day on which the rent became due. Rent falling due on Sunday may lawfully be paid on that day, which is not a dies non at common law; hence rent falling due on a Sunday may be distrained for on the Monday following: Child v. Edwards [1909], 2 K. B. 753; 78 L. J. K. B. 1061. Goods cannot be distrained on a Sunday unless this objection is waived.(l)

Six years arrears recoverable by distress, except in certain cases.

Except in cases coming within the Agr. H. Act, 1923, or in case of the tenant's bankruptcy, the right of distress for rent in arrear may be exercised at any time within six years from the time when the rent became due or an acknowledgment in writing of the same was made to the landlord or his agent: R. P. Lim. Act, 1833, s. 42; see Carson, 2nd ed., 194, provided that the lease is still subsisting. If the lease has determined, a distress may be made (but not by an execution creditor) at any time within six months from its determination, provided that the landlord's title continues, or his personal representatives are distraining for arrears, and the tenant is still in possession.(m) In the case of agricultural holdings or market gardens, a landlord may only distrain for one year's arrears: Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 34; but where the landlord has deferred collecting the rent for a quarter or half year, the later date will be taken as the date when the rent fell due.

Distress for rent on bankruptcy of tenant.

After the bankruptcy of a tenant the landlord can only distrain for six months' rent due prior to the date of adjudication, but he can prove for the surplus rent due.(n)

Personal representatives of landlord may distrain.

The personal representatives of a deceased landlord have the same right of distress for rent accrued in his lifetime as the landlord would have had if living: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 26.

Preferential right of landlord over ordinary creditors.

The goods of a tenant cannot be removed by an execution creditor without first paying to the landlord one year's rent in arrear,(o) but this preferential right does not exist (like the right of distress) after the tenancy has determined: Cox v. Leigh (1874), L. R. 9 Q. B. 333; 43 L. J. Q. B. 123.

Right of landlord to seize goods fraudulently removed.

If a tenant fraudulently or clandestinely conveys away goods in order to prevent the landlord from distraining them, the landlord may at any time within thirty days after such conveying away seize the goods wherever they are, and other powers are given by statute in such a case: Distress for Rent Act, 1737, ss. 1–10. This power applies only where the goods would have been distrainable if they had remained on the premises, and cannot be exercised if at the time of seizure the tenancy has determined: Gray v. Stait (1883), 11 Q. B. D. 668; 52 L. J. Q. B. 412.

Distress for rent due from company which is being wound up cannot be made without consent of court.

Under ss. 142 and 211 of the Coys. (Consol.) Act, 1908, as interpreted by judicial decisions, a distress cannot be levied on the goods of a company which is being wound up, except by leave of the court, in any case where the rent in arrear is a debt due from the company to the landlord, and provable as such. But where a landlord who, as a stranger and not a creditor of the company, seizes goods of the company as being a stranger's goods on the lands of his tenant, this rule does not apply.(p) Where execution for rent is levied before the

In what cases leave will be given.

What goods may be distrained.

All goods found on the premises, whether belonging to the tenant or to a stranger (other than such as are specially protected by the common law or by statute), are distrainable for rent.

Things protected from distress:(s) (i) By common law:

Things privileged by common law are—(1) Things annexed to the freehold; (2) Things delivered to a person exercising a public trade to be carried, wrought, worked up, or managed in the way of his trade or employment; (3) Things in actual use, e.g., the horse a man is riding on, or the axe in his hand. Beasts of the plough and implements of husbandry, or of a man's trade or profession, are also privileged, if there is a sufficient distress without them;(t) (4) Goods in custody of the law. The Rent Restriction Acts, 1920 to 1923, prohibit distress for rent in certain cases without leave of a county court judge: Woodfall, 21st ed., 537.

Agricultural stock, &c.

Where live stock belonging to another person has been taken in by the tenant of an agricultural holding to be fed at a fair price, such stock cannot be distrained by the landlord, where there is other sufficient distress to be found. If no other sufficient distress can be found, there cannot be taken by distress a sum exceeding the price agreed to be paid for the feeding, or so much of it as remains unpaid. Agricultural or other machinery hired by the tenant, and live stock belonging to others, which is on the premises for breeding purposes, cannot be distrained for rent in arrear.(x)

Sale by auction.

Replevy.

Certified bailiff only can levy distress.

A landlord or other person levying a distress may sell the chattels distrained without causing them to be previously appraised, unless the tenant or owner of the goods requires an appraisement. For the purposes of sale the chattels must, at the request of the tenant or owner of them, be removed to a public auction room or some other fit place and there sold. The tenant or owner may, on giving security for costs, have fifteen days within which to replevy. Distress can only be levied by a bailiff certificated by a county court judge.(y)

Section 4 (1) provides that the Act shall not apply to any live stock to which s. 29 of the Agr. H. Act, 1908, applies ; the latter Act has been replaced by the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 35.

Lodger's Goods Protection Act, 1871, how far now operative.

The Lodger's G. P. Act, 1871, is by s. 8 of the Law of Distress A. Act, 1908, repealed wherever and so far as the latter Act applies, but it is difficult to see what cases could now arise under the former Act.

Under the Lodger's G. P. Act, 1871, difficulties frequently arose as to whether a person was a lodger who was protected under the Act, or an under-tenant, who was not. This distinction is now only material in cases where the party seeking relief is not an under-tenant within the meaning of s. 1 (a) of the 1908 Act ; semble, the protection afforded by this Act does not apply where rent is payable by the month or week.

Meaning of "lodger."

No exhaustive definition of the word "lodger" has been given, each case must depend upon its own circumstances. The existence of a right of the landlord to exercise control over the premises is the most important factor in determining whether

Law of Distress Amendment Act, 1908, s. 6.

Section 6 of the Law of Distress Amendment Act, 1908, enables a landlord to require an under-tenant or lodger to pay rent to him where the rent payable by the immediate tenant is in arrear. Covenant for payment of rent implied.

The words "yielding and paying" in a reservation of rent amount to a covenant for payment,(d) but it is usual to insert a formal covenant.

How many years' arrears of rent can be recovered in action on covenant.(e)

In cases decided before 1874 it was held that under the R. P. Lim. Act, 1833, s. 42, and the Civil P. Act, 1833, s. 3, taken together, a landlord could recover only six years' arrears of rent by a distress, but might recover twenty years' arrears by an action on the covenant.(f)

The R. P. Lim. Act, 1874, does not appear to affect the right to recover, by an action on the covenant, rent reserved on a demise by deed, and accordingly twenty years' arrears of rent are so recoverable.(g)

Secus, where tenancy is without writing.

Where a lessor grants a lease of premises which he knows are intended to be used for immoral or illegal purposes he cannot recover rent: Upfill v. Wright [1911], 1 K. B. 506; 80 L. J. K. B. 254.

Lease for immoral or illegal purposes.

Under L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II, para. 7 (m), a legal term, which would otherwise have been transferred under the vesting provisions, can be disclaimed by the statutory assignee or his representatives before proceedings have been commenced to recover the rent, &c., and before the term has been dealt with inter vivos: L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch.

Disclaimer to avoid payment of rent.

According to the common law, rents reserved on a lease and other rents were not apportionable; consequently, if the lessor died between two rent days, the entire rent for the current year, if the lease was a continuing one, went to his heir-at-law or other the person on whom the reversion devolved; and if the lease determined on his death, the whole of the rent for that half-year was lost: 1 Swanston, 337, note, and the cases there cited.

No apportionment of rent by the common law.

Under the Apportionment Act, 1870, rents are to be considered as accruing from day to day, and are apportionable in respect of time: s. 2. The apportioned part is payable when the whole rent becomes due: s. 3. The persons entitled to apportioned parts have the same remedies for recovering them as if entitled to the entirety, but the lessee is not liable for any apportioned part specifically: s. 4.

Provided for by Apportionment Act, 1870.

The Act applies to a specific as well as a residuary devise, and under it a current half-year's rent was apportionable under the old law between the heir or the devisee of the land and the testator's personal estate.(l)

The Act does not apply to any sum duly and properly paid or accrued due before the happening of the incident which is said to necessitate the apportionment, hence does not apply to rent which by agreement is payable in advance and has therefore accrued due though in respect of a period during which the Application of Act to current rent on assignment of lease,

The Act apportions liabilities as well as rights.(m) Hence, if a lease is assigned between two rent days, the lessor has a separate right of action against the assignor for the proportion of rent up to the date of the assignment, and against the assignee for the proportion accruing afterwards.(n) or bankruptcy of tenant.

When a tenant becomes bankrupt (o) during the currency of a quarter, the quarter's rent is apportionable, and that portion which belongs to the period prior to the adjudication is within s. 35 (1) of the Bkcy. Act, 1914, and the landlord may distrain for it.(p)

Contracting out.

The parties may agree that the Apportionment Act, 1870, shall not apply: s. 7; and see Re Meredith (1898), 67 L. J. Ch. 409.

Equitable apportionment.

Rents can be equitably apportioned under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 190, which gives powers to enter and distrain to give effect to the apportionment.

SECT. III.—The covenants usually inserted in leases in relation to rates and taxes, and the preservation, repair, and insurance of the demised property.

What are usual covenants in a lease.

The "usual"(q) covenants in a lease for a term of years are, on the part of the lessee:—

(1) To pay the rent:

(2) To pay rates and taxes, except such as are payable by the landlord by statute:

(3) To keep the demised premises in repair during the term:

(4) To deliver them up in good repair at the end of the term:

(5) To permit the landlord to enter and view the state of repair.

(n) Swansea Bank v. Thomas (1879), 4 Ex. D. 94; 48 L. J. Ex. 344. If the assignor is the original lessee the whole rent could be recovered against him under the covenant.

The lessor is also entitled to have inserted a power to re-enter for non-payment of rent, but not for breach of any other covenant.(r) Most leases also contain a covenant for insurance against loss or damage by fire. If the lease is of a farm, or market garden, there are generally covenants as to cultivation, so far as such covenants can now be enforced: Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 30; Woodfall, 21st ed., p. 764. Other covenants are often stipulated for, but cannot be insisted on under an open contract. These will be considered in a subsequent section.

Rates, taxes and other charges.

Covenant by lessee to pay rates and taxes includes sewers rate and land tax but not the landlord's property tax.

A covenant by the lessee to pay "all rates, taxes and assessments payable for or in respect of the demised premises without any exception," includes not only ordinary rates payable by the tenant, but also taxes and assessments imposed by Parliament, and which, in the absence of agreement, a tenant is allowed to deduct from his rent, e.g., sewers rate and land tax.(s) The property or income tax is, however, an exception, as the burden is thrown on the lessor notwithstanding any contract to the contrary.(t)

Where the lessor covenanted to do external repairs a covenant by the lessee to pay all outgoings was held to be subject to the external repairs being executed at the lessor's expense.(u)

Covenant by lessor to pay rates and taxes, &c.

A covenant by the lessor to pay all rates and taxes "now or hereafter to become payable" includes "increased assessment."(v)

(r) Blakesley v. Whieldon (1841), 1 Hare, 176; 11 L. J. Ch. 164. It is doubtful whether, in the absence of stipulation, a covenant to do specific repairs after notice could be insisted on.

A covenant by the lessor to pay "duties, impositions and outgoings" includes compensation payable under the Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910.(w)

Tithe rent-charge.

Tithe rentcharge is by the Tithe Act, 1891, payable by the "owner" (see Peed v. King (1895), 11 T. L. R. 18, that expression includes the owner of a long term) notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, and a covenant to pay tithe rentcharge by way of additional rent is void;(x) and so is a covenant to repay to the "owner" any sum expended by him in payment of tithe rentcharge;(y) but this does not apply to a tithe rate assessed in respect of houses in the City of London, such assessment not being a tithe rentcharge.(y) The Act does not apply (s. 9 (2)) to "a rentcharge payable under the Extraordinary Tithe Redemption Acts, 1886 and 1897, nor to a rentcharge payable under the Tithe Act, 1860, in respect of the tithes on any gated or stinted pasture, nor to a sum or rate payable for each head of cattle or stock turned on land subject to common rights or held or enjoyed in common," and (see s. 10 (1)) the Act does not apply to a rentcharge issuing out of land of a railway company.(z)

As to charges thrown by Act of Parliament on the owner; e.g., paving and draining expenses.

A covenant by the tenant limited to "rates, taxes and assessments" does not apply to charges imposed by an Act of Parliament on the owner, though as an additional security power is given to levy them against the tenant, e.g., the expense of paving and sewering a street or abating a nuisance under the Metropolis Management or the Public Health Acts: Baylis v. Jiggens [1898], 2 Q. B. 315; 67 L. J. Q. B. 793; whether imposed before or after the date of the lease: Lumby v. Faupel (1904), 90 L. T. 140. But charges of this kind will be within the covenant, if the word "duties," "charges," "impositions" or "outgoings" is added to "rates, taxes and assessments."(a) It makes no difference that the term is a short one, e.g., for three years only: Re Warriner [1903], 2 Ch. 367; 72 L. J. Ch. 701.

"Duties," "charges," &c.

The preservation, repair and insurance of the demised property.

Tenant liable for actual waste.

Primarily every tenant for a term of years, or from year to year, or at will, is liable at law for damage caused by actual waste, e.g., pulling down houses or walls, cutting timber, cutting fruit trees in a garden or orchard, opening mines, altering the nature of the property by converting meadow into arable, &c.(b) But no action for waste will lie unless there is injury to the capital in one of the following ways, viz., by diminishing the value of the estate, or increasing the burden on it, or destroying identity and thus impairing the evidence of title.(c) Thus it is not waste to erect new buildings whereby the value of the estate is increased,(d) or to pull down a ruinous barn without rebuilding it, if the estate is not injured thereby: Doe v. Burlington (1833), 5 B. & Ad. 507; or to use land as arable where it has not been used previously as permanent pasture: Rush v. Lucas [1910], 1 Ch. 437; 79 L. J. Ch. 172; but alteration of and injury to the estate by shooting rubbish on it is not the less waste because it may result in a greater countervailing advantage by raising low-lying land above the water-level.(e)

What is waste?

Waste not the less so because it produces counter-vailing advantage.

An act of waste by a tenant is a present injury to the reversion, for which the lessor may bring an action during the term.(f) This right of action, being in respect of a tort, is not assignable. There is no covenant against waste implied by a tenancy: Defries v. Milne [1913], 1 Ch. 98; 82 L. J. Ch. 1.

Action may be brought by reversioner during the term.

Liability for permissive waste.

B. 609 ; but in the absence of any such express obligation the estate of a tenant for life is not liable for permissive waste : Re Cartwright (1889), 41 Ch. D. 532 ; 58 L. J. Ch. 590. The estate of a tenant for life of leaseholds, where the leases contain covenants to keep and deliver up the premises in good repair, is not liable to the remainderman for breaches occurring during the subsistence of the life interest : Re Parry [1900], 1 Ch. 160 ; 69 L. J. Ch. 190. Apparently a lessee for a term of years is liable for permissive waste, but this is not entirely free from doubt : Davies v. D. (1888), 38 Ch. D. 499 ; 57 L. J. Ch. 1093.

A tenant at will is not liable for permissive waste.(h) A tenant from year to year is bound to keep the premises wind and water tight, but not to do substantial repairs, such as new roofing.(i)

Construction of covenants to repair.

Under a general covenant by a lessee to keep the premises in good repair and to deliver them up in good repair and condition at the end of the term, it is not sufficient to keep them in the same state of repair as they were in at the commencement of the term, if they were then in bad repair. The class and description of the house may, however, be taken into account, viz., whether it is an old or a new one, and it must be kept and delivered up in good repair with reference to the class to which it belongs.(j) "Good tenantable repair" means such repair as, having regard to the age, character, and locality of the house, would make it reasonably fit for the occupation of a tenant of the class who would be likely to take it.(k) If a tenant takes a house which is of such a kind that by its own inherent nature it will in the course of time fall into a particular condition, e.g., if it is built on boggy soil without proper foundations, its falling into that condition is not a breach of the covenant to repair.(l) The principle of these decisions applies equally to a covenant by the lessor: Torrens v. Walker [1906], 2 Ch. 166; 75 L. J. Ch. 645. A covenant to keep in good repair imposes an obligation to put in repair premises which at the time of the demise were not in repair.(m)

"Good tenantable repair."

Acts of the King's enemies.

A lessee who has covenanted to repair the demised premises must repair damage caused through enemy action: Redmond v. Dainton [1920], 2 K. B. 256; 89 L. J. K. B. 910. Where a lessee covenants to execute specific repairs in a particular year, if the lease shall be then subsisting, the obligation to perform the covenant attaches as soon as the year begins: Kirklinton v. Wood [1917], 1 K. B. 332; 86 L. J. K. B. 319. The lessee may remain liable on a covenant, the performance of which has been rendered impossible by an act of the State: Matthey v. Curling [1922], 2 A. C. 180; 91 L. J. K. B. 593. An agreement to keep premises in as good repair as they were in at the time of letting is broken by the tenant allowing them to become verminous: Jones v. Joseph [1918], 87 L. J. K. B. 510. No covenant to build can be implied from a covenant to repair where there is already an express covenant to build, both as to the time and mode of building; the court disapproved of the dictum of Stirling, J., to the contrary in Jacob v. Down (note (m)). Waiver of forfeiture for not building in accordance with such a covenant carries with it a waiver of forfeiture for breach of a covenant to repair those buildings if and when erected.(n)

Impossibility of performance.

To keep in repair.

Implied covenants to build.

Measure of damages on breach of covenant to deliver up in repair.

Where an action is brought at the end of the term on the covenant to deliver up in repair, the measure of damages is the sum which it will take to put the premises in the state of repair in which the tenant ought to have left them,(o) and this is so, though by reason of some arrangement between the landlord and a third party the landlord suffers no loss from the want of repair.(p)

All the circumstances of the case will be taken into consideration in assessing the damages recoverable by a covenantee during the currency of a lease in respect of a breach of the covenant to keep the demised premises in repair. In the case of an underlease, when the underlessee has notice that there is a superior landlord, the sub-lessor's liability to that landlord must be taken into account, and the cost of putting the property into repair at the end of the term may properly be considered for that purpose.(q)

A covenant to deliver up in repair does not deprive a lessee of his right to remove trade fixtures put up by him under a covenant in the lease: Mowats v. Hudson (1911), 105 L. T. 400.

In default of an express covenant, no covenant against waste is implied by a tenancy.(r)

Relief as to decorative repairs.

The court has power, under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 147, to grant relief when notice is served requiring internal decorative repairs to be effected.

No warranty by landlord as to condition of unfurnished house.

A tenant who is under no obligation to do repairs cannot, in the absence of express stipulation, require the landlord to do them, nor is it any defence to an action by the landlord for rent that the house is uninhabitable for want of substantial repairs,(s) or by reason of its being infested with noxious insects, or for any other reason, there being no implied warranty as to its condition in a demise of an unfurnished house.(t) A different rule applies to a furnished house, in which case there is an implied condition that the house at the time of the letting is reasonably fit for habitation,(u) but not that it shall continue so during the whole of the letting: Sarson v. Roberts [1895], 2 Q. Part occupation.

Where the lessor lets part of a house and retains the other part, the authorities appear to be in conflict as to his liability to keep in repair that part of the house which he retains; the best opinion is that a lessor is under no liability as regards a patent danger to the lessee, even though it may be due to his negligence, unless the demised portion of the premises cannot be used without undergoing the risk of accident. In this case the danger is of the nature of a concealed trap, and the lessor is liable for any accident which may occur.

Concealed defect.

A lessor is liable for any damage to the lessee caused by a concealed trap of which he did not warn the lessee. The lessor is therefore liable to keep a common flight of steps in repair, where they must be used by the inhabitants of the demised premises.(v) A landlord is not liable to a stranger for an accident caused through a patent danger due to the landlord's neglect: Housing, &c., Act, 1909, s. 15.

Farm.

A tenant of a farm takes the property as he finds it, and the lessor is not responsible for damage done by trees which overhang the farmhouse when the lease was granted: Cheater v. Cater [1918], 1 K. B. 247; 87 L. J. K. B. 449.

Implied condition in letting of habitation for the working classes.

There is an exception to the general rule in the case of the "letting of a house or part of a house for habitation by persons of the working classes," with respect to which it is provided by the Housing, &c., Act, 1890, s. 75, that in any contract for such letting there shall be implied a condition (notwithstanding any stipulation in a lease made after the 13th August, 1903, see Housing, &c., Act, 1903, s. 12) that the house is at the commencement of the holding and also shall during the subsistence of the tenancy (Lucy v. Bawden [1914], 2 K. B. 318; 83 L. J. K. B. 523) continue in all respects reasonably fit for human habitation. It is not a breach of this condition if rats invade the house from without, in considerable numbers; semble, it might be a breach, if the rats lived and were accustomed to breed in the house: Stanton v. Southwick [1920], 2 K. B. 642; 89 L. J. K. B. 1066. Section 14 of the Housing and Town, &c., Act, 1909, restricts this exception where a house is let after the 2nd December, 1909, for not less than three years, with a condition that it will be made by the lessee reasonably fit for occupation, and the lease is not to be determinable before the end of the term: See an article on the Housing, &c., Act, 1909, in 54 Sol. J. 229. This condition applies as between the landlord and tenant only; the landlord is not liable for injury caused by breach of this condition to any member of the tenant's family: Ryall v. Kidwell [1914], 3 K. B. 135; 83 L. J. K. B. 140; Middleton v. Hall (1913), 108 L. T. 804. Section 14 also substitutes rents of £40 in the county of London, £26 in cases of a borough with a population of 50,000 and over, and £16 elsewhere, for those formerly necessary to be within that exception: See Poor Law, &c., Act, 1869, s. 3.

Penalty for re-letting a house in respect of which a closing order is in force.

Any person letting, or attempting to let as a dwelling-house, a house in respect of which a closing order is in force, is liable to a fine of £20: H. & T. P. Act, 1919, s. 32.

Application of the Housing Acts to the New Forest.

The application of the Housing Acts has been extended to the New Forest: H. & T. P. Act, 1919, s. 37.

Power for local authorities to provide for the sanitation of tenement dwellings.

By the H. & T. P. Act, 1919, s. 26, local authorities have power to make and enforce bye-laws under the Pub. Health Act, 1875, s. 90, and under the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, s. 94, in respect of the health, sanitation and safety of houses divided into separate tenements and used as working class dwellings.

Agricultural holdings, power to view.

The Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 28, gives to the landlord, or any person authorised by him, power to enter at all reasonable times for the purpose of viewing the state of the holding.

Liability of tenant in case of fire.

14 Geo. 3, c. 78.

As regards destruction by fire, it is provided by the Fires Prevention (Metropolis) Act, 1774, s. 86, that no action, suit or process shall be had or prosecuted against any person in whose house or building or on whose estate any fire shall accidentally begin, or any recompense be made by such person for any damage suffered thereby; but agreements between landlord and tenant are excepted. This enactment extends to the whole kingdom: Sinnot v. Bowden [1912], 2 Ch. 414; 81 L. J. Ch. 832.

Lessee not bound to rebuild in case of fire, but must do so under general covenant to repair.

In the absence of any special stipulation, the lessee is not bound to rebuild a house accidentally burnt down, but if he enters into a general covenant to repair, without any exception, he is liable to restore any house or buildings which may be destroyed by fire, tempest, lightning, or any other accident.(w) A fire caused by negligence has been held not to be accidental within the meaning of the above enactment: Filliter v. Phippard (1847), 11 Q. B. 347; 17 L. J. Q. B. 89.

(w) Pym v. Blackburn (1796), 3 Ves. 34; Terrell v. Murray (1901), 17 T. L. R. 570.

Lessee liable for rent though house has been burnt down.

Where there is no obligation on either party to insure, the lessee remains liable for his rent, though the house has been burnt down;(x) under the general law he has no equity to compel the lessor to expend the money received from an insurance office in rebuilding.(y) But these decisions must be considered in connexion with s. 83 of the Fires Prevention (Metropolis) Act, 1774, which authorises and requires directors of insurance offices, on the request of any person interested in or entitled to any houses or buildings which may be burnt down or damaged by fire, to cause the insurance money to be laid out in rebuilding.(z) Hence, if the lessee had required the directors of the insurance company, before they paid over the money to the lessor, to apply it in rebuilding, they would have been bound to do so.(a)

Effect of request to insurance society to lay out in rebuilding.

Application of insurance money after 1925.

Insurance money received after 1925 by a trustee or a beneficiary from a policy maintained under any power or obligation must be dealt with or applied in accordance with the rules laid down in T. Act, 1925, s. 20.

Proper form of covenant by lessee for insurance.

A lease should expressly provide for insurance. If it is arranged that the lessee shall insure, covenants should be inserted stating in whose name the insurance is to be, and whether the whole or what part of the premises is to be insured, and to what extent. The name of the office or underwriter should also be inserted or provisions made that it shall be one approved by the lessor, and the lessee should be bound to produce the policy and the receipts for the premiums.

Construction of covenant.

A covenant to insure in the joint names of the lessor and lessee is substantially performed if the insurance is in the name of the lessor only: Havens v. Middleton (1853), 10 Hare, 641; 22 L. J. Ch. 746; but not if the insurance is only in the name of the lessee: Doe v. Gladwin (1845), 6 Q. B. 953; 14 L. J. Q. B. 189; a covenant to insure in the name of the lessor is broken by the lessee adding his own name: Penniall v. Harborne (1848), 11 Q. B. 368; 17 L. J. Q. B. 94.

(x) 2 Saund. Rep. by Williams, 422 (a), n; Belfour v. Weston (1786), 1 T. R. 310; Holtzapffel v. Baker (1811), 18 Ves. 115.

(z) This provision is not limited in its operation to the metropolitan districts: Ex p. Gorely (1864), 4 D. J. & S. 477; 34 L. J. Bk. 1; Re Quicke [1908], 1 Ch. 887; 77 L. J. Ch. 523, and see 54 Sol. J. 357; also Sinnott v. Bowden [1912], 2 Ch. 414; 81 L. J. Ch. 832.

(a) Simpson v. Scottish, &c., Co. (1863), 1 H. & M. 618; 32 L. J. Ch. 329.

Aircraft.

A covenant to insure in a named office involves a liability to effect such a policy as is usual with the office at the date of the lease, or such a policy as may from time to time be usual during its currency. Where an insurance office had never insured against aircraft risks, the covenantee could not require the covenantor to effect such an insurance; but where premises were destroyed by enemy aircraft the words "loss or damage by fire" were held to render the covenantor liable.(b)

Covenants to insure in underlease.

In the case of an underlease, where the sub-lessor is himself bound to insure, the covenant in the underlease, if entered into by the under-lessee, should be made to correspond with that in the superior lease. Sometimes the arrangement is that the underlessor shall continue to insure as required by the superior lease, and an additional rent is reserved equal in amount to the annual premium.

Exception of damage by fire from covenant to repair.

If it is not intended that the lessee shall insure, the covenant by him to repair should except accidents by fire. If it is intended that any of the repairs should be done by the lessor, this must be expressly provided for.

The benefit of a covenant to insure runs with the land: Vernon v. Smith (1821), 5 B. & Ald. 1.

Covenants in farm leases.

In agricultural leases, covenants as to cultivation were usually inserted with the object of preventing the land from being impoverished, or the farm otherwise deteriorated by bad or negligent farming. This can now be only applied as regards arable land to the last year of a tenancy, except in the case of a yearly tenancy: Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 30.

Common law liability of tenant.

Apart from express covenant it is, by common law, the duty of every tenant of agricultural land to cultivate the land in a good and husband-like manner according to the custom of the country; he is not, however, bound to deliver up the land at the end of the tenancy in a clean and proper condition, properly tilled and manured; nor is he necessarily bound to leave the land in the same condition as when he took it. Where a tenant commits a breach of his common law duty he is liable, in damages, for the injury done to the reversion.(c) As to compensation to landlord for diminished value of an agricultural holding: ib., s. 20.

SECT. IV.—Covenants restrictive of the use of the demised property and covenants against assignment or underletting without the lessor's consent, and the lessor's covenant for quiet enjoyment.

Restrictive covenants.

Covenant not to carry on trades, &c.

A lease of a house often provides that the lessee shall not carry on or permit (d) particular trades to be carried on upon the premises.(e) A covenant that the premises shall be used as a private dwelling-house only is broken by permitting the house to be used as a school (f) or charitable institution for the board and education of children,(g) or as a building to be let in residential flats,(h) or as a boarding-house.(i) It probably prevents letting lodgings, especially if such letting involves the carrying on of the business of a lodging-house keeper;(j) but such a covenant does not bind the covenantor to commence an action to restrain his sub-tenant of which the outcome is doubtful; nor is it a breach for the covenantor to advise his sub-tenant as to his legal position upon the breach of such a covenant.(k) The erection of a hoarding is an offensive trade.(l)

Warranty.

A covenant to use premises only for private residential purposes but so that the lessee shall be entitled to carry on a high-class boarding establishment implies a warranty by the lessor that the premises can be so used under his title.(m)

Not to do act which may be an annoyance to neighbours.

A covenant "not to do any act which may be or grow to the annoyance, nuisance, grievance, or damage of the lessor or the inhabitants of the neighbouring houses" is broken by the establishment of a hospital for diseases which may not unreasonably cause some apprehension of risk to the neighbours; (n)

to carry on a hospital for surgical treatment of tuberculosis is not a breach of this covenant but is a breach of a covenant not to use the premises otherwise than as a private dwelling-house.(o) The erection of a staircase which interferes with privacy is not a breach of a covenant against causing nuisance: Browne v. Flower [1911], 1 Ch. 219; 80 L. J. Ch. 181.

Not to use premises as a public-house, &c.

A covenant prohibiting the use of premises as a public-house, or a beer-house, is not broken by the sale of beer by retail, under a licence "not to be drunk on the premises," the terms "public-house" and "beer-house" having acquired a technical meaning;(p) but if the term "beer-shop" is used, a sale of beer to be drunk off the premises is a breach of the covenant: Nicoll v. Fenning (1881), 19 Ch. D. 258; 51 L. J. Ch. 166. For a grocer to sell wine or spirits in bottles is a breach of covenant "not to use premises for the sale of spirituous liquors": Feilden v. Slater (1869), L. R. 7 Eq. 523; 38 L. J. Ch. 379; but in a similar case where there was a covenant "not to carry on the trade of a seller of wine and spirituous liquors" the court refused to interfere.(q)

Restrictive covenants part of a scheme can be enforced against landlord.

Where there are similar restrictive covenants in the leases of adjoining houses, indicating a general scheme as to the user of the property by the tenants, this may imply a reciprocity of obligation as against the landlord. Thus, one of a set of tenants covenanting to use the premises as a private residence can restrain the landlord from converting a house comprised in the same building scheme into an hotel: Spicer v. Martin (1888), 14 A. C. 12; 58 L. J. Ch. 309; or from converting part of a building of residential flats into a club.(r) It is, however, necessary to establish that a "building scheme" does subsist.(s)

Covenants against assignment or underletting.

Not to assign or underlet without lessor's consent.

Construction of such a covenant.

Trustees in bankruptcy.

A lease frequently contains a covenant not to assign or underlet without the lessor's consent. Such a covenant does not prevent a bequest by Will,(t) or the letting of lodgings, where the covenantor retains possession: Doe v. Laming (1814), 4 Camp. 77. Nor does it extend to a deposit of a lease by way of security,(u) nor to a declaration of trust,(v) nor to an alienation by operation of law, e.g., by bankruptcy or by judgment, even where the judgment is preceded by a warrant of attorney to confess judgment given by the debtor.(w) A trustee in bankruptcy having become entitled by operation of law may afterwards sell and assign, in the discharge of his duty, without committing a breach of the covenant.(x) In the case of voluntary or involuntary liquidation of a company, the liquidator acts as the agent of the company and is bound by restrictions against assignment or sub-letting without consent: Re Farrow's Bank [1921], 2 Ch. 164; 90 L. J. Ch. 465. The personal representatives of a lessee are bound by the covenant;(y) and so are his assigns: Goldstein v. Sanders [1915], 1 Ch. 549; 84 L. J. Ch. 386; the waiver of a notice to quit creates a new tenancy: Tayleur v. Wildin (1868), L. R. 3 Ex. 303. In Freeman v. Evans [1922], 1 Ch. 36; 91 L. J. Ch. 195, it was held that the withdrawal of a notice to quit by a tenant against his sub-tenant was a breach of his covenant with the head landlord not to underlet.

Underlease not a breach of covenant against assignment.

An underlease is not a breach of a covenant not to assign;(z)

Effect of bequest after 1925.

(t) Fox v. Swann (1655), Sty. 482; Doe v. Bevan (1815), 3 M. & S. 353. After 1925 the bequest could only take effect in equity; the legal term would pass by an assent in writing by the executors, which would relate back to the testator's death unless a contrary intention was shown; the will does not come on the title.

(u) Doe v. Hogg (1824), 4 D. & Ry. 226; 2 L. J. (O. S.) K. B. 121. For the mode of realising a mortgage by deposit: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 90, 91.

Vesting declaration.

(v) Gentle v. Faulkner [1900], 2 Q. B. 267; 69 L. J. Q. B. 777. But if under a power to appoint a new trustee a vesting declaration is made a licence would be required: T. Act, 1925, s. 40 (4), otherwise the vesting will not take effect: ib.

Burden of covenants binding land.

(y) Roe v. Harrison (1788), 2 T. R. 425. If the covenant is entered into after 1925, neither the personal representatives or assigns need be expressly mentioned: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 79; 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 261–65.

(z) Crusoe v. Bugby (1771), 2 W. Bl. 766; 3 Wils. 234; Grove v. Portal [1902], 1 Ch. 727; 71 L. J. Ch. 299.

Assignment by one joint tenant to the other.

but a covenant "not to let, set or demise for all or any part of the term" has been held to prohibit an assignment.(a) An assignment by one of two joint tenants to the other is a breach of such a covenant,(b) and a sub-demise by way of mortgage is a breach of a covenant against underletting: Serjeant v. Nash [1903], 2 K. B. 304; 72 L. J. K. B. 630.

Assignment of part; construction of licences.

A covenant not expressly applying to "any part" of the premises is not broken by an assignment of part: Grove v. Portal [1902], 1 Ch. 727, but consent to a sub-letting or assignment of part of the premises does not apply to the rest.(c)

Sale by mortgagee.

Where a licence to assign is required on a sale by a mortgagee, it must not be unreasonably refused: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 89 (1).

Covenant not to assign, &c., cannot be insisted on under an open contract.

A covenant not to assign without consent, though common, is not a usual and proper one in the sense that it can be insisted on under an open contract.(d) Its legitimate object is to secure a responsible tenant, and it is generally reasonable to insist on some qualifying words being added, confining its operation to that end.

Is sometimes qualified.

Sometimes this is done by adding "such consent not to be unreasonably withheld," or "such consent not to be withheld if the proposed assignee is a responsible and respectable person."(e)

Assignment, &c., without licence.

Under a covenant thus qualified, if the lessor refuses his consent improperly, the lessee may assign without it. If the lessee receives no answer to his request within a reasonable time consent may be implied, if, in fact, to refuse consent would be unreasonable; if consent is withheld, upon other reasonable grounds, the fact that no objection is taken to the person of the proposed assign or underlessee will not prevent a breach of covenant.(f) But if the lessee assigns or sub-lets without asking for the lessor's consent, there is a breach of covenant, for which the lessor may re-enter, even when the assignee was the original lessee: McEacharn v. Colton [1902], A. C. 104; 71 L. J. P. C. 20. Though the assign or sub-lessee is a person to whom the lessor could not have objected, if his consent had been asked, it is no defence that the lessee forgot the existence of the covenant.(g)

Power to re-enter on breach.

A power to re-enter "if the lessee shall commit any breach of the covenants on his part to be performed" extends to breach of a covenant not to assign or sub-let without the lessor's consent, the word "perform" being equivalent to "carry out the obligation undertaken," whether negative or affirmative: Harman v. Ainslie [1904], 1 K. B. 698; 73 L. J. K. B. 539.

Relief against forfeiture.

The court has power to give relief against the breach of a covenant not to assign, underlet, part with the possession or dispose of the land leased if the breach occurs after 1925: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 146 (8).

Unreasonable refusal.

Where a lessor refused his consent to an assignment because he desired to get possession of the premises, the consent was unreasonably withheld.(h) The same applies where the lessor insists on a restrictive covenant being entered into.(i)

If a lessor attaches to his licence a condition which in the opinion of the court is unreasonable, the court will, in an action brought by the lessee, make a declaratory order under the R. S. C., O. 54A, r. 1, to that effect, and that the lessee may assign without further consent;(j) it will also give him his costs: West v. Gwynne [1911], 2 Ch. 1; 80 L. J. Ch. 578.

Statutory provision as to fine for consenting.

The L. P. Act, 1925, s. 144, provides that in all leases containing a covenant, condition, or agreement against assigning, underletting, or parting with the possession or disposing of the land or property leased without licence or consent, such covenant, condition, or agreement shall, unless the lease contains an express provision to the contrary, be deemed to be subject to a proviso to the effect that no fine or sum of money in the nature of a fine shall be payable for or in respect of such licence or consent, but that such proviso shall not preclude the right to require the payment of a reasonable sum in respect of any legal or other expense incurred in relation to such licence or consent. This section replaces Conv. Act, 1892, s. 3, which applied to leases granted before as well as after 1892 : West v. Gwynne, supra.

Extent of L. P. Act, 1925, Pt. V.

The L. P. Act, 1925, Pt. V, except where otherwise expressly provided, applies to leases created before or after the Act, and "lease" includes an underlease or other tenancy : ib., s. 154. That part of the Act relates to leases and tenancies and to some extent applies to fee farm grants.

Payment of fine not illegal.

Section 144 does not make illegal the payment and acceptance of a fine for the lessor's consent to the assignment of a lease which contains a covenant against assignment without consent.(k) As between the parties to a lease, a lessee would be entitled to disregard the absence of a licence to assign, if the lessor refused to grant one unless and except upon the condition of a covenant for the payment of rent during the term : ib. ; semble, a stipulation that the proposed assignee shall covenant to pay the rent and perform the covenants of the lease is not, however, in the nature of a fine within the section : Waite v. Jennings [1906], 2 K. B. 11 ; 75 L. J. K. B. 542.

What is a demand of a fine, &c.

The demand of an increased rent as a condition for consenting to an assignment is a demand of a "fine or sum of money in the nature of a fine," (l) but the demand of a deposit as security for the performance of certain building covenants is not, e.g., where a lessor made it a condition of his consenting to an assignment that the lessee should deposit a sum of money with him as a security for the performance of certain obligations, such deposit was not payment of a fine or sum of money within the meaning of the section: Re Cosh [1897], 1 Ch. 9; 66 L. J. Ch. 28.

Covenant runs with the land.

A covenant, made before 1926, not to assign without consent, had to be so worded as to make it clear that the personal representatives and assigns of the lessee were intended to be bound by it ;(m) though, semble, without express mention of heirs and assigns, such a covenant ran with the land unless a contrary intention was expressed.(n) Where the covenant is entered into after 1925 the successors in title, &c., will be bound without being named: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 79. A sub-tenant is not an "assign" of a lessee who, in breach of covenant, sub-let to him; he is not liable, on the original covenant, if he sub-lets again: Mackusick v. Carmichael [1917], 2 K. B. 581; 87 L. J. K. B. 65.

Position of sub-tenant.

Measure of damages on breach.

As regards the measure of damages in an action for breach of the covenant, where the lease is assigned without consent to an insolvent person, the measure of damages is such a sum of money as will put the plaintiff in the same position as if he had still the defendant's liability instead of the liability of one of inferior pecuniary means for past and future breaches.(o) Where premises were sub-let for a turpentine distillery the sub-lessor was held liable for the loss occasioned by the burning down of the building, that loss being, in the opinion of the judge, having regard to the particular circumstances of the case, the natural result of the breach of covenant: Lepla v. Rogers [1893], 1 Q. B. 31.

Specific performance against representatives of lessee.

A contract by a lessee to accept a renewal of a lease will be enforced against his representatives, but not so as to impose any personal liability on them.(p)

Lessor's covenant (expressed or implied) for quiet enjoyment.

Implied covenant for quiet enjoyment.

Whether, in a demise of land, a covenant or agreement by the lessor for quiet enjoyment by the lessee against the lessor and persons claiming under him can only be implied from the use of some particular word, such as "demise," or whether it will be implied from the mere relation of landlord and tenant, is still unsettled.(q)

Such a covenant is implied by the use of the word "let."(r)

Ceases with lessor's estate.

An implied covenant for quiet enjoyment ceases with the lessor's estate. Hence, if a tenant for life before 1926 (he would, after 1925, have the settled land vested in him as trustee) granted a lease for years, the implied covenant ceased on his death; if a lessee for years sub-lets for a longer term, the covenant ceases on the determination of the original term.(s)

Covenants may be enforced before entry.

All persons to whom a lease has been validly granted, may maintain an action on any covenants, expressed or implied, whether or not they have entered on the demised premises: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 149; semble, this section overrules Wallis v. Hands [1893], 2 Ch. 75, on this point.

Express covenant excludes implied covenant.

An express covenant by the lessor for quiet enjoyment by the lessee without any interruption from the lessor or any person lawfully claiming under him excludes the implied covenant,(t) and should always be inserted in a lease, see L. P. Act, 1925, s. 8 (1).

Applies to interference with title and with enjoyment.

Instances of breach.

Damage by flooding.

An express covenant in the usual form applies not only to an interference with the covenantee's title, but also to an interference with his enjoyment of the property demised. Thus, such a covenant is broken where damage is caused to the demised land by the lawful exercise of a right to drain through it, conferred by the same lessor on the tenant of the adjoining land.(u)

Interference with support.

It is doubtful whether a nuisance by noise is a breach of a covenant for quiet enjoyment; a temporary inconvenience certainly is not. Reduction of support to a building is not a breach of such a covenant unless it can be proved that the full support is required for the stability of the building: Phelps v. City of London Corpn. [1916], 2 Ch. 255; 85 L. J. Ch. 535.

Covenant does not enlarge lessee's rights, but only confers additional remedy.

Rights to light.

A covenant for quiet enjoyment in the usual form does not enlarge the rights of the lessee, but confers on him an additional remedy in case those rights are invaded. Thus, if there is no reservation to the lessor of rights in respect of his adjoining property, the lessor is precluded from building on land belonging to him at the date of the lease so as to interfere with the lessee's lights, for to do so would be a breach of the covenant. But it would be no breach so to build on land subsequently acquired by him.(v) Where rights over adjoining property are reserved the lessor may use such property for any purpose allowed by law, not injuriously affecting the property demised. There is no implied obligation for him to keep and use it in the condition in which it was at the date of the lease.(w) A lessor is not liable in respect of a nuisance committed by another of his tenants, even though he knows of it and takes no steps to prevent it, unless he actively participates therein. A lessor cannot be called upon by one of his tenants to use for the benefit of that tenant all the powers he may have under agreements with other persons: Malzy v. Eichholz [1916], 2 K. B. 308; 85 L. J. K. B. 1132.

Notice to sub-tenant to pay rent to lessor, a breach.

It is a breach of a covenant for quiet enjoyment for a lessor to give notice to a sub-tenant of the lessee to pay the rent to him, unless the circumstances are such that the notice might be treated as a mere idle threat.(x)

Persons claiming under lessor.

Persons taking an estate in remainder under a settlement made by the lessor were deemed to claim under him within the meaning of the usual covenant.(y) After 1925 the tenant for life will be the estate owner, the term will be derived out of his legal estate.

The words in the covenant "claiming under him" have been held to mean "claiming under the lessor the right to do the acts which caused the interruption."(z)

SECT. V.—The condition of re-entry, and the relief provided by statute against a forfeiture thereunder.

Proviso for re-entry.

The lessee's covenants are usually followed by a proviso or condition enabling the lessor to re-enter in case the rent remains unpaid for a certain time, or in case of a breach of the lessee's covenants; but the latter condition could not, in the absence of express stipulation, be insisted on: Re Lander and Bagley [1892], 3 Ch. 41; 61 L. J. Ch. 707.

Forcible entry.

Forcible re-entry is not illegal under 5 Ric. 2, stat. 1, ch. 7, provided no more force is used than is actually required.(a)

Demand of rent necessary at common law.

Before a landlord could re-enter for non-payment of rent, he was, by the common law, obliged to make an actual demand, and in making such demand a number of troublesome formalities were necessary: 1 Saund. 286 b, n. 16. By the C. L. P. Act, 1852, s. 210, the service of a writ of ejectment is substituted for an actual demand and re-entry; but a lessor could not recover under this statute without showing that a half-year's rent was due before the writ was served, that no sufficient distress could be found on the premises and that the lessor had power to re-enter: Doe v. Wandlass (1797), 7 T. R. 117. Hence, it is usual to provide in the condition for re-entry that the lessor may re-enter for non-payment of rent, whether the same shall have been legally demanded or not. Words to that effect will dispense with the necessity of making a legal demand, or of proving that no sufficient distress can be found.(b) If the lease or agreement expressly requires that the rent shall be demanded before a re-entry, the demand need not be accompanied by the common law formalities: Doe v. Alexander (1814), 2 M. & S. 525, but it must not be made until the expiration of the time allowed for payment.(c)

Service of writ of ejectment substituted for demand in certain cases.

Demand should be expressly dispensed with.

Forfeiture waived by acceptance of rent accrued since breach.

A forfeiture, whether for non-payment of rent or for breach of covenant, will be waived by an acceptance of rent which has accrued since the forfeiture, provided that the lessor at the time of such acceptance has notice of the forfeiture, because, by such acceptance, he, in effect, admits that the tenancy continues. It is equally a waiver to bring an action: Dendy v. Nicholl (1858), 4 C. B. (N. S.) 376; 27 L. J. C. P. 220; or to distrain for such rent: Cotesworth v. Spokes (1861), 10 C. B. (N. S.) 103; 30 L. J. C. P. 220; subject, however, to this exception, that, if the distress is insufficient and a half-year's rent still remains due, the lessor may bring an action for ejectment under s. 210 of the above-mentioned Act.(d) Waiver of forfeiture in respect of a breach of covenant to build in a special way, may imply a waiver of forfeiture in respect of a breach of covenant to repair: Stephens v. Junior A. & N. Stores [1914], 2 Ch. 516; 84 L. J. Ch. 56; cf. L. P. Act, 1925, s. 148.

accrued due before the forfeiture. The acceptance, &c., of rent after a breach of covenant has been committed is not a waiver of forfeiture in respect of a subsequent or continuing breach of the same covenant: Penton v. Barnett [1898], 1 Q. B. 276; 67 L. J. Q. B. 11.

Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

It has been long settled that the court will relieve against a forfeiture for non-payment of rent.(e) Under the C. L. P. Act, 1852, ss. 210, 211 and 212, a tenant (see Moore v. Smee [1907], 2 K. B. 8; 76 L. J. K. B. 658) may stay all further proceedings against him by paying the arrears of rent and costs to the landlord or into court. A lessee, against whom judgment and execution have been had in an action of ejectment for non-payment of rent, must proceed for relief within six months after execution. If he proceeds within that time, he must bring into court the arrears of rent and the amount of the taxed costs within forty days after the lessor's answer.(f)

Forfeiture for breaches of covenants.

Since 1882 the court has had certain powers to relieve lessees from the consequences of a breach of the covenants or conditions of the lease: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 146 (reproducing with amendments the enactments on this subject): 1 Wolst. & Cherry's Conv. Stat., 11th ed., 379–92. For the general principles on which relief will be granted, see Rose v. Spicer.(g)

With regard to the construction of this section it has been held that:—

Notice under s. 146 need not claim compensation.

(1) A notice may be good, though it does not claim compensation, the lessor not being bound to make such claim unless he wants it: Lock v. Pearce [1893], 2 Ch. 271; 62 L. J. Ch. 582. But the notice must give sufficient details to enable the lessee to understand what is the breach complained of,(h) though it is not necessary to point out all the defects in detail: Fox v. Jolly [1916], 1 A. C. 1; 84 L. J. K. B. 1927. He must be allowed a reasonable time to act before action brought: Horsey Estate,

J. Ch. 282.

Position of underlessee.

(2) An under-lessee may not, as between himself and the original lessor, be a lessee within the meaning of sub-ss. (1) to (3).(k)

Underlessee might obtain relief, where head lessee would not.

(3) Under sub-s. (4) an underlessee might formerly be entitled to relief where the head lessee could not claim any—e.g., where the head lease was forfeited by the head lessee becoming bankrupt: Highgate School v. Sewell [1894], 2 Q. B. 906; 63 L. J. Q. B. 820; or by the head lessee underletting without licence: Imray v. Oakshette [1897], 2 Q. B. 218; 66 L. J. Q. B. 544. The fact that the underlessee had broken a similar covenant in the underlease did not disentitle him to the benefit of relief: Hurd v. Whaley [1918], 1 K. B. 448; 88 L. J. K. B. 260.

Non-payment of rent.

(4) Relief may be given under sub-s. (4) against forfeiture of the head lease for non-payment of rent: Gray v. Bonsall [1904], 1 K. B. 601; 73 L. J. K. B. 515.

Higher rent may be reserved on new lease.

(5) Under sub-s. (4) the court has an absolute discretion as to the rent and covenants to be inserted in the new lease, and may fix a higher rent than the original one if, under the circumstances, it would be fair to do so: Ewart v. Fryer [1901], 1 Ch. 499; 70 L. J. Ch. 138.

Notice not affected by claim to rent if breach continues.

(6) Where there is a covenant to keep the premises in repair, and the landlord has given a notice under the section, which is not complied with, he may, at any time after the expiration of the notice while the state of disrepair continues, bring an action to recover possession. In that action he may claim rent which has become due between the expiration of the notice and the service of the writ. The claim to rent does not affect the right to possession in respect of non-repair after the date when the rent became due, and a new notice under the section is unnecessary: Penton v. Barnett [1898], 1 Q. B. 276; 67 L. J. Q. B. 11.

(i) See Horsey Estate, Ltd. v. Steiger, supra, at p. 91; and cf. Piggott v. Middlesex County Council [1909], 1 Ch. 134; 77 L. J. Ch. 813.

(7) A condition of re-entry, if the lessees, being a company, should enter into liquidation, compulsory or voluntary, applies to a solvent company going into voluntary liquidation for the purpose of reconstruction, and is a condition for forfeiture on bankruptcy.(l)

Unregistered society.

(10) The effect of an order for relief under the section is to restore the lease as if it had never become forfeited; an underlease granted by the original lessee will also remain in existence: Dendy v. Evans [1910], 1 K. B. 263; 79 L. J. K. B. 121.

Effect of order for relief.

(11) Where underlessees are guilty of negligence the court will not give relief: Matthews v. Smallwood [1910], 1 Ch. 777; 79 L. J. Ch. 322.

Negligent under-lessees.

(12) A condition of re-entry in case the lessee executes an assignment for the benefit of his creditors could be relieved against even before the section was amended: Gentle v. Faulkner [1900], 2 Q. B. 267; 69 L. J. Q. B. 777.

A condition of re-entry in case the lessee, &c., shall become bankrupt, does not take effect on the bankruptcy of the lessee after he has assigned the lease: Smith v. Gronow [1891], 2 Q. B. 394; 60 L. J. Q. B. 776.

Bankruptcy of lessee after assignment.

SECT. VI.—The effect of alienation by the lessor or lessee as regards the rent and the covenants and conditions of the lease.

A rent reserved on a lease is by common law incident to the reversion and passes with it on every devolution or alienation. And if the reversion of part of the land comprised in the lease is disposed of, the rent is apportionable at common law: Co. Litt. 148a.

Rent follows reversion, and is apportion-able on a partial alienation.

A payment of rent by a tenant to a mortgagor, or judgment debtor, in advance of the proper date of payment, is not a good payment as between the tenant and the mortgagee, or judgment creditor, unless at the date when the rent was paid the mortgage (if registrable) or judgment debt was not registered under the L. C. Act, 1925. There is no difference in this respect between the case of a legal and that of an equitable charge: Ashburton v. Nocton [1915], 1 Ch. 274; 84 L. J. Ch. 193.

Payment of rent in advance.

Attornment of tenant to grantee of reversion unnecessary.

It was formerly necessary to the validity of the grant of a reversion that the tenant should attorn to the grantee, i.e., consent to accept him as his landlord. The necessity for attornment was done away with by the statute 4 & 5 Anne, c. 3, ss. 9 and 10 (repealed),(n) now in substance reproduced by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 151.

Benefit of and liability under covenants, &c., made to run by statute.

The benefit of and obligation under the covenants and conditions in a lease did not, however, pass at common law to a grantee of the reversion. This has been remedied by statute, the whole subject is now dealt with by L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 139 (effect of extinguishment of reversion, reproducing R. P. Act, 1845, s. 9); 140 (amended as to sub-s. 2 by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 2) (relating to apportionment of conditions on severance, reproducing L. P. Act, 1859, s. 3, and Conv. Act, 1881, s. 12, with amendments); 141 (rent and benefit of lessees' covenants to run with the reversion, reproducing 32 Hen. 8, c. 34, so far as it related to lessees' covenants, &c., and Conv. Act, 1881, s. 10, and Conv. Act, 1911, s. 2, with slight amendments), and 142 (obligation of lessor's covenant to run with reversion, reproducing 32 Hen. 8, c. 34, s. 2, and Conv. Act, 1881, s. 11). The main point to bear in mind is that the Act of 1925, Pt. V, unless otherwise stated, applies to leases and tenancies made before or after the Act.(o)

Licences and waivers of conditions.

It was formerly a rule of law that if a condition was once dispensed with it was gone for ever: Dumpor's Case (1603), 4 Co. Rep. 119b; but this doctrine was abolished by the L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1859, ss. 1, 2, and the L. P. Act, 1860, s. 6, now replaced by the L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 143 and 148. Under s. 143, a licence granted to a lessee to do any act extends only to the act specified, and does not affect the right of the lessor to forfeit the lease on the repetition of the act without permission. Where a licence is given to assign or sublet part of the land demised, the lessor's rights over the land not included in the licence are not affected, and every right of entry or forfeiture on breach of any condition in the lease is exercisable over that land to the same extent as before. Under s. 148, the waiver of a particular breach of covenant only extends to the breach to which it relates and does not operate as a general waiver of such covenant or condition : 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 392.

Mortgagor in possession may sue for rent and re-enter for breach of covenants.

Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 98 (reproducing Jud. Act, 1873, s. 25 (5)), a mortgagor entitled for the time being to the possession or receipt of the rents and profits of any land, as to which no notice of his intention to take possession or to enter into the receipt of the rents and profits thereof has been given by the mortgagee, may sue for such possession, or for the recovery of the rents or profits, or to prevent or recover damages in respect of any trespass or other wrong relative thereto in his own name only, unless the cause of action arises upon a lease or other contract made by him jointly with any other person. It does not prejudice the power of the mortgagor, independently of the section to take proceedings : ib., sub-s. (2) ; for after 1925 the mortgagor will have a legal estate, not merely a right of redemption.

This section does not entitle a mortgagor in possession to re-enter for breach of covenant,(p) but he can do so under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 141 (2), which enables him to sue on the covenants,(q) independently of any legal estate he may have in the land.

Effect of destruction of mesne reversion.

As the right to the rent and to sue on the covenants follows the reversion, it was formerly important, where a lease was made by a person who was himself only a termor, or had otherwise a limited interest, that the term or other interest constituting his reversion should not be merged or surrendered. For example, if lands were held by A. for life or for years, with remainder to B., and A. made a lease and afterwards surrendered his estate to B., or took a conveyance from B., which had the effect of merging his (A.'s) estate, the consequence was, that, the immediate reversion on the lease being gone, the rent and the benefit of the covenants were gone also. This was remedied by Original lessee remains liable to covenants after assignment and may be sued by grantee of reversion.

A lessee who has entered into covenants or agreements with his lessor remains liable to those covenants after he has assigned the lease to another, and the right to sue the original lessee in such a case passes to a grantee of the reversion by virtue of L. P. Act, 1925, s. 141.(r) It no longer appears to be of any importance whether or not the lease was created by deed: ib., s. 154, extending the meaning of "a lease" to an underlease or other tenancy.

Exception.

Where a perpetually renewable lease is converted into a long term by L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., the person in whom the term is vested is treated as an assignee even though he may have been the original lessee: ib., para 11.

Liability of assignee who does not execute, &c.

An assignee of a term of years who does not execute the assignment or take possession is not liable to the lessor for rent, there being no privity of estate or of contract.(s) He could disclaim.

Sect. VII.—By what modes, other than by forfeiture, a tenancy may be determined, and the rights of the parties at the determination thereof.

Notice to quit.

Lease for term determines by effluxion of time.

A lease for a term certain determines at the expiration of the term, and no notice to quit is necessary.

Notice to quit necessary to determine tenancy from year to year.

A tenancy from year to year (except in cases within the Agr. H. Act, 1923) continues until it is put an end to by a half-year's notice to quit from one of the parties. Such notice must expire at the period of the year at which the tenancy commenced. A notice to quit must be clear and unambiguous: May v. Borup [1915], 1 K. B. 830; 84 L. J. K. B. 823. If a tenancy from year to year has arisen from the tenant having held over on the expiration of his lease or original tenancy, the general rule is that the notice must expire at the period of the year at which the term commenced.(t) If the tenant dies during the tenancy, his personal representative has the same interest in the land as Representatives of tenant entitled to notice to quit.

(r) Assignment includes Act of Parliament vesting reversion in another person: Sunderland Orphan Asylum v. Wear Commrs. [1912], 1 Ch. 191; 81 L. J. Ch. 269.

(s) Purchase v. Lichfield Brewery Co. [1915], 1 K. B. 184; 84 L. J. K. B. 742.

(t) For cases where the term is indefinite, but determinable on notice, see Soames v. Nicholson [1902], 1 K. B. 157; 71 L. J. K. B. 24; Dixon v. Bradford, the deceased had, and the same notice to quit is necessary : Doe v. Porter (1789), 3 T. R. 13.

Determination of a yearly tenancy before the end of the first year.

A yearly tenancy, whether created by grant or implication, may not be determined (save by surrender) before the end of the first year, even though the lease stipulates that it shall be so determinable upon notice given by either party : Mayo v. Joyce [1920], 1 K. B. 824 ; 89 L. J. K. B. 561. After the first year it may be determined in any way agreed between the parties, which is not repugnant to such a tenancy.(u)

Any stipulation or provision in the lease which is repugnant to the nature of the tenancy will be rejected : Gray v. Spyer (see note (u)).

At least a half-year's notice to quit is necessary whether the rent be reserved half-yearly or quarterly.(v)

Notice to quit primâ facie waived by acceptance or demand of rent.

An acceptance of rent becoming due after the expiration of a notice to quit is a primâ facie waiver of the notice, as it shows the intention of both parties to continue the tenancy ; this is so, even if the lessor, while accepting money tendered as rent, repudiates the lease : Hartell v. Blacker [1920], 2 K. B. 161 ; 89 L. J. K. B. 838 ; so, also, if the landlord distrains for or demands the rent, he primâ facie affirms the continuance of the tenancy ; but the presumption of waiver may be rebutted. It may be a question for the jury, and not for the court, whether, in the circumstances of the case, the notice has been waived : Blyth v. Dennett (1853), 13 C. B. 178 ; 22 L. J. C. P. 79.

Effect of withdrawal of notice to quit.

When a notice to quit is waived or withdrawn a new tenancy is created for the residue of the old term.(w) The new tenancy should be confirmed in writing ; if the new term exceeds three years or the rent reserved is less than a rack rent the new lease should be made by deed.

Waiver of notice to quit against a sub-tenant.

Where there is a covenant against sub-demising and the head lessee waives or withdraws a notice to quit against his underlessee, this may operate as a breach of the covenant : Freeman v. Evans [1922], 1 Ch. 36 ; 91 L. J. Ch. 195.

What notice necessary under Agr. H. Act.

Section 25 of the Agr. H. Act, 1923, provides that, notwithstanding any contrary stipulation, a notice to quit an agricultural holding will be invalid if it purports to determine the tenancy before the expiration of twelve months from the end of the then current year of tenancy, but the following notices are excluded from the operation of this section :—

(1) Any notice given by the Admiralty, War Department, or Air Council, under the provisions of any tenancy agreement where possession of the land is required for naval, military or air force purposes ; or

(2) Any notice given by a corporation carrying on a railway, dock, canal, water or other undertaking, or by a government department or local authority, in respect of land acquired or appropriated for the purposes of the undertaking and required for those purposes, other than agriculture ; or

(3) Any notice given pursuant to a provision in the tenancy agreement authorising the lessor to resume possession of the whole, or part, of the holding for some specified purpose, not being the use of the land for agriculture ;

(4) Any notice given by a tenant to a sub-tenant ; or

(5) Any notice given before the 1st of January, 1921.

Special provisions of the Agr. H. Act, 1923, as to resumption of part of a holding.

By the same Act, s. 27, where part of a holding is required for any of the purposes mentioned in that section and the notice to quit states that it was given with a view to such use—

(a) the notice is not invalid because it relates only to a part of the holding ;

(b) the provisions of the Act relating to compensation apply as if the part to which the notice relates were a separate holding ;

(c) the tenant is entitled to a reduction of rent proportionate to the size of the part of the holding to which the notice relates and in respect of any decrease in value of the rest of the holding owing to the severance, the amount of which is to be settled as in the case of compensation under the Act.

Where a notice to quit relates to part only of the holding the tenant, within twenty-eight days after the service of the notice, may inform the landlord that he accepts it as a notice to quit the entire holding at the expiration of the current year of tenancy.

Where such a notice is given pursuant to an express power the tenant may not accept it as a notice to quit the entire holding but may obtain compensation as if the service of notice had not been made pursuant to the terms of the lease.

In assessing such compensation and reduction of rent any benefit or relief allowed under the terms of the lease in respect of any land thus resumed by the lessor will be taken into account.

Restrictions on notices to quit served for the purpose of a sale.

Where the lessor of an agricultural holding, held from year to year, gives to the tenant notice to quit, and before the expiration of such notice contracts to sell the holding, the notice to quit is invalidated unless the tenant has, after the 19th of August, 1919, and before such contract of sale, by writing, agreed that the notice shall be valid : Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 26.

Weekly tenancy.

A reasonable notice is required to determine a weekly tenancy. The safe plan is to give a week's notice ending with the current week : Bowen v. Anderson [1894], 1 Q. B. 164 ; but it is possible that a less notice might be held to be sufficient.

Tenancy at will, how determined.

A tenancy at will may be determined at any time by the tenant delivering up possession, or by the landlord demanding such possession, and no notice to quit is necessary.(x)

Tenancy on sufferance, how determined.

A tenant on sufferance is a mere trespasser, and the landlord may at any time enter and put an end to the tenancy without making any previous demand.

Notice to quit part of holding, under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 140 (2), as amended.

The effect of a notice to quit part of a holding under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 140 (2), as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 2, has been previously explained: p. 936, supra.

Surrender by deed or by operation of law.

Surrender.

Express surrender must be by deed.

A lease or tenancy may be determined by an express surrender, or by a surrender by act and operation of law. An express surrender requires a deed, unless, semble, the estate surrendered is one that can be created by parol : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 52 (2) (c); in which case the surrender may, query, be by writing.(y)

Surrender by operation of law.

A surrender by act and operation of law arises :—

(1) Where the lessee gives up, and the lessor resumes possession in pursuance of an agreement between the parties that the lease shall come to an end (z); or

(2) Where a lessee accepts a new lease commencing immediately or which is otherwise inconsistent with the continuance of the first lease, even though the second lease may be of shorter duration than the first: Hughes v. Robotham (1593), Cro. Eliz. 302; or

(3) Where a new lease is made to a third party, with the assent of the original tenant, who gives up possession.(a)

Consent of original tenant to new lease may be implied.

The consent of the original tenant may be implied from the circumstances. Thus, where a bishop's lease had been granted to A., and at the accustomed period a new lease was granted to B., the consent of A. was presumed from the fact that at the time of the renewal B. was in possession of the property and also of the old lease, and that the old lease was, in accordance with the usage at the bishop's office, given up by him to be cancelled.(b) But there can be no implied surrender by the original lessee unless he gives up actual possession. If, therefore, A., a lessee, grants an underlease to B., who takes possession, and a new lease is afterwards granted by the superior lessor to C., no evidence of A.'s consent to the new lease will supply the place of a surrender by deed, so as to enable C. to sue B. on the covenants in the underlease.(c)

Surrender not implied; when.

Lease may be surrendered without underlease.(d)

The L. P. Act, 1925, s. 150, enables a lease to be surrendered, with a view to the grant of a new lease, without the surrender of any derivative lease, and gives to the lessee under the new lease and to the underlessees the same rights and remedies as if the old lease had been still in existence.

Surrender to mortgagor.

Though a mortgagor in possession can grant leases under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 99, he cannot properly accept surrenders without the concurrence of the mortgagee: Robbins v. Whyte [1906], 1 K. B. 125; 75 L. J. K. B. 38, unless the mortgage deed is executed after 1911, or the provisions of L. P. Act, 1925, s. 100, are made applicable to a mortgage dated before 1912; under that section the surrender can only be accepted with a view to the grant of a new authorised lease which must take effect in possession within one month from the date of the surrender, and otherwise comply with that section. The powers of leasing and accepting surrenders are, by those sections, given to the mortgagor or mortgagee in possession. After 1925 the mortgagor will have a legal estate, hence a surrender accepted by him, otherwise than under the statutory power, may be valid save as against the mortgagees and the persons deriving title under them.

Merger.

Where the term and the reversion expectant thereon become vested in the same person, at the same time, in the same right, the term merges in the reversion and becomes extinguished.(e)

Disclaimer under the Bankruptcy Act.

Bankruptcy Act, 1914.

Under the Bkcy. Act, 1914, leaseholds forming part of a bankrupt's estate vest in the trustee in bankruptcy when appointed, who can disclaim them under s. 54 by writing, it need not be under seal: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 52. Pending the appointment of a trustee, the official receiver can disclaim (Bkcy. Act, 1914, s. 54 (7)), provided he does so within twelve months after he has begun to act as trustee or has become aware of the existence of the term.

Bankruptcy Rules, 1915.

The Bkcy. Rules, 1915 (r. 276), define the cases where a lease may be disclaimed without the leave of the court. In cases not authorised by the rule an application to the court is necessary: s. 54 (3).

The effect of the statutory provisions is as follows:—

When bankrupt is original lessee, all remedies of the lessor remain in force until disclaimer.

(1) When the bankrupt is the original lessee, the lessor will be entitled to distrain, or to prove in the bankruptcy for arrears of rent, and also to prove for breaches of covenant up to the date of the disclaimer, subject, as to arrears of rent, to the operation of s. 35.

Where bankrupt is an assign, remedies of lessor against original lessee remain in force after disclaimer.

(2) Where the bankrupt is an assign of the original lessee, the disclaimer will not deprive the lessor of any of his remedies against the original lessee, who will be entitled to prove in the bankruptcy for any money which he may be compelled to pay and which the bankrupt ought to have paid. He may also apply to the court for an order vesting the bankrupt's interest in him.

Mortgagee by sub-demise or underlessee may have a vesting order.

by sub-demise, though no term is actually created, or the bankrupt has granted an underlease, the court will give the mortgagee or underlessee the option of taking a vesting order of the bankrupt's interest.(f) If he consents to take it he will be liable for the rent and lessee's covenants contained in the original lease as from the date of the petition in bankruptcy, and will be freed from the rents and covenants (if any) contained in the underlease. If, on the other hand, he declines to take a vesting order, his mortgage or underlease will cease altogether.

On disclaimer liability of surety for rent ceases.

Where the original lessee becomes bankrupt and there has been no assignment or dealing with the lease, the disclaimer puts an end to the lease altogether, and if the rent is guaranteed by a surety, his liability for future rent ceases: Stacey v. Hill [1901], 1 K. B. 660; 70 L. J. K. B. 435.

Disclaimer of contract for sale of lease.

Where a bankrupt has contracted to sell a lease, the trustee in bankruptcy cannot disclaim the contract without disclaiming the lease.(g)

Assignment to man of straw.

A mortgagee cannot escape the obligation of taking a vesting order of the head term to save his interest in the property, by transferring the mortgage to a man of straw as trustee for himself: Re Smith (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 537; 59 L. J. Q. B. 554.

Vesting order in mortgagee by sub-demise.

A disclaimed lease will be vested in a mortgagee by sub-demise, or by charge by way of legal mortgage, not as if he had been original lessee, but as if the lease had been assigned to him when the bankruptcy petition was filed: Re Carter and Ellis [1905], 1 K. B. 735; 74 L. J. K. B. 442.

Position of mortgagee after acquiring head term.

A mortgagee cannot after 1925 hold a head term by way of mortgage: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 86 (2); it follows that when he acquires the head term he holds it free from any right of redemption.

If bankrupt has purported to assign lease to mortgagee, trustee must disclaim.

If a lessee has, before his bankruptcy, purported to assign his whole term by way of mortgage to a mortgagee this will be unavailing: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 86 (2), 1st Sch., Pt. VIII, the head term will remain in him, and the trustee being under a liability to perform the covenants must consider whether or not it is expedient to disclaim.(h)

Legal charge.

The right to disclaim is not confined to property divisible among the creditors, but extends to property of which the bankrupt is a trustee: Re Maughan (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 956; 54 L. J. Q. 128, e.g., the nominal reversion vested in a lessee who has mortgaged the property by sub-demise and under the old practice declared himself a trustee of that reversion for the mortgagee.

Property of which bankrupt was trustee may be disclaimed.

The trustee in bankruptcy cannot, however, disclaim the legal estate in settled land which is vested in the bankrupt: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 103; it does not vest in the trustee till the bankrupt becomes entitled free from the limitations powers and charges under the settlement: ib.

Settled land.

The right may be exercised in the administration in bankruptcy of estates of deceased insolvents under Bkcy. Act, 1914, s. 130: Re Mellison [1906], 2 K. B. 68; 75 L. J. K. B. 595. That section is revived by the Expiring Laws' Continuance Act, 1925.

Insolvent estates.

Where an estate is insolvent the grant of representation will not be severed, save in regard to trust estates: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 155; the estate will be administered according to the rules in Part I of the First Schedule to the Ad. of E. Act, 1925.

Representation to insolvent estates.

The Bkcy. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 3, provides for the vesting of property (remaining undistributed) on a second or subsequent bankruptcy, but, in other respects, may be ignored so far as the title to leaseholds is concerned.

Bankruptcy Act, 1926.

Holding over.

The L. & T. Act, 1730, s. 1, provides that "if any tenant for life or lives, or years, holds over any lands, &c., after the determination of his estate, after demand made and notice in writing given, for delivering the possession thereof, by the landlord, &c., or his agent thereunto lawfully authorised, such tenant so holding over shall pay to the person so kept out of possession at the rate of double the yearly value of the lands so detained for so long a time as the same shall be detained." And by the Distress for Rent Act, 1737, s. 18, it is enacted that "in case any tenant shall give notice of his intention to quit the premises, and shall not accordingly deliver up the possession thereof at the time in such notice mentioned, the said tenant shall thenceforth pay to the landlord double the rent which he should otherwise have paid during the time that he so continues in possession."

Tenant holding over after demand of possession to pay double annual value of premises.

Tenant holding over after expiration of his notice to quit, to pay double rent.

To enable a landlord to recover double value under the Act of 1730, the holding over by the tenant must be contumacious,

Holding over must be contumacious.

i.e., the holding over must be with the consciousness on the part of the tenant that he has no right to retain possession.(i)

What damages may be recovered against tenant holding over.

In one case a landlord, after giving a yearly tenant notice to quit at the end of his year, agreed to let the land to A. from the end of the year, and informed the tenant that he had done so, but the tenant nevertheless held the premises over for another quarter. It was held that the landlord might recover against the tenant as damages the amount of the ordinary damages which he had had to pay in an action brought against him by A. for not giving him possession at the time agreed on and the cost of such action. Also that the fact of the landlord having received from the tenant rent for the quarter during which he held over did not preclude him from bringing the action.(j)

Mode of recovering possession of small tenements after determination of tenancy.

With regard to tenancies for a term not exceeding seven years and at a rent not exceeding £20 a year, the Small Tenements, &c., Act, 1838, enables the justices in petty sessions, when the interest of the tenant has ended or been determined by a legal notice to quit or otherwise,(k) and such tenant, or (if such tenant does not actually occupy the premises or only occupies part thereof) any person by whom the same or any part thereof shall be then actually occupied, refuses or neglects to deliver up possession, to issue a warrant directing the constables to enter by force and give possession to the landlord. In order to obtain such a warrant the landlord or his agent must serve a written notice on the tenant or occupier of his intention to proceed under the Act, and the notice must be read over and explained to the person served. If the tenant or occupier cannot be found, the notice may be posted in some conspicuous part of the premises.

Where a tenant refused to quit after notice and the landlord altered the premises, and in the course of the work damaged the tenant's furniture, it was held that the tenant could not recover damages: Jones v. Foley [1891], 1 Q. B. 730; 60 L. J. Q. B. 464.

Emblements.

Emblements.

Where a lease or tenancy is for an uncertain period, and determines after the crops are sown and before harvest, the tenant is as a general rule entitled to the crops or (as they are usually called) the emblements; but if the lease is for a term certain, the tenant has no such right (in the absence of special custom), for it is his own fault if, in such circumstances, he sows the crops.

On death of landlord entitled for terminable interest, tenancy continues up to end of current year.

The Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 24 (1), provides that where the tenancy of any holding (see s. 57), held by a tenant at rack rent, determines by the death or cesser of the estate of any landlord entitled for his life, or for any other uncertain interest, instead of claims to emblements the tenant shall continue to hold and occupy the holding until the occupation is determined by a twelve months' notice to quit expiring at the end of a year of the tenancy. He is then to quit upon the terms of his tenancy in the same manner as if the tenancy were then determined by effluxion of time or other lawful means during the continuance of his landlord's estate. The succeeding landlord is empowered to recover from the tenant in the same manner as his predecessor could have done, a fair proportion of the rent for the period which has elapsed from the death or cesser of the estate of such predecessor to the time of so quitting. This provision is practically obsolete, for leases must, as a rule, be granted after 1925 by estate owners, but it is possible that the tenancy might be created out of a term which was terminated by notice.

The succeeding landlord and the tenant respectively will, as between themselves and as against each other be entitled to all the benefits and advantages and be subject to the terms, conditions and restrictions to which the preceding landlord and such tenant respectively would have been entitled and subject in case the tenancy had been determined in the said manner at the expiration of the twelve months notice.

Law of emblements applied between heir and executors under old law.

The right to emblements was not confined to the case of landlord and tenant. Thus, if an owner in fee simple died before 1926 intestate and before harvest, the then growing crops went to his personal representative as personal estate, though if he had devised the land, the devisee was entitled to the crops as against the executor.(l) Where the estates of persons having only limited interests determine by their deaths before harvest, the emblements will go to their personal representatives.

Fixtures.

Fixtures, general law as to.

The general law (see 54 Sol. J. 813) as to things annexed to the freehold is that they become part of it and cannot be severed by a tenant without the consent of the landlord. An exception to this general rule has been established in the case of fixtures set up for the purposes of trade,(m) or for purposes of ornament or convenience; as, for example, marble or other ornamental chimney pieces, marble slabs, grates or stoves, or the like, provided that they can be separated from the freehold without any material injury.(n)

Tapestry.

The exception applies not only as between landlord and tenant, but also as between tenant for life and remainderman. Tapestry firmly affixed by a tenant for life to the walls of a room was held to be removable by him or his representatives; the presumption being that it was intended for purposes of ornamentation and personal enjoyment as a chattel, and not to enhance the value of the freehold.(o)

Agricultural fixtures.

Tenants have special rights in regard to what may be called agricultural fixtures.

Tenant's right to fixtures under Agr. H. Act, 1923.

The Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 22, gives to a tenant of a holding (as defined by s. 57) the absolute property in all fixtures, including buildings, which were fixed or built by the tenant, and the right to remove them before or within a reasonable time after the end of the tenancy unless—

(i) the tenant has a right to compensation in respect of such fixtures or buildings, or

(ii) they were affixed or built pursuant to an obligation in that behalf or instead of some fixture or building belonging to the landlord.

The tenant has a right to remove fixtures and buildings in respect of which he is not entitled to compensation, and which have not been affixed pursuant to any agreement with the landlord. Before removal the tenant must pay all rent, &c., due to the landlord, and must have performed all the covenants and conditions of the lease. He must give him a month's notice of intention to remove, and the landlord can elect to purchase the fixtures before the expiration of the notice. The tenant must avoid all unnecessary damage in removal and make good all damage. The section applies to fixtures and buildings acquired by a tenant after 1900 or affixed or erected by him after 1883. The definition of an agricultural holding includes a market garden but not an allotment garden: s. 57.

Effect of disclaimer by trustee of bankrupt as regards right to remove fixtures.

Under the Bkcy. Act, 1914, s. 54 (2), a disclaimer by the trustee determines the rights and interests of the bankrupt as from its date only; it does not prevent the trustee from removing the fixtures during the interval between the commencement of the bankruptcy and the date of the disclaimer. If the trustee does not remove them before applying for leave to disclaim, the court will give the landlord the option of taking them at a valuation; and if he declines, will allow the trustee a reasonable time within which to remove them: Re Moser (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 738.

Covenants as to fixtures.

Where there is an express covenant as to fixtures, the rights of the parties depend on the terms of the covenant. If a lessee covenants to deliver up to the landlord, at the expiration of the term, fixtures which, in the absence of such covenant, he might have removed, he thereby deprives himself of the right of removing them.(p) A wide covenant to deliver up all fixtures is not confined to landlord's fixtures.(q) If a tenant during his tenancy sells fixtures which he is not entitled to sell, the landlord may confirm the sale and claim the proceeds without waiting for the end of the term: Re British Red Ash Collieries, Ltd. [1920], 1 Ch. 326; 88 L. J. Ch. 212.

The Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923 (improvements).

The relative rights of landlords and tenants of agricultural holdings at the determination of the tenancy are regulated by the Agr. H. Act, 1923, which has replaced and consolidated all the previous Acts.(r)

Outgoing tenant to be allowed compensation

By s. 1 of the Agr. H. Act, 1923, a tenant of a holding (which is defined to mean any parcel of land held by a tenant which is either wholly agricultural or wholly pastoral or partly agricultural in respect of three classes of improvements.

and partly pastoral or wholly or partially cultivated as a market garden, and which is not let to the tenant during his continuance in any office, appointment, or employment held under the landlord: s. 57), is entitled at the determination of a tenancy, on quitting his holding, to compensation from the landlord for improvements made by the tenant and falling within one or other of the three classes following: Sch. I.

Class I, requiring landlord's consent.

CLASS I, requiring the landlord's previous consent in writing, which may be given either unconditionally or upon terms. Compensation may be substituted by agreement for that payable under the Act: s. 2. The first part of the First Schedule to the Act contains particulars of improvements within this class: As to market gardens: 3rd Sch.

Class II, requiring notice.

CLASS II: Sch. I, Pt. II; Drainage.—The tenant must give notice to his landlord of his intention to execute an improvement comprised in this class, and of the manner in which he proposes to effect it. Such notice must be in writing, and not more than three nor less than two months before the commencement of the work. Upon such notice the parties may agree on the terms as to compensation or otherwise on which the improvement is to be executed: s. 3 (1); and any compensation so agreed is to be substituted for that under the Act: s. 3 (2); or the landlord may (unless the tenant's notice is previously withdrawn) execute the improvement himself and recover from the tenant as rent a sum not exceeding £5 per cent. per annum on the outlay, or not exceeding such annual sum, payable for a period of twenty-five years, as will repay that outlay in that period with interest at £3 per cent.; the Minister of Agriculture may by regulation alter this percentage or period. If the landlord fails to execute the improvement within a reasonable time, the tenant may do so, and he will be entitled to compensation: s. 3 (3). The landlord and tenant may dispense with any notice, and come to an agreement in the contract of tenancy or otherwise between themselves: s. 3 (4).

Class III, not requiring landlord's consent, or notice by tenant.

Improvements to protect against injury.

CLASS III.—In which neither the consent of nor notice to the landlord is required: Sch. I, Pt. III. Where an improvement has been made to comply with s. 30, which enacts that a tenant may freely cultivate his holding provided that he takes all necessary steps to protect the holding from injury or deterioration, the tenant cannot claim compensation under 1st. Sch., Pt. III, in respect of such an improvement: Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 30 (3). Fair and reasonable compensation may be substituted by agreement for that payable under the Act: s. 4. The third part of the First Schedule to the Act contains particulars of improvements within this class. With regard to repairs to certain buildings, the tenant must, before beginning to execute any such repairs, give to the landlord notice in writing of his intention, together with particulars, and must not execute the repairs unless the landlord fails to execute them within a reasonable time after receiving such notice: see proviso at end of Pt. III of Sch. I.

Tenant to give notice of intention to execute certain repairs.

Where the contract of tenancy was made on or after the 1st of January, 1921, the above provisions as to compensation apply whether or not the tenant was by the terms of the tenancy obliged to make the improvement.

Special provisions as to market gardens:

(i) In the case of contracts made after 1895.

Where it has been agreed in writing after 1895 that the holding, or part of the holding, shall be let or treated as a market garden, the Act applies to the additional improvements mentioned in the Third Schedule to the Act. Such improvements are to be treated as if they were comprised in Pt. III of the First Schedule: s. 48 (1); but see proviso to sub-s. (1) (i) of this section.

(ii) In the case of other contracts.

The provisions of the Act are made retrospective as regards the improvements mentioned in the Third Schedule to the Act in cases where the tenant of a holding, or part of a holding (held under a contract of tenancy current on the 1st January, 1896, which was at that date in use or cultivation as a market garden, with the knowledge of the landlord), has executed on the holding, without having previously received any written notice of dissent by the landlord, any improvement comprised in that Schedule. Where the land consists of part of a holding these provisions apply as if it were a separate holding. Market gardens now come within the Act: s. 57.(s)

Principle on which compensation is assessed.

The compensation is based on such sum as fairly represents the value of the improvement to an incoming tenant: s. 1 (1); but benefits given or allowed by the landlord to the tenant in consideration of the tenant executing the improvement, and the value of the manure required to be returned to the holding in respect of crops sold off or removed within the last two years of the tenancy or other less time for which the tenancy has endured, not exceeding the value of the manure which would have been produced by the consumption on the holding of the crops so sold off or removed (s. 1 (2)); are to be taken into account,

---

(s) As to the powers of the Agricultural Committee of the area to order that part of a holding shall be treated as a market garden, see s. 49.

Tenant's right to compensation under custom not affected.

but the tenant's right to claim any compensation under custom,(t) agreement, or otherwise in lieu of this compensation is not affected: s. 1 (3).

Avoidance of contracts inconsistent with the Act.

Except where the contrary is provided by the Act, any contract, whether under seal or not, whereby a tenant's right to compensation under the Act is lessened or taken away, is void in that respect though the rest of the contract will be valid.

Compensation in case of tenancy under mortgagor where mortgagee takes possession.

Where a tenancy created by a mortgagor is not binding on a mortgagee, the occupier is entitled to the same compensation from a mortgagee in possession as he could have obtained from the mortgagor. If the tenancy is for a term of years not exceeding twenty-one, at a rack rent, or is a tenancy from year to year, a mortgagee, before he deprives the tenant of possession otherwise than in accordance with the terms of the tenancy, must serve on him six months' notice in writing of his intention to do so, and must compensate him for any improvement or expenditure on the land made by him in expectation of remaining in the holding for the full term of his tenancy, unless the improvement is exhausted at the time when the tenancy was determined. Such sum may be set off against rent or other payments due to the mortgagee, and unless so set off may be recovered by the tenant in the manner directed by the Act for the recovery of sums due in respect of compensation from a landlord who is a trustee: Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 15.

Procedure where compensation claimed.

Where a tenant claims compensation and the parties do not agree, the difference is to be settled by arbitration in the manner prescribed: ss. 5, 16, 17, 18, Sch. II. No claim for compensation can be made after the expiration of two months from the determination of the tenancy, unless the particulars thereof have previously been given, except for an improvement executed after such determination, where the tenant lawfully remains in occupation of part of the holding, in which case notice may be given any time before he quits that part. The arbitration may extend to any claim in respect of breaches of contract or otherwise on either side or for tenant's waste: s. 16.

Recovery of compensation, &c.

Any sum awarded under the Agr. H. Act, 1923, may be recovered upon an order made by a county court: s. 19.

Landlord's right to a charge on

A landlord, on paying compensation to the tenant, may obtain

Local custom.

(t) Customs of the country are impliedly incorporated in contracts of tenancy provided they are not inconsistent with their terms: Wigglesworth v. Dallison (1779), 1 Doug. 201.

from the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries a charge on the holding in respect thereof: s. 20.

holding, on payment of compensation.

Right of outgoing tenant to compensation from incoming tenant.

An incoming tenant may, under s. 9, be compelled to pay an outgoing tenant compensation where the particular method of farming adopted by the outgoing tenant has improved the value of the holding.

Record of condition.

These provisions do not apply unless a record of the previous state of the holding has been made and the outgoing tenant has given the landlord notice in writing before the determination of the tenancy that he intends to make the claim.

In assessing the compensation under this section allowance will be made for any compensation payable for improvements under the First or Third Schedule.

Right of tenant: (i) who has paid compensation to outgoing tenant;

An incoming tenant who has, with the consent in writing of his landlord, paid to an outgoing tenant compensation payable under the Act has the same rights to claim compensation on quitting the holding as the outgoing tenant would have had if he had quitted it at the time when the incoming tenant quits it: s. 6.

(ii) on change of tenancy;

A change of tenancy of a holding does not of itself deprive the outgoing tenant of the right to claim compensation in respect of improvements made by him during a previous tenancy: s. 7.

(iii) who has begun improvements when about to quit.

With certain exceptions, a tenant from year to year is not entitled to compensation for improvements begun one year before he quits the holding, or after notice to quit which results in his quitting the holding, and in other cases within one year before the expiration of the tenancy: s. 8.

Compensation to landlord for deterioration of holding.

In certain circumstances a landlord may claim compensation from an outgoing tenant in respect of deterioration of the holding caused by the tenant's failure to cultivate the holding in accordance with the rules of good husbandry (see s. 57) or the terms of the contract: s. 10. These provisions are subject to any stipulation in the contract relating to dilapidations, and before a landlord can benefit by them he must give to the tenant, before the end of the tenancy, notice of his intention to claim compensation under this section.

Compensation for disturbance.

Rules of good husbandry.

By s. 12, a tenant who vacates a holding, as defined in s. 57, pursuant to a notice to quit, is entitled to additional compensation for disturbance, to be assessed by arbitration, unless the notice to quit states that it was given because the tenant failed to cultivate the holding in accordance with the rules of good husbandry (see s. 57) or for any reason given in sub-s. (1) of this section. The agricultural committee of the area is empowered to decide, on the application of the landlord, whether the holding is being cultivated in accordance with the rules of good husbandry or not, and to grant or refuse a certificate to that effect. Upon the grant or refusal of such certificate the tenant or landlord may appeal to an arbitrator against the certificate, but the appeal must be made within seven days of the notification of the grant or refusal thereof.

Appeals.

Compensation not payable where notice is withdrawn.

No compensation is payable where the landlord has offered to withdraw his notice to quit and the tenant has unreasonably refused to accept the offer.

Acts governing assessment of compensation where notice to quit was served in 1920.

Where the notice to quit was served before the 21st May, 1920, the provisions relating to compensation contained in the Agr. H. Act, 1908, apply; but where such notice was given after the above date, but before the 1st January, 1921, the provisions of the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 12, apply, whether or not the notice stated the reason why it was given.

Refusal to renew, increase of rent.

Formerly compensation for disturbance was payable on a tenant quitting a holding by reason of the landlord refusing to renew the lease or demanding increased rent on account of improvements: Agr. H. Act, 1908, s. 11. Now such compensation is only payable when the lease is determined by notice to quit or where the tenant has determined his own tenancy by reason of a refusal by the landlord to arbitrate as to the rent payable for the holding under the provisions of the Agr. H. Act, 1923.

Nature of loss in respect of which compensation is to be assessed.

Where compensation for this item is payable, it will be assessed upon the loss or expense directly attributable to the sale or removal of the tenant's household goods, farm implements, fixtures, farm produce or stock, and costs incidental to the preparation of the claim for compensation, not including the costs of arbitration.

Assessment of costs of claim for compensation.

These costs are to be computed as equal to the value of one year's rent of the holding unless they can be proved to be greater, in which case the amount payable is to be increased to the full amount of the costs, but not exceeding two years' rent of the holding.

Claim by allotment garden holder.

By s. 13, a tenant of an allotment garden, which is not used as a market garden, or land not included in the definition of a "holding" in s. 57, whose tenancy has been determined by a notice to quit, without good cause, and for reasons inconsistent with "good estate management" (as to the meaning of these words: Woodfall, 21st ed., 944) is entitled to compensation only for loss or expense directly attributable to the removal or sale of his household goods, farm implements, farm produce or stock, provided that he gives to his landlord—

(a) Reasonable opportunity of making a valuation of the goods in respect of which he claims compensation ;

(b) Notice in writing within two months after receipt of the notice to quit that he intends to make such claim.

No compensation is payable where the tenant dies within three months before the date of the notice to quit or where the tenant fails to make his claim within three months after quitting : s. 13.

Application to cottages on holdings.

Agricultural labourers, occupying cottages, with or without gardens, on land to which ss. 12 and 13 apply, are, by s. 14, allowed some compensation for disturbance in respect of loss or expense incurred by reason of the determination of the lease of the land upon which their cottages are situated. The rules as to the assessment of this compensation are given in s. 14.

Claim against mortgagee.

By s. 15 compensation is allowed to a tenant of a holding against a mortgagee taking possession, provided that the contract of tenancy is not binding on him.

Compensation for damage by game.

The tenant is entitled to compensation from his landlord for damage to his crops by game in certain cases, but the landlord is entitled to be indemnified by the sporting tenant.(u)

Freedom of cropping and disposal of produce.

Provided the tenant makes suitable and adequate provision to protect the holding from injury or deterioration, he has, subject to certain restrictions, notwithstanding any custom of the country or the provisions of any contract of tenancy or agreement, full right to practise any system of cropping the arable land, and to dispose of the produce of the holding. But during the last year of the tenancy, and in the case of a yearly tenancy, as respects the year before the tenant quits the holding or any period after he has given or received notice to quit which results in his quitting the holding, the lessor can prescribe the method of cultivation : s. 30.

Application of capital money under S. L. Act in paying compensation.

Capital money arising under the S. L. Act, 1925, may be applied in payment of any money expended and costs incurred by a landlord under the Agr. H. Act, 1923, or any enactment thereby repealed or under custom or agreement in the execution of any improvement comprised in Part I or Part II of the First Schedule to the Act of 1923, and in discharge of any charge in respect of any such improvement created by that Act :

(u) S. 11. In this section the word "game" is specially defined ; it does not include ground game.

Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 21; see also Housing, &c., Act, 1909, s. 7. This does not apply as regards improvements not included in Parts I and II.(v)

SECT. VIII.—*The Rent Restrictions Acts.

Object of the Rent Restrictions Acts.

In consequence of the shortage of houses of low rental value during and shortly after the late War, a number of Acts were passed restricting the rights of landlords of such dwelling-houses to increase their rent or to eject their tenants.

Repeal of emergency War legislation.

The emergency Acts passed for this purpose during the war have been repealed and replaced by the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Act, 1920, which is the principal Act.

Acts now in force (1920 to 1925).

This Act was followed by other Acts extending its operation and containing amendments. The only Acts now in force are the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Act, 1920 (hereinafter called " the Act of 1920 "), as amended by the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions Act, 1923 (hereinafter called " the Act of 1923 "), the Rent Restrictions (Notices of Increase) Act, 1923, the Prevention of Eviction Act, 1924, and the Rent and Mortgage Interest (Restrictions Continuation) Act, 1925.(w)

Dwelling-houses which are excluded from the operation of the Acts.

Possession of landlord on or after 31st July, 1923.

Under the Act of 1923, s. 2 (1), these Acts do not apply to dwelling-houses which were in the possession of the landlord on, or which came into his possession (otherwise than under an order of the court in consequence of non-payment of rent) after, the 31st July, 1923, unless part of the house has been lawfully sub-let as a separate dwelling-house within the meaning of the Act of 1920, in which case the part sub-let does not become de-controlled by reason of the possession of the rest of the house by the landlord: Catto v. Curry [1926], 1 K. B. 460; 95 L. J. K. B. 411; Dunbar v. Smith [1926], 1 K. B. 360; 95 L. J. K. B. 242.

Effect on mortgages made before July, 1920.

These Acts also restricted the power of mortgagees under a mortgage created before the 1st July, 1920, to realise their security by foreclosure sale or otherwise, see Sophian, Chap. VIII.

non-payment of rent, the Acts continue to apply as if the landlord had not come into possession after the 31st July, 1923.

Flats after 2nd April, 1919.

Under the Act of 1920, s. 12 (9), houses which were erected or converted into flats after, or were in the course of erection on, the 2nd April, 1919, did not come within the scope of these Acts.

Business premises de-controlled.

Since the 24th June, 1921, all business premises have been de-controlled : Act of 1920, s. 13 ; except those used partly for business purposes and partly as dwelling-houses which are let together under a single tenancy : ib., s. 12 (2).

Mixed letting.

Where there is such a mixed letting, it is a question of mixed fact and law whether or not the premises are to be regarded as having been let as a dwelling-house for the purpose of the Act. For the tests to be applied, see Sophian, 21 ; Second Suppt., 8–11.

It follows that the Rent Restrictions Acts can seldom apply to leases granted de novo in the future.

Judicial interpretation of the Acts.

These Acts have received so much judicial interpretation that it is not possible, in a work of this nature, to deal exhaustively with their effect upon existing tenancies.

Expiration of Acts.

Under the Act of 1925 the operation of the full restrictions imposed by the Act of 1920 ceases on the 25th December, 1927, but for another five years after that date the limited restrictions imposed by the Act of 1923, Pt. II, will continue to operate.

Power to contract out in certain cases.

The parties, as respects property affected, may contract out of the Acts if the lease or tenancy agreement is made after the 31st July, 1923, and the tenancy in respect of which it is made is for not less than two years, expiring not earlier than one year after the date fixed (at the time at which the lease was granted) for the expiration (i.e., 25th December, 1927) of the Act of 1920 : Act of 1923, s. 2 (2), as amended by the Act of 1925, s. 1 (3) (b).

Effect of the Rent Restriction (Notices of Increase) Act, 1923.

The Rent Restriction (Notices of Increase) Act, 1923, meets the difficulty arising out of the decision in Kerr v. Bryde [1923], A. C. 16 ; 92 L. J. P. C. 1, that notices of increase of rent must follow a notice to determine the tenancy.

As the result of this Act a notice of increase of rent operates as if a notice to quit had previously been given : Aston v. Smith [1924], 2 K. B. 143.

What houses come within the operation of the Acts.

The operation of the Rent Restrictions Acts is confined (x) to dwelling-houses, which include parts of houses let as a separate dwelling-house: Act of 1920, s. 12 (2); of which the standard rent or the rateable value does not exceed:—

Standard rents.

(1) In the Metropolitan Police District, including the City of London,(y) £105;

(2) In Scotland, £90; and

(3) Elsewhere, £78 per year.

Where the annual standard rent exceeds one of the amounts above mentioned but the rateable value does not, the house still comes within the Acts; the same rule applies where the standard rent is less than the rateable value.

"Standard rent" (3rd August, 1914).

The standard rent is the rent at which the house was let on the 3rd August, 1914, or, if the house was not let at that date, the rent at which it was last let before that date or, if the house was first let after that date, the first rent fixed: Act of 1920, s. 12 (1) (a).

"Rateable value."

The rateable value means the rateable value on the 3rd August, 1914, or, if the house had not been assessed before that date, the value of the first assessment after that date: Act of 1920, s. 12 (1) (c).

Apportionment of standard rent or rateable value.

Where a house was let as a whole on or before the 3rd August, 1914, and was subsequently let in separate portions, but not so as to constitute each portion a separate dwelling-house with an independent and separate identity to the other portions, an apportionment may be necessary for determining the standard rent or the rateable value of each portion.

The Act of 1920, s. 12 (3), gives the county court power to make such apportionment on the application of either party.

Under the Increase of Rent, &c., Rules, 1920, r. 7, application must be made to the registrar in the first instance.

The registrar may or, if desired by either party, must, refer the matter to the judge.

Reconstruction of house.

No apportionment is required where the conversion of the house into a number of separate dwellings has effected a reconstruction of the house within the Act of 1920, s. 12 (9), for in such a case the Act does not apply.

The distinctions drawn by the courts in these cases are so fine that it is impossible, within the scope of this note, to review the tests which have been applied.

For these tests, see Sophian, 15, et seq., and the current supplement.

(y) For the extent of the Metropolitan Police District, see the Metropolitan Police Acts, 1829 and 1839, Order in Council of the 3rd January, 1840.

Other definitions.

Important definitions will be found in ss. 2 (5), 12 and 15 of the Act of 1920, and s. 18 (5) of the Act of 1923. These definitions must be carefully studied before the Acts can be construed.

General restrictive effect of the Acts.

Where the Act of 1920 applies, landlords may not increase the rent except for the limited purposes prescribed by s. 2 (1) of the Act of 1920, as explained in s. 3 of that Act, and amended, as regards sub-tenancies, by s. 7 (1) of the Act of 1923;(z) nor may they eject the tenant and recover possession of the premises except upon the grounds mentioned in s. 5 (1) of the Act of 1920, as amended by s. 4 of the Act of 1923 and s. 1 of the Act of 1924.

Fetters affecting landlord's right to possession.

As regards the landlord's right to possession; the Act of 1920 imposes a restriction on the rights of landlords in addition to the ordinary limitations of those rights.

Thus a landlord cannot recover possession under the Act of 1920, s. 5 (1), until circumstances have arisen which would, independently of that section, have given rise to a right to possession on the part of the landlord. Even where such rights have arisen, the tenant is not deprived of any of the ordinary rights of lessees to relief against forfeiture.

Premiums prohibited.

The restriction on increases of rent cannot be evaded by requiring a premium to be paid as consideration for the grant, renewal or continuance of a tenancy: Act of 1920, s. 8. To charge a premium is made a criminal offence, punishable by a fine of £100: ib., sub-s. (2); nor can an excessive amount be charged for furniture or as key money, for the amount paid in respect of these articles in excess of their true value will be treated as a premium: Act of 1923, s. 9 (1).

Furniture; key money.

Act of 1923 does not apply to Ireland.

The Act of 1920 applies to Ireland, with modifications: s. 18; the Act of 1923 does not: Act of 1923, s. 20.(a)

Application of Acts to furnished houses.

Landlords of furnished houses are restrained from reserving a rent yielding more than twenty-five per cent. profit above the profit which might reasonably have been expected on a similar letting in the year ending on the 31st August, 1914: Act of 1920, s. 9.

Service of notice.

(z) It is a condition precedent to the recovery of any increase that a requisite notice of intention to increase, as required by the Act of 1920, s. 3 (1), should have been served.

Ireland.

(a) Similar Acts have been passed by the Oireachtas in 1923 and 1926. As to Northern Ireland see the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (Restrictions) Acts (Northern Ireland), 1923 and 1925, also the Expiring Laws Continuance Acts (Northern Ireland), 1923 and 1924.

Recovery of overpaid rent.

Where rent has been paid in excess of the amount permitted by the Act of 1920, the excess may be recovered by action or deducted from a subsequent payment of rent (Act of 1920, s. 14), and where the landlord is convicted of an offence under s. 10, the court may order him to refund the excess; if the latter course is adopted no other method of recovery can be resorted to: s. 10.

Result where a tenant of an unfurnished house lets it furnished.

Where a tenant of an unfurnished house lets it furnished to a sub-tenant the tenant loses the benefit of the application of these Acts to an unfurnished house; for, in regard to the application of these Acts to any tenancy, the nature of the tenancy is determined by the tenancy of the occupier: Prout v. Hunter [1924], 2 K. B. 736; 93 L. J. K. B. 993.

Statutory Tenancies.

Meaning of "statutory tenancy."

A tenant who, by virtue of the Rent Restrictions Acts, retains possession of the property after the determination of his tenancy, holds under a "statutory tenancy," the conditions of which are prescribed by the Act of 1920, s. 15, as amended by s. 9 (2) of the Act of 1923.

Terms upon which a statutory tenant is deemed to hold.

Old law.

Where a tenant holds over under a tenancy, not affected by the Rent Restrictions Acts, it is generally a question of fact as to what terms ought to be implied in the new tenancy: Wedd v. Porter [1916], 2 K. B. 91; 85 L. J. K. B. 1298. In the absence of any implication to the contrary the terms of the old tenancy, so far as they are applicable to a yearly tenancy, will continue.

New law.

Where a tenant holds over under the Rent Restrictions Acts the landlord, even after acceptance of rent, cannot be presumed to have assented to a new tenancy and no agreement to continue the new tenancy upon the terms of the old can be implied: Davies v. Bristow [1920], 3 K. B. 428; 90 L. J. K. B. 164. The Act, however, provides that the new tenancy shall be held upon the same terms as the old so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act of 1920: s. 15.

Interest of a statutory tenant and restriction on power to assign that interest.

A statutory tenancy confers only a personal interest on the tenant which is not assignable: Keeves v. Dean and Nunn v. Pellegrini [1924], 1 K. B. 685; 93 L. J. K. B. 203. It can only be determined by such notice as was required under the original contract of tenancy, or, where no notice was required, by three months' notice: Act of 1920, s. 15 (1).

A statutory tenant may not ask for or receive the payment of any sum or other consideration from any person, except his landlord, as a condition of giving possession of the premises. If he does so he will be liable to a fine and to repay the money received: Act of 1920, s. 15 (2).

Statutory tenant may not accept money, &c., in exchange for possession.

The amount which a statutory tenant can charge for furniture or other articles on giving up possession is limited to the true value of such articles: Act of 1923, s. 9 (2).

Restriction on power of statutory tenant to charge for furniture, &c., on giving up possession.

Though a statutory tenant cannot assign his interest, that interest has a pecuniary value to him, as he may bargain with his landlord as to the terms upon which he will give up possession of the property, hence this interest is "property" within the meaning of the Bkcy. Act, 1914, s. 167, and passes to his trustee in bankruptcy: Parkinson v. Noel [1923], 1 K. B. 117; 92 L. J. K. B. 361.

Effect of a statutory tenant's bankruptcy.

A statutory tenant is not entitled to relief against forfeiture under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 146: Brewer v. Jacobs [1923], 1 K. B. 528; 92 L. J. K. B. 359.

Relief against forfeiture not applicable to a statutory tenancy.

It is uncertain whether a statutory tenant can sub-let the whole or part of the property: Keeves v. Dean and Nunn v. Pellegrini, supra, at p. 693. It was suggested in Parkinson v. Noel, supra, that a tenant might validly sub-let part of the property. The better opinion would appear to be that, at any rate, he cannot sub-let the whole, and probably cannot sub-let any part.

Power of a statutory tenant to sub-lease.

In any tenancy to which the Act applies, including a statutory tenancy, a condition is implied under the Act of 1920, s. 16 (2), that the tenant shall afford to the landlord access to the demised property, and all reasonable facilities for executing such repairs as the landlord is entitled to execute.

Right of landlord to access to premises and facilities for executing repairs.

On the death of a statutory tenant his interest passes to his personal representatives: Mellows v. Low [1923], 1 K. B. 522; 92 L. J. K. B. 363; also Act of 1920, s. 12 (1) (f).

Devolution of the interest of a statutory tenant.

Where the tenant dies intestate his beneficial interest vests in his widow, or in such member of his family as may be agreed upon or decided by the county court until letters of administration are granted: Act of 1920, s. 12 (1) (g). Compare Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 46. Pending administration any legal interest vests in the probate judge: ib., s. 9.

Notices of Increase of Rent.

Conditions which must be complied with.

Notices of increase of rent must fulfil the following conditions:—

1. They can only be served after the tenancy could have been determined by a notice to quit or otherwise: Act of 1920, s. 3; see also Rent Restriction (Notices of Increase) Act, 1923, s. 1.

Terminable tenancy.

Form.

2. They must be in writing and in a form contained in the First Schedule to the Act of 1920 or in a form substantially to the same effect: Act of 1920, s. 3 (2), as amended by the Act of 1923, s. 6 (1).

Relevant facts.

3. They must state truly all the circumstances by which an increase of rent can be justified. Under the Act of 1923, s. 6 (1), the county court has a discretionary power to amend an inaccurate notice where it appears that the inaccuracy was due to a genuine mistake on the part of the landlord; where any untrue or misleading statement is made the landlord is liable to a fine of £10, unless he can prove that it was a genuine mistake: Act of 1920, s. 3.

Commencement of increase.

An increase of rent is not recoverable until four clear weeks after the service of a notice of increase, except where such increase is demanded on account of an increase in rates, in which case one week's notice is all that is required: Act of 1920, s. 3 (2).

SECT. IX.—Mines (Working Facilities and Support) Act, 1923.

The Mines (Working Facilities and Support) Act, 1923.

To enable mines to be worked more profitably, and to protect land from subsidence, where no rights of support have been reserved, the Mines (Working Facilities and Support) Act, 1923, Part I, enables rights of mining and support and rights ancillary thereto to be acquired compulsorily.

These rights may be acquired by a tenant for life or statutory owner, and if so acquired, form part of the settled land, and are subject to the settlement: ib., Pt. I, s. 12.

Railway Clauses Act.

Part II of that Act amends and replaces ss. 78 to 85, inclusive, of the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, respecting the conditions under which minerals under railways may be worked and what compensation is payable to the owners of those minerals, and neighbouring owners, in respect of any restriction on working minerals.

Protection of railway works.

For the protection of railways against subsidence certain dangerous areas are defined by s. 78 in which mining operations may be prohibited. By s. 85 any rights acquired, and the dangerous areas, may be varied by agreement between the interested parties.

Compromise of claims.

The S. L. Act, 1925, s. 58, confers on tenants for life certain powers to compromise claims and release restrictions; these powers include power to vary the rights mentioned above. By sub-s. (3) the rights under the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847, may also be varied. These powers are also exercisable by trustees for sale and by personal representatives : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28 ; Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39.

Act of 1925.

The Mines (Working Facilities and Support) Act, 1925, provides that where, under the Act of 1923, Pt. I, the Railway and Canal Commission have determined that a right should be granted subject to the payment of compensation or consideration, the Commission may order any sum so awarded by them or pending any award such sum as they deem fit, to be paid into court.

Subsidence.

Minerals.

Right to work.

A grant or exception of minerals carries with it the right to work them by all recognised methods, but does not entitle the mine owner to destroy or seriously injure or let down the surface unless such a power is reserved expressly or by necessary implication.

Right to let down surface, &c.

The right to let down the surface will be implied in any case where it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that subsidence would have been the natural and inevitable result of any known method of mining, or that this right may be implied from the terms of the grant.(b)

The court will rely on the evidence before it on each occasion ; there is not yet any satisfactory authority that subsidence inevitably results from mining, whatever system is used, though that appears to be the view of experts.

Duties on Minerals.

Mineral rights duty.

By the Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 20, " mineral rights duty," being a tax of one shilling in the pound on the rental value of the right to work minerals, or on wayleaves granted in respect of minerals, is imposed. This duty is still in force.

Taxable minerals.

As to what substances are taxable, see Woodfall, 21st ed., p. 734 ; common clay, brick clay, sand, chalk, limestone and gravel are not subject to the tax, while iron and other metals, coal, pumped brine, china clay and fireclay are.(c)

(b) Welldon v. Butterley Co. [1920], 1 Ch. 130 ; 88 L. J. Ch. 496 ; Consett Industrial, &c. v. Consett Iron Co. [1922], 2 Ch. 135 ; 91 L. J. Ch. 630 ; Davies v. Powell Duffryn, &c., Co., 91 L. J. Ch. 40, and the cases reviewed therein.

(c) A.-G. v. Salt Union [1917], 2 K. B. 488 ; 86 L. J. K. B. 1026 ; Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 20 (5).

Incidence of the tax.

The burden of mineral rights duty must be borne by the immediate lessor and not by the working lessee; any stipulation to the contrary is void: s. 20 (4). Where, however, the immediate lessor is himself a lessee of the right to work the minerals he may deduct the tax from his rent: s. 21.

Any lessor against whom the tax may be deducted and who refuses to allow deduction is liable to a fine of £50: s. 21 (3).

Excess mineral rights duty, imposed by the Fin. Act, 1915, was abolished by the Fin. Act, 1921.

SECT. X.—Places of Worship Enfranchisement Act, 1920.

Enfranchisement of leasehold land held for certain purposes.

Trustees of leasehold properties in England or Wales, held upon trust to be used as places of worship, and actually used as such, may, subject to the following restrictions, acquire the reversion notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary made after the 2nd December, 1920.

Restrictions on such enfranchisement.

The restrictions are as follows:—

(1) The trustees may not exercise the above rights—

- (a) in respect of more than two acres, or
- (b) where they propose to use the property for purposes of worship in contravention of any covenant contained in the lease, or
- (c) in respect of property which forms part of land of which both the leaseholds and freehold reversion are vested in any municipal, local, or rating authority, or which, under any Act or Order, has been acquired for any railway, dock, canal, or other navigation purpose.

(2) The Act does not apply to leases for less than twenty-one years.

Procedure for enfranchisement.

The procedure for enfranchisement is the same as if the trustees had been authorised to acquire the reversion by an Act or Order incorporating the Land Clauses Act, 1845, as modified by s. 2, and the First Sch. to the Act of 1920.

Enfranchisement subject to trusts and conditions.

The estate acquired by the enfranchisement will be subject to the same trusts and conditions affecting user and enjoyment as before, but covenants imposed solely for the benefit of the enfranchised property will continue in force only where the consideration for enfranchisement is paid in the form of a rentcharge and so long only as that rentcharge is payable.

Powers of the Charity Commissioners to

Where the former owner of the reversion proves to the Charity Commissioners that enfranchised premises are being used for a purpose contrary to the terms of the trust, they may order the trustees to sell the property or may prohibit such user by injunction ; for this purpose they may settle contracts.

enforce trusts.

The Charity Commissioners will not exercise these powers where it appears that the wrongful user was permitted by the trustees of the site by mistake, and will be discontinued.

SECT. XI.—Leases under powers or in Right of Estates.

Powers of leasing.

Before 1883 it was usual to confer express powers of leasing in realty settlements and Wills, and to confer less extensive powers where land was held on trust for sale. In recent years it has been the practice to confer the S. L. Act powers on trustees for sale by the trust instrument ; this is no longer necessary : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28.

These express powers were sometimes defective, and their terms were not always strictly complied with.

Confirmation of leases.

To meet these difficulties the Leases Acts, 1849 and 1850, were passed ; these are now reproduced by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 152 : 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 399–401 ; under which certain invalid leases may be construed as contracts to grant a lease with any necessary variations, while other leases are, in effect, confirmed by estoppel, or made to take effect under a power not referred to, if such a power was available. The section does not apply to land held on charitable, ecclesiastical or public trusts.

S. L. Act powers of leasing.

Charity land, &c.

Land held in trust for sale or by personal representatives.

The section will seldom be required, for, in view of the wide powers of leasing conferred by the S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 41–48, which, besides being exercisable by tenants for life (who will be the estate owners) and statutory owners, are also exercisable in regard to land held on charitable, ecclesiastical and public trusts : ib., s. 29 ; and by trustees for sale : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28 ; and personal representatives : Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39 ; the case where an appropriate power to lease is not available after 1925 will be difficult to find.

Powers of the court.

Moreover, these powers can be supplemented under orders of the court in any exceptional cases : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 64 ; T. Act, 1925, s. 57.

Powers of mortgagors and mortgagees.

The powers of mortgagors and mortgagees in possession to grant leases have been further extended by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 99.

Leases to be granted by estate owner.

After 1925 the main fact to be grasped is that leases, speaking broadly, must be granted by an estate owner (i.e., the legal owner of the fee simple or term, including a legal chargee in possession) in right of his estate or the estate which he is treated as holding. The powers of leasing given to persons in fiduciary positions above mentioned are designed primarily to bind the equitable interests, though, as regards the powers given to mortgagors in possession, they are required to bind legal and other mortgagees, and as regards the powers given to mortgagees in possession to bind the subsequent incumbrancers and the mortgagor.

Basis shifted from powers to estates.

Subject to this exception, a lease granted by an estate owner will, again speaking broadly, be valid at law in right of his legal estate, in place of taking effect out of the estate of some third party in exercise of a power, as was formerly the case where the term took effect by virtue of the Statute of Uses or of some statutory power.

Chargee by way of legal mortgage.

It may be suggested that a lease by a chargee by way of legal mortgage is also an exception. That is so, for he has no term, but he is treated as if he had a legal term and is included in the definition of "Estate Owner."

Express powers of leasing.

Settled land.

Additional powers, how they operate.

Again, having regard to the wide powers of leasing given by statute, it will seldom be necessary to give any express leasing powers. If any additional leasing powers are expressed to be given in relation to settled land to a third party (e.g., to trustees of a settlement instead of to the tenant for life or to the statutory owners) they will be exercisable by the tenant for life or statutory owners as if the powers had been conferred on them by the S. L. Act, 1925, see ss. 108–9.

Semble, if additional powers to grant leases in regard to land held on trust for sale were expressed to be given to persons, other than the trustees for sale, the same principle might be applied; at any rate the trustees for sale would give legal effect to the contract for the lease under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 3 (1) (ii).

What powers operate in equity.

Powers, however created and whenever created, not being powers vested in a legal mortgagee (including a chargee by way of legal mortgage: L. P. Act. 1925, s. 205) or in an estate owner in right of his estate or exercisable under a power of attorney (statutory or express) in his name or on his behalf, operate only in equity: ib., s. 1 (7), the Statute of Uses having been repealed: ib., 7th Sch., but subject to its past operation: ib., s. 1 (10).

Powers exercisable in the name of the estate owner.

A power for disposing of or creating a legal estate (including a term of years), given to a person who is not the estate owner, must, when practicable, be exercised in the name and on behalf of the estate owner: ib., s. 7 (4).

Saving of leasing powers, but to be exercised in name of estate owner.

Leases and tenancies at a rent for a term of years absolute authorised to be granted—

(a) by a mortgagor;
(b) by a mortgagee;
(c) by the Settled Land Act, 1925, whether or not extended by any instrument; may be granted, in the name and on behalf of the estate owner, by the person authorised to grant it, whether being an estate owner or not: ib., s. 8 (1).

A legal rentchargee can grant a legal term (ib., s. 121) for enforcing the rent: ib., s. 8 (2).

Mortgagors and mortgagees in possession.

Thus a mortgagor in possession (ib., s. 99) can grant a lease in his own name without mentioning the mortgagees; likewise a legal mortgagee who has appointed a receiver or is in possession (ib., s. 99 (2) (19)) can grant a lease in his own name, primâ facie it would, if he was a first mortgagee, take effect out of his legal mortgage term (if any) but would bind the mortgagor and other incumbrancers. On the other hand an equitable mortgagee by deed (not being an estate owner) should, when exercising the power, include, in the definition of "the lessor," the estate owner out of whose estate the term will be derived, and "when practicable" sign the name of such estate owner.

Equitable mortgagee.

A chargee by way of legal mortgage is an "estate owner": ib., s. 1 (2) (c), (4); and is in the same position as if he had a legal term; in practice, it will be convenient, where a mortgagee grants a lease, to have a wide definition of "the lessor."

Powers of attorney authorised by statute.

Good examples of powers of attorney, authorised by statute, under which leases can be granted, are given in: ib., s. 29, authorising trustees for sale to delegate their leasing powers to the tenant for life of the proceeds of sale, and s. 99 (19) authorising a mortgagee in possession to delegate his leasing powers to his receiver.

Terms to take effect within twenty-one years.

A term at a rent or in consideration of a fine must take effect within twenty-one years: ib., s. 149 (3).

SECT. XII.—Summary of statutory leasing powers and matters incidental thereto.

Wide application of S. L. Act powers.

The most important powers are those conferred by the S. L. Act, 1925, for, as mentioned above, these are not only exercisable by tenants for life and statutory owners (subject to the requisite vesting instrument having been executed) and by the managing trustees of charities, &c., in regard to land held on charitable, ecclesiastical and public trusts: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29, but also by trustees for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28, and by personal representatives: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39.

Summary of S. L. Act powers.

The main leasing powers (d) under S. L. Act, 1925, are as follows:—

Ordinary.

(1) For ordinary leases, fifty years (limit): ib., ss. 41 (iv); and 42 (applicable to all leases subject to express exceptions).

Building.

(2) For building, 999 years: ib., ss. 41 (i), 44, 117 (1) (i); for exceptional cases under an order: ib., ss. 46 and 64.

Mining.

(3) For mining, 100 years: ib., ss. 41 (ii), 45, 117 (1) (xv); for exceptional cases under an order: ib., ss. 46 and 64; as to capitalisation of part of rent: ib., s. 47.

Forestry.

(4) For forestry, 999 years: ib., ss. 41 (iii), 48, 117 (1) (x).

Renewals.

(5) Leases pursuant to covenant for renewal: ib., s. 43 (1). For restrictions, &c.: L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 7 (1) (effect of future contract for perpetual renewal); para. 7 (2) (avoidance of contract to renew for more than sixty years); para. 8 (1) (effect of express power to grant perpetually renewable leases); para. 8 (2) (effect of power to grant lease for lives, or for a term determinable on life or marriage).

Effect of power to grant perpetual lease or lease for lives, &c.

Confirmation of leases.

(6) For confirming a void or voidable lease: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 43 (ii); see also L. P. Act, 1925, s. 152.

Restrictions, reservations and stipulations.

(7) As to restrictions, reservations and stipulations generally: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 49. As to the form and effect of legal reservations: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 65.

Surface, or mines and minerals.

(8) As to leases of surface, or of mines and minerals separately: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 50.

Flats and separate floors, &c.

(9) As to leases of flats, or separate floors, &c.: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 117 (1) (ix). See also T. Act, 1925, s. 12 (2), as to construction of powers of disposition of land.

Options and boring agreements.

(10) Options to take leases and to bore for minerals may be granted, provided the option is to be exercised within ten years: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 51.

Leases on acceptance of surrender.

(11) Where a surrender is accepted the value of the lessee's interest in the surrendered lease may be taken into account: ib., s. 52 (5).

Water rights.

(12) A lease, for any term and without rent, of water rights may be granted to statutory bodies: ib., s. 54.

Charitable purposes.

(13) Leases for charitable purposes at less than the best rent may be granted: ib., s. 55.

Small dwellings, &c.

(14) Leases for small dwellings, &c., may be granted under ib., s. 56.

(d) For details, see 2 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed.

Waiver of covenants, &c.

(15) Covenants in leases may be waived or modified under ib., s. 57 (2).

Variation and licences.

(16) Leases may be varied and licences granted under ib., s. 59.

Apportionment.

(17) Rents and covenants may be apportioned : ib., s. 60.

Predecessor's contracts.

(18) A lease may be granted for giving effect to a predecessor's contract : ib., s. 64.

Leases under an order.

(19) With the leave of the court any lease or transaction relating to leases may be carried out : ib., s. 64.

Mansion house.

(20) The principal mansion house may be leased under ib., s. 65, in some cases the consent of the trustees or the leave of the court may be required : ib.

Leases to tenant for life.

(21) Leases may be granted to the tenant for life : ib., s. 68.

Leases without a fine.

(22) Leases without a fine, where the lessee is impeachable for waste, may, where the term does not exceed twenty-one years, be made without notice and though there are no S. L. Act trustees : ib., s. 42 (5). The tenant must be liable for fair "wear and tear" : Davis v. D. (1888), 38 Ch. D. 499.

Leases not under seal.

(23) Where the term does not exceed three years a tenancy may be created under hand only : ib., s. 42 (5) (ii). But such a lease has the same over-reaching effect as if it were made by deed : ib., s. 72 (4).

Protection of lessees.

(24) Lessees are protected by s. 110 ; if no capital money arises it is not material that there are no S. L. Act trustees : ib., s. 110 (4).

Breaches of covenant.

(25) Damages and compensation for breaches of covenant are to be dealt with under s. 80.

Contracts.

(26) A contract to grant a lease may be entered into : ib., s. 90 ; a preliminary contract to grant a lease or an option does not form part of the title : ib., s. 90 (4).

Minorities.

(27) During a minority, leases, &c., will be granted by the statutory owners or the personal representatives in whom the settled land is vested : ib., s. 26 ; see also s. 102. But if there is a co-tenant for life of full age, he will be the tenant for life for the purposes of the Act : ib., s. 19 (3).

Married women.

(28) A married woman tenant for life can grant a lease without joining her husband : ib., s. 25. As to her trust estates : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 170.

Lunatic or defective.

(29) The Committee or Receiver will grant leases in the name and on behalf of lunatic or defective tenant for life : S. L. Act 1925, ss. 28, 117 (1) (xiii). And see L. P. Act, 1925, s. 22.

Meaning of "tenant for life."

(30) "Tenant for life" includes the persons on whom the powers are conferred by S. L. Act, 1925, s. 20. This includes an absolute owner subject to a family charge; he can also grant a lease, subject to the charge under L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 1, but this would generally be an unjustifiable exercise of that power.

No tenant for life.

(31) Where there is no tenant for life (e.g., during a discretionary trust, or where there is a tenant having an unbarrable estate tail whose land was purchased with money provided by Parliament for public services) leases will be granted by the "statutory owners": S. L. Act, 1925, s. 23.

Tenant for life refusing to act.

(32) If a tenant for life, not having retained a substantial interest, refuses to act, the court can authorise the S. L. Act trustees to grant leases, &c., in his name: ib., s. 24.

Reversionary leases.

(33) A lease may be made to take effect in reversion expectant on an existing lease, but the latter must have not more than seven years to run: ib., s. 42 (1) (ii).

Acceptance of leases.

(34) A tenant for life may accept the grant of a lease: ib., s. 53; the lease becomes a subsidiary vesting deed and the requisite particulars must be endorsed: ib. Leasehold land, having sixty years to run may be purchased under: ib., s. 73 (1) (xi), (xii); or, where the reversion is settled, with the leave of the court, though there may be less than sixty years to run: ib., 73 (1) (xiv).

Acceptance of surrenders.

(35) A surrender of a lease may be accepted under: ib., s. 52. Where a new lease is granted at a higher rent the excess is applicable as income: Re Wix [1916], 1 Ch. 279; 85 L. J. Ch. 192.

Position where settled land is mortgaged.

(36) Where the settled land is mortgaged the powers of leasing and accepting surrenders, so far as necessary to bind the mortgagees, are only exercisable to the extent authorised by L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 99 and 100, or by the mortgage deed or other instrument in writing. The lease should not contain land not included in the mortgage: King v. Bird [1909], 1 K. B. 837; 78 L. J. K. B. 499.

The mortgagor in possession can sue on the lessee's covenants: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 98; Turner v. Walsh [1909], 2 K. B. 484; 78 L. J. K. B. 753.

Powers of attorney in realty settlement.

In realty settlements and Wills, it may be worth while to authorise a tenant for life to delegate his powers to sign tenancy agreements and to make arrangements with tenants where these matters are an everyday occurrence. The power conferred by T. Act, 1925, s. 25 (as amended), only applies where the tenant for life is abroad.

Housing Acts, &c.

Housing Acts, 1890 to 1923, Small Holdings Act, 1908, Land Settlement (Facilities) Act, 1919.

Under the Housing Acts, 1890 to 1923, the Small Holdings Act, 1908, Land Settlement Facilities Act, 1919, provision is made for the acquisition of land, compulsorily and by agreement, for the purpose of erecting houses and providing gardens and small holdings for the working classes.

By S. L. Act, 1925, s. 57, a tenant for life is authorised to grant two acres in any urban parish and ten acres in any rural parish at a nominal rent for the above purposes, all money other than rent received on the exercise of any powers conferred by this section must be treated as capital money: ib., sub-s. (3).

Notices.

A general notice of an intention to lease is sufficient: ib., s. 101; a person dealing in good faith is not concerned therewith: ib.

Convicts.

Convicts.

The Forfeiture Act, 1870, authorises a title to be made to a convict's land by his administrator thereunder; this remains in force, the convict's name will be used: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 7 (3), (4).

Trust estates.

The legal estate in the trust property of a convict does not vest in his administrator: T. Act, 1925, s. 65.

Land held on trust for sale.

Repeal of S. E. Act, 1877.

The S. E. Act, 1877, has been repealed (L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1924, 1st Sch.), for though, under s. 46, a tenant for life of the proceeds of land subject to a trust for sale (Re Laing (1866), 1 Eq. 416; 35 L. J. Ch. 282) could have granted certain leases, cf. Taylor v. T. (1876), 3 Ch. D. 145, these powers are no longer required. In such cases the S. L. Act leasing powers are given to the trustees for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28, and can be delegated to the tenant for life: ib., s. 29.

Leases of land held on trust for sale.

Directly land becomes subject to an immediate trust for sale it ceases to be "settled land": L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch., amending S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 1 and 3; and the powers are transferred from the tenant for life to the trustees for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28.

Order under S. L. Act, 1884, s. 7.

Where, however, an order has been made under S. L. Act, 1884, s. 7, before 1926, authorising the tenant for life of the proceeds to exercise the S. L. Act powers, he can still exercise the powers referred to in the order, but only in the names of the trustees for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 29 (4); Re Cecil's S. E. (1926), W. N. 138.

Extension of powers by by the court.

Additional leasing powers can be given to the trustees for sale by an order under T. Act, 1925, s. 57.

Lunatic trustee for sale.

A lunatic trustee for sale must be discharged from the trust before the leasing powers can be exercised: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 22 (2).

Leases by Personal Representatives.

Personal representatives have the same statutory powers as trustees for sale: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39, and see S. L. Act, 1925, s. 110.

Leases by sole representatives.

A sole personal representative acting as such can grant a lease: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 27 (2), as re-enacted with amendments by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, Sch., even if a fine is charged.

Acting as "statutory owners."

But if the representatives, by reason of being S. L. Act trustees, are acting as statutory owners: S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 26 and 23, then, if a fine is charged and the representative is not a trust corporation, a new or additional trustee must be appointed: ib., s. 30 (3).

Number.

As a general rule, during a minority or the subsistence of a life interest, there will either be two or more representatives or a trust corporation to act: Jud. Act, 1925, s. 160.

Old powers.

General and special representatives.

They have all the powers in relation to land which, under the old law, representatives had in regard to chattels real: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 1; general and special representatives act independently in regard to dispositions of land: ib., s. 24.

Charities and Corporations.

Leases by ecclesiastical persons and bodies.

Independently of S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29, the powers of ecclesiastical persons and bodies to grant leases are regulated by numerous Acts of Parliament. The general effect of those enactments was to prohibit leases for more than twenty-one years (or three lives under the old law) except as regards houses in towns, which might be demised for forty years. Incumbents had to obtain the confirmation of the patron and ordinary in order to bind their successors. Other restrictions were imposed by the Acts.(e) The remedial provisions in L. P. Act, 1925, s. 152, do not apply.

(e) See Phillimore's Ecclesiastical Law, 2nd ed.; Woodfall, 21st ed., 24, et seq., 87; Green v. Jenkins (1860), 1 D. F. & J. 454; 29 L. J. Ch. 505; Eccl. Commrs. v. Wodehouse [1895], 1 Ch. 552; 64 L. J. Ch. 329; Rickard v. Graham [1910], 1 Ch. 722; 79 L. J. Ch. 378. For leases by universities and colleges, see Universities and College Estates Act, 1925.

Universities and colleges.

Leases by borough, district and parish councils.

At common law a corporation was under no disability in respect of power to grant leases except such as was contained in its constitution: Smith v. Barrett (1664), 1 Sid. 161.

By the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, s. 108, as amended by the L. G. Act, 1888, s. 72, municipal corporations cannot grant leases for a longer term than seventy-five years in the case of a building lease, or thirty-one years without fine in the case of any other lease, without the consent of the Ministry of Health: M. of H. Act, 1919. Where before 1835 a corporation was under any liability to renew a lease such lease might be renewed without the consent of the Minister being obtained.

The Housing Acts, 1890 to 1919, enable local authorities and municipal corporations to grant leases, with the consent of the Minister, as sites for the houses for the working classes.

Before leasing for more than one year a parish council must in general obtain the consent of the Ministry of Health, or such consent or approval as is required under the Charitable Trusts Acts: L. G. Act, 1894, s. 8.(f)

Persons to grant leases.

General rule.

From the above summary it will be seen that, as a rule, the person to grant a lease will, after 1925, be some person who would make a title to the fee simple or term out of which the lease or tenancy is to be derived, and that person is the estate owner, or a person who, under an express or statutory power of attorney, has power to sign the name of the estate owner.

Leases by mortgagors, or mortgagees or their receivers.

To a limited extent, leases made by mortgagors and mortgagees while in possession or after the appointment of a receiver, may be treated as an exception.

These powers given by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 99, authorise a lease to be granted:—

Ordinary leases.

(1) For agricultural or ordinary purposes for twenty-one years (limit), or if the mortgage is made after 1925, or the section is otherwise made applicable, then for not more than fifty years.

Building leases.

(2) For building leases for a term not exceeding ninety-nine years, or if the mortgage is made after 1925, or the section is otherwise made applicable, then for 999 years. For the meaning of "building leases": ib., s. 205 (1) (iii).

Where minerals are not taken into account in ascertaining the value of the security, it is common, in mortgages to authorise the grant of any lease which could have been made under the S. L. Act, 1925.

Making of title on behalf of infants beneficially interested.

To avoid confusion it may be expedient here to summarise the different modes of granting a lease or making title, according to the circumstances of each case, where an infant is concerned.

Infant solely and beneficially entitled (settled land).

(1) Where an infant is solely and beneficially entitled to a legal estate or would have been tenant for life if of full age, title is made by personal representatives or statutory owners: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 26; see also L. P. Act, 1925, s. 19 (1).

Infant beneficially entitled with other infants (settled land).

(2) The same applies where the infant is entitled as above with other infants, until one of them attains full age: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 26.

Infant tenant for life with a person of full age (settled land).

(3) Where an infant is a tenant for life with one or more persons of full age, the person or persons of full age make title: ib., s. 19 (3).

Legal estate conveyed to infant and person of full age beneficially (trust for sale).

(4) Where a legal estate is expressed to be conveyed to an infant and one or more other persons beneficially, the persons of full age make title as trustees for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 19 (2).

Infant solely and beneficially entitled before 1926 (settled land).

(5) If an infant is solely and beneficially entitled to a legal estate or as tenant for life before 1926, the legal estate vests in the S. L. Act trustees, or, if none, in the Public Trustee, who make title: S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 3, unless the land was vested in a personal representative.

Infants beneficially entitled to legal estate before 1926 (settled land).

(6) If two or more infants are beneficially entitled to a legal estate before 1926, it vests in the S. L. Act trustees or the Public Trustee (till other trustees are appointed) under ib., and they make title, unless the legal estate was vested in a personal representative, who would retain it: ib. See also L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. III, para. 1.

Two or more infants, tenants for life before 1926 (settled land).

(7) The same applies where there are two or more infants who are tenants for life before 1926; the legal estate vests under S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 3.

Infant beneficially entitled before 1926 with person of full age (trust for sale).

(8) Where, before 1926, a legal estate was vested in an infant beneficially with one or more persons of full age, it vests in those of full age on trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. III, para. 2, and they make title, though power is given: ib., to appoint new trustees in place of the infant if there is only one trustee for sale.

Infant tenant for life with person of

(9) If, before 1926, an infant was tenant for life with one or more persons of full age the legal estate vests in those of full age: L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II, para. 5; S. L. Act, 1925, s. 19.

full age before 1926 (settled land).

(10) Where land is partitioned by trustees for sale, the part set aside for the infant remains subject to the trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28; similarly if land is appropriated under Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 41, for the benefit of an infant, it remains subject to the trust for sale.

Land partitioned or appropriated (trust for sale).

The general principle is fairly clear, thus, where there is a co-beneficiary of full age he will take the legal estate, either as tenant for life or on trust for sale (as the case requires); in other cases the land is treated as settled land, save where there is a subsisting trust for sale. In no case is the land taken from a personal representative.

General principle.

Where the legal estate vests in the Public Trustee under S. L. Act, 1925, 2nd Sch., para. 3, and he does not act, no trustees being appointed in his place, it re-vests in the infant when he attains full age: ib., para. 3 (1) (v).

Re-vesting in an infant.

SECT. XIII.—Other matters relating to leases.

A tenant cannot, during his possession of the property demised, dispute the title of the landlord under whom he entered.(g) This rule extends to an under-tenant.(h) But a tenant may show that the landlord's title has expired.(i) He may do that (among other ways) by showing an eviction either actual or constructive. Thus, if a tenant is evicted by a title paramount to the lessor's, he may plead such eviction; semble, it is not necessary that he should wait to be actually evicted, but if he attorns to a person who has a right to evict him, and has actually commenced proceedings for that purpose, that is equivalent to an eviction.(j) But a mere payment of rent to a party who threatens expulsion is not a constructive eviction.(k) An attornment, without the consent of the lessor, may be void: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 151 (2); this does not apply to an attornment made pursuant to an order or judgment, or to a former mortgagee where the right of redemption is barred, or to any other person rightfully deriving title under the lessor: ib.

Lessee estopped from disputing his landlord's title, but may show that it has expired.

Attornment.

(k) Delaney v. Fox (1857), 2 C. B. (N.S.) 768; 26 L. J. C. P. 248.

Though a tenant cannot dispute his lessor's title, a third party may. If, therefore, a person lets property to which he has no title, he cannot distrain, for arrears of rent, the goods belonging to a third person which happen to have been brought on to the premises by the tenant's licence: Tadman v. Henman [1893], 2 Q. B. 168.

Estoppel applicable to action for trespass.

The doctrine of estoppel is applicable to an action for trespass as well as for ejectment: Delaney v. Fox, 2 C.B. (N.S.) 768.

Tenant is bound not to confound boundaries.

A tenant is bound to keep, during his tenancy, and to leave at the end of it, his landlord's property not in any way confounded with his own: A.-G. v. Fullerton (1813), 2 V. & B. 264; and the court may at any time during the tenancy, as well as at the end of it, direct an inquiry to ascertain the boundary: Spike v. Harding (1878), 7 Ch. D. 871; 47 L. J. Ch. 323. The same rule formerly applied to a copyhold tenant: Searle v. Cooke (1890), 43 Ch. D. 519; 59 L. J. Ch. 259.

Boundary wall.

A demise of land surrounded by a boundary wall primâ facie includes both sides of that wall.(l)

Practice as to preparation of leases.

In the absence of special stipulation, it is the custom for the lessor's solicitor to prepare the lease at the expense of the lessee. A lessor who has paid his own solicitor for drawing the lease can recover the money from the lessee. But the lessee is not bound to pay for the counterpart.(m)

Stipulations on a sale of an interest in land preventing lessee from employing his own solicitor void.

A stipulation, on a sale of an interest in land, that the conveyance is to be prepared by the vendor's solicitor at the expense of the purchaser is void: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 48 (1). This applies if a sale is effected by demise or sub-demise; it does not prevent the vendor furnishing a form, from which the draft can be prepared, and charging a reasonable fee for the form, nor affect the right of a vendor, selling solely in consideration of a rentcharge, from stipulating that the draft is to be prepared by his solicitor at the purchaser's expense: ib. "Sale" includes an extinguishment of manorial incidents, but otherwise means a "sale properly so called": ib., s. 205 (1) (xxiv).

Preparation of assignments.

A provision in a lease reserving a right to the lessor or his solicitor to prepare an assignment at the purchaser's expense, or which restricts his right to have the assignment carried out by his solicitor, is void: ib., s. 48 (2). If a stipulation is thus rendered void a covenant to register assignments, &c., is implied : ib. Save where a sale is effected by demise or sub-demise, the section does not affect the law relating to the preparation of a lease or underlease : ib., s. 48 (3).

Lessee may retain lease after its termination.

The lessee is entitled to retain the lease after its expiration by lapse of time, or its determination by re-entry, or its surrender.(n)

SECT. XIV.—Stamps on leases and agreements for leases.

The Stamp Act, 1891, as amended by s. 75 of the Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, imposes (as to stamps on leases : Alpe, 18th ed.) the following duties on leases :—

(a) Of any furnished dwelling-house or apartments where the rent for such term exceeds £25 .	0	5	0
(b) Of any lands, tenements, or heritable subjects, except or otherwise than as aforesaid . .	The same duty as a lease for a year at the rent reserved for the definite term.

Leases at a premium under £500.

Where the consideration or part of the consideration for a lease consists of money, stock or security (other than rent) the amount or value of which does not exceed £500 and the instrument contains a statement certifying that the transaction does not form part of a larger transaction or of a series of transactions in respect of which the amount or value or the aggregate amount or value of the consideration (other than rent) exceeds £500, the double duties imposed by s. 75 of the Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, do not apply, but the exemption does not have effect where the rent exceeds £20 a year : Rev. Act, 1911, s. 15.

Ad valorem on rent.

Where the consideration, or any part of the consideration, is any rent :
In respect of such consideration :

The stamp on a counterpart of a lease is 5*s.*, or if the duty on the original lease is less than 5*s.*, the same as that on the original lease.

The expression "a lease of any other kind" is confined to leases of lands, tenements, and hereditaments.(o)

A lease for ninety-nine years if A., B. and C. or any of them should so long live, with a perpetual right of renewal, had to be stamped as a lease for a definite period of ninety-nine years.(p)

The Stamp Act, 1891, also contains the following provisions (q) relating to stamps on leases:—

Agreements for not more than thirty-five years to be charged as leases.

Section 75.—(1) An agreement for a lease or tack, or with respect to the letting of any lands, tenements, or heritable subjects for any term not exceeding thirty-five years, or for any indefinite term, is to be charged with the same duty as if it were an actual lease or tack made for the term and consideration mentioned in the agreement.

(2) A lease or tack made subsequently to and in conformity with such an agreement, duly stamped, is to be charged with the duty of sixpence only.

Leases, how to be charged in respect of produce, &c.

Section 76.—(1) Where the consideration, or any part of the consideration, for which a lease or tack is granted or agreed to be granted, consists of any produce or other goods, the value of the produce or goods is to be deemed a consideration in respect of which the lease or tack or agreement is chargeable with ad valorem duty.

(q) As the Fin. (1909-10) Act, 1910, only doubles the stamp duties chargeable under the heading "Lease or Tack" in the First Schedule to the Stamp Act, 1891, it is conceived that the duties expressly mentioned in these sections are not affected.

(2) Where it is stipulated that the value of the produce or goods is to amount at least to, or is not to exceed, a given sum, or where the lessee is specially charged with, or has the option of paying after, any permanent rate of conversion, the value of the produce or goods is, for the purpose of assessing the ad valorem duty, to be estimated at the given sum, or according to the permanent rate.

Statement as to value to be deemed true.

(3) A lease or tack, or agreement for a lease or tack, made either wholly or partially, for any such consideration, if it contains a statement of the value thereof, and is stamped in accordance with the statement, is, so far as regards the subject-matter of the statement, to be deemed duly stamped, unless or until it is otherwise shown that the statement is incorrect, and that the lease or tack or agreement is in fact not duly stamped.

No additional duty on account of penal rent.

Section 77.—(1) A lease or tack, or agreement for a lease or tack, or with respect to any letting, is not to be charged with any duty in respect of any penal rent, or increased rent in the nature of a penal rent, thereby reserved or agreed to be reserved or made payable, or by reason of being made in consideration of the surrender or abandonment of any existing lease, tack, or agreement, of or relating to the same subject-matter.

No additional duty on account of covenant to build.

(2) A lease made for any consideration in respect whereof it is chargeable with ad valorem duty, and in further consideration, either of a covenant by the lessee to make or of his having previously made, any substantial improvement of or addition to the property demised to him, or of any covenant relating to the matter of the lease, is not to be charged with any duty in respect of such further consideration.(r)

Duty on leases by ecclesiastical corporations.

(3) No lease for a life or lives not exceeding three, or for a term of years determinable with a life or lives not exceeding three, and no lease for a term absolute not exceeding twenty-one years, granted by an ecclesiastical corporation aggregate or sole, is to be charged with any higher duty than thirty-five shillings.

[(4) This sub-section has no application to land in England.]

(5) An instrument whereby the rent reserved by any other instrument chargeable with duty, and duly stamped as a lease or tack, is increased, is not to be charged with duty otherwise than as a lease or tack in consideration of the additional rent thereby made payable.

Duty in certain cases may be denoted by adhesive stamp.

Section 78.—(1) The duty upon an instrument chargeable with duty as a lease or tack of—

(a) any dwelling-house, or part of a dwelling-house, for a definite term not exceeding a year, at a rent not exceeding the rate of ten pounds per annum; or

(b) any furnished dwelling-house or apartments, for any definite term less than a year, and upon the duplicate or counterpart of any such instrument:

may be denoted by an adhesive stamp, which is to be cancelled by the person by whom the instrument is first executed.

Further consideration.

(r) See British Electric, &c., Co. v. I. R. Commrs. [1902], 1 K. B. 441; 71 L. J. K. B. 92. The Revenue Act, 1909, s. 8, provides that sub-s. (2) "shall not apply as respects any further consideration in the lease consisting of a covenant which, if it were contained in a separate deed, would be chargeable with ad valorem duty, and accordingly the lease shall in any such case be charged with duty in respect of any such further consideration under s. 4 of the Stamp Act, 1891."

Penalty in certain cases.

(2) Every person who executes or prepares or is employed in preparing any such instrument (except letters or correspondence) which is not, at or before the execution thereof, duly stamped, shall incur a fine of £5.

Penalty in other cases.

As regards leases not falling within the Stamp Act, 1891, s. 78, the lessee is liable to forfeit £10 if he does not stamp it properly within thirty days after its first execution, or, if executed abroad, thirty days after its first being received in the United Kingdom: Stamp Act, 1891, s. 15.

Abolition of land value duties.

Increment value duty, undeveloped land duty and reversion duty have been abolished by the Fin. Act, 1920, s. 57; this does not apply to mineral rights duty, which is still in force.

Definition of "Lessor."

(a) This definition is applicable whether the lessor is a freeholder or a leaseholder (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, Pt. 1) under which land, whether freehold or leasehold, passes to the personal representatives.

Two or more lessors.

If there are two or more lessors they would (unless the land is settled land or charity land) hold on trust for sale: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 36. This does not affect the beneficial interests in the proceeds of sale, or the rights of lessors as beneficial owners to grant any lease which the law permits.

Trustees for sale.

If they are not between them absolutely entitled to the proceeds of sale they can still, as trustees for sale, exercise the statutory powers conferred by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28. Thus, the fact that a trust for sale is imposed, does not lessen, but increases, their powers. There can be no tenants in common of land, but only of the proceeds of sale and of the rents and profits until sale.

includes the persons deriving title (b) under him), of the other part: WITNESSETH, and it is hereby declared, in consideration of the rent hereinafter reserved and of the covenants by the Tenant herein contained as follows:—

1. THE Lessor hereby demises (c) unto the Tenant:

ALL THAT, &c. (see Forms in Sect. II, Purchase Deeds, Vol. I, pp. 471 et seq.). In the case of registered land say "land comprised in the title above referred to" or describe the land and say "shown and edged —— on the plan hereto, being part of the land comprised in the title above referred to,"

TO HOLD unto the Tenant[s as joint tenants] for the term of —— years from the —— day of ——,

YIELDING AND PAYING therefor, during the said term, the yearly rent of £—— by four equal quarterly payments on the (d) 25th March, the 24th June, the 29th September, and the 25th December in every year, and so in proportion for any less period than a year clear of all deductions (except in respect of landlord's property tax [land tax] and tithe rentcharge), the first payment to be made on the —— day of —— next.(e)

Variations on demises to joint tenants.

(b) If the lease is granted to joint tenants, the definition will be :— (hereinafter called the Tenants, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons from time to time entitled to the term hereby granted).

Tenants in common.

It is useless to purport to grant a lease to persons as tenants in common or otherwise in shares; the effect would be to vest the term in them or in the four first-named, as trustees for sale on the statutory trusts: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 34 (2), 35 (as amended).

Number of trustees for sale.

Save for the purposes of charitable, ecclesiastical or public trusts, where a trust for sale of land is created after 1925, there cannot be more than four trustees: T. Act, 1925, s. 34 (2), hence, subject to the exceptions in ib., s. 34 (3), it is useless to purport to grant leases to more than four lessees, not being tenants for life acquiring the term as settled land under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 53, for unless the land is settled land or charity land it must be subject to a trust for sale if it is vested in joint tenants: L. P. Act, 1925, ss. 34 (2) and 36, though mortgage terms, subject to a right of redemption, are not held on trust for sale.

Construction of leases.

In a lease or tenancy agreement made after 1925, "month" means "calendar month," "person" includes a corporation, the singular includes the plural and vice versa, and the masculine includes the feminine, unless the context otherwise requires: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 61.

Implied covenant.

(c) The words "demise" and "let" imply a covenant for quiet enjoyment: Markham v. Paget [1908], 1 Ch. 697; 77 L. J. Ch. 451. The implied covenant does not apply after the lessor has parted with his interest: Baynes & Co. v. Lloyd [1895], 2 Q. B. 610; 64 L. J. Q. B. 787; or extend to acts of persons claiming under title paramount: Jones v. Lavington [1903], 1 K. B. 253; 72 L. J. K. B. 98; see also Norton on Deeds, 499 et seq.

Quarter days.

(d) The next quarter day occurring after the date of the lease should be put first.

Registered land.

(e) If the lessor's title is registered under the L. R. Act, 1925, the lease or underlease will be granted by the registered proprietor under ib., s. 18 (1) (e) or s. 21 (1) (d). If the term does not exceed twenty-one years, the lessee will not register his title thereto ; nor in that case need any notice be registered against the lessor's title, provided the lease is granted at a rent without taking a fine, but the lease will nevertheless take effect as a registered disposition : ib., ss. 19 (2), 22 (2). In other cases, however, the lessee should register his title and require a notice to be entered in the charges register against the title of the lessor. And see L. R. Rules, 1925, rr. 21, 44 to 47, 75, 91, 186 to 189, 200 to 211 ; Forms 2, 3, 59 in the Schedule thereto.

When the lessee need not register.

Form of lease of registered land.

No form of a lease is prescribed for registered land : L. R. R., 1925, r. 75. The lease, as also a grant in fee reserving a rentcharge, becomes the charter of the title after registration of the title to the lease or the land affected by the rentcharge. Hence, in both these cases the form (subject in the case of the reservation of a chief rent to certain exceptions) is the same as for unregistered land, provided that the parcels show that the land is included in the registered title. Even in the case of transfers of registered land the parties may be defined as " the vendor," &c., and the instrument can be framed in the third person. This is obviously desirable in the case of a lease.

Leases by registered chargees.

As to leases granted by the proprietor of a registered charge : L. R. Act, 1925, s. 34 (1).

Lease by mortgagor and mortgagee.

(f) This Form can be made use of where a mortgagor or mortgagee in possession, or after the appointment of a receiver, is exercising his statutory powers, and is signing the name of the other as being the estate owner out of whose interest the term is to take effect. This form is essential where (1) the mortgage was before 1882 and there is no agreement applying s. 99 of the L. P. Act, 1925, to a mortgage made before 1882 ; or (2) the mortgage contains a provision that s. 99 shall not apply ; or (3) the term to be granted is in excess of the periods authorised by s. 99 ; or (4) in the case of grants of mining leases which are not authorised at all by s. 99. Before 1911 there was no implied power for a mortgagor to accept a surrender of a lease for the purpose of granting a lease authorised by s. 99 : Robbins v. Whyte [1906], 1 K. B. 125 ; 75 L. J. K. B. 38 ; but he could sue on the covenants : Turner v. Walsh [1909], 2 K. B. 484 ; 78 L. J. K. B. 753 ; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 98. Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 100, where the mortgage deed is executed after 1911, a mortgagor or mortgagee in possession may accept surrenders of leases with a view only to the grant of an authorised lease. For a precedent of such a surrender, see Vol. I, pp. 515–17. The lease or leases granted in consideration of the surrenders must comprise the whole of the land surrendered, the term must not be less than the surrendered term and must take effect in possession within one month of the surrender, and the rent reserved must not be less than the rent reserved by the surrendered lease : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 100 (5). A mortgagor exercising the powers conferred by s. 99 must not include in the lease property which is not comprised in the security : King v. Bird [1909], 1 K. B. 837 ; 78 L. J. K. B. 499.

Surrender and lease under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 100.

Counterpart of lease granted by mortgagor.

Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 99 (11), the mortgagor must hand over a counterpart of any lease granted by him under the statutory power, or any extension thereof to the mortgagee, but an omission to do this does not invalidate the lease : Public Trustee v. Lawrence [1912], 1 Ch. 789 ; 81 L. J. Ch. 436.

Leases by mortgagee.

A mortgagee in possession, or after a receiver has been appointed, may grant the leases authorised by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 99 ; he may also delegate his powers to the receiver (ib., sub-s. (19)); but the lease must be granted in the name of the mortgagee or estate owner : s. 8.

Leases by tenant for life.

(h) In practice, leases by tenants for life are usually made without recitals and without reference to the S. L. Lease to wife or to self.

A tenant for life may grant a lease to his wife: Gilbey v. Rush [1906], 1 Ch. 11; 75 L. J. Ch. 32; provided that he complies with the requirements of the S. L. Act and acts in good faith: Duchess of Sutherland v. S. [1893], 3 Ch. 169; 62 L. J. Ch. 946; Re Cornwallis-West [1919], 88 L. J. K. B. 1237. The S. L. Act trustees (or such of them not being the tenant for life) can now enforce covenants by the tenant for life and grant a lease to the tenant for life, and for that purpose may sign his name: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 68, removing the difficulties in Boyce v. Edbrooke [1903], 1 Ch. 836; 72 L. J. Ch. 547. A person cannot covenant with himself: Ellis v. Kerr [1910], 1 Ch. 529; 79 L. J. Ch. 291; Napier v. Williams [1911], 1 Ch. 361; 80 L. J. Ch. 298; but covenants entered into with himself and others can be enforced by the others: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 82.

Infants.

Leases during a minority will be made by the statutory owners or by a co-tenant for life of full age, or by trustees for sale, see last chapter, "Making of title on behalf of infants."

Dowress.

A dowress will become a tenant for life, when her dower is assigned or allotted by metes and bounds, as respects the land allotted for that purpose, and the letters of administration or probate (in the case of partial intestacy) of her husband will be the "settlement": S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 1 (3), 19.

As a rule, the dower will not be assigned, but the land will be retained by the personal representatives, who would grant the lease.

Where an infant is entitled, subject to dower, the dower takes effect as a family charge: ib., s. 1 (3), and title would be made by the statutory owners: ib., s. 26.

Save where the husband was a lunatic on the 1st January, 1926: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 51 (2), dower cannot arise after 1925: ib., s. 45; L. P. Act, 1922, 12th Sch., para. (1) (d); see Wills Act, 1837, s. 3; Lacey v. Hill (1875), L. R. 19 Eq. 346; Re Thomas (1886), 34 Ch. D. 166, which appear to show that there can be no unbarrable dower.

Curtesy.

A tenant, by the curtesy, will be a tenant for life: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 20, and a vesting instrument will be made in his favour; though the husband cannot take by the curtesy after 1925 on an intestacy affecting the fee simple: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 45; L. P. Act, 1922, 12th Sch., para. (1) (d), he may still take in respect of an entailed interest: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 130, unless his wife (not having barred the entail) disposes of the property under ib., s. 176.

Infant contingently entitled.

No tenant for life; statutory owners act.

The case of an infant contingently entitled (compare Re Horne (1888), 39 Ch. D. 84; 57 L. J. Ch. 790; Re Sparrow's S. E. [1892], 1 Ch. 412; 61 L. J. Ch. 260, for the old law) now comes within the category of cases where there is no tenant for life; accordingly S. L. Act, 1925, s. 23, applies, and the statutory owners will make title.

Married women.

A woman, whenever married, will exercise her powers under the S. L. Act, without her husband: ib., s. 25; the vesting instrument will be made solely in her favour.

Capitalisation of royalties.

(i) As to the capitalisation of mining rents: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 47; see also called the Trustees, which expression, where the context admits, means the trustees from time to time of the settlement referred to in the subsisting vesting instrument affecting the premises hereby demised for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925, as appearing from endorsements on the said instrument or from deeds of declaration), of the 2nd part, and the X. Company Limited, whose registered office is at —— (hereinafter called the Company, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under them), of the 3rd part : WHEREAS :—

Principal or vesting instrument.

(1) Under a Vesting Deed [Assent] dated, &c., and made between, &c., the mines, minerals and other properties hereinafter mentioned (with other properties) are now vested in the Lessor in fee simple [for the residue of a term of —— years from —— created by a Mining Lease dated, &c.] Upon the trusts upon which the same ought to be held under the settlement [created by the Will of ——] therein mentioned or otherwise : And as appears from the said Vesting Deed [Assent] [and from endorsements thereon] the Trustees are the present trustees of the settlement for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925 : [Mention any additional powers which may be material for the purposes of the lease] :

Agreement to grant lease.

(2) The Lessor has agreed to grant such mining lease as is hereinafter contained :

NOW, in exercise of the powers for this purpose conferred by the Settled Land Act, 1925, and of all other powers and in consideration of the rents and royalties hereinafter reserved, and of the covenants herein contained, THIS DEED WITNESSETH, and it is hereby declared as follows : (Continue as in Precedents of mining leases, infra).

ss. 41, 42, 45 and 46. A term of 100 years may be granted. This form assumes that the settlement does not negative the obligations imposed by s. 47. It may be that the tenant for life, as reversioner, has power, in the first instance, to give a receipt for the rents and royalties, though he would have to account for part to the trustees, but it is now more usual to express the trustees to be parties ; it is not necessary that they should execute.

Protection of lessees.

Save to the extent prescribed by ib., s. 110, the lessees are not concerned with the settlement, nor with appointments of trustees thereof except so far as evidenced by endorsements on the vesting instrument and by deeds of declaration under ib., s. 35.

As to S. L. Act trustees granting a lease of the settled land to the tenant for life for his own purposes: ib., s. 69. This form is not applicable to that case.

Extent of order made before 1926, under S. L. Act, 1884, s. 7.

(k) This form only applies where the order is made before 1926, and so long as the order remains in force. Any powers given by the S. L. Acts, 1882 to 1890, which the tenant for life of the proceeds is authorised to exercise by the order may be exercised by him; the powers are not confined to those where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under him), of the 3rd part : WHEREAS :—

relating to leases and acceptance of surrenders : Re Cecil (1926), W. N. 138. But the leasing powers capable of being conferred by the order are not nearly so wide as those given to the trustees for sale by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28, which can be delegated by them under s. 29 to the tenant for life. The powers formerly exercisable under the Acts of 1882 to 1890 are now conferred by the S. L. Act, 1925 ; references in the order to the old powers are construed as referring to the corresponding enactment in the S. L. Act, 1925, see that Act, s. 119 (1) (c). Under L. P. Act, 1925, s. 8 (1), the statutory attorney cannot impose a personal liability on his principals (the trustees for sale) except that the usual qualified covenant for enjoyment may be given in their names. He will sign their names when executing the lease.

It should (unless it is to be handed over to the lessee) be filed at the Central Office, or if it affects registered land, at the Land Registry : ib. It need not be under seal : L. P. NOW, in exercise of the powers for this purpose conferred by the Law of Property Act, 1925, and of all other powers and in consideration of the rent hereinafter reserved and of the Tenant's covenants hereinafter contained, THIS DEED WITNESSETH, and it is hereby declared as follows :—

Where a husband is seised in right of his wife.(o)

[Heading as in Form No. 1 where the Lessor's title is registered.]

THIS LEASE [UNDERLEASE] made (date), BETWEEN A. B., of, &c., and C. B., his wife (hereinafter called the Lessors, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons from time to time entitled in reversion expectant on the term hereby granted), of the one part, and R. T., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Tenant, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under him), of the other part :

Separate property.

Legal estate got in.

(n) This date is inserted to show that the marriage took place after the commencement of the M. W. P. Act, 1882. If the lessor was married before 1883, but the property was acquired in 1883 or after, the reference to the date of the marriage should be omitted, and a statement can be substituted thus "being entitled to the premises hereby demised as her separate property." Such a statement is also available where the Act does not apply, but the property was limited to her for her separate use. Semble, any legal estate outstanding in a trustee for her would be got in by L. P. Act, 1925, 1st Sch., Pt. II.

Settled land.

Trust estates.

A married woman entitled to settled land grants a lease in the same way as a man: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 25 ; she is in the same position as a man in regard to trust estates : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 170.

Woman married and acquiring property before 1883.

(o) The husband and wife being married, and the property being acquired before 1883, there being no trust for her separate use, they are both seised in her right. There is no joint tenancy, hence there is no trust for sale ; though he has an equitable interest for the joint lives, this arises by operation of law, and there is no settlement ; there is no succession for both are seised ; he is not a tenant for the life of "another," hence the land is not "settled land" ; see note in Vol. I, p. 622. The lease need not be acknowledged : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 167.

Family charge.

It is assumed that there is no family charge affecting the land to bring the case within S. L. Act, 1925, s. 1 (1) (v) ; if there were the husband and wife could make title subject thereto under L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 1.

Leases under express powers in a deed or Will.

In the 21st ed., a form was given of a lease made under an express power contained in a deed or Will. Such powers will, after 1925, usually be exercisable by the tenant for life or statutory owners : S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 108 and 109 ; Re Cowley (1926), W. N. 202 ; or by trustees for sale : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28 (as amended). Effect will be given by the estate owner to the exercise of equitable powers so far as they are not transferred to him : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 16 ; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 3. The intending lessee will look to the estate owner to give legal effect to a contract for a lease made under an equitable power, the contract will not come on the title : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 45 (9).

Wills and trust instruments taking effect after 1925.

Any power of leasing conferred by a Will which is in excess of the statutory powers (an unlikely event) should be mentioned as an additional power in the vesting assent or assent on trust for sale ; the Will does not come on the title. Similarly, where the power is given by deed, the trust instrument conferring the power does not come on the title.

Powers given to charity trustees.

If an additional power is given to charity trustees by a Will, this will be mentioned in the assent : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 29 (1). If, however, the charity is not constituted by Will, the instrument creating the charitable trust does come on the title : ib., but in a lease it will not usually be necessary to refer to the instrument, see Form 13A.

Trustees of deeds of arrangement with creditors.

Trustees under a deed of arrangement with creditors usually hold on trust for sale, and as such trustees have the powers conferred by L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28. A sole trustee can act for this purpose or as a trustee in bankruptcy : L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 3. In the unusual case of the trustee not holding on trust for sale, the powers in the deed of arrangement would be material to show how far he, as estate owner, has power to make leases, &c., which will be valid against all persons affected.

ib., s. 152 (6). "Trustees for sale" means persons holding on trust for sale, not trustees with a power of sale: ib., s. 205 (1) (xxix). Additional powers are given to trustees for sale, though they may also be beneficial owners, in order that, when the beneficial interests in the proceeds of sale are varied, the trustees can carry out special transactions without obtaining an extension of their powers from the beneficiaries, or to prevent a transaction being held up if all the beneficiaries are not sui juris).

No. 11.

By personal representatives.

[The form is the same as Form No. 10. Notice of the lease or underlease must be endorsed on the probate or letters of administration: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 36. Personal representatives have the same powers as trustees for sale: ib., s. 39, for purposes of administration or during a minority, or the subsistence of a life interest, or until the period of distribution arrives: ib., as well as other powers: ib., s. 1. They may also act as statutory owners under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 26, and may become S. L. Act trustees under ib., s. 30 (3). If the term they create does not exceed three years they may create a tenancy in writing under hand only, containing an agreement by the lessee to pay the rent: ib., s. 42 (5) (ii).]

In every case the receiver or committee when creating or transferring a legal estate must use the name of the lunatic or defective: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 22; he will not sign his own name. As a rule, it is necessary to reserve a right to the lessor to build on adjoining land. No such reservation is implied: Cable v. Bryant [1908], 1 Ch. 259; 77 L. J. SECTION IV.

PRELIMINARY NOTE ON COVENANTS.

The general statute law relating to covenants, see 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 250–71, will be found together in ss. 76 to 84 of the Law of Property Act, 1925.

The following points should be borne in mind in relation to covenants in leases made after 1925:—

No statutory covenants.

(1) The statutory covenants for title and indemnity are not implied in a lease at a rent: ss. 76 (5), 77 (3).

Rights of covenantee.

(2) A covenant relating to the land of the covenantee is deemed to have been made with him and his successors in title and the persons deriving title under him or them: s. 78. This merely affects the form of the requisite covenant.

Obligations of covenantor.

(3) A covenant relating to land of a covenantor or capable of being bound by him is deemed to have been made on behalf of himself and his successors in title, &c.: s. 79. This again simplifies the form.

Things not in esse.

The section, however, applies to a covenant to do something, though the subject-matter is not in existence. This is new law.

Covenants running with the land.

The covenants bind the real and personal estate of the covenantor: s. 80. This is old law. And covenants running with the land are explained and moulded: ib.

Covenants with two or more.

(4) Covenants with two or more persons jointly enure for the benefit of the survivors: s. 81. This is old law. But they are also construed as also being made with each of them: ib. This will shorten the form.

With self and others.

(5) A covenant with self and others is now enforceable by the others: s. 82. This is retrospective.

Discharge or modification of restrictive covenants.

(6) Restrictive covenants can be modified or discharged under s. 84.

As regards leaseholds this only applies where a term of more than seventy years was created and then only after fifty years have expired; it does not apply to mining leases: s. 84 (12).

COVENANTS.

No. 21.

Covenant to pay rent, rates and taxes, &c.,

(1) To pay the rent hereby reserved at the times and in manner aforesaid:

(2) To pay and discharge (in addition to the rent) all rates, taxes, duties and assessments (x) (other than [land tax] tithe

---

"Assessments."

(x) This extends to increased assessments imposed after the date of the lease: Salaman v. Holford [1909], 2 Ch. 602; 79 L. J. Ch. 41. This liability may, if necessary, be restricted by the words in brackets. If the words in square brackets at the end of this clause are not used the tenant will be liable to pay for works done by or under the authority of the local authority under the Public Health Acts, e.g., in respect of a new drain where the existing one is defective: Farlow v. Stevenson [1900], 1 Ch. 128; 69 L. J. Ch. 106 (a case under the Metropolis Management Acts). Cf. Howe v. Botwood [1913], 2 K. B. 387; 82 L. J. K. B. 569; Henman v. Berliner [1918], 2 K. B. 236; 87 L. J. K. B. 984. As the lessee can protect himself against risk of this kind by examining the drains before he takes the lease, it is probable that the covenant is in this respect in accordance with the intention of the parties. But there are cases in which a lessee who has entered into this covenant may find himself involved in more serious liabilities. If, for instance, the house is in a district governed by the but not expenses of work done by local authority and payable by owner.

rentcharge and landlords property tax (y)), but including (except as expressly provided) all charges whatsoever, whether parliamentary, parochial, or of any other description, which now are or during the said term shall be imposed or charged on the premises [or the landlord or tenant in respect thereof] [but not expenses which the Lessor may become liable to pay for paving, sewering, sanitary or other works done by or under the order of the local authority under any statutory provision for that purpose and which would, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, be payable, as between the owner and the occupier, by the owner.]

Metropolis Management Acts or by some local Act containing similar provisions, and the adjoining street has not hitherto been sufficiently paved, the local authority may pave it throughout the whole breadth of the carriage-way and footpaths, and charge the expense to the owners of the premises abutting thereon. Again, if the house abuts on a private road, i.e., one not yet declared a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large, the local authority may, under a Private Street Works Act, 1892, sewer, pave, metal, flag, channel, and make good the same, and apportion the expense on the premises abutting thereon. In either of the above cases the proportion of expenses chargeable to the particular house would have to be borne by the lessee under the usual covenant, see Greaves v. Whitmarsh [1906], 2 K. B. 340; 75 L. J. K. B. 633, and cases there cited. This seems unreasonable where the lease does not exceed twenty-one years. It would be a more equitable arrangement that the lessee should pay interest only on the sum expended. An assessment paid by the lessor before the lease which the lessor continues to pay after the lease can be recovered by him from the lessee: Eastwood v. McNab [1914], 2 K. B. 361; 83 L. J. K. B. 941. If preferred the following clause may be used instead of that in square brackets:—" And except also that if any paving or other street works shall, during the said term, be done by the local authority in the said street or road called ——, the expense whereof shall, under any Act of Parliament authorising the same, be recoverable from the owners of the premises abutting on or adjoining the said street or road, then and in every such case the proportion of expenses payable in respect of the premises hereby demised shall be paid by the Lessor, and the Tenant will, during the remainder of the term, pay to the Lessor interest on the amount so paid by him at the rate of £— per cent. per annum from the time of the payment thereof, such interest to be payable on the quarter days aforesaid and to be considered as additional rent and recoverable accordingly."

Except also expenses incurred in street works, which are to be paid by lessor, and lessee to pay interest on amount so expended.

Income tax.

Deduction from rent.

(y) By the Income Tax Act, 1918, Sched. A, No. VIII, r. 1, a tenant who pays landlords property tax may deduct the amount of the tax from his next payment of rent, but if he omits to do so has no right to deduct it subsequently: Hill v. Kirshenstein [1920], 3 K. B. 556. The tax may be deducted from rent

No. 22.

Covenant to insure against fire.(z)

To insure and keep insured at all times during the said term all buildings and works now or at any time hereafter built on the demised land against loss or damage by fire [in the joint names of the Lessor and the Tenant] in the —— insurance office [or with the —— underwriters] or in [with] some other well-established office [or underwriters] as the Lessor shall approve in the sum of £—— at least [in a sum equal to the full value thereof] and to pay all premiums necessary for that purpose within seven days after the same shall become due and whenever required to produce to the Lessor the policy of such insurance and the receipt for the last premium for every such insurance and in case of damage or destruction by fire to forthwith lay out the insurance money in rebuilding or making good the damage :

PROVIDED as follows—

(i) If the said money shall be insufficient to repair or make good the whole loss or damage the Tenant shall expend any further money required in rebuilding and reinstating the buildings or works so destroyed or damaged in accordance with the original plans and elevations thereof, subject to such variations (if any) as may be agreed :

(ii) If any of the buildings and works shall not be kept insured as aforesaid the Lessor may insure the same and pay the premiums in arrear when it is paid : Re Sturmey Motors Ltd. [1913], 1 Ch. 16 ; Kirk v. Cunnington [1921], 3 K. B. 637. Where the annual value of the demised premises exceeds the rent reserved, the tenant can only deduct so much of the tax as is attributable to the rent reserved : Moore v. Drughorn [1922], 2 K. B. 492 ; 91 L. J. K. B. 796 ; aff. (1923), W. N. 305. The tax must be actually paid before it can be deducted : Barnes v. Kyffin (1916), W. N. 166 ; but no evidence of payment need be produced to the lessor : North London and Gen. Property Co. v. Moy [1918], 2 K. B. 439 ; 87 L. J. K. B. 986. A tenant who has paid tax in respect of a previous tenancy can deduct the amount of the tax from his rent : Inc. T. Act, 1918, Sch. A, No. VIII, r. 7 ; Re Hayman [1917], 1 Ch. 545. The right to deduct tax is not affected by the reduction of rent provided by the Licensing Consolidation Act, 1910, s. 21.

Inhabited house duty.

Inhabited house duty has been abolished : Fin. Act, 1924.

Tithe rentcharge does not include a tithe rate payable in the City of London, such a rate must be paid by the tenant : Re Salter and Awdry [1921], 2 Ch. 141 ; 90 L. J. Ch. 459.

Fire insurance.

(z) As to the construction of covenants to insure and as to the extent of the liability of the tenant to make good any deficiency out of his own money in the absence of express stipulation : Enlayde v. Roberts [1917], 1 Ch. 109 ; 86 L. J. Ch. 149 ; where a tenant is bound by contract to insure with a special company or a special class of company he is only bound to effect the usual policy issued by that company or class of company : Upjohn v. Hitchins [1918], 2 K. B. 48 ; 87 L. J. K. B. 1205.

No. 23.

Not to assign or sub-let.(a)

Not to assign or underlet or part with possession of the premises or any part thereof [nor remove the said furniture and effects and fixtures or any of them from the premises] without the written consent of the Lessor (previously obtained), but such consent shall not be unreasonably withheld.

No. 24.

To keep premises in repair and deliver up in repair.

At all times during the said term to keep the premises [all buildings to be erected on the demised land] (including all fixtures (b) and additions thereto) in good and substantial repair and condition and deliver up the same in such good and substantial repair and condition to the Lessor at the expiration or sooner determination of the said term.

No. 25.

Covenant by the Lessor for quiet enjoyment.

The Lessor hereby covenants with the Tenant that the Tenant paying the rent hereby reserved and observing and performing the covenants and conditions herein contained, and on the part of the Tenant to be observed and performed, shall and may peaceably and quietly possess and enjoy the premises hereby demised during the said term without any interruption from or by the Lessor (meaning the Lessor personally) (c) or any person rightfully claiming from or under him.

No. 26.

To execute sanitary works if required by local authority.

Consents to assignments, &c.

(a) The consent must be obtained in every case of actual assignment or sub-letting: Barrow v. Isaacs [1891], 1 Q. B. 417; 60 L. J. Q. B. 179; Eastern Telegraph Co. v. Dent [1899], 1 Q. B. 835; 68 L. J. Q. B. 564, but no fine can be exacted for the licence unless such a provision is specially made in the deed: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 144. Such a covenant runs with the land: Re Stephenson [1915], 1 Ch. 802; 84 L. J. Ch. 563. The covenant, however, does not apply where the assignment is only equitable: Gentle v. Faulkner [1900], 2 Q. B. 267; 69 L. J. Q. B. 777. If the words "or any part thereof" are omitted, an assignment of part of the premises will not be a breach of the covenant: Grove v. Portal [1902], 1 Ch. 727; 71 L. J. Ch. 299.

"or any part thereof."

An underlessee is not an "assign": South of England Dairies v. Baker [1906], 2 Ch. 631; 76 L. J. Ch. 78.

As to the position of an underlessee, whose lease was granted in breach of covenant, where the lessee surrenders, see Parker v. Jones [1910], 2 K. B. 32; 79 L. J. K. B. 921.

(b) See Leschalles v. Woolf [1908], 1 Ch. 641; 77 L. J. Ch. 345.

(c) A tenant for life, having regard to the definition "lessor," should not be made liable for the acts of a remainderman. After 1925, however, settled land will pass to the representatives of a tenant for life, he being a trustee thereof, and they will assent to its passing to the person next entitled.

nuisance, or for any other purpose under any statutory provision in that behalf.(d)

No. 27.

Not to interfere with air or light to adjoining premises.

NOT at any time to erect or put up any building or fence on the demised premises which will interfere with the free access of light and air to the windows of the adjoining premises.

No. 28.

To permit notice board to be affixed before end of term.

To permit the Lessor or his agent, at any time within three months before the expiration or sooner determination of the said term, to enter into and upon the premises for the purpose of affixing upon a suitable part thereof a notice board for letting or selling the same, and not to remove or interfere with such notice board, and to permit all persons, by order of the Lessor or his agent, to view the premises at all reasonable times of the day.

No. 29.

Covenant by Lessor to build garage and by Lessee to pay interest on outlay.

(i) THE Lessor hereby covenants with the Tenant forthwith to proceed to build, and before the —— day of —— next to complete, a garage and (or stables, coach-house and harness room or a conservatory or greenhouse, or as the case may be), in the situation and according to the plans which have been agreed to by the Lessor and Tenant and signed by them, with all proper fixtures and fittings thereto :

(ii) THE Tenant hereby covenants with the Lessor to pay to the Lessor as from the completion of the said buildings and works, and during the remainder of the said term, an additional rent equal to interest at the rate of £—— per cent. per annum on the amount which shall be expended by the Lessor in the erection of the said buildings and works, pursuant to the foregoing covenant, such additional rent to be paid on the quarter days aforesaid and to be recoverable in like manner as the rent hereinbefore reserved.

No. 30.

Covenant by surety for payment of rent and observance of Lessee's covenants.

INASMUCH as upon the treaty for this Lease it was agreed that the Surety should enter into the covenant[s] hereinafter contained : Now the Surety hereby covenants with the Lessor that the Tenant shall and will at all times during the continuance of this Lease pay the rent hereby reserved, and observe and perform the covenants herein contained and on the part of the Tenant to be observed and performed ; and that if the Tenant shall make default in payment of the said rent or any part thereof at the time hereby fixed for payment thereof, or in observing and performing the said covenants or any of them, then and in every such case the Surety, or his personal representatives, will pay the rent or observe and perform any covenant in respect whereof the Tenant shall be in default as aforesaid :

(d) See Monro v. Burghclere [1918], 1 K. B. 291 ; 89 L. J. K. B. 366.

PROVIDED that, notwithstanding the forbearance by the Lessor to enforce against the Tenant the payment of the said rent or the observance or performance of the Tenant's covenants, or the giving of any time by the Lessor to the Tenant in relation thereto, the Surety or his estate or effects shall not thereby be discharged from liability under the foregoing covenant.(e)

(Add next Form, if desired.)

No. 31.

Covenant by Surety in case of disclaimer by Lessee's trustee in bankruptcy to accept new lease on terms of old one.(f)

THE Surety hereby covenants with the Lessor that if the Tenant shall become bankrupt, and his trustee in bankruptcy shall disclaim this Lease, and if the Lessor shall within three months after such disclaimer, by notice in writing, require the Surety, or his personal representatives, to accept a lease of the premises for a term commensurate with the residue which, if there had been no disclaimer, would have remained of the term granted by this Lease, at the same rent and under the like covenants and conditions as are reserved by and contained in this Lease (the said new Lease and the rights and liabilities thereunder to take effect as from the date of the said disclaimer), then and in such case the Surety, or his personal representatives, shall accept such Lease accordingly and execute a counterpart thereof.

No. 32.

Option for Lessee on giving notice

(e) If it is intended to limit the amount of the guarantee, add :—

PROVIDED ALSO, that the total amount recoverable from the Surety, or his estate and effects, under the foregoing covenant shall not exceed the principal sum of £—— (or a yearly sum of £——).

Effect of disclaimer by trustee in bankruptcy.

(f) The previous covenant will have come to an end by the disclaimer of the lessee's trustee in bankruptcy: Stacey v. Hill [1901], 1 Q. B. 660; 70 L. J. K. B. 435. The further covenant will virtually continue the surety's liability, unless the lessor prefers to resume possession himself or to relet the property to another person.

Liability of original lessee.

A simpler mode of giving effect to the intention of the parties would be for the lessor to grant the lease in the first instance to the intended surety and for the latter to assign it to the intended lessee. By this means the surety, as the original lessee, would remain liable notwithstanding the disclaimer (Hill v. E. & W. I. Dock Co. (1884), 9 A. C. 448), and would be entitled to apply for an order vesting in him the bankrupt's interest.

Only where a perpetually renewable lease has been converted into a long term is the original lessee placed in the position of an assignee: L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 11.

In option to purchase, payment of money

(g) An estate contract can be registered in respect of the option under L. C. Act, 1925, s. 10, Class C. (iv). According to the Form here given, the giving of the notice by the lessee to the lessor will constitute the relation of to purchase reversion in fee simple, or superior leasehold interest.

Time for completion.

(1) THE purchase-money shall be paid and the purchase shall be completed on such one of the quarter days hereby fixed for payment of rent as shall happen next after the expiration of three months from the date of such notice, and if the said purchase shall not be completed on that day, the Purchaser shall pay to the Vendor interest on the said purchase-money at the rate of £— per cent. per annum, from that day up to the actual completion of the purchase :

Arrears of rent to be paid up to completion.

(2) THE Purchaser shall pay all arrears of rent up to the to Lessor sometimes made a condition precedent.

vendor and purchaser between them, so as to entitle each party to specific performance of the contract for sale. Sometimes the clause is so worded as to make the payment of the money a condition precedent to the right of purchase. Thus, in Lord Ranelagh v. Melton (1865), 2 Dr. & Sm. 278 ; 34 L. J. Ch. 227, the lease provided that if the lessee should desire to purchase the fee simple, and should give three months' notice of such desire, and at the expiration of such notice should pay the purchase-money, then the lessor would convey the property to the lessee, and it was held that the money must be paid on the precise day on which the notice expired, and that until the condition was thus performed the relation of vendor and purchaser did not arise on either side ; see also Weston v. Collins (1865), 34 L. J. Ch. 353.

Option to purchase (tenant holding over).

An option to purchase the reversion is not one of the terms of the tenancy which would be incorporated into a yearly tenancy created by the tenant holding over : Re Leeds & Batley Breweries [1920], 2 Ch. 548 ; 89 L. J. Ch. 645 ; and see Batchelor v. Murphy [1926], A. C. 63 ; 95 L. J. Ch. 89 ; and Sherwood v. Tucker [1924], 2 Ch. 440.

An unlimited option to purchase the reversion is void.

(h) An unlimited option to purchase the reversion on a lease is void for remoteness : Woodall v. Clifton [1905], 2 Ch. 257 ; 74 L. J. Ch. 555 ; Worthing Corpn. v. Heather [1906], 2 Ch. 532 ; 75 L. J. Ch. 761 ; see also 55 Sol. J. 360. The same rule applies in the case of an unlimited power to repurchase reserved to a vendor on a sale : L. & S. W. Ry. v. Gomm (1882), 20 Ch. D. 562 ; 51 L. J. Ch. 530 ; and see S. E. Ry. v. Associated Portland Cement Manufrs. [1910], 1 Ch. 12 ; 79 L. J. Ch. 150.

Options under S. L. Act.

As to options under the S. L. Act, 1925, see s. 51 (grant or acceptance of), s. 54 (in a lease acquired), s. 90 (contracts in regard to), s. 101 (notice of intention to grant).

" First refusal."

As to a contract giving the " first refusal " of a property, see Manchester S. C. Co. v. Manchester R. Co. [1901], 2 Ch. 37 ; 70 L. J. Ch. 468.

(i) It will often be convenient to place the conditions of sale in a schedule to the lease ; and see special and general conditions of sale in Vol. I.

day fixed for the completion of the purchase, including the quarter's rent due on that day:

Conveyance.

(3) UPON payment of the purchase-money and all arrears of rent at the time aforesaid, the Vendor and all other necessary parties (if any) shall execute a proper Conveyance [or assignment] of the premises to the Purchaser, such Conveyance [or assignment] to be prepared by and at the expense of the Purchaser:

Title, when to commence.

(4) THE Vendor shall, within one month from the date of such notice as aforesaid, deliver to the Purchaser or his solicitor an abstract of the Vendor's title to the premises, such title to commence with a Conveyance of Sale dated —— [or the said Head Lease, and shall be taken up again with an Assignment dated ——, and the intermediate title shall not be investigated or enquired into]:

Requisition to be sent within specified time.

(5) WITHIN fourteen days after the delivery of the abstract the Purchaser shall state in writing, and send to the Vendor's solicitors, all objections and requisitions (if any) in respect of the title, and all objections and requisitions not sent within that time shall be deemed to be waived, and if any objection or requisition shall be made and insisted on which the Vendor shall be unable or unwilling to remove or comply with, the Vendor may, by giving at least seven days' notice in writing, rescind the sale without payment of any compensation or costs whatsoever,(j) and thereupon the said option shall determine:

Devolution of purchase money.

Old law.

(j) Under the law in force before 1926, if the option to purchase was exercised by the lessee after the lessor's death, the purchase-money went to his (the lessor's) personal representative as part of his personal estate, and not to the heir or devisee of the real estate: Lawes v. Bennett (1785), 1 Cox, 167; Townley v. Bedwell (1808), 14 Ves. 591; Weeding v. Weeding (1861), 1 J. & H. 424; 30 L. J. Ch. 680; Re Isaacs [1894], 3 Ch. 506; 63 L. J. Ch. 815; but subject to evidence of a contrary intention. Thus, if the lessor by a Will or codicil made after the lease or on the same day specifically devised the property, this showed an intention to give to the devisee all the interest, whatever it might be, that the testator had in it: Emuss v. Smith (1848), 2 Dr. & Sm. 722; Re Pyle [1895], 1 Ch. 724; 64 L. J. Ch. 477: Re Marlay [1915], 2 Ch. 264; 84 L. J. Ch. 706; Re Bogg [1917], 2 Ch. 239; 86 L. J. Ch. 536; the material date of conversion was the date of notice of the exercise of the option: Re Blake [1917], 1 Ch. 18; 86 L. J. Ch. 160.

New law.

If the death intestate occurs after 1925 the real and personal estate devolve together: Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 46, but the point may still arise where the lessor makes a Will.

Option to purchase devolves with leasehold

The option to purchase is incident to the leasehold interest, and passes with it, so that if the lessee dies intestate it is exercisable by the administrator for the benefit of the statutory next-of-kin: Re Adams and the Kensington Vestry (1884), 27 Ch. D. 394; 54 L. J. Ch. 87.

(6) SUBJECT as aforesaid, the General Conditions of 1925 shall apply.(k) interest, but not to equitable assign.

The option does not pass to an equitable assign who has omitted to perfect his title by a legal assignment: Friary Holroyd, &c. v. Singleton [1899], 2 Ch. 261; 68 L. J. Ch. 622, where, however, the objection on that account was waived by the correspondence; see also Gentle v. Faulkner [1900], 2 Q. B. 267; 69 L. J. Q. B. 777.

LEASES (HOUSES).

No. I.

LEASE of a Dwelling-house for Twenty-one [Fourteen] Years, determinable on Notice at the end of Seven [or Fourteen] Years. Usual Covenants by Lessee, including covenants not to Assign or Underlet without consent of Lessor or use the House except as a Dwelling-house.(m) (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS LEASE [UNDERLEASE], made (date), Between A. B., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Lessor, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under him),

---

Use of the words "Lessor" and "Lessee" in the same deed.

(m) For variations of this Precedent to meet the cases where the lessor is not an absolute owner, or where the lessor's title is registered, or where special reservations or exceptions are required, see Forms, pp. 1014–28.

To avoid clerical errors the words "Lessor" and "Lessee" are not used in the same Precedent together.

Leases of registered land. Registration of title to leases. Effect of caution notice, &c., against lessor's title.

The registered proprietor has power to grant leases: L. R. Act, 1925, s. 18 (1) (e), and underleases: ib., s. 21 (1) (d), of registered land, but the lessee or underlessee will not register his title to the lease or underlease, unless the term created exceeds twenty-one years: ib., ss. 8, 19 (2), 22 (2); in other cases the title must be registered. But if the lease or underlease contains an absolute prohibition against dealings inter vivos, it is not registrable: ib., s. 8 (2). Only legal estates are registrable: ib., s. 2. In the Act "lease" includes an underlease or tenancy: ib., s. 3 (x). Applications for registration of title to leases are made under ib., s. 8. A lease at a rent without a fine, for a term not exceeding twenty-one years to take effect in possession or within one year, though a caution notice, &c., may be subsisting, may be granted by the proprietor, but will take effect, subject to the interest of the one part, and C. D., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Tenant, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under him), of the other part:

WITNESSETH, in consideration of the rent hereinafter reserved, and of the Tenant's covenants herein contained, and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Demise.

1. THE Lessor hereby demises unto the Tenant,

Parcels.

ALL THAT messuage, &c. (see Forms in Sect. II, Conveyances on Sale, Vol. I, pp. 471, et seq.).

TO HOLD unto the Tenant for the term of twenty-one [fourteen] years from the —— day of ——,

Reddendum.

YIELDING AND PAYING therefor during the said term the yearly rent of £——, by four equal quarterly payments, on the 25th March, the 24th June, the 29th September, and the 25th

---

Entry of lease as an incumbrance against the lessor's title. Leases take effect as registered dispositions. Adverse notices distinguished from registration of title. Deeds off the register discouraged. Variation of a lease. Adverse entries.

protected by the caution, &c.; ib., ss. 18 (3), 21 (3). No entry against the lessor's title is required where the lease, at a rent without a fine, does not grant a longer term than twenty-one years: ib., ss. 19 (2) (a), 22 (2) (a), but where not required to be registered or noted against the lessor's title, it nevertheless takes effect as a registered disposition on being granted: ib. Notices of a lease are entered against the lessor's title under ib., s. 48; this must be distinguished from registration of the lessee's title under s. 8. Deeds off the register will generally be useless where the proprietor can and does effect the transaction by a registered disposition: ib., s. 39. The determination or variation of a lease will be noted: ib., s. 46. The effect of a notice on the register is that a disposition will take effect, subject to the right protected, but only so far as it is valid, and is not overridden independently of the Act: ib., s. 52.

Effect of registration on legal estate. Over-riding interests. Leases not exceeding twenty-one years.

The effect of registration of title is to transfer the legal estate in question to the proprietor, subject to overriding interests: ib., s. 69. Every registered title is, subject to entries to the contrary on the register, deemed to be subject to the overriding interests, if any, affecting it as defined in s. 70. These include the rights of a person in actual occupation or in receipt of rents, save where enquiry is made of such person and his rights are not disclosed: ib., s. 70 (1) (g), and leases not exceeding twenty-one years granted at a rent without taking a fine: ib., s. 70 (1) (k). It is on this account that the titles to such leases are not registrable, and that no adverse entry in respect thereof is to be made against the lessor's title.

Leases under statutory powers.

Leases under statutory powers (e.g., by mortgagors and mortgagees in possession) may be granted in the name of the registered proprietor, without prejudice to the priority acquired by the exercise of the power: ib., s. 104.

Powers off the register.

Subject to the express exceptions, powers off the register will not be exercised where the transaction can be carried out by the proprietor under the powers conferred on him by the Act: ib., s. 109.

Compulsory orders. Forty years to run.

Though an order for compulsory registration of title does not apply to the grant or assignment of leaseholds unless the term has not less than forty years to run: ib., s. 123, this must be distinguished from the obligation to register the title to a lease granted for more than a twenty-one years term by a proprietor, for in this case the title to the land is already registered.

As to the effect of the L. R. Rules, 1925, in regard to leases, see note to Form No. 1, supra, pp. 1015–16.

To insure against fire. (d)

(3) That the Lessor will at all times during the said term keep the said messuage and buildings insured against loss or damage by fire in the sum of £—— at least, in conformity with the covenant for that purpose contained in the Head Lease; and will, whenever so required by the Tenant, produce to him the policy of such insurance and the receipt for the last premium, and will cause all money received in respect of such insurance to be forthwith laid out in reinstating the premises, And also will at all times at the request and cost of the Tenant produce to him the Head Lease.

Receiver.

(q) The owner of licensed premises has sufficient interest in the business to entitle him to the appointment of a receiver for the protection of the licences: Leney v. Callingham [1908], 1 K. B. 79; 77 L. J. K. B. 64.

To apply for new licences.

(2) That the Tenant and all other requisite parties will at all proper times during the term hereby granted apply for and endeavour to procure a renewal of or a new grant of the necessary licences for using and keeping the premises open as and for a public-house and tavern for the sale of beer, wine, and excisable liquors by retail:

To transfer licences at end of term.

(3) That the Tenant and all other requisite parties will at the expiration or sooner determination of the term hereby granted execute and do all necessary documents, acts and things for assigning and transferring the then existing licences of the premises to the persons appointed by the Lessors on payment only of a rateable proportion of the sum paid for the said licences:

[To insure licences.]

[(5) That the Tenant will (to the extent, if any, to which the loss may not be made good under the statutory provisions for compensation) insure and keep insured in the sum of £—— at least, all licences issued in respect of the premises, against loss occasioned by the withdrawal, non-renewal or forfeiture of the said licences, whether or not such loss is caused by the act or default of the Tenant, or by the non-renewal of the licence for redundancy, or from any other cause; such insurance to be effected in the joint names of the Lessors and Tenant in the —— insurance office or such other office as may be approved by the Lessors:

[To maintain policy.]

(6) That the Tenant will pay all premiums and other money necessary for maintaining the said policies within seven days after the same shall become due and will, whenever required, produce to the Lessors the policies of insurance and the receipts for the last premium:

Provided that if the said licences shall not be kept insured as aforesaid the Lessors may insure the same and pay the premiums, and the amount thereof shall be repaid by the Tenant, and in the meantime shall be a charge on the premises and be recoverable as rent in arrear:

Insurance of licences.

(t) Except in special cases, it is not necessary to insure licences, unless a covenant to insure a licence expressly covers non-renewal for redundancy, a lessee need not insure against this contingency: Wootton v. Lichfield Breweries [1916], 1 Ch. 44; 85 L. J. Ch. 94. The Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910, ss. 20 and 21, provide compensation for non-renewal of licences for redundancy, hence a covenant to insure against this contingency will not be required unless the loss occasioned thereby would exceed the amount recoverable under the statutory provisions.

Rights of lessee to compensation.

(u) Though, under the Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910, s. 20 (2), the tenant must take compensation at least on the footing of a tenancy from year to year, semble there is no objection to the lessors giving a receipt for the whole as agents.

documents, and give all consents and do all necessary acts and things whatsoever for assigning and transferring the licences to the nominees of the Lessors and for withdrawing the entry of the name of the Tenant from the books of the Excise in respect of the premises; And the production of this deed before any licensing authority shall be conclusive evidence as against the Tenant of his consent to any renewal, new grant or transfer being made, and of the right of the Lessors, as agents or otherwise, to receive any compensation payable to the Tenant.

Proviso for re-entry.

5. PROVIDED that if the yearly rent hereby reserved or any part thereof shall be in arrear for twenty-one days next after any of the days fixed for payment thereof (whether or not the same shall have been legally demanded), or if there shall be any breach of any of the covenants by the Tenant herein contained, or if the renewal of any licence of the premises shall be refused or prejudiced by reason of any act or default on the part of the Tenant or his manager or underlessee, or any person employed by him in conducting the said business, or if the Tenant shall become bankrupt or make any arrangement or composition with his creditors, then and in any of such cases the Lessors or any persons duly authorised by them may at any time thereafter into and upon the premises hereby demised or any part thereof in the name of the whole re-enter and the same have again, repossess and enjoy as in their former estate.

Variation where lease determinable by Tenant.

(v) If the lease is made for twenty-one or fourteen years determinable at the end of the seventh or fourteenth year, use clause 4 of Prec. I of this Section, p. 1048, and add the following provision:—

"PROVIDED that for the purposes of Part II of the 3rd Schedule to the Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910, the term hereby granted shall be deemed to be a term of twenty-one [fourteen] years notwithstanding the foregoing power to determine the same, but if the said term shall be determined by the Tenant at the expiration of the seventh [or fourteenth] year, as hereinbefore provided, the Lessor shall refund to the Tenant a sum of money equivalent to the difference between the amount actually deducted by the Tenant during such seven [or fourteen] years and the amount which he would have been entitled to deduct had such deduction been based in the first instance on a lease for seven [or fourteen] years, [as the case may be]."

(vii) To permit the Owner at any time during the last seven years of the said term to take a schedule of the landlord's fixtures.

[Strike clause.]

[PROVIDED that if the Builder shall be prevented by a strike, lock out or combination of workmen from completing the said buildings within the time aforesaid, then and in such case he shall be allowed a reasonable extension of such time, and if the parties hereto shall be unable to agree as to what is a reasonable extension, the same shall be referred to arbitration [a single arbitrator] under the Arbitration Act, 1889.]

Prudence of obtaining official certificate of search.

In the absence of stipulation, an intending lessee (exclusive of a sub-lessee) is not entitled to call for the lessor's title: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 44 (2), (4), (5); 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 201-203. When, therefore, he contemplates a large outlay, it will be prudent for him to stipulate for the production of some title on the lessor's part and to obtain an official certificate of search against the name of the lessor, &c., for though the doctrine of constructive notice under Patman v. Harland (1881), 17 Ch. D. 353; 50 L. J. Ch. 642, has been abolished, this would not: ib., s. 198, prevent his having notice of restrictive covenants made after 1925, and registered under L. C. Act, 1925, s. 10, Class D (ii).

Costs.

There is nothing in L. P. Act, 1925, s. 48, to prevent the lessor requiring the costs of the lease and counterpart to be borne by the lessee in the case

6. IN the meantime and until a lease [underlease] shall be granted, the Builder shall be deemed a tenant at will of the said land at the rent aforesaid, and subject to the same obligations as if the lease [underlease] had been actually granted. Position of intended Lessee until lease granted.

7. THE Builder shall not (except by way of mortgage) assign the benefit of this agreement without the consent in writing of the Owner. Not to assign without licence.

LEASE of an UNFINISHED House to a Builder or his Nominee. Covenant by Lessee to COMPLETE the House, and other USUAL Covenants.(c) (Legal Estate.)

THIS LEASE [UNDERLEASE], made, &c. (parties as in Form No. 1, p. 1014),

WITNESSETH, in consideration of the rent hereinafter reserved, and of the covenants by the Tenant herein contained, and it is hereby declared as follows :—

Demise.

1. The Lessor hereby demises unto the Tenant,

(b) If the lessor is to show his title, or the title has not already been investigated, the alternative clauses at the foot of the last Precedent should be introduced instead of clauses 7 and 8.

Variations for lease not by an absolute owner.

(c) If the lease is not made by an absolute owner one of the Forms in Sect. I, pp. 1014–26, suited to the case, should be adopted as a variation of the above Precedent. For Special Precedents of underleases see "Miscellaneous," pp. 1194–99 infra.

Compulsory areas.

If the property is in a district where registration is compulsory on sale under the L. R. Act, 1925, ss. 120 and 121, the lessee or his assign must procure himself to be registered as proprietor, within two months from the date of the lease or within an authorised extension, otherwise the lease will not create a legal term.

Registration of title to leases.

This provision must not be confused with the liability to register a lease (e.g., granted for more than twenty-one years), granted by the proprietor, of land the title to which is already registered, under ib., ss. 18 to 21 ; for these are "registered dispositions," and until the registration of the title to the lease is effected the lessor remains the proprietor unaffected by the lease. It is not sufficient merely to register the title to such a lease but notice thereof must be entered against the lessor's title under ib., s. 48.

As to the grant of the leases.

23. (1) If and when the respective buildings to be comprised in each lease [underlease] shall have been entirely finished in carcase and roofed in (with all proper gutters and stack pipes) and all drains and sewers finished and all staircases erected and completed, and a certificate to that effect signed by the Lessor's surveyor shall have been produced to the Lessor, the Lessor shall grant and the Tenants (or their nominees) shall accept a lease or leases thereof, and the Tenants shall execute a counterpart of every such lease:

of an interest in land. It is not a matter of making title, for purposes of convenience, by means of a demise or sub-demise. The essence of the transaction is to create the position of landlord and tenant. See also note to next Precedent, and L. P. Act, 1925, s. 205 (1) (xxiv).

(p) An auction makes the transaction look as if it were a sale. This, however, is not so; it is not a sale of any existing interest in land, but is merely a method of securing a lessee at the best rent that can be reasonably obtained. Nor is it a method of carrying out a sale of land by demise or sub-demise, to which resort is had when land comprised in a lease is to be sold in lots at apportioned rents, the purchaser of the last lot taking an assignment of the head term, subject to underleases for the whole term less one day, granted to the purchasers of the other lots. In such a case the object of the transaction is to obtain purchase-money, and is accordingly treated as a sale for the purposes of L. P. Act, 1925, s. 48. The case in the text does not come within that section, and see note to last Precedent.

Sale by sub-demise.

Sale by demise.

A sale by demise might be effected where land subject to a perpetual rent-charge is sold in lots, each completion (except the last) being carried out by a grant of a part of the land for a long term at an apportioned rent, the purchaser of the last lot taking a conveyance of all the land subject to the entire rent-charge, but with the benefit of the rents reserved by the sales by demise.

referred to, and shall at the same time pay to the auctioneers on behalf of the Lessor a sum by way of deposit equal to the amount of his bidding, which payment shall (subject to these conditions) be accepted by the Lessor in discharge of the rent for the second year of the said term.

References.

4. (1) WITHIN four days from the date of the auction the Tenant shall furnish the solicitors of the Lessor with the names and addresses of three persons to be referred to as to his capacity, financial or otherwise, to carry out his contract:

(2) If the Lessor shall, within fourteen days from the signing of the contract, decide, as the result of inquiry or otherwise, that the Tenant is ineligible as a tenant or contractor, the Lessor may by notice in writing signed by his solicitors annul this contract, in which case the Tenant shall be repaid the sum paid by him on the signing of the contract, but without interest, costs, damages or any other compensation whatsoever.

Lessor's title.

5. THE Tenant shall not require the production of or investigate or make any objection or requisition in respect of the title of the Lessor or of his power to grant the proposed Lease, but an epitome of the title will be furnished sufficient to enable the Tenant to obtain the requisite official certificate of search.

Identity.

6. THE property is believed and shall be taken to be correctly described as to dimensions, quantities, boundaries and otherwise, and will be demised subject to all rights of light and other easements affecting the same, and if any error, mis-statement or omission in the particulars or in the annexed plan as to dimensions or otherwise shall be discovered, it shall not annul the contract for letting, nor shall the rent be reduced or increased by reason thereof.

Possession.

7. (1) POSSESSION of the property shall be given on the —— day of ——:

(2) The property shall, as from the date of the contract, be at the risk of the Tenant, who shall, as from that day, pay the usual outgoings, and the same shall (if necessary) be apportioned:

(3) As from the last-mentioned day the Tenant shall become entitled for his own benefit to the materials of such of the buildings which may then be standing on the property as belong to the Lessor on payment to the Lessor of the sum hereinafter mentioned.

Erection of building, &c.

8. (1) THE Tenant shall at his own risk and cost with all reasonable speed after the —— day of —— pull down and remove the buildings and erections now standing upon the property, and shall pay to the Lessor on demand the sum of £—— for the old materials before such removal :

(2) The Tenant shall erect and build on the land in a substantial and workmanlike manner, with the best materials of their several kinds, and in conformity in every respect with plans, elevations and specifications to be approved by the surveyor of the Lessor, and under the inspection and to the satisfaction of such surveyor, one messuage of the first-rate class of building, with all proper and suitable outbuildings, offices, conveniences, and appurtenances :

(3) The Tenant shall expend in erecting such buildings not less than the sum of £——, the said messuage to be built and covered in on or before the —— day of ——, 19—, and to be carefully finished fit for habitation, and the other buildings to be completed fit for use on or before the —— day of ——, 19— :

(4) The Tenant shall not at any time during the term hereby agreed to be granted erect or build or permit to be erected or built upon any part of the property any messuage or building not in accordance with the plans and elevations previously approved and signed by the surveyor for the time being of the Lessor, nor make any alteration in the external elevation of the said buildings without the previous consent in writing of the Lessor or of his surveyor.

Clay, &c., not to be removed.

9. (1) No sand, earth, clay, loam or gravel dug out from the premises shall be sold or disposed of, nor shall any be removed except so far as may be necessary for the execution of the works :

(2) The Tenant shall not during the progress of the works or afterwards burn bricks or cement or create or allow any unnecessary nuisance on the land :

(3) The Lessor reserves the right to all antiquities and articles and objects of interest and value found under the surface of the land with power to remove the same and take possession thereof upon making such compensation for loss of time or other damage (if any) as the Lessor's surveyor shall award.

Shoring up, &c.

10. (1) The Tenant at his own cost shall shore up and support all buildings, walls, vaults, cellars, and other structures and matters whatsoever that may be likely to be endangered or disturbed by the works, and shall take all risk of damage of every description that may accrue to any person or property :

(2) The Tenant shall before commencing the said works erect before the whole front of the premises and maintain during the pulling down of the present buildings and erection of the proposed new buildings a good and substantial close hoarding, and shall construct and maintain a temporary footway with post and rail fencing for the protection of the public in accordance with the requirements of the local authority.

Indemnity as to personal injuries.

11. THE Tenant shall indemnify and save harmless the Lessor and the persons deriving title under him against any proceedings, damages, claims or expenses in respect of any injury (including personal injuries, whether caused by accident or otherwise) which may be done or alleged to be done by the Tenant or his agents, builders, contractors or workmen or other persons employed by him or them to any adjoining or neighbouring premises, or to the lights thereof, or to any persons in and about the erection of the new buildings or incident thereto.

Compliance with London Building Act, 1894.

12. (1) THE Tenant shall at his own expense in the execution of the works comply in all respects with the London Building Act, 1894, and all other statutory provisions and the bye-laws and regulations of all local or other authorities, and execute and do all works and things required by any such Acts, bye-laws or regulations:

(2) The Tenant shall take subject to all rights of light and air and other easements (if any) existing in respect of any portion of the land, and shall indemnify and save harmless the Lessor and the persons deriving title under him against all fees, charges, penalties, claims and expenses to be made or incurred, or which may be payable for obtaining the approval of any local or other authority to any of the works or matters aforesaid, and shall do all such work to the satisfaction of the surveyor of the Lessor.

Drainage.

13. THE Tenant shall form the drains to be used in connexion with the buildings to be erected as aforesaid and connect them with the nearest main sewer and pave the footways adjoining the said buildings and form the channels outside the same to the satisfaction in all respects of the Lessor and the local or other authorities or their respective surveyors, and for that purpose afford them every facility for the inspection of the works while in progress.

Insurance.

14. THE Tenant shall during the erection, &c. (continue as in clause 24 of Prec. IV of this section, p. 1077, supra).

Power for Lessor to enter and view.

15. (1) THE Lessor or his surveyor may at all reasonable times enter upon the premises and view the state and progress of the buildings and works and the materials used and intended for use therein:

(2) Any portion of any building which is not built in accordance with the approved plans and specifications shall be amended or rebuilt on notice in writing being given by the Lessor or his surveyor.

Grant of lease on completion of work.

16. As soon as the said buildings shall have been covered in, drained and completely finished ready for use or occupation in accordance with the provisions hereinbefore contained, and a certificate to that effect signed by the Lessor's surveyor shall have been produced to the Lessor, the Lessor shall grant to the Tenant or his nominee (provided such nominee is approved by the Lessor) a lease of such buildings and the said land for the term and at the rents hereinbefore mentioned or referred to.

Form of lease.

17. THE Lease to be granted in accordance with these conditions shall be in the form of and contain the reservations, covenants and provisions contained in the form of lease, a print of which will be produced in the auction room at the time of the auction, and may be inspected at any time during business hours within fourteen days next preceding the day of the auction at the office, No. —, —— Street, of Messrs. ——, the solicitors of the Lessor.

Counterpart to be executed, &c.

18. (1) THE Tenant shall accept a lease of the property and the buildings to be erected thereon if and when the Lessor's surveyor shall have certified the completion of the said buildings in accordance with these conditions, and shall on accepting the Lease execute a counterpart thereof :

(2) Upon the grant of the said Lease the Tenant shall apply for registration with a good leasehold title under the Land Registration Act, 1925, and in default the Lessor may in the name and at the cost of the Tenant make the requisite application, and take all necessary steps to obtain registration of the title.

Preparation of lease, &c., and costs.

19. (1) THE Lease and counterpart shall be prepared by the solicitors of the Lessor, and the Tenant shall pay the cost thereof according to scale, and also the cost of registering the title under the Land Registration Act, 1925, in addition to the stamp duties and other disbursements:

(2) The Tenant shall also pay the fees of the surveyors for approving the plans and specifications and for service in the interest of the Lessor and for certifying the completion of the buildings, such fees being agreed at £1 per cent. on the amount expended on the buildings :

(3) The Tenant shall also before the grant of the Lease pay the fees of the district surveyor and any other fees imposed by the proper authority in connexion with the said buildings and works.

Position as between the parties until lease granted.

20. (1) UNTIL such Lease shall be granted, the Tenant shall as from the —— day of —— (the commencement of the term) pay to the Lessor the rent to be reserved by the Lease, and shall also as from the —— day of —— (the day on which possession is to be given) pay the sewer and main drainage rates, local and all other taxes, rates, charges, duties, impositions, assessments and outgoings whatsoever, whether parliamentary, parochial, municipal or otherwise, which now are or at any time after the last-mentioned day shall be taxed, charged or imposed on the land, buildings and premises, or the owners or occupiers in respect thereof, and shall perform all the covenants and agreements on his part agreed to be contained in the Lease so far as the same shall be applicable, and as if the Lease had been actually granted :

(2) The Lessor shall have and be entitled to all such remedies by distress, action or otherwise for recovering rent in arrear and for breach of any of the covenants or agreements on the part of the Tenant as if the Lease had been actually granted :

(3) If the building operations shall be wholly suspended for the period of one month, or if the Tenant shall make default in erecting, covering in, draining and completing the said buildings within the time and in manner aforesaid, or if the Tenant shall neglect or refuse to accept a Lease of the property and to execute a counterpart thereof, or to pay the costs, fees and expenses of the Lessor and his surveyor and of the district surveyor in respect of such Lease and the buildings therein comprised in accordance with these conditions within one month after being requested so to do by or on behalf of the Lessor (in all of which respects time shall be of the essence of the contract), or shall commit any other breach of these conditions, and shall not remedy the same immediately upon receiving notice in writing so to do, then and in any such case ;

(i) The sum paid by the Tenant by way of deposit as aforesaid shall be absolutely forfeited to the Lessor ;

(ii) The Lessor may resume and take possession of the land described in the particulars, and all buildings, erections, materials, and plant thereon, without making any compensation or allowance to the Tenant in respect thereof ;

(iii) The annexed contract shall as to the premises so resumed or taken thereupon absolutely cease, and the Lessor shall be at liberty to deal with the same as if the said contract had never been made;

(iv) The said right of re-entry shall be a cumulative remedy, and shall not prejudice the right of the Lessor to recover any arrears of rent or other money due to him from the Tenant in respect of any breach by him of these conditions.

Tenant not to assign, &c., until lease granted.

21. THE Tenant shall not before the actual grant of the Lease assign, sub-let, or part with the property hereby agreed to be demised or any part thereof, or the benefit of the annexed contract or these conditions, or any part thereof, without the previous consent in writing of the Lessor.

Agreement not to operate as a demise.(q)

22. THIS agreement shall not operate as an actual or present demise, or create any leasehold interest in or tenancy of the premises or any part thereof, and shall not give the Tenant any legal interest in any part of the premises until the Lease shall be actually granted, but shall confer on the Tenant only a right to enter upon the premises for the purposes of carrying out these conditions:

Provided that any rents or yearly sums to be paid by the Tenant to the Lessor under these conditions which shall be in arrear shall be recoverable by the Lessor as rent in arrear and as if the Lease had been actually granted.

General Conditions of 1925.

23. IN regard to any matter not expressly provided for by these conditions, the General Conditions of 1925 shall apply.

with the custom of the district, so far as the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 30, will allow. In view of this section, it is desirable that the tenancy should be for more than one year. Where the land let is arable, the section does not apply to grassland, or to market gardens: Taylor v. Steel-Maitland [1913], S. C. 562; hence, freedom of cropping may be restricted in these cases in a lease for a longer term than one year. Many of the clauses in this Precedent may be omitted according to the circumstances of each case. See also forms of leases, p. 1014, et seq., for variations, where the lessor is not the owner of the fee simple. In the case of registered land the proprietor will be the landlord, and the heading will be added in accordance with the above forms. The general rule is that the estate owner must grant every lease or tenancy, and see last chapter. Variations. Registered land.

Act, 1923, s. 29, except in respect of any provision in the contract relating to the breaking up of permanent pasture, the grubbing of underwood, the felling, cutting, lopping or injuring of trees, or the burning of heather.

Notice to quit.

(x) By the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 25, notwithstanding any contrary stipulation, a notice to quit purporting to determine a lease before the expiration of twelve months from the end of the then current year of tenancy, is void. But there are certain exceptions to this rule: ib. This section does not apply where the tenancy may be determined, by re-entry, without previous notice, but does apply to a notice given pursuant to an option for either party to determine the tenancy at an intermediate period: Edell v. Dulieu [1924], A. C. 38; 93 L. J. K. B. 286. Tenancies determinable by death require the same notice as other tenancies: s. 24, as regards tenancies of two years and more, see s. 23.

By s. 26 power to give notices to quit to yearly tenants upon the sale of the holding is restricted: Spencer's Agr. H. Acts, 7th ed., 83. As to serving notices: s. 53; Van Grutten v. Trevenen [1902], 2 K. B. 82; 71 L. J. K. B. 544.

Springs.

(iii) All springs, wells, ponds, streams and watercourses, with all fish therein, with power for the Landlord and any persons authorised by him to take and carry away water therefrom by means of pipes or otherwise (provided that sufficient water be left for the Tenant for domestic and agricultural purposes) and to fish in the said waters;

Game, &c.

(v) All game, including nests and eggs of the same, and (subject to the provisions of the Ground Game Act, 1880, and the Ground Game (Amendment) Act, 1906) all hares, rabbits, foxes, wild-fowl and fish [woodcock, snipe and landrail (y)], with the exclusive right, subject as aforesaid, for the Landlord

"Game."

(y) Woodcock, snipe, quail and landrail are not "game" within the Game Act, 1831, s. 2, but are within the Game Licences Act, 1860, s. 4. See also definition of "game" in Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 11 (5); note to clause 4 of this Precedent.

Damage by game.

By the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 11, a tenant may claim compensation for damage done to his crops by game, the right to kill which is vested in another person, provided that damage exceeding one shilling per acre was done by game as defined in this section, that no avoidable delay occurred before the landlord was given notice of the damage, and that reasonable opportunity was afforded the landlord of inspecting the damage, in the case of a growing crop before it was reaped, raised or consumed, and in the case of a reaped or raised crop, before it was removed from the land. Notice in writing of the claim with particulars must also be given within one month after the expiration of the calendar year, or such other period of twelve months as may be substituted by agreement. The amount of compensation under this section will be fixed by agreement or arbitration. Where the landlord can prove that under a contract of tenancy made before 1909 any compensation for damage by game is payable by him, or that in fixing the rent to be paid under such contract allowance was made for such damage to an agreed amount, such amount will be deducted from the award made by the arbitrator. Where the right to kill game is vested in another person, e.g., a shooting tenant, the landlord is entitled to be indemnified by that person for any compensation payable under this section. Under this section a landlord is liable for damage done by the game of a neighbouring owner: Thomson v. Galloway (1919), 56 Sc. L. R. 448; a case on the Scottish Act. A form of notice is given, infra.

Rights of way of other tenants.

(vi) All rights of way (if any) hitherto used or enjoyed across any part of the Farm by the Landlord or his tenants in respect of other property of the Landlord;

Resumption of possession.

(vii) Power to take any portion of the Farm (except the house, buildings, and garden) for building or any other purpose not provided for by section twenty-seven of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923, on giving to the Tenant at least fourteen days' notice in writing, and allowing to the Tenant fair and reasonable compensation. either by the substitution of other land or by allowing a proportionate reduction in rent, and also making compensation for every crop or preparation for a crop on the land of which the Landlord resumes possession: Provided that such notice shall not terminate or entitle the Tenant to terminate the tenancy hereby created except in regard to the land so taken;(z)

Power to inspect.

Partial notice to quit.

(z) Apart from contract, the Agr. H. Act. 1923, s. 27, enables the tenant to treat the notice as a notice to quit the entire holding. Compensation is payable as if the part of the holding resumed was a separate holding: s. 27. Agreements by the Tenant :—

5. The Tenant for himself and his assigns hereby agrees with the Landlord as follows :—

To pay rent.

(1) To pay the before-mentioned certain and additional rents at the times and in manner aforesaid :

Rates and taxes.

(2) To pay all rates, taxes, assessments, impositions and other outgoings for the time being charged or imposed upon the Farm or upon the owner or occupier in respect thereof [land-tax], landlord's property tax and tithe rentcharge (if any) only excepted :

(3) To pay to the Landlord on entry or on demand a sum equal to the amount that the Landlord shall have paid or shall be or become liable to pay as compensation to the outgoing Tenant or last occupier of the Farm, either under his tenancy agreement or by virtue of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923, or by custom, or otherwise, together with all costs in respect of any valuation or arbitration in connexion therewith :

Compensation for damage by "game."

(c) See Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 11 (2). No agreement entered into after 1908, providing that a sum shall be allowed off the rent in respect of this damage, will be effective to prevent a claim under this Act. The tenant cannot contract himself out of his right to compensation.

By s. 11 (5) "game" is defined for the purposes of that section to be "deer, pheasants, partridges, grouse and black game."

Additional rents.(d)

(4) To pay the following additional rents and liquidated damages (namely)—

Breaking up pasture.

(A) £—— per annum for every acre, and so in proportion for any less quantity than an acre of land described as pasture or meadow in the Schedule hereto that shall be broken up (e) or converted into tillage by the Tenant without the previous written consent of the Landlord or his agent ;

Cutting down trees, &c.

(B) £—— (by way of liquidated damages) for every tree or sapling on the Farm which the Tenant shall cut down or injure without such consent as aforesaid, such last-mentioned sum to be payable on such half-yearly [quarter] day as aforesaid as shall first happen after the happening of the event on which the same is made payable, but not so as to continue as a periodical payment :(f)

Repairs of buildings, &c.

(5) To keep and leave the messuages, cottages, buildings, fixtures, trees, gates and premises in good tenantable repair (damage by tempest or by fire not caused by the misconduct of the Tenant, his servants or agents, excepted), and once in every fourth year of the tenancy to paint with at least two coats of oil paint of the best quality all the outside woodwork and ironwork usually painted, including gates and fences previously painted, and tar all such parts as have been formerly tarred :(g)

Roads, fences, drains, &c.

(6) To keep all roads, fences, bridges, drains, ponds, drinking places and watercourses on the Farm in a good and proper state of repair, and to cut, cleanse, scour and keep at a sufficient width and depth all ditches, drains and watercourses, and to keep in repair and cleanse the mouth of all outfalls and under-drains, including all eaves, gutters and stack pipes of all buildings :(g)

Thatching and carriage of timber.

(7) To provide and carry without charge wheat straw for Limitation of landlord's right to damages.

(d) With regard to additional rents or other liquidated damages, under s. 30 of the Agr. H. Act, 1923 (notwithstanding any contract), the landlord is not entitled to recover any sum in excess of the damage actually suffered, but the section does not apply to any condition against breaking up of permanent pasture, grubbing of underwoods, or felling, cutting, lopping or injuring of trees or burning of heather. Hence in cases, other than those mentioned, the reservation of penal rents will be useless.

(e) See Rush v. Lucas [1910], 1 Ch. 437 ; 79 L. J. Ch. 172 ; cf. Clarke-Jervoise v. Scutt [1920], 1 Ch. 382 ; 89 L. J. Ch. 218.

Grass lands not within s. 30.

(f) The provisions of s. 30 of the Agr. H. Act, 1923, do not apply to grass lands which are to be retained in the same condition throughout the tenancy : sub-s. 4. The exception would, it is conceived, cease to apply where grass land has been broken up with consent.

Repairs to buildings, &c.

Alteration of buildings.

(8) Not to alter any existing nor erect any new buildings on the Farm without the previous consent in writing of the Landlord or his agent :

Hedges.

(10) To keep all hedges properly slashed, laid and trimmed in a workmanlike manner according to the best practice known in the district, and to use no wire or dead thorns for repairing any quick hedges [and to use no barbed wire whatever on the Farm between the 15th of October and the 15th of March in any year] : And not to alter, change or destroy any boundary hedge or fence on any part of the Farm whereby the size or shape of any field shall be rendered different from its present size or shape without the consent in writing of the Landlord or his agent :

To consume, produce, and as to cultivation during last year.(h)

(11) Not to sell off or remove from the Farm any hay, straw, roots or green crops during the last year (i) of the tenancy, nor at any other time without returning to the holding within six months from the sale or removal of such produce, in accordance with the provisions of section thirty of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923, the full equivalent manurial value of all crops sold off or removed from the Farm in contravention of custom or of the terms of this agreement :(j)

Notice of sales of crops, &c.

(12) To give written notice to the Landlord or his agent of all crops sold or removed contrary to this agreement within one week of the crop being sold or removed, together with a written statement showing what provision has been or is to be made by the Tenant to protect the Farm from injury or deterioration by such sale or removal, and during the last year of the tenancy to comply with the reasonable requirements of the Landlord or

A tenant who makes default will not be entitled to any compensation for disturbance upon quitting the holding : s. 12.

Power to contract as regards the last year.

(i) The Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 30 (1), does not apply in a yearly tenancy as respects the year before the tenant quits the holding or any period after he has given or received notice to quit which results in his quitting the holding or in any other tenancy as respects the last year. Hence the landlord can impose terms as regards the last year.

his agent in regard to cropping, cleaning, fallowing and otherwise cultivating the Farm :(k)

Accounts of sales and purchases.

(13) To keep and produce on demand to the Landlord or his agent true accounts and vouchers of all produce sold or removed from the Farm and of all artificial and other manures and feeding stuffs purchased and applied to the Farm pursuant to section thirty of the Agricultual Holdings Act, 1923, and of all home-grown produce consumed on the Farm :

Insurance.

(14) To insure all live and dead stock, hay and straw for the time being on the Farm to the full value thereof, and in the event of fire to return, spend and consume forthwith upon the Farm the full amount received in compensation from the Insurance Company or other insurers (representing the value of all produce burnt) or return the manurial value of produce burnt in tillages ; And not to do or suffer any act by which the Landlord's policies of insurance may be invalidated or the rate of premiums paid thereon increased :(l)

Cultivation.

(15) To keep a good and sufficient head of live stock and to farm, cultivate and manage the arable land in a good, fair, and husbandlike manner, and so as not to injure or deteriorate the Farm, and to leave the same clean and in good heart and condition :(m)

Permanent pasture.

(16) Not to break up any land described as meadow, grass or pasture in the Schedule hereto without the previous written consent of the Landlord or his agent ; And not to mow the grass lands more than once in any year nor two successive years without applying thereto not less than ten tons per acre of good rotten dung or other manure equivalent thereto :(n)

Improvements under Part III ; limitation of Tenant's right to compensation.

(k) Under s. 30 (3) the tenant is not entitled to any compensation in respect of improvements comprised in Pt. III of the First Schedule to the Act which have been made for the purpose of making such provision for protecting the holding from injury or deterioration as is required by s. 30.

(l) As to the construction of covenants to insure and the liability of the covenantor to make good any deficiency out of his own money where the contract so requires : Enlayde v. Roberts [1917], 1 Ch. 109 ; 86 L. Cultivation.

Preservation of timber, &c.

(18) To preserve all timber and other trees, pollards and saplings, underwood and live fences from injury by horses, cattle or otherwise : And not to cut, lop, top, or crop any of the timber, timberlike trees or saplings likely to become timber, now or hereafter growing upon the Farm, nor hang gates on nor drive any nail or hook into or otherwise injure any such tree or sapling :

Waste.

(19) Not to commit or permit waste, or spoil on any part of the Farm :

Trespass.

(20) To give notice to trespassers not to trespass on the Farm :

Encroachment.

(21) So far as possible to stop all encroachments and to immediately inform the Landlord thereof and to use his best endeavours to prevent the acquisition of any rights of way, public or private, or easements over any part of the Farm, and to allow his name to be used in any proceedings against such trespassers or other offenders as aforesaid on being indemnified by the Landlord for any expenses caused thereby :

Preservation of game.

Removal of manure, &c.

(q) This covenant runs with the reversion : Chapman v. Smith [1907], 2 Ch. 97 ; 76 L. J. Ch. 394. This covenant is usually inserted to avoid any mistake as to the rights of the tenant ; in view of the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 31, it would appear to be no longer absolutely necessary. Independently of any covenant, after notice to quit has been served, a tenant may not remove or sell any manure or compost, or any hay, straw, or roots grown in the last year of the tenancy without giving the landlord an opportunity of purchasing the same : Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 31.

Incoming tenant may in last year enter on parts of arable to prepare for crops.

(C) He shall also at the end of the tenancy leave for the Landlord or incoming tenant all the hay, straw, and roots remaining unconsumed, the Tenant being paid or allowed for the matters and things aforesaid as hereinafter is provided:

Hay, &c., to be left for incoming tenant.

[(If the taking is a Michaelmas one)—

(A) The Tenant shall stack in the barns and rickyards in the last year of the tenancy, or after he has given or received notice to quit, all the corn, grain and hay produced on the Farm (the corn and grain to be there threshed out, unless previously threshed in the field, and all the hay, straw, chaff, stubble and fodder to be there consumed by cattle in a husbandlike manner, and the dung, manure, compost or soil therein arising to be left on the Farm), for which purpose the Tenant shall have the use of such of the barns and yards as may be necessary until the First day of May next after the end of the tenancy:

[To stack in barns, &c., produce of last year.]

(B) In the last year of the tenancy the Landlord or his incoming tenant shall be at liberty to enter upon the lands for a wheat season so soon as the crop for that year is cleared off, in order to prepare the same for the wheat crop, and may also sow seeds among the Lent or summer corn, which the Tenant shall harrow in:

[Incoming Tenant may enter in last year of tenancy on parts of farm.]

(C) The Tenant shall also leave for the Landlord or his incoming tenant all the hay, straw and roots remaining unconsumed, being paid or allowed for the same at a spending price: (s)]

[(30) The Tenant shall sell to the Landlord or his incoming tenant all away-going crops to which the Tenant may be entitled under this agreement according to a valuation of the same to be made in manner hereinafter described, such valuation to be made on or before the Twenty-fifth day of July next after the determination of this agreement, the incoming tenant immediately paying or else giving security to the satisfaction of the outgoing Tenant for the payment of the amount thereof within six months

(b) The proportion of the usual rates, taxes and assessments imposed upon the Farm; and

(c) The expenses of weeding (if necessary), reaping, threshing and marketing:

[Straw of away-going crops.]

(31) The Landlord or his incoming tenant shall be entitled to the straw of the away-going crop without making any remuneration to the Tenant for the same:

[Notices of lands bearing away-going crops.]

(32) The Tenant shall give notice in writing to the Landlord or his agent on or before the First day of November preceding the determination of the tenancy stating the lands from which the said away-going crops shall be taken, and the Tenant shall not be entitled to take an away-going crop from any lands except those to which the notice applies:

[As to giving up possession of other lands.]

Power to contract as to crops during last year.

Act, 1923, do not apply in the case of a tenancy from year to year as respects the year before the tenant quits his holding or any period after he has given or received notice to quit which results in his quitting the holding, or in other cases as respects the year before the expiration of the tenancy. Hence provisions as to cultivation during the last year of the tenancy may be inserted.

(w) See as to compensation for improvements: Agr. H. Act, 1923, ss. 1–10 ; Spencer's Agr. H. Acts, 7th ed., 2, et seq.; 17, et seq. Improvements made by a tenant are there divided into the three classes respectively mentioned in Parts I, II, and III of the First Schedule to the Act. For these improvements he is entitled to obtain compensation on quitting his holding or at the termination of the tenancy. Termination of the tenancy includes the cesser of the contract of tenancy from any cause whatever : s. 57. Where a trustee in bankruptcy disclaims a lease he loses his rights under this section : Bkcy. Act, 1914, s. 54 (2) ; Schofield v. Hincks, 58 L. J. Q. B. 147. compensation or otherwise as may be agreed upon, and if any such agreement is made any compensation payable under the agreement will be substituted for compensation under the Act: s. 2. Improvements in Part II include drainage only. Compensation is not payable unless previous notice in writing has been given to the landlord, and upon such notice being given the landlord and tenant may agree the compensation. The landlord and tenant may (s. 3 (4)) agree to dispense with any notice under s. 3, and any such agreement may provide for anything for which an agreement after notice under that section may provide.

Part II, s. 3: drainage notice in writing.

Part III: no consent required.

Substituted compensation.

Improvements in Part III do not require the previous consent of the landlord, and by s. 4, when any agreement in writing secures to the tenant "fair and reasonable" compensation, the compensation so secured shall be substituted for compensation under the Act. Save where substituted compensation is permitted, any contract made by the tenant by which he is deprived of his right to claim compensation under the Act in respect of improvements included in the First Schedule is void : s. 50 ; a tenant may elect to claim compensation by custom or agreement if he thinks fit, though the landlord cannot compel him to do so.

Compensation payable by mortgagee in possession.

Under s. 15 a tenant from a mortgagor under a contract of tenancy not binding on the mortgagee is, as against the mortgagee who takes possession, entitled to compensation for improvements, whether under the Act or custom or an agreement authorised by this Act.

Notice to quit by mortgagee.

If the tenancy is from year to year, or for a term of years not exceeding twenty-one at a rack-rent, the mortgagee must give to the tenant six months' notice in writing before depriving him of possession, and the tenant is entitled to compensation for his crops and improvements in so far as the latter are not exhausted at the time the tenant is deprived of possession : s. 15 (2).

Arrears of rent, &c., to be set off.

The amount of any compensation due to the tenant may be set off by the mortgagee against any rent or other sum due from him in respect of the holding : s. 15 (3). The tenant can set off the compensation against his rent : ib.

Compensation by trustees.

Special standard.

As to compensation payable by trustees, see s. 37. In addition to the improvements mentioned in the 1st Sch., a tenant is, by the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 9, allowed compensation in respect of the continuous adoption of a special standard or system of farming, which has increased the value of the holding to an incoming tenant, other than the standard system or any system required by the tenancy. Accordingly special compensation under s. 9 may be avoided by inserting provisions in the agreement requiring a specially high standard of farming. Where rent has been deducted in respect of such an improved system, the deduction will be ignored where it falls to be decided whether the tenant holds at rack rent : ss. 9 (3), 42. Farm records.

(z) Semble, independently of this clause, satisfactory evidence, i.e., farm records, must be produced that the feeding stuffs and manures have been actually consumed, but the clause should be inserted to remind the tenant of his liability; it cannot restrict compensation: s. 50.

The landlord may claim to have excluded from compensation under Sch. III any manures or other improvements, such as cattle cake, which can be proved to have been used for the purpose of returning to the land substance of equal manurial value to the substances removed from the land under s. 30 (3).

Market garden.

14. (1) ANY asparagus, rhubarb or other perennial crop, or any fruit bushes planted or purchased by the Tenant, may be removed by the Tenant before the termination of his tenancy, he making good and replacing the surface soil disturbed by such removal, unless the Landlord or his incoming tenant elect to take any such plants or bushes at a valuation.

And mines under lands not belonging to Lessor.

[AND] SECONDLY, ALL THOSE lands situated in the said Township of ——, containing —— or thereabouts, more particularly described in the second part of the Schedule hereto and delineated on the said plan and thereon coloured —— (the surface whereof belongs to ——, Esq., but the mines thereunder are vested in the Lessor):

Privileges.

TOGETHER with the easements, rights and privileges to be exercised in connexion with the said mines and premises hereinafter mentioned:

[Surface lands.]

[AND THIRDLY, ALL the surface of the lands coloured ——, and hatched —— on the said plan, being part of the lands first above mentioned:

TOGETHER with the buildings, coke ovens, railways, and other works erected on parts thereof]:

Habendum.

TO HOLD (except and reserved as hereinafter mentioned) unto the Tenants for the term of [sixty] one hundred years from the —— day of ——,

YIELDING AND PAYING therefor (u) the rents and royalties hereinafter reserved, and subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

RIGHTS TO BE EXERCISED BY TENANTS.(v)

Grant of liberty for Lessees to work mines.

2. THE Tenants may at all times during the term hereby granted work and get the mines hereby demised, and manufacture and carry away the produce thereof, and for that purpose and in connexion therewith (but subject to the restrictions and conditions hereinafter contained) have and exercise in, over, upon or under the lands (hereinafter referred to as the mineral area) under which the said mines lie (but as regards the lands secondly hereinbefore described, so far only as it is competent for the Lessor to grant the same), all necessary and proper easements, rights and privileges, and in particular do all or any of the following things (namely):—

To sink pits, provide for welfare, &c.

(1) Sink, drive, make, erect, set up and construct pits,(w) shafts, levels, airways, waterways, engines, machinery, Reservation of rents.

(u) In the case of a lease under the S. L. Act it is desirable to reserve the rents and royalties generally, and not expressly to the Lessor: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 47.

Table of arrangement of clauses.

(v) This and the other headings may be employed when convenient. They facilitate reference, particularly if a Table of Arrangement of Clauses is prefixed to the mining lease.

Right to sink.

(w) See MacSwinney on Mines, 5th ed., 137. The right to sink pits creates an interest in the land: Re Masters and G. W. Ry. Co. (1901), 2 K. B. 84; 70 L. J. K. B. 516.

furnaces, kilns, ovens, workmen's cottages, baths, drying and changing rooms, shops, club houses, medical, surgical and welfare accommodation (including gardens and recreation grounds) for workmen, their families and dependents, railways, tramways, and other ways, canals, cuts, wharves, erections, and other works, and use all existing works of the above description belonging to the Lessor:

To deposit coal, &c.

(2) Deposit upon a convenient part of the surface of the lands first hereinbefore described all coal, cannel and slack gotten from the said mines, and all earth and spoil brought to the surface therewith, and all materials used in the working thereof:

To appropriate water.

(3) Appropriate and use for any purpose connected with the working of the said mines any water (x) within the mineral area, and make and construct watercourses, reservoirs and ponds for collecting such water, but so that in the exercise of this privilege the Tenants shall not deprive any house, mill, or watering place for cattle of a reasonable quantity of water as before accustomed, and shall not in any manner foul, impregnate, or otherwise deteriorate any springs or streams of water, so as to render the same useless and unprofitable:

To get clay, &c., for building.

(4) Get and dig clay, gravel, sandstone and slate from the mines hereby demised and from the lands first hereinbefore described, and burn clay into bricks for the purposes of the works hereby authorised [but not for sale]:

To let down surface of land belonging to Lessor.

(5) To exercise the rights aforesaid (subject as hereinafter provided) without leaving any subjacent or lateral support for the surface of the lands first hereinbefore described, or any buildings now or hereafter to be erected thereon, or for any adjoining lands or minerals of the Lessor, but paying to the Lessor full compensation for all damage which may occur by reason of the exercise of such rights to the said surface buildings and adjoining lands and minerals, and keeping the Lessor effectually indemnified from all claims and proceedings by the lessees

Grants of water rights.

or occupiers of the surface or of any adjoining lands and minerals, and if any difference arises as to the amount of compensation, the same shall be submitted to arbitration : (y)

As to surface of land not belonging to Lessor.

(6) To exercise (subject as hereinafter provided) such rights (if any) as the Lessor may have to let down the surface of the lands secondly hereinbefore described and any buildings thereon, or any adjacent minerals, but keeping the Lessor indemnified against all proceedings, costs, claims and demands in respect of any damage thereto.(z)

Restrictions as to sites for surface works.

3. No pit or shaft shall be sunk, and no building or thing erected or set up, and no other surface operation carried on by virtue of the privileges hereinbefore granted in or upon the demesne lands of —— house or any part thereof, nor (without the Lessor's consent) upon the site of any house or building, or any courtyard, fold, garden or orchard attached or belonging to any house or building, nor shall any land be taken or occupied for any surface operation, if the same shall be required for working any mines of the Lessor not included in this Lease, or for the purpose of any of the works connected with such mines, and any other land not so required shall be suitable and convenient and equally available for such surface operations.

Coke ovens to consume their own smoke.

4. No coke ovens shall be erected or set up in such a position that any damage or inconvenience may thereby arise to existing buildings, and all coke ovens shall (as far as is reasonably practicable) consume their own smoke.

Notice to be given before entering on surface, and Lessor to be at liberty to object to proposed site.

5. (1) Before taking any [additional] land for surface operations, the Tenants shall give to the Lessor or his agent at least one month's previous notice in writing, and shall also give a similar notice to the lessees or occupiers of the land proposed to be taken, or leave such notice at their respective usual places of abode, and every such notice shall properly and correctly specify by name or other sufficient designation, and by quantity, Rights to let down.

(y) A right to mine may not necessarily imply a right to let down the surface, see p. 995, supra, and MacSwinney, 5th ed., p. 200. It is necessary to provide that the mining lessee shall compensate the lessor for subsidence, otherwise the lessor would become liable to pay compensation in respect of his covenant for quiet enjoyment to any person to whom the surface had been previously leased or sold: Jones v. Consolidated Anthracite Collieries [1916], 1 K. B. 123; 85 L. J. K. B. 465.

Additional rights.

(z) If these rights are not sufficient, additional rights may be acquired by the lessee under the Mines (Working Facilities and Support) Act, 1923, Pt. I, as amended. Similarly, such rights as the lessor has may be restricted by proceedings under that Act.

the land proposed to be taken, and the purpose for which the same is required:

(2) The Lessor or his agent may at any time within one month from the receipt of such notice state his objections (if any) to the proposed site, and the validity of such objections shall be determined by arbitration:(a)

[Provided, that no part of the lands secondly hereinbefore described shall on any account be taken for surface operations.]

Lessees may remove moveable machinery, &c., within six months after end of lease.

6. The Tenants may at any time within six months after the end of this Lease carry away and dispose of any coal or other minerals which shall have been raised during the said term, and remove all plant, machinery and utensils upon or under the mining area being in the nature of trade or Tenant's fixtures, or other moveable things of the Tenants, which the Lessor shall not elect to purchase under the provision for that purpose hereinafter contained, but the Tenants shall pay to the Lessor compensation for any damage done to any building or land to which any fixture, plant, or machinery so removed is affixed, the amount of such compensation, unless agreed, to be determined by arbitration.(b)

Rights Reserved to Lessor.

Reservations to Lessor.

7. The following rights, liberties and privileges are reserved to the Lessor out of this demise (that is to say):—

Liberty for Lessor to work other mines and to use the works of the demised mines for that purpose.

(1) Liberty for the Lessor, and any lessee or other person authorised by him for that purpose, to enter into and upon the lands first hereinbefore described or any of them, and to search for, dig, work, and get all or any of the mines and minerals and other substances under the mining area which are not included in this Lease, and for the purposes aforesaid to sink, make, erect, and use such pits, shafts, levels, drains, watercourses, reservoirs, tunnels, buildings, engines, machinery, canals, railways, waggonways and other ways, works and conveniences upon, through or under the mining area and the mines hereby demised, and the workings of the Tenants hereunder as shall be necessary or expedient; And also for the purposes aforesaid to use any existing pits or shafts and other works in and upon the mining area not required by the Tenants for the purpose of the mines hereby demised ; And also to use (in common with the Tenants) any canals, railways, waggonways or other ways now existing, or which may hereafter be made by the Tenants under the authority hereof, and to cross or intersect any such last-mentioned canals, railways, waggonways or other ways, with or by any canals, railways, waggonways or other ways to be made under the powers hereby reserved :

To let down the demised mines.

(2) Liberty for the Lessor and any lessee or other person authorised by him for that purpose in reference to the mines and minerals excepted out of this demise to exercise all such rights and privileges as are hereby conferred on the Tenants in reference to the mines, minerals, and surface rights hereby demised, including the right to let down the mines and minerals hereby demised and the works of the Tenants, but paying to them full compensation for all physical damage resulting from subsidence, the amount of such compensation to be settled by arbitration in default of agreement :

Priority as to surface rights.

(3) Provided that if the Tenants require to use any part of the surface not previously used in connexion with mining purposes, the claims of the Tenants hereunder shall have priority over the claims of the Lessor or any lessee of the excepted mines and minerals in respect of such surface :

Not to interfere with exercise of Lessees' privileges.

(4) The said reserved rights and privileges shall be exercised and enjoyed in such manner as not to hinder or interfere more than necessary with the rights and privileges of the Tenants hereunder :

Lessor to contribute to expense of keeping in repair canals, railways, &c., used in common.

(5) If the Lessor or any person authorised by him as aforesaid shall use any canal, railway, waggonway or other way in common with the Tenants under the said reserved rights, the Lessor or other the person using the same as aforesaid shall contribute a fair proportion of the expense of keeping the same in repair and working order, the amount of such proportion to be settled in case of difference by arbitration :

To compensate Lessees for damage done in exercise of reserved privileges.

(6) Fair and proper compensation shall be paid by the Lessor or other the persons for the time being exercising the said reserved rights and privileges to the Tenants for all loss, damage, or injury which they may sustain or incur by reason of the exercise thereof, the amount of such compensation to be settled in case of difference by arbitration.(c)

Lease of lower seams.

(c) Where a lease of the lower seams is granted during the subsistence of a lease of the upper seams, the lease of the lower seams should be made expressly

RENTS AND ROYALTIES RESERVED.

Certain or minimum yearly rent.

8. (1) THE certain yearly rent of £—— shall be paid by the Tenants [to the Lessor] in respect of the mines and mining rights hereby demised by equal half-yearly payments on the —— day of ——, and the —— day of ——, in every year, the first half-yearly payment to [be deemed to have] become due on the —— day of ——:

Workings in respect of minimum rent.

(2) The Tenants may, in every year of this demise in respect of the said certain yearly rent, work and get from or out of the demised mines and premises such a quantity of coal and cannel as at the rates hereinafter mentioned would yield or pay for that year footage or acreage royalties equal in amount to the said certain yearly rent of £——:

Provided that the said certain rent shall always be paid, whether such quantity shall in fact be gotten or not.

Footage or acreage royalties (d) for coal only.

9. THE following footage or acreage royalties shall be paid by the Tenants [to the Lessor] in respect of all coal and cannel gotten from or out of the demised mines and premises over and above the quantity which the Tenants are hereinbefore authorised to work and get in respect of the said certain yearly rent (that is to say):—

Cheshire acre.

(1) The royalty of £—— for every Cheshire acre of one foot in thickness (meaning by the term "Cheshire acre" an acre reckoned after the accustomed measure of eight yards to the perch), and so in proportion for any less quantity than an acre, and for a greater or less thickness than one foot, of coal and cannel gotten from or out of the seams called the —— Seam and the —— Seam respectively, or either of them:

(2) The royalty of £—— for every Cheshire acre of one foot in subject to the rights of the lessees of the upper seams. The lessee of the lower seams should be given notice of the contents of the lease of the upper seams, and should indemnify the lessor against claims by the upper lessees: see Prec. V, infra. The presumption in favour of the lessee of a higher seam to support is more easily rebutted than the presumption in favour of the owner of the surface: Butterley Co. v. New Hucknall, &c., Co. [1910], A. C. 381; 79 L. J. Ch. 411.

Presumption as to right to support.

Mineral rights duty.

(d) Mineral rights duty is not payable in respect of common clay, common brick clay, common brick earth or sand, chalk, limestone or gravel: Fin. (1909–10) Act, 1910, s. 20 (5), but is payable in the case of salt pumped from brine: Att.-Gen. v. Salt Union [1917]. 2 K. B. 488; 86 L. J. K. B. 1026; and see Anstruther v. I. R. C. [1912], Sc. Cas. 1165. Hence any royalties payable in respect of such substances should be separately reserved, and the minimum rent should be apportioned between the exempted substances and the other minerals demised, see next Precedent.

thickness, and so in proportion as aforesaid, of coal and cannel gotten from or out of the seams, called the —— Seam and the —— Seam respectively, or either of them :

(3) And the royalty of £—— for every Cheshire acre of one foot in thickness, and so in proportion as aforesaid, of coal and cannel gotten from or out of the other mines or seams hereby demised or any of them :

(4) The said footage or acreage royalties shall be paid by half-yearly payments on the —— day of —— and the —— day of —— in each year in respect of the coal and cannel gotten during the then preceding half-year :

Provision for making up under workings during the next — years.

(5) Provided that if in any year of the said term the Tenants shall not work and get from or out of the demised mines and premises such a quantity of coal or cannel as at the rates abovementioned would produce or yield footage or acreage royalties equal in amount to the said certain rent of £——, then and as often as the same shall happen the Tenants may, during the next —— years of the said term, or any of them (but not afterwards), work and get from or out of the demised mines and premises such a quantity of coal and cannel as shall be required to make up such deficiency without paying any royalty or rent for the same other than the said certain rent.

Abatement to be made for coal left to support buildings, &c.

10. A DEDUCTION or abatement shall be made in making or taking the yearly calculation or measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the footage or acreage royalties payable for the then preceding year—

(i) On account of all coal left for the support of buildings under the provision for that purpose hereinafter contained, or

(ii) For faulty, thin or bad coal, or

(iii) For protection against water :

Provided that no such deduction or abatement shall be made on account of any pillars, walls or ranges which may be left in the mines otherwise than for the support of buildings, or for faulty, thin or bad coal, or for protection against water as aforesaid, but all such pillars, walls or ranges (other than as aforesaid) shall be paid for in like manner as if the coal constituting the same had been actually gotten from or out of the demised mines.

Surface rent.(e)

Mineral rights duty not claimed on surface rents.

(e) The I. R. Commrs. do not claim mineral rights duty in respect of surface rents where land is let to mining lessees : 56 Sol. J. 312.

Tenants [to the Lessor] in respect of every Cheshire acre of land belonging to the Lessor, the surface whereof [is hereby demised or which] shall be occupied or used by the Tenants for any of the purposes of this demise, and so in proportion for any less quantity than an acre, the said surface rent to be paid by equal half-yearly payments on the same days as the said certain rent of £—— is hereinbefore made payable, and the first half-yearly payment or proportionate payment thereof to be made on such of the said days as shall happen next after such occupation or use shall commence and the last half-yearly payment thereof to be made on such of the said days as shall happen next after such occupation or use shall have ceased and the land shall have been restored and rendered fit for cultivation again:

(2) If any difference shall arise as to what ought to be considered the occupation or use of the surface of any land for the purpose aforesaid, or as to the day on which such occupation or use shall have commenced, or as to the amount of rent payable under the reservation aforesaid, the matter in difference shall be settled by arbitration:

[Provided that no such rent shall be paid or demanded in respect of any spoil banks, roads or ways now in existence and not used by the Tenants.]

THE LESSEES' COVENANTS.

Covenants by Lessees:—

12. THE Tenants hereby [jointly and severally] covenant with the Lessor in manner following, namely:—

To pay rents.

(1) To pay the rents and royalties reserved by this lease at the times and in the manner hereinbefore appointed, and to observe and perform the provisions herein contained, which are or ought on the part of the Tenants to be observed and performed:

To pay rates and taxes.(f)

(2) To pay (in addition to the rents and royalties hereby reserved) and discharge all taxes, rates, assessments, duties, charges and impositions whatsoever which now are or during the said term shall be charged or imposed upon the demised premises or any part thereof, or upon the owner or occupiers thereof by authority of Parliament or otherwise, except landlord's property tax and mineral rights duty:

(1909–10) Act, 1910, s. 20 (4) the mines hereby demised in a skilful and workmanlike manner,(g) according to the most approved practice of mining in the district, and as to each and every of the mines when opened without voluntary (h) intermission, and to keep all the pits and shafts, machinery and works belonging to and used in connexion with the said mines in good repair, working order and condition:

intermission, &c.

To fence off pits, &c.

(4) At all times during the continuance of this demise to effectually fence off (i) and keep fenced off from the adjoining lands with good and substantial posts and rails all the pits, shafts, banking room, roads, railways, canals, reservoirs, clay pits and other places and conveniences made or used for working and carrying on the said mining operations, and to maintain sufficient roads, gates, stiles and fences for the convenient occupation of such lands, and for the passing and repassing by the Lessor and his tenants, agents and servants, and others on foot, or with or without horses and other animals, carts, carriages, motors, and other vehicles to and from the lands in the occupation of the Tenants, for all purposes whatsoever:

Not to work within certain distance of Covenant to work.

(g) See Lewis v. Fothergill (1869), L. R. 5 Ch. 103; Brewer v. Rhymney Iron Co. [1910], 1 Ch. 776; 79 L. J. Ch. 334. A covenant to "fairly and honestly work" does not entitle the lessee to stop working because he does so at a loss: Charlesworth v. Watson [1906], A. C. 14; 75 L. J. K. B. 137. As to the effect of a covenant to "immediately or as soon as may be after this demise proceed to open and get the mines": Eckersley v. Wigan, &c., Co. (1910), 103 L. T. 468.

(h) It is conceived that the word "voluntary" will relieve the lessees from liability under the covenant in case of strikes, influx of water, &c., but the following proviso may be added, if desired:—

Provisions as to strikes, &c.

Provided that the foregoing covenant shall not be binding on the Tenants if at any time during the subsistence of the term hereby granted they shall be unable to comply therewith by reason of strikes, lock-outs or other unavoidable causes, and whether arising from the acts or defaults of their workmen, damage by fire, water or otherwise, and if any difference shall arise upon the construction of this clause the matter in dispute shall be referred to arbitration.

Statutory obligations to fence, and to report.

(i) See Coal Mines Act, 1911, s. 37, which provides for the fencing of pit mouths, &c., and s. 26, which provides for the fencing of an abandoned mine shaft. As to fencing off machinery, ib., s. 55. Any change occurring in the mine, such as the opening of a new shaft or the abandonment of an old one, must be reported to the inspector of the division within two months: ib., s. 19.

fault, or near any building without giving notice.

within the distance of —— yards from the —— Fault (except in levels and narrow workings for the purpose of ascertaining its true direction) and not to work the mines under and adjacent to any building now standing, or which may hereafter be erected on the mining area or any part thereof, without giving to the Lessor or his agent at least one month's previous notice in writing, in which case the following provisions shall apply—

(i) The Lessor or his agent may, at any time within one month after the receipt of such notice, mark out what coal (if any) shall be left as a support of such building, and the Tenants shall leave such coal accordingly;

(ii) If the Lessor or his agent shall omit to mark out what coal shall be left as aforesaid for one month after the receipt of such notice, the Tenants may (unless required to work the same by the Lessor) either leave so much coal as the Tenants shall consider will be sufficient to support the said building and protect the same from all damage and injury by reason of working the said mines, or may, at the discretion of the Tenants, work the whole of such coal;

(iii) If the Tenants shall neglect or omit to leave a sufficient support for such building, and any damage or injury shall be thereby occasioned thereto, then and in such case the Tenants shall (subject as hereinafter provided) pay to the Lessor or other the persons entitled to or interested in such building full and adequate compensation for the damage or injury done thereto as aforesaid, the amount thereof to be settled in case of dispute by arbitration, but the Lessor or other persons entitled or interested as aforesaid shall be entitled to compensation only in respect of any actual damage;(j)

Rule of law as to support of surface or of higher seams.

(j) The rule of law, that where the surface and the subjacent minerals belong to different persons the minerals must not be worked so as to let down the surface, applies as between a lessor and lessee, unless the terms of the lease show a contrary intention: Davis v. Treharne (1881), 6 A. C. 460; 50 L. J. Q. B. 665. In order to exclude the common law right of support the language used must unequivocally convey that intention, either by express words or by necessary implication; hence it is important to confine the lessor's remedy to compensation and to preclude him from obtaining an injunction: Butterknowle, &c., Co. v. Bishop Auckland, &c., Co. [1906], A. C. 305; 75 L. J. Ch. 541; Butterley Co. v. New Hucknall, &c., Co. [1910], A. C. 381, 79 L. J. Ch. 411; see also Aspden v. Seddon (1875), L. R. 10 Ch. 394; 44 L. J. Ch. 359. The mode of working in the district is material and the right to support may, it seems, be more easily rebutted against the lessee of a higher seam than against the owner of the surface: Butterley's Case, supra. A mere power of working does not necessarily imply a right to let down the surface: Markham v. Paget [1908], 1 Ch. 697; 77 L. J. Ch. 451. A covenant to pay

Provided that if the Tenants give notice to the Lessor of their intention to leave any coal for the support of any building, and the Lessor or his agent shall in writing require them to work such coal, then and in such case the Lessor shall be exclusively liable in respect of any damage which may result from the working thereof, and shall keep the Tenants effectually indemnified from all proceedings, claims and demands in respect of any such damage:

[Provided also that as regards the mines under the lands secondly hereinbefore described, the Lessor shall not be entitled to require the Tenants to work any part thereof which the Lessor may not have power to work.]

To account half-yearly with occupiers for damage done, &c.

(6) To account (except where the Lessor is made liable as aforesaid), on or before the —— day of —— in every year, during the continuance of this demise, and before the end of six months after the determination thereof, with the owners, lessees and occupiers of any part of the mining area, and also with all other persons (if any) who may be injured by the working and getting of the mines hereby demised, or in anywise relating thereto, and to pay to them full compensation for all damage or injury done or occasioned by reason of the exercise of any of the privileges hereby granted, and to indemnify and save harmless the Lessor therefrom, the amount of such compensation to be settled in case of difference by arbitration:

To make plans, &c., half-yearly.

(7) Within one month after each of the half-yearly days hereby fixed for payment of rent to make an exact map (k) and measurement in acres, roods, perches and yards of the gettings of the mines hereby demised during the preceding half-year, such compensation for damage by subsidence runs with the land: Dyson v. Forster [1909], A. C. 98; 78 L. J. K. B. 246; see also the cases cited on p. 995, supra. Additional rights of support may be obtained by application under the Mines (Working Facilities and Support) Act, 1923, Pt. I (as amended), similarly existing rights may be restricted. As to railways: ib., Pt. II. In assessing damages for subsidence future possible damage must not be taken into account: West Leigh, &c., Co. v. Tunnicliffe, &c., Ltd. [1908], A. C. 27; 77 L. J. Ch. 102. The court will not grant an injunction against working in a method which may cause damage: Locker-Lampson v. Staveley Coal, &c., Co. [1909], 25 T. L. R. 136. In most districts it is the practice to authorise the lessee to let down the surface, keeping the lessor indemnified against damage to buildings. measurement to be taken as land measure of eight yards to the perch, and to include all pillars, walls and ranges which may be left as aforesaid, and to state the quantities and thickness of each seam separately (or as nearly as may be), such map to be on a scale of thirty yards to the inch: Provided that every such map and measurement shall be open at all times to the inspection of the Lessor or his agent, who may make copies thereof:

To restore lands to original state at end of lease, or pay for land which cannot be so restored.

(8) At or before the expiration of the said term to cause to be restored to their original or natural level, state and condition, and fit for agricultural occupation, all such parts of the lands as shall have been appropriated and used for any of the purposes of this demise: And if any land shall be permanently damaged or interfered with, so that the same cannot be restored as aforesaid, to pay to the Lessor at the end or sooner determination of the said term the sum of £—— for every statute acre of such land, and so in proportion for any less quantity than an acre:

To deliver up mines and works in good condition at end of term.

(9) At the expiration or sooner determination of the said term, to deliver up to the Lessor in good repair, order and working condition, all buildings and erections of brick, stone or slate standing and being on the lands belonging to the Lessor, and all pits, shafts, watergates, airgates and levels belonging to the said mines (except pits, shafts or other works which shall have been abandoned or disused in the ordinary and fair course of working of the said mines) and all such other works and things belonging to the said mines as are not in the nature of tenants' or trade fixtures removable by the Tenants, and also all such articles and things (if any) as the Lessor shall elect to purchase under the power hereinafter contained:

(11) Not to assign, underlet or part with the possession of the mines and premises hereby demised, or any part thereof, to any persons, without the previous consent in writing of the Lessor, unless such consent shall be unreasonably withheld, and if any question shall arise as to whether the consent is or is not unreasonably withheld the same shall be settled by arbitration.

THE LESSOR'S COVENANT.

Lessor's covenant for quiet enjoyment by Lessees.

13. THE Lessor hereby covenants with the Tenants that they, paying the rents and royalties hereby reserved and observing and performing the covenants and provisions herein contained and on their part to be observed and performed, shall peaceably and quietly hold and enjoy the mines and premises hereby demised during the term hereby granted, without any lawful interruption from or by the Lessor (meaning him personally) or any person rightfully claiming from or under him.(m)

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Power of distress.

14. IF the rents and royalties hereby reserved or any of them, or any part thereof respectively, shall be in arrear or unpaid for twenty-eight days next after any of the days whereon the same ought to be paid, then and so often as the case shall happen the Lessor may enter into and upon the mines and premises hereby demised, or any lands which shall for the time being be possessed or occupied by the Tenants for the purposes hereof [or any adjoining or neighbouring mines or works for the time being held by the Tenants and worked in connexion with the mines hereby demised],(n) and may distrain all or any of the coal, horses, engines, machinery, tools, implements, chattels,

---

Quiet enjoyment.

(m) This covenant for quiet enjoyment does not extend to unforeseen causes, e.g., the unexpected flooding of the mine: Harrison v. Muncaster [1891], 2 Q. B. 680; 61 L. J. Q. B. 102.

Distress.

(n) See Re Roundwood Colliery Co. [1897], 1 Ch. 373; 66 L. J. Ch. 186, applied in Venner's Electrical Cooking and Heating Appliances v. Thorpe [1915], 2 Ch. 404; 84 L. J. Ch. 925, a case on distress against a company in liquidation for rent payable in advance.

and effects which shall be found in or upon the premises so entered upon, and the same deal with and dispose of according to law in like manner as landlords may for rent in arrear, to the intent that thereby or otherwise all rent in arrear, and all costs and expenses occasioned by the non-payment thereof, shall be fully paid and satisfied.

Power of re-entry.

15. If the rents and royalties hereby reserved or any of them, or any part thereof respectively, shall be in arrear or unpaid for thirty days next after any of the days whereon the same ought to be paid as aforesaid (whether the same shall have been legally demanded or not), or if the Tenants shall commit any breach of the covenants and conditions contained in this Lease (o) and on their part to be observed and performed or any of them, or if any order shall be made or resolution passed for winding up the Tenants (being a company) otherwise than for purposes of reconstruction, or if the Tenants or any of them (being an individual) shall be adjudged a bankrupt or make a composition with his creditors, then and in any such case the Lessor may at any time thereafter, and although the Lessor may not have taken advantage of some previous default of a like nature, into and upon the mines and premises hereby demised, or any part thereof in the name of the whole, re-enter, and the same have again, re-possess, and enjoy, as of his former estate.

Power for Lessees to determine Lease if mines become flooded.

16. If at any time during the continuance of this demise the mines hereby demised shall become unworkable by reason of any large outbreak of water (not caused by improper working or by any default of the Tenants), then and in such case the Tenants may determine the Lease on the —— day of —— in any year of the term hereby granted by giving to the Lessor at least twelve months' notice in writing to that effect, but without prejudice to the rights and remedies of the Lessor under this Lease, for the recovery of any rent or royalties which may then remain unpaid, or in respect of any breach which may have been committed of any of the covenants herein contained on the part of the Tenants.(p)

Proviso for re-entry.

(o) Apart from express stipulation the proviso for re-entry will be confined to the case of non-payment of rent: Hodgkinson v. Crowe (1875), L. R. 10 Ch. 622; 44 L. J. Ch. 680. If the lease is granted under the S. L. Act, 1925, the power of re-entry must be exercisable after not more than thirty days' default: ib., s. 42 (1) (iii).

(p) These are not "usual" clauses apart from express arrangement: Strelley v. Pearson (1880), 15 Ch. D. 113; 49 L. J. Ch. 406.

17. (1) If all the coal and cannel hereby demised and capable of being worked [at a profit] shall be wholly exhausted before the expiration of the term hereby granted, then this Lease shall thereupon cease and determine as if the same had expired by effluxion of time, but without prejudice to the rights and remedies of the Lessor for the recovery of any rent then remaining unpaid, or in respect of any breach which may have been committed of any of the covenants herein contained on the part of the Tenants.(p)

Lease to determine if mines are worked out.

[(2) If any difference arises as to whether any coal or cannel is capable of being worked at a profit the matter shall be submitted to arbitration.]

18. If at the determination (q) of this Lease the Lessor shall be desirous of purchasing all or any of the moveable machinery, plant, and things in, upon or under the mining area, or any part thereof, and used or employed in connexion with the mines hereby demised (including all things in the nature of fixtures removeable by the Tenants during the continuance of this Lease), and shall give notice of such desire in writing to the Tenants at least six months before the expiration or sooner determination of the said term (unless the said term shall be determined under the power of re-entry hereinbefore contained, in which case the notice may be given at any time within six months after such determination of the said term), then and in such case the things mentioned in such notice shall be left by the Tenants and be taken by the Lessor at a valuation to be made thereof, in case of any difference between the parties as to their value, in the manner hereinafter provided, and the amount of such valuation, when ascertained or settled, shall be paid to the Tenants within three months next after such valuation shall have been agreed upon or fixed, together with interest thereon at the rate of £— per cent. per annum from the time when the amount is ascertained.

Power for Lessor to purchase plant, &c., at end of term.

19. If any difference shall arise between the Lessor and the Tenants concerning the value of the articles and things which the Lessor shall elect to take or retain as aforesaid, or the amount to be paid by the Lessor in respect thereof, or concerning any other matter or thing which it is hereby provided shall be Arbitration clause.

Covenant to exercise option.

settled by arbitration, or touching any clause, matter, or thing whatsoever herein contained, or the operation or construction thereof, or any matter or thing in any way connected with this Lease, or the rights, duties, or liabilities of either party under or in connexion with this Lease, then and in every such case the matter in question shall be referred to an agreed single arbitrator [or in default of agreement to two arbitrators, one to be appointed by each party in difference] in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the Arbitration Act, 1889.(r)

Notices.

20. EVERY notice hereby required or authorised to be given to the Lessor may be either given to him personally or left at his usual or last known place of abode in England or Wales, or may be given to such agent or other person or in such manner as the Lessor may from time to time direct; and every notice hereby required or authorised to be given to the Tenants may be given to them or either of them personally, or left at their office or counting-house for carrying on the business under this Lease, and section one hundred and ninety-six of the Law of Property Act, 1925, applies to all notices to be served hereunder.

Marginal notes.

21. THE marginal notes and headings to this Lease do not affect the construction thereof.

IN WITNESS, &c. (Add Schedule.)

When there is an arbitration clause, and an action is brought in respect of matter agreed to be referred court may stay proceedings.

(r) An arbitration clause does not altogether oust the jurisdiction of the court: Cooke v. C. (1867), L. R. 4 Eq. 77; 36 L. J. Ch. 480; Witt v. Corcoran (1871), L. R. 8 Ch. 476, n.; Kitts v. Moore [1895], 1 Q. B. 253; 64 L. J. Q. B. 152; but under the Arb. Act, 1889, s. 4, if any party commences legal proceedings in respect of any matter agreed to be referred, the court may stay the action, upon being satisfied that no sufficient reason exists why the matter cannot and ought not to be referred to arbitration. This power will in general be acted on: Willesford v. Watson (1873), L. R. 8 Ch. 473; 42 L. J. Ch. 447; Russell v. R. (1880), 14 Ch. D. 471; 49 L. J. Ch. 268; Pini v. Roncoroni [1892], 1 Ch. 633; 61 L. J. Ch. 218; Manchester Ship Canal Co. v. Pearson [1900], 2 Q. B. 606; 69 L. J. Q. B. 852; and see Ochs v. Ochs Bros. [1909], 2 Ch. 121; 78 L. J. Ch. 555. A claim for rectification is not covered by an arbitration clause: Printing Machinery Co. v. Linotype, &c., Ltd. [1912], 1 Ch. 566; 81 L. J. Ch. 422.

Rectification.

Submission irrevocable.

A submission to arbitration is irrevocable except by leave of the court, unless a contrary intention is expressed: Arb. Act, 1889, s. 1. When once the award is made the court cannot set it aside: Darlington, &c., Co. v. Harding [1891], 1 Q. B. 245; 60 L. J. Q. B. 110.

Powers of fiduciary owners in regard to arbitration.

As to the powers of fiduciary owners in regard to arbitration: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 58; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28; Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39; T. Act, 1925, s. 15 (f).

No. II.

LEASE of COAL, IRONSTONE, FIRECLAY and other Minerals. RESERVATION of ROYALTIES by WEIGHT (Northumberland and Durham Form).(s) (Legal Estate.)

THIS LEASE [UNDERLEASE], made (date), BETWEEN (parties and definitions as in last Precedent, p. 1115), Parties.

WITNESSETH, in consideration of the rents and royalties hereinafter reserved and the covenants by the Tenants herein contained, and it is hereby declared as follows:—

1. THE Lessor hereby demises unto the Tenants: Demise.

ALL THOSE mines,(t) beds, veins, and seams of coal, ironstone and fireclay [common clay, common brick clay, common brick earth, sand, chalk, limestone and gravel (u)], as well opened as Parcels, including all seams of coal.

(s) This Precedent is also applicable to other districts where the practice of working is similar. See notes to last Precedent.

Registered title to minerals. Primâ facie, the registered proprietor of land is the person to grant a lease of minerals thereunder: L. R. Act, 1925, ss. 3 (viii), 18 (1) (e), 21 (1) (d), 39, 69; but in respect of land, the title to which is registered before 1926, minerals and mineral rights being rights which, where the title was first registered before 1st January, 1898, were created before that date, and where the title was first registered after 1897, were created before the date of first registration, will be treated as overriding interests and be excepted from the title unless they were in fact the property of the proprietor: ib., s. 70 (1) (l). If an adverse claim is admitted this will be noted against the title: ib., s. 70 (3). No guarantee is given that the mines are included in the registered title unless they are noted as being included: ib., s. 83 (5) (b). The compulsory provisions do not apply to minerals the title to which has been severed from the title to the surface: ib., s. 120 (1); this does not mean that, where the title has been registered, any mining lease granted after the date of first registration need not be registered. Application can be made to register the title to severed minerals: L. R. R., 1925, rr. 50 and 53. As to identification when a mining lease is granted: ib., r. 113. As to registration of the title to minerals or notification of exception: ib., rr. 195, 196. May be "overriding interests." No guarantee. Compulsory provisions. Leases of; identification of parcels.

(t) As to the meaning of mines, veins, seams: MacSwinney, 5th ed., 1. As to what are minerals: ib., 7, et seq. Generally, sand is not a mineral: Staples v. Young [1908], 1 Ir. R. 135; but it is a mineral within the meaning of the Quarries Act, 1894: Scott v. Mid. Ry. Co. [1901], 1 K. B. 317; 70 L. J. K. B. 228. Surface clay and sandstone are usually not included in the term: Skey v. Parsons (1909), 101 L. T. 103. China clay is a mineral within the meaning of the Rlys. Cl. Act, 1845: G. W. Ry. Co. v. Carpalla, &c., Co. [1910], A. C. 83; 79 L. J. Ch. 117; but sandstone is not: N. British Ry. Co. v. Budhill &c., Co. [1910], A. C. 116; 79 L. J. P. C. 31. See also A.-G. v. Salt Union [1917], 2 K. B. 488; 86 L. J. K. B. 1026. Meaning of minerals.

PROVIDED that so much of every bed, vein and seam of coal, ironstone, fireclay and other minerals hereby demised shall remain unworked as will leave within the limits of this demise a barrier (y) of —— yards in breadth or thickness separating the mines hereby demised from the adjoining mines, and all outstroke and instroke drifts made through the said barrier for the purpose of working adjoining mines as aforesaid shall be of such size and in such situations as shall have been previously approved of by the Lessor or his agent, and all such drifts shall be so made as to be capable of being easily and effectively closed by frame-dams when the use thereof has ceased.

Boundary barrier to be left.

Drifts, how to be made.

(y) This covenant will, if necessary, be enforced by mandatory injunction : Mexborough v. Bower (1843), 7 Beav. 127. A lessee, apart from this covenant, is guilty of waste : Marker v. Kenrick (1853), 13 C. B. 188 ; 22 L. J. C. P. 129.

THE Company shall pay, during the said term, for every customary ton comprising 2,520 lbs. of coal, culm, blackband, ironstone, fireclay and building stone which may be worked and got from or out of the mines hereby demised (other than such coal and building stone as is hereinafter exempted from galeage) the following galeages (namely) :—

(1) For large coal, the sum of eightpence :

(2) For small coal that will pass through a screen, the apertures between the bars of which shall not exceed one inch and one-eighth of an inch in width, the sum of fourpence :

9. FOR the purposes of the clause next hereinafter contained, the term hereby granted shall be divided into successive periods of three years each, the first period to be deemed to have commenced with the commencement of this Lease, and to end at the expiration of three years from such commencement ; the second period to commence at the end of the first period, and to end at the expiration of three years from its own commencement ; and every subsequent period to commence at the end of the period immediately preceding it, and to end at the expiration of three years from its own commencement.

Exemptions from galeage. Coal used for engines.

12. (1) THE coal and culm consumed by any engine which may be employed for working the minerals hereby demised, or for pumping water thereout, or which shall be used at the ventilating furnaces, or otherwise consumed in raising the said minerals, shall be exempt from galeage:

13. ALL building stone used in and for the purposes of the mines hereby demised and the works authorised by this Lease shall be exempted from galeage.

Average clause.

(q) Under this plan the overworkings of preceding years in the same averaging period are applicable to make good short workings in a subsequent year. The more common arrangement is that which is adopted in Prec. I, see clauses 8 and 9, p. 1122, supra.

(r) As to wayleave rent: MacSwinney, 5th ed., 295.

Surface rent.(s)

14. (1) THE Company shall (in addition to the tenant's compensation for damage to crops) pay a yearly rent of £—— for every acre of land the surface whereof shall be occupied or used by the Company for any of the purposes of this Lease, and so in proportion for any less quantity than an acre, the said surface rent to be paid by equal quarterly payments on the same days as the galeage rents are hereinbefore made payable, and the first quarterly payment thereof to be made on such of the said days as shall happen next after such occupation or use shall commence, and the last quarterly payment thereof to be made on such of the said days as shall happen next after such occupation or use shall have ceased:

(2) If any difference shall arise as to what ought to be considered the occupation or use of the surface of any land for the purposes aforesaid, or as to the day on which such occupation or use shall have commenced, or as to the amount of rent or damage payable under the reservation aforesaid, the matter in difference shall be settled by arbitration.

[Direction to Lessees to pay one-fourth of rents to trustees.]

[15. THE Lessor hereby directs the Company to pay to the Trustees or other the persons who shall for the time being appear by the principal vesting instrument for the time being in force or by any endorsements thereon to be the trustees of the settlement affecting the premises hereby demised for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1925, the one-fourth part of the aforesaid rents and royalties which under section forty-seven of that Act ought to be set aside as capital money.(t)]

LESSEES' COVENANTS.

Lessees' covenants.(u)

16. THE Company hereby covenant with the Lessor in manner following, namely :—

(1) (To pay rents and observe provisions as in clause 12 (1) of Prec. I, p. 1124, supra) :

(s) The I. R. Commrs. do not claim mineral rights duty on surface rents where land is let to mining lessees: 56 Sol. J. 312.

Payment to reversioner.

(t) The whole rent is payable to the tenant for life as the reversioner: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 141 (2); but lessees usually require a clause to be inserted in this form. The provisions of s. 47 will be sufficiently complied with if the tenant for life pays to the trustees the part of the rent which is made capital money by the Act. In many cases settlements expressly authorise the whole rent to be paid in the first instance to the tenant for life, though part is to be set aside as capital: Re Fullerton [1906], 2 Ch. 138; 75 L. J. Ch. 552. If this is done no reference will be made in the lease to S. L. Act trustees. There must be at least two trustees or a trust corporation to give a receipt for the capital.

(u) As to the covenants being deemed to have been made on behalf of the assigns: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 79.

(2) (Covenant to pay rates and taxes, as in clause 12 (2) of Prec. I, p. 1124, supra, substituting "Company" for "Tenants"):

To work mines properly.

(3) During the said term to win and work the mines hereby demised regularly and properly according to the best and most approved mode of working similar mines in the County of ——, time lost by strikes, general lock-outs, or accidents excepted:

To leave a barrier.

(4) To leave a barrier of twenty yards in width in each and every seam of coal along every portion of the —— boundary of the mines hereby demised, and not to work the same or diminish its width (except so far as may be necessary in the exercise of the privileges of [instroke or] outstroke hereinbefore granted) without the consent in writing of the Lessor or his agent:

To make trials of faults or dislocations.

(5) If in working the minerals hereby demised any fault or dislocation shall at any time be discovered to make or cause to be made at the expense of the Company (if required so to do by the Lessor by notice in writing) proper and reasonable trials through such fault or dislocation for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the vein or seam of coal interfered with or intercepted, and for the time being in work, is workable beyond such fault or dislocation, and if such vein or seam shall be found workable, at their own expense to continue the working thereof:

To put up weighing machines.

(6) To erect and maintain at the entrance of each adit, pit, shaft, quarry or working (or at some convenient places upon or as nearly adjacent to the demised premises as may be practicable), good, sufficient and properly-constructed weighing machines, at which the whole of the minerals that may be worked, raised and brought to bank out of the mines hereby demised (as well as any minerals brought from other mines by virtue of the power for that purpose hereinbefore granted) shall be accurately weighed and daily accounts thereof kept in books suitable for the purpose:

To allow Lessor to test same.

(7) That the Lessor or his agent may (but giving the Company as little inconvenience as possible) inspect the machines and weights which may be used for weighing the minerals worked out of or conveyed from, through, over or across the mines hereby demised, and adopt such methods as may be deemed necessary for testing their accuracy:

Books and accounts to be accessible.

(8) To keep open the weighing machine books and checkweighman's and quarrymen's accounts (recording the quantities of minerals worked, raised or carried away from the premises) at all times during working hours for the inspection of the

Lessor or his agent, who may make extracts therefrom or take copies thereof:

To deliver quarterly accounts to Lessor.

(9) To deliver to the Lessor or his agent within fourteen days from each of the quarter days hereinbefore fixed for payment of rent or royalties a perfect abstract from the books of account for the preceding three months, and to verify the same, if required, by the statutory declaration of the clerk or book-keeper, and also of the actual manager of the Company so far as his knowledge extends:

Lessor may employ a check clerk.

(10) That the Lessor, if he desires to do so, may employ a check clerk to see all the minerals worked from the mines thereby demised or from other mines and subject to outstroke or wayleave rent brought out, and to keep an account thereof, and to check the returns and accounts of the Company:

To repair and deliver up in repair.

(11) To preserve the mines hereby demised from all avoidable damage and injury, and to keep all the levels, adits, drifts, shafts, pits, airways, watercourses, ponds, cottages, clubhouses and other erections, engine houses, sheds, workshops and other conveniences, railroads and other roads and ways in good order, repair and condition (except such of the works and buildings as shall from time to time become unnecessary for the further working of the said mines), and to deliver up the same in such state and condition at the end or sooner determination of the said term:

Lessor may enter mines to inspect condition thereof.

(12) That the Lessor, or his agent, servants and workmen duly authorised, may from time to time enter into and upon and inspect and survey the mines hereby demised, and all buildings and works connected therewith, and also (so far as the Company can grant this privilege) any adjoining or other mines of the Company worked in connexion with the mines hereby demised, and for those purposes make use of the pits, shafts, levels, roads, horses, workmen, ropes, machinery and other works or conveniences of the Company, and for the purposes of such inspection and surveys to have, free of cost to the Lessor, the assistance of the Company's resident manager, or one or more of their servants or workmen having a competent knowledge of the Company's workings:

Plans.(v)

(13) To prepare and keep an accurate plan drawn to a scale of two chains to an inch of all the workings in the mines hereby demised, and also in any adjoining mines connected therewith by instroke or outstroke, upon which the extent, position and actual condition of the mines and premises shall from time to time (and at least once in every six months) be set forth and delineated, and that the Lessor or his agent may at all reasonable times inspect and make copies of any such plan :

Pits, &c., to be properly secured.

(14) To so secure the pits, drifts, adits, machinery, railways and other works of the Company that no injury may result therefrom to man or beast, and to properly secure and fence all tramways, railways, inclined planes or other roads (upon the requirement of the Lessor) from the properties and enclosures through which they may pass ; and when any pits or shafts shall have become useless or unnecessary, to either fill up the same with earth or waste, or to surround them with a well-constructed wall of masonry at least six feet in height, or to cover them with a good and sufficient arch of stone or brick :

Workings not to be carried under existing buildings without licence.

(15) Unless authorised in writing so to do by the Lessor, not to extend the workings of the Company under any farm or other houses, cottages or buildings now standing and being on the mining area, nor within a distance of ten yards on each side thereof, and in the event of any damage occurring to such houses, cottages or buildings by the breach of this covenant, to pay reasonable compensation in respect of the same, and to keep the Lessor fully and sufficiently indemnified from and against all proceedings or claims in respect thereof :

Lessees not to grant wayleaves or assign mines without consent of Lessor.

(16) Not at any time during the said term to grant to or suffer any person to use any wayleaves, drifts, levels, outstrokes, waterways or other communications from, into, through, under or over the mines hereby demised, and the works belonging thereto, without the previous consent in writing of the Lessor or his agent, nor to underlet or assign the mines hereby demised or any part thereof, without the consent in writing of the Lessor, which consent (in the event of all the covenants and provisions herein contained being duly observed and performed up to the period when the same shall be required to be given), shall not be withheld without substantial grounds of objection :

Provided as follows—

(i) In the event of any difference as to the operation of this clause it shall be settled by arbitration ;

Proviso for re-entry.

Relief against forfeiture.

(w) See that the proviso for re-entry is restricted to thirty days : S. L. Act, 1925, s. 42. In a lease to a company the proviso should have effect if an order or resolution is made or passed for winding up except for purposes of reconstruction. Relief against forfeiture, in the case of a mining lease, will not be granted if the lessee becomes bankrupt, or if a lessee company is wound up : L. P. Act, 1925, s. 146 (9) ; 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 389.

(ii) Such consent shall not be required in the case of an underlease or assignment for the purpose of the reconstruction of the Company or of the issue of debentures or debenture stock.

SECTION VI.

MISCELLANEOUS LEASES.

No. I.

LEASE by a TENANT for LIFE or STATUTORY OWNER of land to the FORESTRY COMMISSIONERS.(e) (Legal Estate.)

Parties to forestry lease.

THIS LEASE [UNDERLEASE], made (date), BETWEEN A. B.,

Agreements for mining leases, boring agreements, &c.

(d) No precedent is given of an agreement to grant a mining lease, coupled with an agreement to bore or make trial pits, for these matters differ so much according to the circumstances of each case. As a rule, however, a form of mining lease is agreed and signed by the parties, and it is arranged that the lease shall be granted as soon as the mines have been proved. If this is not done the headings of the main provisions of the intended lease are set out in a schedule.

The principles are similar to those governing agreements (see supra) to grant building leases, but the conditions precedent to the grant of the lease vary in every case. Such contracts can be protected by the registration of a land charge: L. C. Act, 1925, s. 10, Class C (iv).

Contracts to sell minerals, the purchase money being payable by instalments.

In some cases it is more convenient to sell the minerals with some surface, the purchase-money being made payable by instalments. In such cases a mining lease at a peppercorn rent is granted, with a power to re-enter if default is made in payment of an instalment; by this means the purchaser can be safely let into possession.

Forestry leases by (e) A tenant for life or statutory owner may grant a forestry lease for of, &c. (hereinafter called the Lessor, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons for the time being entitled in reversion immediately expectant on the term hereby granted), of the one part, and the Forestry Commissioners (hereinafter called the Commissioners, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under them), of the other part:

WITNESSETH, in exercise of all statutory and other powers and in consideration of the rent hereinafter reserved and of the covenants by the Commissioners herein contained, and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Demise.

1. THE Lessor hereby demises unto the Commissioners:

Parcels.

FIRST, ALL THOSE pieces of land situated in the Parishes of —— and ——, in the County of ——, containing in the whole —— acres or thereabouts, and more particularly described in the First Schedule hereto and delineated on the plan hereto and thereon edged pink,

TOGETHER with all timber and other forest products now or at any time during the term hereby granted growing on the said lands or any part thereof;

Rights to cut and dispose of timber, &c.

SECONDLY, FULL and free right for the Commissioners at all times during the said term to cut, convert, carry away, sell, or otherwise dispose of the said timber and products and (subject nine hundred and ninety-nine years: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 4 (iii); as to the meaning of "forestry lease": ib., s. 117 (1) (x); for the regulations respecting forestry leases: ib., s. 48. Trustees for sale (L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28) and personal representatives (Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39) may exercise these powers; as to forestry leases generally, see the Forestry Act, 1919.

Practice of the Commissioners.

It is understood that the Commissioners, when dealing with an absolute owner, generally use a very simple form of lease, which, subject possibly to a reservation of sporting rights for a short period and a reservation of minerals, if so required, leaves the Commissioners masters of the situation, to clear the site of timber, and generally do what they think fit. The Commissioners supply the form, and will not usually allow the lessor to alter it. A fiduciary lessor is not in a position to submit to unrestricted dictation as to the terms to be imposed; he must consider whether or not the lease will benefit the trust, and what reservations, if any, such as rights of way, must be made for the protection of the land retained.

Fiduciary lessors.

Fixing the rent.

Under S. L. Act, 1925, s. 48, a peppercorn rent may be reserved for ten years; the rent may be made to vary according to the value of the "timber," which includes all forest products, or the produce which may be cut or disposed of, and a minimum rent may be reserved, with or without power for the Commissioners to make up shorts. Other provisions may be made for sharing proceeds or profits.

Counterpart.

A counterpart of this lease must be executed by the Forestry Commissioners and delivered to the lessor on the execution of this lease: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 42 (2).

only to the exceptions and reservations hereinafter mentioned) to commit all manner of waste in or upon the said lands, and with full power to plant or replant the said lands with trees and other forest products, to erect thereon cottages for woodmen and other buildings, including sawmills and tramways and other plant, and generally to use the said lands during the subsistence of the said term for any purpose (whether or not directly connected with forestry) which the Commissioners may think proper or convenient;

Right of way for haulage.

AND THIRDLY, FULL and free right for the Commissioners and the persons authorised by them (but in common with the Lessor and the persons authorised by him), with or without horses and other animals, waggons, lorries, engines, motors, and other vehicles, to pass and repass at all times during the said term over and along the private roadway coloured brown on the plan hereto for all purposes (including the hauling of timber and other goods), the Commissioners, nevertheless, making good from time to time, as required by the Lessor or his agent, any damage caused by the Commissioners to the said roadway or paying a proper proportion (having regard to user) of the costs of maintaining the same in reasonable repair, such proportion in case of difference to be settled by arbitration:

Exceptions and reservations.

EXCEPT AND RESERVED out of this demise unto the Lessor and the owners and occupiers from time to time of the lands adjoining on the —— sides of the premises hereby demised as mentioned in the Second Schedule hereto:

Habendum.

LEASE for 2,000 years for giving effect to a CONTRACT made [before 1926] for the GRANT of a NEW PERPETUALLY RENEWABLE LEASE.(l) (Legal Estate.)

THIS LEASE [UNDERLEASE], made (date), BETWEEN A. B., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Lessor, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under him), of the one part, and the —— Company, Limited, whose registered

Parties

(l) Under L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 6, such a contract operates as an agreement to grant a lease for 2,000 years, or an underlease for a term less by one day than the term out of which it is to be derived. The amount of rent stated in the contract, when made before 1926, will be adjusted, having regard to the fines and other payments (if any) which would have been made on subsequent renewals. This can be worked out from Archer's Tables on say a 5 per cent. discount basis. If the parties disagree as to the amount which ought to be added to the rent, the dispute must be submitted to the Minister of Agriculture: ib.

Effect of contract.

A contract made after 1925 to grant a perpetually renewable lease operates as an agreement to demise for 2,000 years or to grant a sub-term; in this case the rent is not adjustable: ib., para. 7.

office is at —— (hereinafter called the Company, which expression where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under them), of the other part:

WITNESSETH, [in exercise of all statutory and other powers and] for giving effect to a Contract made before the 1st January, 1926, for the grant of a new perpetually renewable lease of the property hereinafter described, and in consideration of the rent hereinafter reserved and of the covenants by the Company herein contained, and of the fine or sum of £—— now paid by the Company to the Lessor (the receipt of which sum the Lessor hereby acknowledges), and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Demise.

1. THE Lessor hereby demises unto the Company:

Parcels.

ALL, &c. (see Forms in Sect. II, Conv. on Sale, Vol. I, pp. 471 et seq.),

Habendum.

TO HOLD unto the Company from the —— day of ——, 1925, for a term of two thousand years:

Reddendum.

YIELDING AND PAYING therefor during the said term the yearly rent of £—— by equal quarterly payments on the —— day of ——, the —— day of ——, the —— day of——, and the —— day of —— in every year, the first of such quarterly payments to be deemed to have become due on the —— day of ——.

Lessee's covenants.

2. (1), &c. (Covenants by Company to pay rent, rates and taxes during the said term—to keep in repair—to permit Lessor to inspect—to insure, &c., in accordance with the contract. The following covenant, cf. L. P. Act, 1922, 15*th Sch., para.* 10 (1) (ii), should generally be inserted, and the lease and counterpart should be filed at the Central Office and office copies taken; ib., para. 20: "To register every assignment (including an assent) or devolution of the term hereby granted, including all probates and letters of administration affecting that term, with the Lessor or his solicitors or agents within six months from the date of the assignment,

Powers to grant renewable leases.

A power to grant perpetually renewable leases is to have effect as if it authorised the grant of a lease or underlease for a term not exceeding 2,000 years at the best rent that can be obtained, having regard to any fine, &c., taken; or the power may authorise less than the best rent to be accepted: ib., para. 8 (1).

Fine.

If the lease is granted by a tenant for life, trustees for sale or personal representatives, any fine taken must be treated as capital: S. L. Act, 1925, ss. 42 (4), 81, 108, 109; L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28; Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39.

If a fine is taken and the lease is granted by a tenant for life a receipt therefor by the S. L. Act trustees can be endorsed on the lease.

As to leases not granted by an absolute owner (free from family charges) or where the title is registered, see Forms in Pt. I, pp. 1014, et seq., supra, and notes thereto.

devolution or grant of probate or letters of administration, and to pay a fee of one guinea (which shall be accepted in satisfaction of all costs) in respect of each registration "(m)) :

Contract made after 1925.

[Add covenant by Lessor for quiet enjoyment, proviso for re-entry and other general provisions according to the contract. This Precedent can be adapted to the case where, after 1925, a contract for a perpetually renewable lease is expressed to be made, for this operates as an agreement to grant a lease for 2,000 years, or an underlease for the residue of the head term less one day : L. P. Act, 1922, 15*th Sch., para.* 7 (1).]

LEASE of Sporting Rights for a term of years determinable by notice after the death of the Lessee.(n) (Legal Estate.)

Parties.

THIS LEASE [UNDERLEASE], made (date), Between A. B., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Lessor, which expression, where

---

(m) As to the practice in the case of registered land: L. R. R., 1925, r. 91.

Impossibility.

Where an option to renew a lease on the agreed terms becomes impossible of performance, the lessor would not, apart from statute, be bound to grant any lease: Hollies Stores v. Timmis [1921], 2 Ch. 202; 90 L. J. Ch. 485; cf. L. P. Act, 1925, s. 152.

Conversion into long terms.

No question as to granting a lease arises where a perpetually renewable lease or underlease was subsisting on 1st January, 1926, for such leases are by the Act converted into non-renewable long terms: L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., paras. 1 and 2; see generally on this Schedule: 1 Wolst. & Cherry, 11th ed., 89–106.

Powers to grant leases for lives.

Powers to grant leases for lives, &c., at a rent or in consideration of a fine (not perpetually renewable) take effect as powers to grant leases for a term not exceeding ninety years terminable by notice on either side after the death, &c.: L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 8 (2).

Effect of attempt to create lease for lives.

Leases for lives, &c., at a rent or for a fine, are converted into similar terms for ninety years, whenever made: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 149 (6).

Covenant to renew; limit.

A covenant or contract to renew a lease for a term exceeding sixty years from the termination of an existing lease is void: L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 7 (2). So is a contract to grant a term to take effect in possession after twenty-one years: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 149 (3).

Mode of, in effect granting a lease for life.

As a purported lease for life would operate to create a term of ninety years terminable by notice on either side: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 149 (6), where, after 1925, it is desired to grant a lease for a life, a lease for a long term, say, fifty (S. L. Act, 1925, s. 41) or ninety years should be granted with a power for the lessor or the representatives of the lessee to determine the lease by notice after the death. This creates a legal estate as being a term of years absolute: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 205 (1).

Sporting rights.

(n) A grant of the right of hunting, shooting, fishing, and sporting over property extends to all things which are ordinarily considered the subject of sport: Jeffryes v. Evans (1865), 19 C. B. (N.S.) 246; 34 L. J. C. P. 261. In the case of a sporting tenancy the term generally commences on 2nd February.

Grant should be under seal.

A grant of sporting rights should be under seal: Wood v. Leadbitter (1845), 13 M. & W. at p. 842; Bird v. Higginson (1837), 6 A. & E. 824; 6 L. J. Ex. 282; but cf. Radcliffe v. Hayes [1907], 1 Ir. R. 101. If the tenant, however, the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under him, of the one part, and C. D., of, &c. (hereinafter called the Tenant, which expression, where the context admits, includes the persons deriving title under him), of the other part: WITNESSETH, in consideration of the rent hereinafter reserved and of the covenants by the Tenant herein contained, and it is hereby declared as follows:—

Demise of right of sporting.

1. THE Lessor hereby demises unto the Tenant:

ALL THAT, the exclusive right of [hunting,] coursing, shooting, fishing,(o) and sporting in, over and upon:

---

has enjoyed the right, he cannot, in an action for breach of covenant, set up as a defence the fact that the lease was by writing only: Adams v. Clutterbuck (1883), 10 Q. B. D. 403; 52 L. J. Q. B. 607.

Legal estate.

Though L. P. Act, 1925, s. 187 (1), shows that, as a general rule, an easement, right or privilege should be annexed to land if a legal estate is to be created, it does no more than provide that, when created, it shall enure for the benefit of some land if that is the intention. It does not rule out the possibility of creating a legal profit à prendre not annexed to land, nor does it rule out legal rights created by statute.

Reservation acts as a re-grant.

The reservation of a right of sporting in a conveyance of land operated as a re-grant: Wickham v. Hawker (1840), 7 M. & W. 63; 10 L. J. Ex. 153; after 1925 a simple reservation will create a legal estate in the rights reserved, it is not necessary that the grantee should execute: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 65.

How a lease of sporting rights affects the lessor's interests in the land.

A grant of sporting rights does not affect the lessor's right to let plots for building purposes: Pattisson v. Gilford (1874), L. R. 18 Eq. 259; 43 L. J. Ch. 524; but this would not prejudice the sporting tenant's right to claim damages against the landlord for interference with his right: ib., 18 Eq., at p. 263. A tenant of sporting rights may do anything reasonable on the land for their preservation, even though his acts might constitute a trespass: Cope v. Sharpe [1912], 1 K. B. 496; 81 L. J. K. B. 346.

Covenant to preserve game runs with the land.

A covenant to preserve game runs with the land, and by virtue of L. P. Act, 1925, s. 141, the assignees of the reversion can sue upon it: Hooper v. Clark (1867), L. R. 2 Q. B. 200; 36 L. J. Q. B. 79.

Reasonable notice to determine sufficient.

The rule which requires a six months' notice to quit in a yearly tenancy of corporeal property does not apply to a yearly tenancy of sporting rights, a "reasonable notice" being only necessary: Lowe v. Adams [1901], 2 Ch. 598; 70 L. J. Ch. 783.

Covenants by lessees of fishings.

(o) In the case of trout fishing a covenant is often inserted prescribing the method of fishing, e.g., by dry fly only:—

Salmon rivers.

In the case of salmon rivers (as to which see Oke's Fishery Laws, and the Salmon and Freshwater Fisheries Act, 1923) the following covenants should be inserted:—

(1) In all respects to observe the bye-laws of the Board of Conservators of the said River:

(2) To keep a correct record of the number of fish caught, and to furnish a copy thereof to the Lessor at the end of each season:

(3) To use his best endeavours to protect the River from poaching and to keep and pay the wages of a keeper or water bailiff:

All, &c., which properties are more particularly delineated on the plan hereto and thereon edged green :

AND ALSO ALL THAT the keeper's lodge situated at —— aforesaid, now in the occupation of —— :

[Reservation.]

[EXCEPT AND RESERVED out of this demise unto the Lessor, the exclusive right of shooting and sporting in, over and upon the lands coloured red on the said plan, and the exclusive right of fishing in the River A., between the points marked C. and D. on the said plan],

Habendum.

TO HOLD unto the Tenant for a term of —— years from the 2nd day of February 19— (determinable by notice as hereinafter provided), but subject as regards ground game to the rights of the tenants of the said lands or any of them under the Ground Game Act, 1880, and the Ground Game (Amendment) Act, 1906 :

Reddendum.

YIELDING AND PAYING therefor the yearly rent of £—— by equal half-yearly payments on the 2nd day of August and the 2nd day of February in every year, the first payment to be made in advance on the 2nd day of February next (the commencement of the term), the last payment of rent to be made three months before the expiration or sooner determination of the said term.

Covenants by Lessee :—

2. THE Tenant hereby covenants with the Lessor in manner following (that is to say) :—

To pay rent and taxes in respect of keeper's lodge.

(1) To pay the said rent at the times and in manner aforesaid, and to pay all rates and taxes payable in respect of the said keeper's lodge and all rates and taxes (including sporting and fishery rates) payable in respect of the rights hereby demised :

To keep a gamekeeper.

(2) During the said term, at his own cost, to keep at least one effective gamekeeper who shall have the supervision of and preserve the game upon the said properties, and who shall live in the said keeper's lodge :

To preserve game and eggs and foxes.

(3) At all times during the said term to keep up the head of game on the said properties [and not to kill any hen pheasants after the month of December in any year, or trap any pheasants except for the purpose of stocking the breeding pens used in connexion with the estate or for purposes of exchange for other hens] and, so far as practicable, to preserve the eggs and young of game birds from being destroyed or injured (p) [and to pay to a labourers' fund the sum of 1*s*. for

---

(4) (Also, if desired, but on many rivers all baits are allowed) To fish or to permit persons to fish with fly only.

(p) If the lease is only for a short period, it is sometimes desirable for the landlord to limit the amount of game to be shot annually. Sometimes the every partridge's nest duly hatched off on the said properties] [and also to preserve foxes and permit hunting]:

Indemnity for game damage.

(4) From time to time to keep the Lessor indemnified against all claims for compensation in respect of damage by game under the provisions of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923 :

Head of game to be preserved.

(5) At the expiration or sooner determination of the term hereby granted to leave a sufficient head of game upon the premises and (so far as practicable) not less than the head of game thereon at the commencement of the said term :

Exercise of rights.

(6) To exercise the said rights in a proper and sportsmanlike manner and to keep down rats, jays, magpies, crows, stoats and other vermin.

Not to assign or underlet without licence of Lessor.

(7) Not at any time to assign or underlet, or otherwise part with the rights and privileges hereby demised, or any of them, to any persons whomsoever, without the previous consent in writing of the Lessor.

3. The Lessor hereby covenants with the Tenant—

Covenant by Lessor for quiet enjoyment.(pp)

(1) That the Tenant paying the yearly rent hereby reserved, and observing and performing the covenants on his part herein contained, shall and may peaceably and quietly have, hold and enjoy the rights and privileges hereby demised without any lawful interruption from or by the Lessor (meaning thereby the Lessor personally), or any persons claiming through, under or in trust for him :

To allow expenses of preserving from end of preceding season.

(2) That if this Lease shall be determined out of the shooting season and during the said term, the Lessor shall pay or allow to the Tenant all expenses incurred by him in preserving and rearing the game from the end of the preceding season up to the date of tenant is made to keep down rabbits. On some estates the tenant is made to use the Euston system for keeping up the stock of partridges.

Provision for reduction in rent if lessor affects shooting rights by cutting timber.

(pp) As extensive cutting of timber affects pheasant shooting, the following provision may be added if required :—

If the Lessor shall during the said term cut any timber or undergrowth in any of the woods hereby demised in such manner that the rights hereby demised shall be prejudicially affected, then and in such case the Lessor shall, during so much of the said term as the rights hereby granted shall be so affected, allow to the Tenant a reduction in the rent hereby reserved, such reduction in case of difference to be settled by arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration Act, 1889.

Timber.

A grant of sporting rights does not prevent the lessor from cutting timber in the ordinary course of management : Gearns v. Baker (1875), L. R. 10 Ch. 356 ; 44 L. J. Ch. 334 ; Dick v. Norton, 85 L. J. Ch. 623.

cesser of the said term, such expenditure to be proved to the reasonable satisfaction of the Lessor's agent.

4. (Power of re-entry for non-payment of rent or breach of covenants, as in Clause 3, Prec. I, Sect. II, "Houses," p. 1047.)

Power to give notice to determine after death of tenant.

5. (1) At any time after the death of the Tenant (meaning thereby the Tenant personally) either the Lessor on the one hand or the representatives or other persons deriving title under the Tenant on the other hand may, by notice in writing given to the other of them at least one month before the next succeeding 2nd day of February, declare that the said term shall terminate at the end of that day, and the said term shall determine accordingly, but without prejudice to all rights and remedies in respect of any antecedent breach of covenant and subject to all rent being paid in advance by the representatives or other persons deriving title under the Tenant at the time of the notice, if that notice is served by them:

(2) Section one hundred and ninety-six of the Law of Property Act, 1925, applies to all notices to be served hereunder.

(v) If the term has more than twenty-one years to run these provisions as to purchasing the freehold or leasehold reversion must be limited within the perpetuity rule, otherwise the option will be void for remoteness: Woodall v. Clifton [1905], 2 Ch. 257; 74 L. Provided that, upon any renewal of this underlease as aforesaid, the Tenant shall pay to the Lessor for such renewal a fine equal in amount to the fine payable by the Lessor for the renewal of the Head Lease, and shall also pay all other the costs and expenses attending the renewal of the Head Lease if the premises comprised in the underlease shall be the sole subject of the new Head Lease, but if not, then a proportionate part of the said fine, costs and expenses, such proportion to be settled in case of dispute by two arbitrators, one to be appointed by each party, or their umpire in accordance with the Arbitration Act, 1889, and the Tenant shall also pay all the costs and expenses attending the renewal of this underlease and of the counterpart of the new underlease:]

This lease is a trust deed within the meaning of the Education Act, 1921, s. 170 (17).

THIS consent does not authorise any further or other assignment [underletting] of the premises or any part thereof.

AS WITNESS my hand the day and year above written.

A. B. (Lessor).

No fine on consent to assignment.

(a) Unless the lease so provides, the lessor cannot claim a fine in consideration of the licence: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 144; the licence extends only to the actual assignment or underlease authorised by the licence: ib., s. 143; see also Chatterton v. Terrell [1923], A. C. 578; 92 L. J. Ch. 605. As to waiver of a covenant: ib., s. 148. Fiduciary owners can grant licences: S. L. Act, 1925, s. 56 (2); L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28; Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39. A licence for a mortgagee to assign on a sale must not be unreasonably refused: L. P. Act, 1925, s. 89 (1). The same applies to a licence to sub-demise by way of mortgage; ib., s. 86 (1). No licence is usually required for a legal charge.

Underleases and assignments.

(d) See L. P. Act, 1922, s. 129 (9). The section does not apply to dealings with interests not affected by manorial incidents : ib., sub-s. (11). Semble, as a general rule, an underlease and an assignment will not have to be produced to the steward, for under the old law a licence to demise having been granted, no further licence or entry on the rolls was required on any dealing by the lessee. If, however, by special custom, the interest of the lessee or of the underlessee was treated as a customary interest, it would remain affected by manorial incidents (till extinguished), hence dealings therewith would have to be produced. Fines remain payable where under the old law a customary assurance or a licence from the lord would have been required : ib., s. 130.

Notice that lease was perpetually renewable.

(Date) TAKE NOTICE that the within-written Lease [Underlease] [or that the Lease [Underlease] referred to in the within-written Assignment] was perpetually renewable at the commencement of the said Act [as respects the land comprised in the said Assignment].

(To be signed by the Lessor [or Underlessor] or by his solicitor or agent on his behalf, stating in the latter case on whose behalf the Notice is signed.)

"Commencement" of Acts.

(e) See L. P. Act, 1922, 15th Sch., para. 10 (1) (iii). The Act commences on expiration of 31st December, 1925: Interp. Act, 1889, s. 36 (2); L. P. (Postponement) Act, 1924.

Production before 1st January, 1927.

The lease or underlease or sufficient evidence thereof must be produced to the lessor or his agent for endorsement of the notice before the 1st January, 1927, a default would be a breach of covenant: ib., para. 10 (1) (iii); the additional rent should be agreed or ascertained before that date.

As to statements contained in or endorsed on leases and signed by fiduciary owners as to matters under the S. L. Act, see s. 42 (3) of that Act, also L. P. Act, 1925, s. 28; Ad. of E. Act, 1925, s. 39.

Law of Property Act, 1922.

In the Matter of a Lease [Underlease] dated, &c.

Notice selecting date.

(Date) TAKE NOTICE that, pursuant to paragraph 12 (2) (b) of the 15th Schedule to the said Act, I, A. B., of, &c. (the present Lessee [Underlessee] under the said Lease [Underlease],) hereby select the —— day of ——, 19—, as the date for the occasion on which the first renewal after the commencement of the said Act would have occurred if the said Lease [Underlease] had remained renewable.

To C. D., of, &c., or other the lessor under the said Lease [Underlease] within the meaning of the said Act.

(To be signed by the Lessee.)

Right to renew at different times.

(g) This notice, if given at all, must be given before 1st January, 1927. It is only applicable where the lessee had, under the lease, a right to renew at different times. No. VIII.

NOTICE to quit by a LANDLORD to a TENANT (h) from Year to Year, (i) relating either to the WHOLE or PART of the HOLDING.

To C. D. (Tenant) and all others whom it may concern.

I, A. B., of, &c. (Landlord) [or I, A. B., of, &c., as agent for and on behalf of your Landlord, E. F., of, &c.], hereby give you notice to quit and deliver up possession of —— (describing the property shortly ; if the notice relates to part only of the holding, this should appear in the description), which you hold of me [or of the said E. F.], on the —— day of ——, 19— [or on other the day on which the current year of your tenancy will expire next after the end of [half] a year (j) from the time of your being served with this notice (k)].

Dated the —— day of ——. (Signed) A. B.

Compensation for disturbance.

(h) By the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 12, a tenant of an " agricultural holding " (s. 57 (1)), whose tenancy is determined by a notice to quit, may claim compensation for disturbance unless the tenant, at the date of the notice, was not cultivating the holding according to " the rules of good husbandry " (s. 57 (1)), or the notice was given for any reason except as mentioned in that section. Compensation for improvements may also be claimed under s. 1. For notices of claims for compensation, see infra, pp. 1216, et seq.

When a notice to quit expires.

(i) A notice to quit must expire at the period of the year at which the tenancy commences. A tenancy commencing on the 19th May ends at midnight of the 18th May, and a notice to quit on the 18th would be good, and a notice to quit on the 19th would be also good.

Notices to quit. Meaning of " half-year."

A half-year for the purpose of notice consists of 182 days, except when the tenancy begins from one of the usual quarter days, in which case notice on one quarter day to quit on the next but one is sufficient : Roe v. Doe (1830), 6 Bing. 574 ; 8 L. J. (O.S.) C. P. 227 ; Sidebotham v. Holland [1895], 1 Q. B. 378 ; 64 L. J. Q. B. 200. A tenancy " subject to three months' notice on either side at any time to terminate this agreement " is determinable on three months' notice expiring on any day : Soames v. Nicholson [1902], 1 K. B. 157 ; 71 L. J. K. B. 24 ; but a tenancy " until such tenancy shall be determined as hereinafter mentioned "—namely, a power " to determine the tenancy hereby created by three calendar months' notice "—creates a yearly tenancy determinable by three months' notice expiring with any year of the tenancy : Lewis v. Baker [1906], 2 K. B. 599 ; 75 L. J. K. B. 848 ; Mayo v. Joyce [1920], 1 K. B. 834 ; 89 L. J. K. B. 561. A tenancy " for two years certain and thereafter from year to year " precludes notice to determine being given before the end of the third year : Re Searle [1912], 1 Ch. 610 ; 81 L. J. Ch. 375.

Time for quitting.

A tenant under notice to quit may retain possession until midnight of the day of the year on which the tenancy commenced : Page v. More (1850), 15 Q. B. 684. A tenancy from the 25th March begins at midnight, the 25th to 26th March : Meggeson v. Groves [1917], 1 Ch. 158 ; 86 L. J. Ch. 145.

Year's notice.

(j) If a year's notice is requisite under Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 25, substitute here " a year " for " half a year." The operation of s. 25 cannot be excluded by agreement ; under s. 27, notice to quit part of a holding held from year to year, may be given : See also L. P. Act, 1925, s. 140 (2), as amended by L. P. (Amend.) Act, 1926, s. 2, as to notices by an owner of part of the reversion : pp. 935–36, supra.

Compensation for improvements.

(y) Under the Agr. H. Act, 1923, s. 1, a tenant of an agricultural holding, on quitting his holding, is entitled to compensation from his landlord in respect of improvements mentioned in the 1st Sch. Improvements mentioned in Pt. I of the 1st Sch. require the landlord's consent, that mentioned in Pt. II (Drainage) requires notice to be given to the landlord not more than three or less than two months before the improvement is commenced; improvements mentioned in Pt. III neither require notice or consent: ib., ss. 2 and 3.

Substituted compensation, when authorised.

In the case of improvements mentioned in the 1st Sch., Pts. I and II, compensation by agreement may be substituted for compensation under the Act, but in respect of improvements mentioned in Pt. III, substituted compensation is only allowed if contained in an agreement made before 1921: s. 4.

Payments made to previous tenant.

As to determination of claims for compensation: s. 5. A tenant, who, with the consent of his landlord, has paid compensation for improvements to the previous tenant may, on quitting the holding, claim compensation from the incoming tenant in respect of such improvements: s. 6.

A tenant does not lose his right to compensation by remaining in his holding during two or more tenancies: s. 7.

Restrictions on claims for improvements.

A tenant's right to compensation under s. 1 is restricted, in respect of improvements other than manuring—

(i) in the case of tenancies from year to year, to improvements begun before the beginning of the last year before he quits the holding, or before he receives or gives notice to quit;

(ii) in any other case, to improvements begun before the last year of the tenancy: s. 8.

This restriction does not apply—

(i) Where the tenant has, before beginning the improvement, served a notice on the landlord of his intention to make it, and the landlord has consented, or has not objected, to such improvement within one month after receipt of such notice: ib., s. 8; or

(ii) In the case of a tenant from year to year, the tenant has begun the improvement during the last year of his tenancy and the tenant quits the holding at the end of that year pursuant to a notice to quit given by the landlord after the improvement has been begun: ib., s. 8.

Form may be used for claims in respect of other matters.

The above form of notice is not confined to claims for improvements, it may include a claim for compensation for damage done by game under s. 11 (see Form of Notice, supra), or of any other claims under ss. 1, and 9 to 15.

Compensation for increased or diminished value of holding.

The above form may also be used for a claim by an outgoing tenant in respect of any increase in the value of the holding due to the adoption of a special standard or system of farming under s. 9; see Form of Notice, supra, and notes thereto.

Compensation for disturbance.

Also for a claim for disturbance under s. 12; see Form of Notice applicable thereto and notes thereto, supra.

Claims from mortgagees.

A tenant may claim compensation from a mortgagee on whom the tenancy is not binding and who, in consequence, takes possession of the holding: s. 15.

Contracting out prohibited.

Except where substituted compensation is allowed by the Act any agreement limiting the right of a tenant of an agricultural holding to compensation is void: s. 50.
